Calling the senate "an Arcadian body ruled by an agricultural bloc," Senator George H. Moses of New Hampshire predicted that whatever happens to the tariff schedules, "the downtrodden farmers' demands will be heeded."

Steps were begun in Southington to organize a new concern to be known as the Plantsville Foundry corporation, to replace the bankrupt Walker Stewart Foundry corporation. The firm will have a capital stock of $50,000.

The fifth annual mid-winter international star class regatta in Cuban waters will open in Havana today, off the Malecon sea wall with 26 American and Cuban boats competing in the Cuban challenge trophy event and for the Bacardi cup.

Frank McCormick, a former councilman in New Britain, employed unusual means to obtain whiskey yesterday, when he called Dr. Moses Kupelian to his home on Daly avenue, and refused to allow him to depart until he produced a prescription for liquor.

Acting Thomas N. Perkins, of the Boston and Maine railroad, has told the Mass. legislative committee on railroads that the New Haven railroad should not be allowed to dispose of stock in the Boston and Maine, which it controls, "without some kind of a check."

L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson company, said he proposed to press for adoption of that company's plan for unifying eastern carriers despite the consolidation plan of the interstate commerce commission, widely differing from the Delaware and Hudson proposal.

HEARINGS TO COVER WHOLE QUESTION OF PROHIBITION

House Committee to Open Hearings to Wets and Drys, Beginning Feb. 12—Scope Ranges From Repeal of the 18th Amendment to Modification of the Dry Laws—Will Be the First Time That Legislative Proposals to Repeal the Dry Act Have Been Brought Before the Important House Group

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP)—The whole prohibition question, from repealing the eighteenth amendment to modifying the dry laws, will be opened to the wets and drys in hearings to begin before the house judiciary committee on February 12.

This course was decided on by Representative George S. Graham, chairman of the committee, because he felt "that the proponents of measures to repeal the eighteenth amendment and to modify the prohibition laws are entitled to a hearing."

With the exception of a short session held by a subcommittee in 1926, this will be the first time the legislative proposals to repeal the dry act have been brought before the important house group. The full committee will take testimony on seven resolutions to repeal the controverted amendment; and a subcommittee headed by Representative Dyer, republican, Missouri, later will consider a score of proposals to modify the Volstead act, including Dyer's 2.75 per cent beer bill.

The house expenditures committee prepared to end its consideration tomorrow of the Williamson bill to transfer the prohibition unit from the treasury to the justice department. Modifications to make it obligatory but not compulsory for the latter to investigate industrial alcohol permits issued by the treasury were agreed on today. A subcommittee was appointed to perfect the provisions, which would prevent the secretary of the treasury from having anything to do with prohibition enforcement, even though the industrial alcohol permits are issued by the treasury and justice departments jointly.

In the senate, the drys indicated today they would oppose vigorously any attempt to legalize 2.75 per cent beer. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, halted his assaults on dry enforcement conditions to assail the movement of house wets for the Dyer beer bill.

"It will not help the situation," he said of the proposal.

Opposition among the senate drys also developed toward the national law enforcement commission's recommendation to give United States commissioners power to try misdemeanor prohibition cases.

Explaining his decision to hold the hearings, Chairman Graham said hundreds of citizens had asked him to open the matter. The wet bloc in the house, however, had not yet presented a petition being drafted to ask the committee for the hearings, he said.

Representative Linthicum, democrat, Maryland, leader of the wet bloc, plans to unify the efforts of the group on the bills most likely to be approved. Of the seven measures to be considered, that of Representative Sabath, democrat, Illinois, to amend the eighteenth amendment to extend the power of congress to govern the manufacture and transportation and sale of liquor under government permits and in packages, was believed by Chairman Graham to have the best possibility of being brought to the house.

This measure is favored by the federal dispensary tax reduction league.

This measure is favored by the Federal Dispensary Tax Reduction league. Graham said that Dr. F. W. Buck, secretary of the league, brought it to his attention and that he felt it should be given a hearing.

Rep. Celler, democrat, New York, introduced a bill to eliminate the necessity for physicians to disclose the disease or ailments of patients to whom prescriptions for whiskey were issued.

COMMITTEE HEARING ON PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—The 32-year-old controversy over Philippine independence appeared likely today to come up for decision by the senate during the present session.

Chairman Bingham, of the territories committee, announced in the senate that his committee hoped to complete hearings on Philippine independence by February 10 and that a bill would be reported to the senate as soon thereafter as possible. House action appears unlikely however.

Two bills have been considered by the committee, one by Senator King, democrat, Utah, to free the Filipinos and the other by Bingham to appoint a commission to investigate the question and report recommendations to congress. It also was disclosed today that Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, an administration member of the territories committee, is preparing a bill which would give the Filipinos independence in ten years and gradual tariff autonomy.

"I am for Philippine independence if and when the islands are politically and economically ready," he said "I will not be satisfied that they are politically and economically ready until we have a 10-year laboratory test."

RESIGNS AS SECRETARY OF REP. NATIONAL COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Representative Franklin Fort of New Jersey, made public tonight his resignation as secretary of the republican national committee.

Mr. Fort, who was manager of the pre-convention campaign of Mr. Hoover for the presidency, has been secretary of the republican national committee since the Kansas City convention. In that capacity he served during the presidential campaign.

Along with the letter of Fort, tendering his resignation, the republican national committee made public one by Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the committee, accepting it.

Huston said that in view of past conversations with Fort, the resignation came as no surprise. He expressed his regret that the New Jersey man had made up his mind to quit the committee post.

GRUNDY'S RIGHT TO SEAT IN SENATE CONFIRMED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—By unanimous vote, the senate elections committee held today that Senator Joseph R. Grundy, of Pennsylvania, is entitled to retain his seat as the appointee of Governor Fisher to succeed the banished William S. Vare.

Senator Nye, republican, North Dakota, whose resolution to deny Grundy the seat is pending, announced he would ask for a vote on his resolution when Chairman Shortridge of the committee lays the committee's report before the senate late this week.

In view of the unanimous decision of the committee, little hope is entertained by the North Dakotan of barring Grundy on his complaint that the Pennsylvanian was a money collector in the $2,000,000 republican primary of 1926.

RESIGNS AS PRESIDENT OF CIVIL SERVICE COM.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—(AP)—William C. Deming, president of the civil service commission, has submitted his resignation to President Hoover in a letter noting that his name has been advanced by friends in Wyoming for the republican senatorial nomination.

Without committing himself to the senatorial race, Mr. Deming told the president "it would be difficult in my present position to make a survey of the situation without violating the spirit of the civil service law."

"Wyoming will elect a successor to the late Senator Francis Warren at its election next November. Senator Patrick Sullivan, who is filling Warren's seat by appointment of Governor Emerson, has announced that he will not be a candidate for renomination at the primaries, to be held next August.

FEAR DEATH HAS COME TO TRAPPED DEEP SEA DIVER

QUEBEC, Que., Jan. 29.—(AP)—The elements appeared to have triumphed today in a desperate battle for the life of a deep sea diver who was trapped at the bottom of the Outarde river, in an isolated section 175 miles north of here.

Peter Trans was caught in the cribbing at the bottom of a falls where the Ontario Paper company is constructing a power plant, at point near where the Outarde empties into the St. Lawrence, that was Monday.

Two airplanes bearing two rescue divers set out yesterday to go to Trans' aid, but they were forced down by a snowstorm at Rimouski. A volunteer diver went down twice yesterday, and reported Trans could be freed only by sawing away the crib. But he was afraid to try it himself lest he accidentally sever the air lines.

Today a laborer, Arvo Saiyala, put on a diving suit and went down into the icy waters. He worked close enough to Trans to grip his hand. There was no response.

Trans was either unconscious from the long exposure or dead.

CHOSEN DIRECTOR OF CONN. HUMANE SOCIETY

HARTFORD, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Robert H. Gillespie, owner and editor of the Stamford Advocate, Stamford, was chosen a director of the Connecticut Humane society, at the annual meeting of the society this afternoon in this city. Mr. Gillespie will fill the vacancy caused by the death of Wilbur F. Gorcy, former well known historian of this city. Henry C. Robinson was made a corporate member of the organization. All other directors were re-elected. Reports were read of the past year's progress. J. Seth Jones, general manager, recommended a state wide campaign to raise $50,000 for the establishment and development of districts of the society throughout the state.

GALE SWEEPS FROM THE GULF OF MEXICO

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 29.—(AP)—A storm of near hurricane proportions that ripped out of the Gulf of Mexico near the Florida coast today whipped high winds in a northeasterly direction through Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia and brought a sudden drop in temperature with rain, sleet and snow.

Storm warnings issued from both the New Orleans and Washington weather bureaus told of the increasing intensity of the storm in its spread from a low pressure area off the coast of Florida toward the Texas coast and its northeast swing up the Atlantic seaboard.

The brunt of the disturbance entered the mainland along the Mississippi coast unroofing small buildings and causing minor damage at Gulfport, and swerved through interior Mississippi and Alabama into Georgia.

ANOTHER RESPITE FOR FRED W. EDEL

ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. 29.—(AP)—A respite until the week beginning February 17, was granted Fred W. Edel sentenced to death for the murder of Mrs. Guy Harrington, Binghamton actress, by Gov. Roosevelt today.

The respite was granted for the purpose of allowing his counsel to present arguments on a motion for a new trial on the ground of recently discovered evidence.

MRS. DAHLMAN DECLINES APPOINTMENT AS MAYOR

OMAHA, Nebr., Jan. 29—(AP)—Mrs. Harriet Dahlman, widow of the late James C. Dahlman, "cowboy" mayor of Omaha, today rejected the offer of city commissioners to appoint her mayor.

The commissioners called upon Mrs. Dahlman at her home to present the offer. She said she lacked the health to stand the strain of such work.

FISHES WITHOUT LICENSE, RECEIVES FINE OF $50

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 29.—A roundup of a party of fishermen who fished through the ice at Cedar Swamp pond in Woodstock Sunday afternoon is being made by Deputy Game Warden George A. Willis of Chaplin, and Assistant Game Warden Herbert Daniels, of Plainfield. While conducting a search for a man named Hillert who broke away after being taken into custody Tuesday afternoon, Warden Willis accepted the assistance of a man who said that he was State Policeman Charles Daley of the Stafford Springs barracks. This man proved to be Richard W. Schenock, 32, an employe at the Mansfield state hospital and training school. When his real identity was made known, Schenock was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Asa Scranton of the Woodstock town court Tuesday night. He pleaded guilty to fishing through the ice without a license and paid a fine of $50. Officer Willis found evidence of illegal fishing at the pond and asked persons in the vicinity who was in charge of the tilts. After some questioning he arrested the man named Hillert and was taking him to the home of Justice Scranton but the prisoner broke away and escaped. He was still at large tonight. Believing that they were members of the party Warden Daniels this afternoon questioned Frank Maynard of Mansfield at police headquarters here and instituted a search for another man by the name of Johnson. Warden Daniels said that all four men would be arraigned in the Woodstock court provided that sufficient evidence was found that they were members of the party. Maynard will be presented in the Woodstock town court at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

A tragedy that, with its startling developments, caught the interest of the entire nation, was enacted one year ago this evening, in the cold-blooded murder of County Detective William E. Jackson. Shortly after 6:30 o'clock, the body of the slain detective was found on the floor of the kitchen at the Jackson home on Quarry street, with a bullet wound over the right temple. In his death Windham county lost a most energetic and able servant of the law and Willimantic was bereft of a loyal citizen who had, as a member of the aldermanic board, sponsored many constructive movements for community welfare and growth.

The Windham Girls' club held its 14th annual banquet in Mansfield Depot Tuesday evening with 30 members and guests in attendance. Past presidents present included Miss Mildred Moulton, Miss Marion Hurlihe, Miss Alice Peterson, Miss Blanche Hallahan and Miss Jane F. Ashton, the latter acting as master of ceremonies. Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Charles H. Beebe, reader; Mrs. Ruth Herrick Williams, soprano, and Miss Helen Bradshaw, vocalist. Miss Ruth M. Rass, a former officer, was composer of an interesting history of the club which was read by Miss Peterson. The history traced the most important events in the club's chronology since the election of Miss Grace Ottenheimer as first president in January, 1916. The banquet was in charge of the following committee: Miss Jane F. Ashton, Miss Blanche Hallahan and Miss Ruth M. Russ. The present officers of the club are: President, Miss Mildred Moulton; vice presidents, Mrs. Lucille Dinneen, Mrs. Anna Nelson and Miss Gladys Neff; treasurer, Miss Alice Peterson; recording secretary, Miss Helen Bradshaw; financial secretary, Miss Jane F. Ashton; corresponding secretary, Miss Marion Hurlihe.

Mrs. H. A. Beebe

Mrs. H. A. Beebe, step-mother of Charles H. Beebe of this city, died at her home 7 Rosemont road, Worcester Mass., Tuesday night, following a shock. She leaves two daughters, Miss Odela Beebe and Mrs. Clarence Sterling of Worcester, besides her step-son. She was a former resident of this city.

Committees from the three veterans' organizations have joined forces in planning a suitable farewell to Dr. W. P. S. Keating, newly appointed surgeon for the Fitch's Soldiers' home at Noroton Heights and elected T. Frank Cunningham as general chairman. Roy W. Downer has been named secretary and Fred N. Flagg treasurer. A sub-committee consisting of Dr. Charles A. Jenkins, Lester H. Bligh and Fred N. Flagg is to report later on the matter of time and place for staging the farewell banquet. Attending the organization meeting of the committees were: Commander Thomas Mara, Frank Teevan, Fred N. Flagg and Jeremiah E. McCartry of Augustus C. Tyler camp, No. 8, United Spanish War veterans; Dr. Charles A. Jenkins, Charles A. Reynolds and Edward Donovan of Gold Star post, No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign wars, and T. F. Cunningham, Lester H. Bligh and Roy W. Downer of James J. Shea post, No. 119, American Legion.

Acting on complaints that Guiseppe Atanac, of Scotland, had discharged firearms on his farm about one week week ago, Deputy Game Warden Herbert Daniels of Plainfield presented the man before the Scotland town court Tuesday. Justice of the Peace A. H. Gallup found Atanac guilty of illegally possessing firearms under the alien law and imposed the minimum fine of $1 and costs amounting to $11.14 which was paid. Atanac pleaded guilty, stating that he had been shooting at crows. Grand Juror Harry Chesbro prosecuted.

Claimed To Be State Officer

Richard Shenick, an attendant at Mansfield State Training school, with Frank Maynard, Eugene Johnson and David Hilbert, went on a fishing party a few days ago to Cedar Swamp pond in the town of Woodstock. All went well until a game warden from Windham county appeared and took the men before a justice of the peace in Woodstock for prosecution. Shenick gave his name as Richard Dailey and represented that he was Officer Dailey, the popular state trooper at the Stafford Springs state police barracks. He claimed he was not fishing but was simply with the other men. When the real Officer Dailey got wise to the situation he went in search of Shenick, who admitted the impersonation. Shenick was later arrested on a new warrant and will be presented in court and given an opportunity to explain his actions.

Sadie Kaba, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Kaba, of Stafford street, was taken to the state tuberculosis sanatorium at Meriden Tuesday.

As told on The Bulletin's telegraph page Wednesday, the Rhode Island Worsted Co. is offering a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of the vandals who entered the weave room of the mill Sunday night or Monday morning and destroyed 40 warps.

Storing 11-inch Ice

Herman Conrad with the Red Wing Lumber Co. truck was busy Wednesday hauling good quality 11-inch ice from the Packwoodville pond on the Colchester-Amston road to the large ice houses at the Damber summer hotel property on Hall Hill.

A car-load of cattle for Daniel Goldberg was unloaded at the local railroad station Wednesday.

Meyer Boretz of South Main street had a narrow escape from serious injury about 3 a. m. Jan. 23 when the Buick coupe which he was driving toward New London was run into by a Chrysler sedan owned and operated by William F. Ivory of 68 State street, Hartford. The accident happened on Douglas hill, a few miles this side of New London. It is understood that the Hartford driver became confused in trying to pass the Boretz car and in so doing rammed his big sedan head-on into the smaller car. Both machines were damaged and were towed to a nearby garage for repairs. Both drivers were considerably shaken up but escaped injury. It is stated that the case is being settled out of court, the Hartford driver having shouldered the blame for the accident.

WARRENVILLE

Mrs. Lena Durkee has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Phillips, in Willimantic for several days.

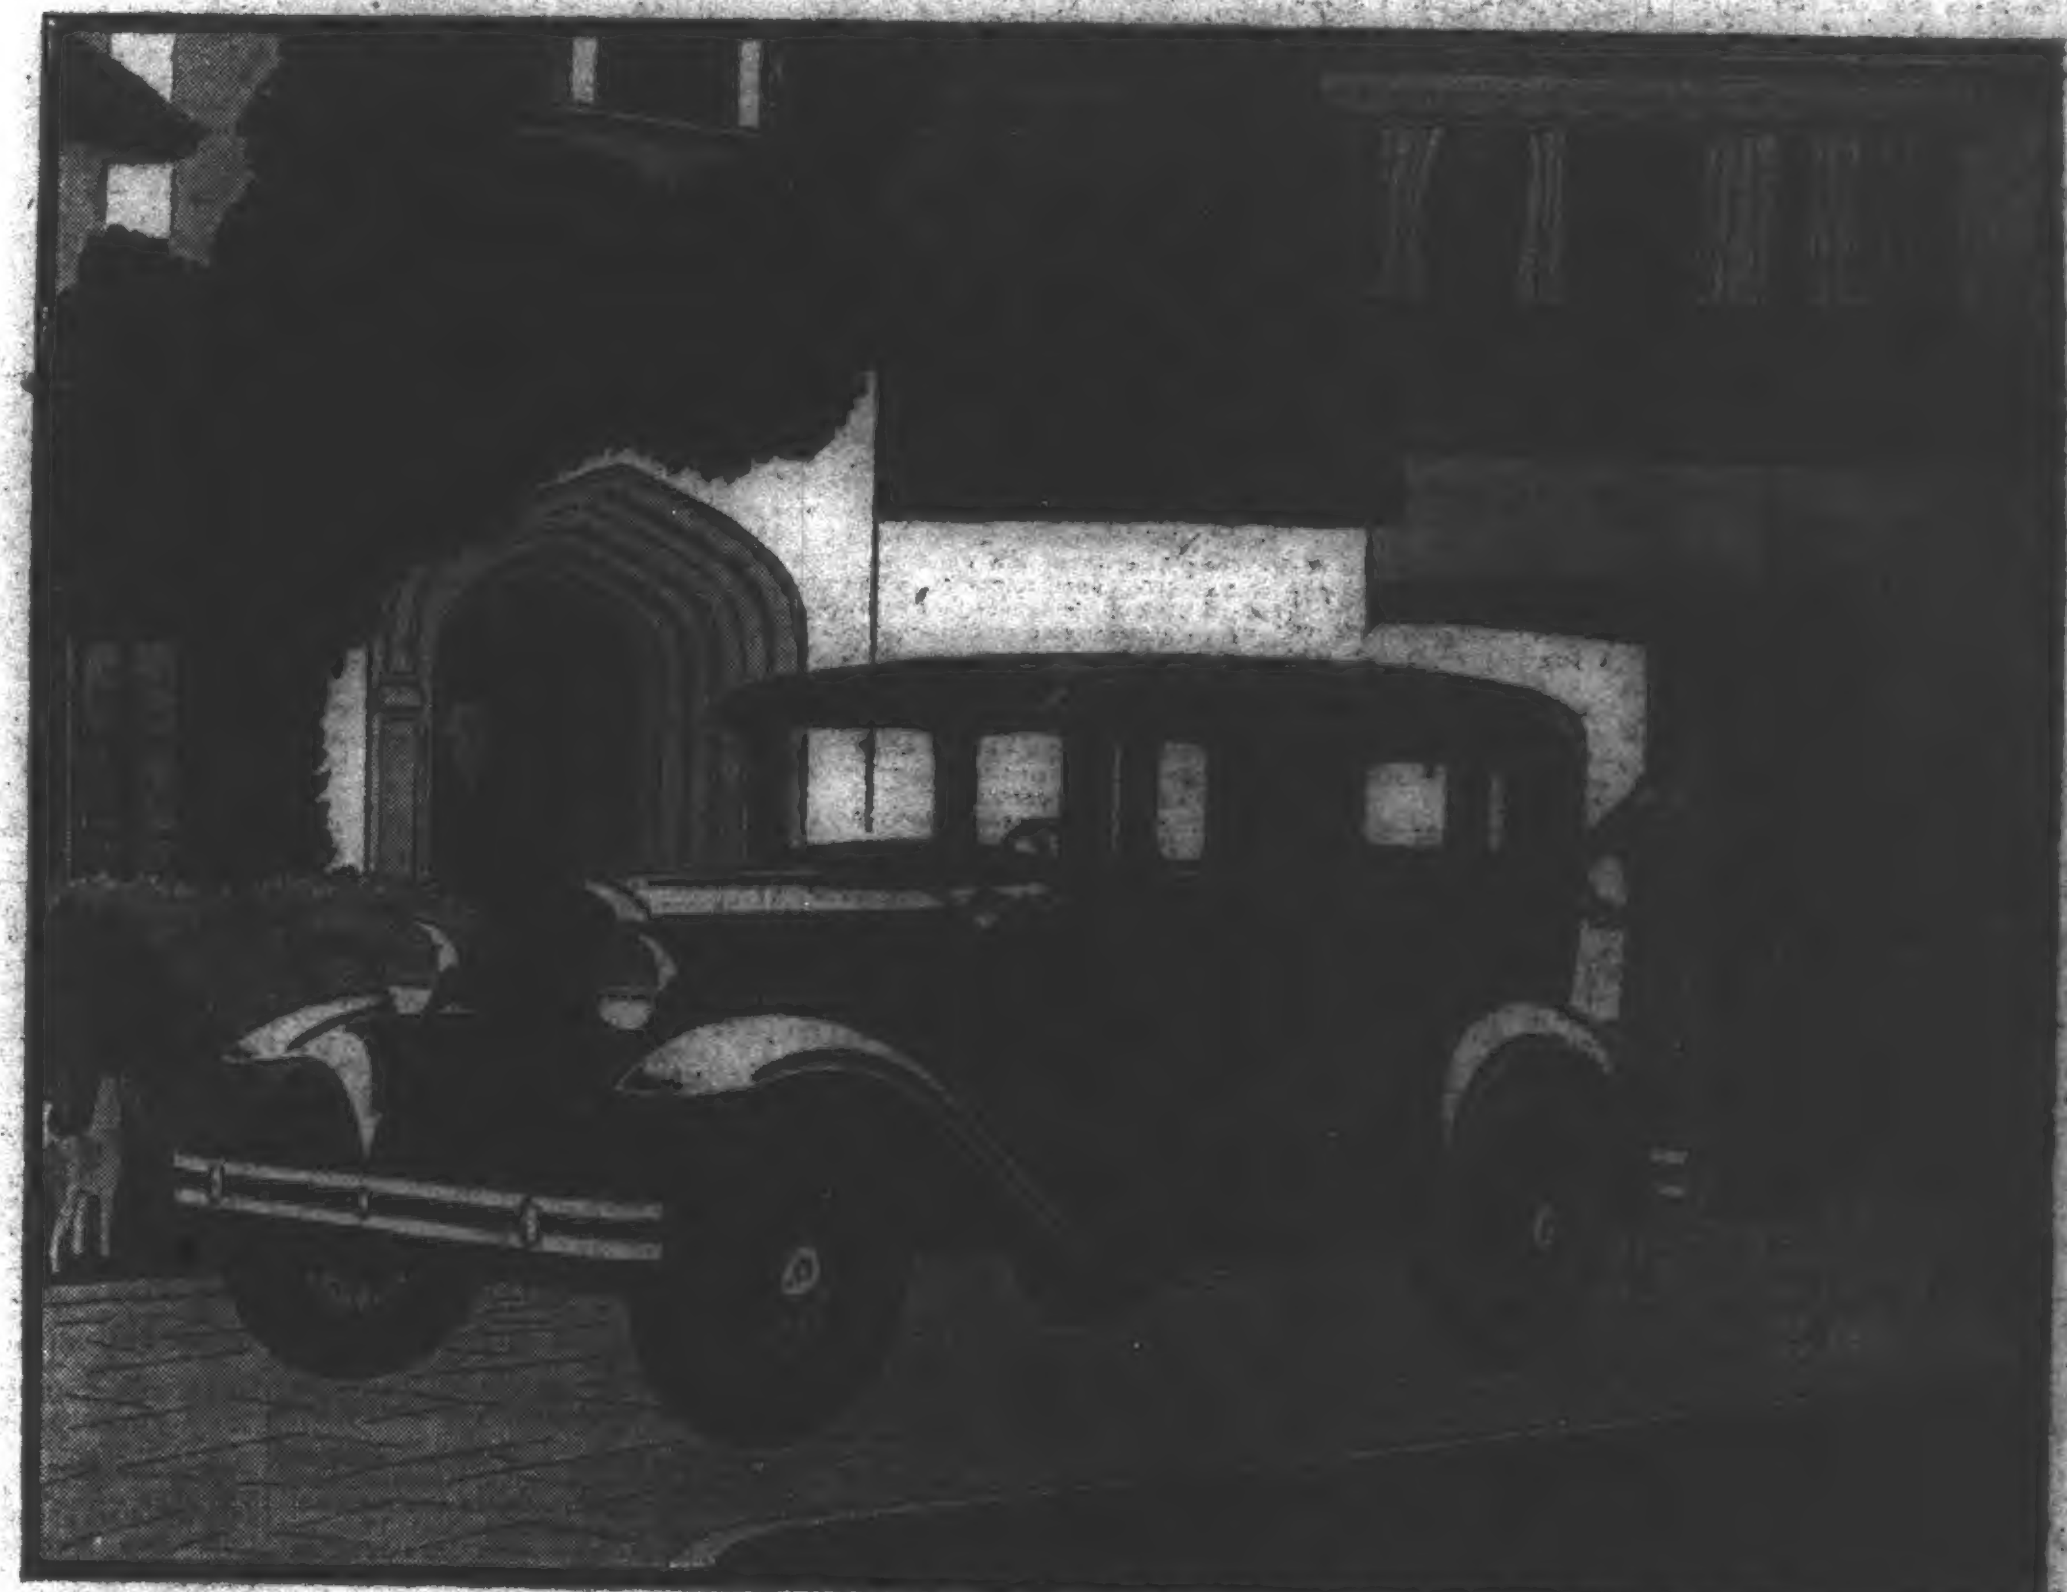
New Beauty for the New Ford



THE NEW FORD TOWN SEDAN

In the Town Sedan you see a distinguished example of the unbroken sweep of line which adds so much charm to all the new, roomy Ford bodies. Radiator, hood, cowl, [illegible] roof line, fenders, wheels—every point of design reflects the new style and beauty that have been placed within the means of every one. All of the new Ford cars are finished in a variety of colors.

ANOTHER STEP FORWARD

THE introduction of the new Ford bodies has set a high standard of motor car value. From the new deep radiator to the tip of the curving rear fender, there is an unbroken sweep of line—flowing grace of contour gaining added charm from the rich and attractive colors.

You will take a real pride in the smart style and fresh new beauty of the Ford just as you will find an ever-growing satisfaction in its safety, comfort, speed, acceleration, ease of control, reliability and economy. In appearance, as in mechanical construction, craftsmanship has been put into mass production. New beauty has been added to outstanding performance.

A feature of unusual interest is the use of Rustless Steel for the radiator shell, head lamps, cowl finish strip, hub caps, tail lamp and other exposed metal parts. This steel will not rust, corrode or tarnish and will retain its bright brilliance for the life of the car. Here, as in so many other important details, you see evidence of the enduring quality that has been built into the new Ford.

GAREAU-CAFFERY WEDDING AT ST. JAMES' WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Jan. 29—One of the prettiest weddings for months at St. James' church was that at which Miss Jeannette Gareau of Potter street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gareau, became the bride of Daniel Caffery of Attawaugan this morning. The ceremony was at 9 o'clock. Rev. Anselme Mollard, M. S., performed the marriage ceremony and was celebrant of the nuptial high mass, attended by many relatives and friends of the bride and groom and also by many other members of the parish.

The festival music sung at the high mass on Christmas was sung by a choir of the church. Mrs. Joseph Gareau, mother of the bride and church organist, played the music of the mass.

The bride was very beautiful in a gown of white ivory satin, princess style, and trimmed with Chantilly and point d'espirit lace. Her veil was caught with a spray of orange blossoms and her bouquet a shower arrangement of white talisman roses.

Miss Olive Boulais was maid of honor. Her gown was of pink satin and she wore a picture hat to match, and carried a bouquet of pink talisman roses. The bridesmaids were Miss Pauline Boulaine and Miss Blanche Tetreault. Miss Boulaine's gown was of Lucerne blue satin and her hat a picture model. She carried a bouquet of red talisman roses. Miss Tetreault was gowned in yellow satin and wore a picture model hat. Her bouquet was of yellow talisman roses.

The groom was attended by Francis J. Keenan of New London as best man. Albert P. Reeves and Wilfred A. Dupre of New London were ushers.

Following the mass there was a reception in honor of the newly wedded couple at the home of the groom's aunt, Miss Mary Hughes in Attawaugan, where they received the congratulations of many.

The bride, who received many beautiful gifts, has spent practically all of her life in Danielson. She studied at an academy in Woonsocket for four years, later entering training at St. Francis' hospital in Hartford for a year before studying for two years at the Willimantic Normal school.

For nearly three years past she has been teaching in Woodstock for a time and more recently in Killingly. The groom is in the employ of the N. Y., N. H., and H. R. R company.

This afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Caffery left for their wedding trip and will visit in New York, Washington and Miami before returning here. Guests came for the wedding from Providence, Wallingford, New London and New Haven.

Still Using 1929 Markers

Arnold Kerr, a resident of the town of Canterbury, was today ordered by State Officer Henry Mayo of the Danielson barracks to appear in a justice's court in Canterbury to answer to a charge of operating a Ford truck with 1929 registration plates. This is the second arrest of this nature in Canterbury since the beginning of the year.

A very considerable proportion of the pleasure cars owned in the town of Killingly are said to remain unregistered since the first of the year. While numbers of car owners in this town do not register their machines until April 1 of each year, many more persons than usual have adopted that plan this particular winter.

A further increase was reported today in the number of subscriptions placed for the new series of shares of the Danielson Building and Loan association. Because all of those who are selling shares have not reported it is practically impossible to ascertain accurately just how many shares have been sold, but the number is believed to be in the neighborhood of 1,000 and may be well above that figure.

The campaign is continuing with an encouraging degree of success. Many of those regarded as probable subscribers have not been reached as yet. However, the present subscription is far and away ahead of all the series that have gone before.

According to public announcement made today by the Standard Oil company, the Danielson distribution district will get the lowest price quoted in any district in Connecticut. True, the margin of difference over some of the other areas will be but one-tenth of one per cent, but it was a matter of general interest here today. The price in Danielson is officially announced as 18.2 cents per gallon. The nearest approach to this low mark is 18.4 cents, which is quoted for some other eastern Connecticut areas. Danielson is pleased, but curious, that it has the lowest price quoted in the state. It is curious because several of the distribution points are at tidewater, while Danielson is not, but it may be that this has nothing to do with the matter of rating.

Constable Louis S. Barstow of East Killingly, who is out collecting overdue personal taxes for the town, and under orders to get the money or drive the delinquents over to Brooklyn jail, is having some interesting experiences. Various subterfuges are being tried on Constable Barstow by those who would escape paying, but all of them are futile. The constable gets the money, for it appears, at least up to today, that no one wants to go to jail in default of payment of a personal tax bill. In the summary method now being employed to collect the cost to the delinquent is $17.

Officers were elected and other business transacted last evening at the meeting of the Tri-Y club at the Congregational parish house. Miss Phyllis Kenworthy was elected president, and Misses Henrietta Thompson and Florence Killian vice-presidents. Miss Gladys Hutchins was named as secretary, and Janet Kennedy as treasurer. The executive committee is made up of Ruth Mellor, Gertrude Schroll and Mildred Mason; membership committee, Isabella Abbott, Marjorie Mellor; flower committee, Jeanette Grenon, Mabel Richardson; swimming committee, Anna Conklin, Ruth Albro; pianist, Madeline Fournier; club committee, Marion Richardson, Helen Schroll, press agent, Eunice Brown. The election of officers was preceded by the ritualistic ceremony, and old and new business was discussed. Cora Browne reported for the nominating committee. Anna Conklin and Gertrude Schroll were initiated into membership in the club. A feature of the evening's meeting was a discussion on the subject, Habits. After the meeting members of the Tri-Y joined with the Hi-Y. Games were played under the supervision of Miss Marjorie I. Gaffney. The evening was a very pleasant one.

Newly installed officers of Highland grange of South Killingly are: Master, Louis S. Barstow; overseer, Miss Mildred Kelly; steward, Harry Grover; assistant steward, Milan Whittaker; chaplain, Rev. Henry Coolidge; treasurer, B. E. Terwilliger; secretary, Mrs. L. S. Barstow; gatekeeper, William Norton; Ceres, Alice Mott; Pomona, Catherine Kelly; Flora, Margaret Terwilliger; lady assistant steward, Mabel Phillips; member of executive committee, E. T. Kelley. The officers were installed by Mrs. Lillian Frink of Canterbury.

Manager William Sangster of the Danielson division of the Connecticut Light and Power company has been in New York on a business trip.

This evening L. S. Barstow, master of Highland grange, was at Warrenville to install the newly elected officers of Ashford grange.

Rev. Charles A. Downs of Goodyear will be the speaker at Thursday evening's meeting of the Danielson Rotary club at Paco lodge.

Ice harvesting operations were suspended today at Quinebaug lake, but will be resumed Thursday morning with a large force of men.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith of Willimantic, former residents here, have been visitors with Miss Gertrude Stone of Academy street.

In the town court this morning Judge W. Fenner Woodward imposed a fine of $10 and costs, a total of $19.60, on Florimond Rainville, and nolled the case against Ovide Guimont on terms. Both local young men were ordered into court by County Game Warden Thomas Daniels for violating a game law—hunting rabbits with a ferret while there was sufficient snow on the ground to allow of tracking the animals.

Your money will pay you 5 per cent. interest and you will share in the upbuilding of Danielson if you purchase the shares of the Danielson Building and Loan association now being offered.—Adv.

Numbers of the insurance members of Rose of Lima council, K. of C., Danielson, which has surrendered its charter, have transferred to Mystical Rose council of Wauregan.

A considerable number of the members of the Killingly Woman's club accepted the invitation of the Connecticut Light and Power company to inspect the company's division headquarters here this afternoon.

Sunday will be groundhog day, and those who believe in legends may determine to their own satisfaction whether or not the backbone of winter has been broken.

BEST FOR INDIGESTION

Weak Stomachs Now Taking Pepsin In New Liquid Form

PHARMACISTS PRAISE IT

Stops Acute Kind in Few Minutes—What a Blessing.

Here's a delightful elixir with plenty of real pepsin, some Menthol and just enough of several other stomach correctives to make it capable of putting almost any weak, rundown, abused stomach in first class shape—and it tastes like the most palatable nectar.

The men who created this supremely good formula know their business—they don't believe in nasty tasting medicine and the people are with them for Dare's Mentha Pepsin—that's the name—is having a tremendous sale all over the country. They have passed along the word to every druggist in the country that if Dare's Mentha Pepsin doesn't bring serene comfort to any wornout, rundown, sickly, gassy stomach that the owner of that most important internal organ can have his or her money back.

Stubborn indigestion of years standing is hard to get rid of, but Dare's Mentha Pepsin will do it, one enthusiastic druggist asserts.—It's real pepsin in liquid form—the right way to take pepsin. Any druggist always has a big supply on hand.

PLAINFIELD

Mrs. Lloyd Phillips entertained the M. M. club Tuesday evening. Bridge was played and the prizes were won by Miss Florence Wibberly, Mrs. Raymond Lathrop and Mrs. Augusta Nolan.

Antoine Audette was called to Fall River, Mass., to attend the funeral of his brother-in-law, Joseph Patenaude, a brother of the late Mrs. A. Audette.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert LaBarre spent the week end in Southbridge, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Allard and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Allard and daughter spent Sunday in Danielson.

Miss Celia Isreal has resumed teaching at night school after being absent for some time due to illness.

Among students who spent the week end at home after their mid-year examinations are Miss Lola Bailey, of Storrs college, Vincent and James Foy, of Providence college, Providence, R. I.

Mill Men At Inn

During the past week about seventy-five members of the Connecticut Mill Men's association held their annual meeting at the Lawton Inn after which a roast beef dinner was served. At 8 p. m. they adjourned to the Community house where a first class entertainment was given by artists from Boston.

The Monday evening Bridge club was entertained by Mrs. Oscar Dalhof at her home on Plainfield street. The prizes went to Mrs. D. J. Hayes and Mrs. James Coffey. After refreshments were served all enjoyed dancing.

Thursday evening the first in a series of whist parties was given at the new St. John's school for the school fund. About thirty tables were played. These parties are conducted by St. Anne's society.

Harry Baldwin, who has been employed at Lawton mills for the past nine years, and who has been second hand in the weave shop for four years, resigned Jan. 25th to go to the Ashland Cotton Co. in Jewett City. He will be greatly missed, as he was very much liked by the employes.

NO. GROSVENORDALE

At the assembly exercises at T. M. H. S. Wednesday morning Milton Wigton was pianist.

Romeau Labeau was awarded a quilt made by the members of the American Legion auxiliary at a card party Saturday night. Miss Madeleine Coderre won the prize at whist and R. Jajcie won the men's first prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Auchambeault are being congratulated on the birth of a son.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Swedish Lutheran church is planning to have a Quahog supper.

Leon Baker of Saxonville, formerly of this town, is at the home of his father, Joseph Baker.

Edward Cassells and son, Edward, Jr., returned from South Manchester Tuesday.

Stuart Swanson of Thompsonville spent Wednesday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emil Swanson.

Mr. and Mrs. Omer Loiselle have returned from Woonsocket, where they were guests of friends and relatives.

PUTNAM

PUTNAM MAN BOUND OVER ON A SERIOUS CHARGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Jan. 29.—Arrested upon a complaint made to Northbridge, Mass., police by Miss Irene Boiselle, resident of that town, Theodore "Ted" Raymond of Park street, Putnam, was arraigned in the district court of Northbridge on Monday morning on a serious statutory charge to which he pleaded guilty, resulting in his being bound over to the May term of the superior court. Raymond is being held in the county jail in Northbridge in default of bonds of $3,000 set for his release.

It was learned this afternoon from a reliable source that the arrest of Raymond will bring about an expose that will involve other prominent men. Action, it was understood, will be taken before the close of the week. Raymond, who is married, was arrested in this city this week by Chief of Police Merril R. Keith of Northbridge, a former state officer attached to the Danielson barracks, a warrant for the Putnam man's arrest was sworn to by the young woman concerned. Raymond went voluntarily to the Massachusetts court, making no attempt to fight extradition. In her complaint to the police she implicated other men in this city that resulted in a police investigation, in which local and Northbridge police figure, being instituted. It was stated definitely this afternoon that certain legal technicalities exist at present, preventing immediate action of the police being directed against the other principals mentioned by the Boiselle girl.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Jennie A. T. Leonard

A telegram received this morning by Judge Mahlon H. Geissler told of the death in Hartsdale, N. Y., last evening of Mrs. Jennie A. (Tillinghast) Leonard, 85, a former resident of this city. She died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Effie Ernshaw, also a former resident of Putnam. Mrs. Leonard had resided in Putnam the greater part of her life. She was a native of Greene, R. I. She was married to Moses G. Leonard, then a resident of Woodstock. Later Mr. and Mrs. Leonard removed to Putnam, where Mr. Leonard entered the firm known as Manning & Leonard, conducting a dry goods business in the Rich block on Main street. Previous to the razing of the Rich block a few years ago, David Flagg, former town clerk and treasurer, conducted the business, which he acquired after the death of Mr. Leonard in 1911. After her husband's death Mrs. Leonard continued to maintain her residence on South Main street. Surviving Mrs. Leonard besides her daughter, Mrs. Ernshaw, are two step-children, a daughter, Fannie, of Riverside, R. I., and a son, Frank, of Philadelphia. Mrs. Leonard was well known in this city. She was a member of the Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter of D. A. R., and a member of the First Baptist church. She was active in the city's social work being a past president of the Woman's board of the Day Kimball hospital.

The board of assessors, of which Ernest B. Kent, Arthur Tourtellotte and Ulric D. Beausoleil are members, has completed its work for the year and filed its report with Town Clerk Henry N. Benoit. The gross valuation of the taxable property in the town amounts to $10,924,221. The report shows an increase of $50,367 over the gross valuation of 1928. Of the total valuation there is an exempt list totaling $100,021, making the net valuation $10,824,200.

On Friday evening, March 21, the Israel Putnam lodge of Odd Fellows will have been in existence 40 years. The members of the organization at a recent meeting appointed an anniversary committee to make arrangements for a fitting observance of the event. Elaborate plans are being made which will be announced at a later date. Worthy of mention is the fact that the lodge has met regularly on Tuesday evenings since the date of its institution. According to records, nothing has ever occurred when it was necessary to postpone the scheduled gathering of the members. The Israel Putnam lodge was instituted on March 21, 1890. Lucius H. Fuller, former judge of city court and dean of Putnam business men, was the first noble grand of the order. Judge Fuller is grand of the order. Judge Fuller is ward to being among those present at the birthday celebration of his fraternal association. It was learned today that 14 members present when the lodge was instituted 40 years ago are still living.

Dr. C. Hector Lucier, whose optical offices are located in the Seder building on Main street, has ceased to practice his profession in this city. On Friday Dr. Lucier will leave for New York city where he has accepted a position there with a well known firm of opticians. Dr. Lucier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank X. Lucier of Church street. He is a graduate of the Rochester School of Optometry, class of 1925, and since the completion of his studies has been practicing in this city. He holds licenses entitling him to practice his profession in the states of New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

FUNERAL

Wladislaw Orwatt

Funeral services were held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's church for Wladislaw Orwatt of Walnut street, who died Sunday of an acute heart attack. A high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. U. O. Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery. Rev. Fr. Bellerose officiated at a committal service at the grave.

RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT OF PUTNAM B. AND L. ASSOCIATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 29.—At the annual meeting of the Putnam Building and Loan association held Tuesday evening in the chamber of commerce rooms, Union block, President Alexander Gilman, local business man, was re-elected to head the organization for another year. Mr. Gilman was the unanimous choice of the shareholders present. With him were elected the incumbent board of subordinate officers which is comprised of John M. Dean, Jr., Ernest B. Kent and Herbert J. Smith, vice-presidents; Mahlon H. Geissler, secretary; W. E. Moss, treasurer; Marguerite M. Beaulieu, assistant secretary; Omer J. Milot, assistant treasurer. The board of management re-elected consists of O. J. Milot, William E. Wheaton, Silas M. Wheelock, Oscar Dugas, S. Nikoloff, M. H. Geissler, Ray C. Bosworth, William P. Warren. The reports of the president, treasurer and secretary were read and accepted, followed by a motion being placed in order for an adjournment.

The mid-year meeting of the Ashford Baptist association was held Tuesday at the First Baptist church on Woodstock avenue, with large representative delegations from the various churches in the district attending. The morning programme was devoted to talks and discussions on current topics. The speakers were men and women prominent in Baptist circles. Rev. J. M. Adams, a missionary worker, with a record of 35 years of labor in the Orient, most of which was spent in China, spoke most interestingly of his experiences there during the Boxer uprising. In the afternoon the meeting was in the form of a forum. Discussions revolved around the question, "What shall we do to make our churches accept more definitely the responsibility of making this a more Christ-like world?" A note of anxiety interrupted the progress of the meeting when mention was made of the illness with pneumonia of Rev. Henry E. Hodge, pastor of the local church. Mr. Hodge has been confined to his home on Sunnyside avenue for several days.

Upon the effectiveness of the "Geographical" schedule of sale prices of gasoline announced today by the Standard Oil Co. of New York, the automotive fuel will cost consumers residing in Putnam and northern Windham county in general approximately 2 cents a gallon less. The new schedule is effective Saturday, according to information received today from gasoline distributors here. The price of gasoline will be computed to a tenth of a cent. The present price is 20 cents a gallon. After Saturday it will be sold for 18.3 cents per gallon to the retail trade.

Edwin L. Robinson, principal of Putnam high school, was the speaker and guest of honor at the meeting of the Putnam Rotary club held today at the Putnam Inn. Mr. Robinson delighted his listeners by spinning a number of anecdotes concerning several prominent members of the club which occurred during their school days. He also delivered a highly interesting talk in which he combatted the oft advanced modern theory that the younger generation is fast going to the "dogs." President S. Nikoloff presided over the executive session. Visitors at today's meeting were Mr. Robinson, Herman Davidson of Hartford, Lorne Greig and Henry Dubuc of Danielson and Guy Webb of Norwich.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Henry E. Beebe

Word was received here late last evening of the death in Worcester of Mrs. Henry E. Beebe, for many years a resident of that city. Mrs. Beebe is the grandmother of E. Leslie Beebe, manager of the local exchange of the Southern New England Telephone Co. She is widely known in Willimantic.

Mrs. Iver S. Nelson of Main street and Mrs. E. L. Beebe of Whittemore street were in Boston today on business.

A report from the sick room of Rev. Henry E. Hodge, pastor of the First Baptist church, received this morning, was to the effect that an improvement was noted in the condition of the clergyman, who is suffering from pneumonia.

Miss Judith Sabin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sabin of School street, student at Brown university, Providence, has been named a member of the committee on costumes for the annual masque to be presented by the sophomore class of Pembroke college at the university on May 1.

A report has been circulated saying that the firm of M. Salsbug, silk manufacturers operating in the plant of the old Manahapsett Manufacturing Co., expect to add 200 looms to the 50 machines presently in operation. When installed the new looms will provide work for several textile operators now without employment. The report is indeed gratifying to the people of this vicinity.

MOOSUP

Mrs. Cora Johnson of Pawtucket, R. I., spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Littlefield.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Richmond, of Buckland, Conn., spent the week end at M. E. Richmond's.

Mrs. Grace Hill was a recent visitor in Norwich.

Miss Elsie Maggia, of Storrs college, has been at her home here recently.

Miss Rose Carlen has returned to Hartford, having spent a week with relatives and friends in town.

John Wynn has returned to Webster, having spent a week with his sister, Mrs. William Williams. Mrs. Williams returned to Webster with him.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Benson and Mrs. Rebecca Bitgood were callers in South Manchester Sunday.

William Richmond of U. S. S. King is passing a 23-day furlough at his home here. He has just completed eleven years of service with Uncle Sam and is intending to remain 16 years.

Mrs. Minnie Roney is spending a few weeks in Anthony, R. I.

Mr. and Mrs. James Proulx, of Arctic, R. I., were callers Sunday at the home of Godfrey Deloge.

Mrs. C. B. Spaulding is ill.

Edmund Alvord and George Alvord of Manchester, Conn., spent the week end at their home here.

The report of Moosup visiting nurse for December 1929 shows: Patients under care during month, 50; general, 47; maternity, 3; nursing visits during month, 177; collected from patients, $8.50; collected from Metropolitan, $93.50; total, $101.50.

JEWETT CITY

AMERICAN LEGION OFFERS HISTORY MEDALS TO PUPILS

At the meeting of the American Legion Tuesday evening it was voted to give bronze medals to the boy and girl who shall stand the highest in American history, both in Riverside grammar school and St. Mary's parochial school. It was also voted to hold a series of whists, probably beginning some time in February. Many matters of interest were discussed and, best of all, the Legion finds itself in a flourishing condition. The town is fortunate in that this dependable organization has taken in charge the patriotic ceremonies of Memorial day.

Have your eyes examined. Dr. Good, Finn Blk.; Fri., 2-5:30, 6-8.—adv.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church is to be entertained at the home of Mrs. A. M. Brown Friday afternoon instead of Thursday.

Beginning Jan. 31, the Jewett City Trust Co. will be open Friday evenings, 6 to 7:30. 5 per cent int. paid on savings accounts.—adv.

The borough letter carriers have received their new gray caps and uniforms, and wore them for the first time Wednesday. And, believe it or not, the natty suits are enhanced by the fine appearance of the men who wear them. Anyway, that is what everybody said Wednesday!

Another of the pleasant Pachaug grange whists was held Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Ruth Holmes. The prizes were won by Mrs. George Lillibridge, Mrs. Ruth Holmes, Mrs. Andrew Chesbro, Philip Desjardines, Frank Morgan and George Lillibridge. A lunch of frankfurts, rolls, cookies and coffee was served when the games were over. The next party is to be entertained at the home of Mrs. Chesbro.

Much of interest and profit is being found in the recently organized School of Missions of the Baptist church. Four classes are gathered each week, for the study of such subjects as shall tend to not only stimulate the missionary activities of the church but furnish a fund of information relative to the countries where mission work is needed. The men's class is in charge of John Harris, the women are instructed by Mrs. G. H. Prior, the young people by Mrs. A. M. Brown and the children by Mrs. B. R. Gardner.

CITY SCOFF-LAWS LEARN SOMETHING FROM LOCAL VISIT

It seems peculiar that motorists whose machines bear markers signifying that they hail from the metropolitan districts should pick on Jewett City to pull off their small town stuff. Early in the week a machine undertook to climb the postoffice square traffic beacon. Officer Vegiard was on the job, with the result that the driver is now better posted on borough laws. Tuesday, a Rhode Island car was parked for a couple of hours, almost on top of lower Main street hydrant. Traffic Officer Morency attached a pretty little red tag to the steering wheel with favorable results relative to the clause "Parking near hydrants."

Mrs. A. M. Brown and Mrs. B. R. Gardner attended the recent mid-winter rally of the district meetings of the Woman's American Baptist Home and Foreign Missionary society, held in Boston.

The total receipts from the presentation of the Bean Town Choir in Rioux hall and the sale of home-made candy, Monday evening, were $65.25. The net proceeds, $63.25, were divided equally between Lisbon grange and the Women's Missionary society of the Congregational church.

OLD CALIFORNIA MISSION CHARMS ROSS TOURISTS

Writing from 2309 5 avenue, San Diego, Calif., under date of Jan. 23, Mr. Ross says:

We have had rain here for the last ten or twelve days. The sun shone every day with one exception—the people call these rains liquid sunshine.

For more than a mile down the streets of this city to Broadway, there are no manholes to take off the surface water. At the cross walks at A and B streets, the water is more than ankle deep. At points planks are laid so that people may cross the streets.

It rains so seldom here that the manholes would only fill with dirt and leaves. The trees seem to be shedding their leaves all the time.

Speaking of trees, we saw the Torrey Pines a few miles beyond La Jolla, on a headland overlooking the Pacific. In understand these pines are the only trees of this particular species in the world. John Torrey named these trees for himself and although the ordinary man would only see the very crooked, strange shapes, this man discovered they were different from any other pines.

We had been driving along a very high ridge between the sea and a deep valley. When we reached this headland of the Torrey Pines we began to descend by a long, winding road to the valley. The road was rather steep and warnings were at every turn. There was a group of state police near the top of this grade to warn people of danger. The sharp turns and blind corners made the 18th amendment of some use.

San Luis Rey Mission.

We were on our way to the Mission of San Luis Rey. You will remember that in the story of Romona (Helen Hunt Jackson), Alessandro, was born and brought up in or near this Mission.

Passing through Del Mar on the King's Highway (El Camino Real) we turned off at Oceanside toward the east and from a high promontory we saw this wonderful Mission, the finest of any of the 23 in California.

From our vantage point on this high land was laid out before us one of the finest views we have seen. The level valley was surrounded by rolling hills covered with green grass, with cattle feeding on these hill sides.

In the middle distance was the Mission and just beyond was a building about the size of Father McCabe's school at home. This building was as white as snow and the trees and vines and flowers against this background stood out in relief. This building, of course, was adobe and we learned from the Padre that it was a school of several hundred children, taught by Sisters (Nuns) from Dayton, Ohio.

A Cordial Welcome.

When we reached the entrance of the Mission and were going to ring the bell, the door was opened by the Padre and he welcomed us with, "I am glad to see you, friends," and he won us by his graciousness. The Padre was dressed in a dark brown robe, with a cord around his waist. He told us afterwards that they were not allowed to wear any color. On his feet were sandals. I was very much taken with the Father. His face was rather thin, dark hair and eyes; perhaps I was attracted to him on account of his earnest, friendly smile. (Nothing supercilious.) He called us "his friends" and before we came away called us "dear friends."

If you remember how Dan Finn's father looked you will have a counterpart of this Franciscan Monk.

The Padre was not so tall as Mr. Finn, yet there was a strong resemblance. This may be one of the reasons I took to him.

Preachers And Teachers.

The Padre told us the bricks we were standing on were made by the Indians in 1798. We then went into the church, a long, narrow room, with high beamed ceiling, brilliant with bright colors of ancient decorations that have recently been restored. The beams in the roof had been tied with raw hide when the hides were green and as they dried and shrunk the beams became tighter and closed.

This is an adobe building, of course, the beautiful tower is of wood. The bells are gone. Yet in the building were innumerable bells of very small size and each bell had its use.

Marvellous Prosperity.

We saw relics of ancient days when the Mission was in its glory. This Mission had at one time 2,800 members, all Indians. The holdings of lands was immense, thousands and thousands of acres, in fact, I think all the land in sight.

The wheat crop one year was 13,000 bushels. All the work done by hand. The cattle were numbered by the thousands. California at that time was Mexican. The Mexicans secularised the Missions and turned them into a money-making business, and yet this did not discourage these Franciscan Monks, as they had taught the Indians how to work and to make useful articles. We saw tile drain pipe, made by covering a straight stick with adobe and then baking in the fire until the stick burned out, leaving the pipe whole.

Relics Of Industry.

The Franciscan brothers each know some trade and these trades the Indians were taught and were adept in all they tried to do. We were shown wrought nails made in 1798 by the Indians. (I mentioned that at our home in Connecticut, in the new house were wrought nails made on the farm in 1795.)

When Gen. Fremont took possession of California, or when the U. S. government took over this territory, the white men displaced the Indian, taking land, cattle, sheep and crops. The Padre told us that at one time the Indians killed 20,000 head of cattle and sheep, rather than have them fall into the hands of the white man.

In the enclosure of the old Mission (the walls are now in ruins) we were shown the place where 3,000 Indians are buried, the died of pestilence—thought by the Padre to have been small-pox.

Today this Mission is visited by a great many people and there is no fee charges to be taken around, each giving what he pleases, or giving nothing. All of this money is used in restoring the buildings and keeping them in repair.

Unshaken Faith.

I think another reason I liked this Monk was his courage and faith that God would bless them in their efforts.

Should I tell all we saw at this Mission of San Luis Rey, and the information the Padre gave us it would take a long time and fill quite a book.

When we left the Mission door we found a group of people (12 or 15) waiting to be shown the buildings. I asked the Padre to leave us and we would go away. No; he told us to stay, and picked some flowers for one of the family, and pointing to a tree in the raised patio said that is the first pepper tree planted in California.

We shook hands with this Franciscan Padre, and I hope I may meet him again. There is one regret. I did not ask him his name.

Have your eyes examined by Dr. C. A. Spear, optometrist; hours 7 to 9, every Friday evening. Anthony Bldg.—adv.

CENTRAL VILLAGE

Miss Mary Tracy, local postmistress, has been a visitor in Providence.

Walter Royse and Miss Hazel Edgerton, members of the class of 1930, Plainfield high school, are members of the cast that will present "The Rivals" at the Community house in Plainfield.

George Street, who has been confined to his home by illness the past week, is able to be out.

Mrs. Earl Bragg of Brooklyn was a visitor with friends here Tuesday.

Edward Baker of Canterbury Green visited Tuesday at the home of his brother, Levi Baker.

Mrs. Wilfred Lawson returned Tuesday after two weeks' visit in Waterloo, N. Y., with Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer D. Johnson, former residents here.

John Turner is confined to his home by illness.

John Stone remains ill at a Norwich hospital where he has been for several weeks. The cattle on his farm in Green Hollow are to be disposed of, as his health does not improve much, and it will probably be a long time before he will be able to continue his farm work, as his health was very poor for a long time before he went to the hospital.

Tuesday afternoon the auction bridge club was entertained by Mrs. Edward Cutler. The guests were Miss Emma Greenhalgh and Mrs. Michael Conneally. A delicious lunch was served by the hostess. The first prize, a vase filled with vari-colored grasses, was won by Mrs. George Loring and the consolation prize, a set of bridge tallies was presented Mrs. Arnold B. Mathewson. The next meeting will be Feb. 11th with Mrs. Charles Bragg.

DAYVILLE

Miss Rose Heneault, student at the College of Mount St. Vincent, is spending the mid-year recess at her home.

A series of popular Sunday evening services is to be opened at the Congregational church Sunday next.

It is with great regret that residents here have learned of the serious illness of Rev. Henry H. Hodge of the Baptist church, Putnam. His friends wish him a speedy recovery.

The Tuesday Night Bridge club met with Mrs. Herman Steinbough. The honors of the evening were won by Mrs. William Swainson and Mrs. Orrin Alvord.

The Dayville Pioneers were not quite so successful Monday night in the Interchurch Basketball league, when they lost the game by a narrow margin to the Baptist boys. The game was a good one and closely contested throughout.

Mrs. William Swainson was substitute teacher at Goodyear school Wednesday for Miss Olive Boulais.

The Toughest Old COUGH Can Now Be Stopped

Lingering coughs—the kind that hang on and hang on and rob a man of his sleep—the kind that makes him peevish and all worn out.

Those are the breed of coughs that prove that common cough syrups are about as useful as a bottle of ginger pop.

The quickest and surest way to get rid of a persistent cough is to take a teaspoonful of Bronchuline Emulsion four times a day.

It's made to stop the old-timers—the tough ones—and it does it without any loss of time.

And remember, there is no chloroform—no sugar—no dope in this grand cough medicine. It's a prescription for stubborn coughs and that's the kind it speedily conquers.

For ordinary coughs one or two doses is usually enough. Lee and Osgood and dealers everywhere can supply you.

Miss Ella Sobasik, of Pascoag, was at her home for the week end.

A man before Judge Pancrast, of the Camden (N. J.) police court had just been let off extremely easily with a $10 fine, after he had told the judge a heart-rending story of poverty. The man reached for his money to pay the fine, and pulled out a greenback. "Can you change a twenty, judge?" he asked. "No, said the judge, "but I change the fine!" And he did.

PROBE FLYING ACCIDENTS

Senator Bingham has asked congress to give authority to the department of commerce to investigate air accidents and publish the result of the inquiries and we have yet to learn of any good reasons for opposing it.

The object of the senator is to find out what the circumstances are concerning the airplane accidents, why it was not possible to prevent them, and obtain information of a reliable character that can be used in preventing others.

There have been some bad flying accidents in the past year and it needs to be established whether the requirements for safety are being observed and Senator Bingham wants the department of commerce to make specific investigations of all accidents by calling witnesses and getting the facts the same as is done by the steamboat inspection service.

There has long been the feeling in connection with airplane accidents that any publicity given to them has a detrimental effect upon aviation. Such is a reasonable inference and yet there is no reason why it should work in that connection any more than it does with automobiles. Certainly there is plenty of publicity given to auto accidents and yet each year shows a larger number of fatalities than the one before.

If flying was going to checked by reports of accidents it would have happened long ago. But how determined the effort is to cover up as many of the details as possible in airplane accidents is revealed by a midwest crash where the coroner had ordered the broken plane left intact until it could be looked over, only to find on his return that it had all been broken up into small pieces and removed by the company that was interested in using that type of machine. The idea was to destroy evidence and publicity.

If a complete investigation should be made of each accident, such practices would be stopped, the full facts would be obtained in regard to the condition of the plane, the equipment, the care being exercised and the manner in which it was being flown. Inspection of the broken machine might help to reveal what happened and why. At any rate, there is good reason for learning as much as possible about the flying accidents for the benefit of future flying, and it cannot be said that is being done at the present time.

COMPULSORY AND ABSENTEE VOTING

When the question of voting is raised it interests a majority of the people. There are those, however, who attach great value to suffrage and yet who persistently fail to use it. They are among the stay-at-homes or those who are only interested when there is an unusual contest at the polls, and it is because of those who can but don't vote that efforts are made every now and then in behalf of compulsory voting legislation.

Just now such a measure is being considered by the Massachusetts legislature, but it gets little support. It is admitted by those who have advocated it that it has its weaknesses, that there is a serious question as to its constitutionality and that even if it were to become a law there would be no assurance that the people it was intended to reach would vote.

It creates the impression that it would be another case of leading the horse to water but being unable to make him drink. It is regrettable that there are so many who are so unmindful of the responsibilities of citizenship as to neglect their duty when it comes to voting on election day, but there is real doubt whether it can be overcome by legislation. When it comes to interfering with the great American privilege of doing as one pleases, so long as it does not conflict with restrictive regulations, it is bound to encounter opposition and resentment.

It is easy to understand the position of those who advocate compulsory voting, for there are many times when some means of bringing people to a realization of their duty is felt necessary, but it doesn't always follow that it can be accomplished by force. That may be, and experience shows that it often is, the first thing thought of, but it is believed that more can be accomplished through the channels of education.

As a matter of fact, it is believed that the time spent in promoting such legislation might much better be devoted to making provisions for absentee voting. That would give those who can and desire to vote a chance to do so, when under present conditions they are deprived of their right, if due to any one of many circumstances, they are unable to be in their home city on election day.

SPAIN'S GOVERNMENT

For the past seven years Spain has had the dictatorship of Premier De Rivera on trial. It hasn't gone along without a hitch but it has managed to continue control. That all was not satisfactory has been indicated, but when it came to a decision as to whether he should continue or resign, the premier submitted the question to the army and navy. Knowing that dependence must be placed upon these branches of the government if the dictatorship continued, the premier knew what to do when the reply he got declared continuance inadvisable. His regime had been tried and found wanting. Resignation was the only thing and thus ends Spain's dictatorship.

It was back in 1923 that General De Rivera managed to get control of the government. He held the reins of government firmly and thus was able to demonstrate to the Spanish people what a dictatorship meant. It was in contrast to other regimes. He had his way, parties were forbidden and what the premier said was done. He maintains that many of the things were necessary and probably he can furnish proof for much of it, but it cannot be overlooked that those who were depended upon to keep him as dictator are now the ones who have told him the time has come to end it.

The resignation means that Spain is going to get along without a dictator. There will be the reorganization of parties, the selection of a new parliament and Spain will return to the conditions of other days. All might be looked upon complacently by the resigned premier, since he could claim that much had been done for Spain that was needed and could not be accomplished in any other way than by the method he adopted, except for the fact that his bitter enemy has been chosen as premier. It means that tactics quite contrary to his are going to be employed and that the resumption of constitutional government will be in the hands of a general who was impeached for a bad war record to years before the dictatorship.

Spain is headed for government changes which will increase the variety which it has experienced, but which the people of that country seem to take philosophically, whatever it happens to be.

FEDERAL TAXES

Anticipating government surpluses goes on from year to year. There are those who are prepared to make all kinds of wild guesses and expect that expenditures and tax reductions will be based thereon. Others who have had experience with the uncertainties of such estimates are prepared to proceed more cautiously.

For the last six months in 1929, or the first half of the present fiscal year, the federal tax receipts showed a total of nearly $190,000,000 more than they did during the same period of 1928. That is particularly encouraging and makes it possible to contemplate the payments during the coming six months with less uncertainty as to what effect the slowing up of business may have upon the next two quarterly payments. Inasmuch as the last half of 1929 was in excess of the same period in the previous year, it is not improbable that the first of 1930 will do as well as the first of 1929, if not better.

It is quite certain that the head of the treasury department is convinced that there will be a substantial surplus at the end of the fiscal year, closing with June, or he would not have recommended the tax reduction which has already been approved by congress and the president and will be applied to the income taxes based upon the incomes for the past year. This will mean that approximately $160,000,000 will not be taken from the taxpayers by the government. It is a special reduction to apply simply to 1929 incomes, a reduction that will be appreciated. That it will not be continued in that form is possible, but if federal income reaches the point where further tax reduction upon a different basis seems advisable it is to be expected that it will be provided. Debt reduction is still desirable but with good business we have got to the point where additional attention may be given to reducing federal taxes.

BRITISH JUSTICE

How differently crime is tackled and justice administered in England is well illustrated in the case of C. C. Hatry, who was not so well known six months ago but who has been much in the eyes of the world in the past few months.

Hatry was prominent in financial and industrial activities in England. He carried on his operations on a large scale and not until they came to the point of collapse during the latter part of the year, with a disturbing influence in other countries, was there anything but the highest regard for him. That did not prevent a thorough investigation, the prompt arrest, the bringing of the charge of forgery, his imprisonment until he was presented to plead and his sentence on a plea of guilty to 14 years in prison, two years of which are to be at hard labor. With him were three others who received smaller sentences, ranging from three to seven years.

All this affair has been cleared up in a matter of a few weeks, whereas had it transpired in this country it is probable that it would be delayed for an indefinite period until the evidence or the witnesses could be lost and then carried on through appeals for a matter of years.

The Hatry case was one that involved something like $40,000,000, one big enough to cause a prolonged legal fight, but it didn't stand in the way of such a quick and effective presentation of the evidence as to cause the accused to recognize the importance of changing his plea to guilty and getting the full penalty for his offense.

The manner in which the laws are applied in England must convince those who have thought they could disregard them with impunity that they have made a grave mistake. Certainly it cannot have other than a salutary effect upon others. Under the British administration of the law crime isn't encouraged through leniency.

THE WORLD AT FIFTEEN

"Not orange blossoms," Ernestine was insisting almost before she got through the door. "They're utterly common, I shall carry white orchids or something that is expensive and has to be shipped from a long distance!

"Why," she came out of her trance long enough to explain in answer to startled queries, "I'm talking about my wedding, of course! If I can't be married in church and have a perfect crush of people I am going to be absolutely heartbroken. I've seen three church weddings and the last one just decided me forever and ever.

"Why," she came out of her trance "to being married at her own home where she knows every stick and stone and cranny and has been scolded by her mother hundreds of times for not dusting them thoroughly is just weak-minded. What is there romantic about coming down the same stairs you've used coming down late to breakfast for years? I should expect to be met at the bottom by bacon and eggs on a platter at least.

"If there is any time in your life when you want to be romantic and up in the clouds it is when you are getting married, and I know that the sight of a fat aunt or a cousin I'd fought with all my life standing under the old ivy basket by the window, where it has hung ever since I can remember would send me into hysterics. If they were in a church pew they would sort of shrink into something strange and different.

"The more I consider it the more thrilling it seems that it would be to float down an aisle with people packed in solidly on both sides, and tall candelabra at every pew and with bunches of white lilies tied on them—and your mother sobbing as you went by and organ music coming from every direction—only I never in the world would have Kathleen for my maid of honor.

"She tried to get me to promise to exchange—that is, if she were my maid of honor I was to be hers, but I saw right through that little scheme. You see, nobody ever would choose Kathleen out of a clear sky, but somebody might if she thought she would get a chance herself to be a maid of honor. I don't think Kathleen has any chance whatever of getting married. She isn't appealing enough.

"I told her one day about lifting her eyes slowly looking up through her lashes—you know—and she nearly had a fit. She said when she wanted to look at a person she just looked straight at 'em—and I should say she does. Why, it just makes a boy sort of squirm when Kathleen stares at him in that grimlet fashion. Absolutely nobody could get sentimental about a girl who acted like that. But she wouldn't listen to reason.

"And I've decided about my wedding dress. Of course it will be an evening wedding, so I shall wear a sleeveless gown with the bodice made tight and slim. White velvet, I guess, though perhaps wedding-ring satin would be more girlish. And the skirt is going to be tier after tier, about a million of them, of narrow ruffles of white tulle. Something like that wedding dress in the last scene of the movie I was so crazy about with the bride coming down a big central stair all fluffy white like a ruffled peony.

"I thought the way she kept her lashes downcast was simply adorable. And eight bridesmaids. If you have that many and an equal number of men it makes the parties beforehand so much more fun and besides that it always starts romances between the maids and the ushers and then you can go and visit them afterward and they will be so grateful to you that they'll give you a grand time.

"I know how I shall have my wedding pictures taken, too. I think those posed before the family mantel-piece looking sort of sweet and dreamy are tiresome. I shall have my veil fluffed out sort of cloudlike around my head with a dim background fading into nothing and shall keep my mind on something real serious like which pattern of china I am going to take. I think a bride should look very happy, but sort of grownup and dignified—huh?"

Ernestine stared wide-eyed at a question put to her and then her face turned blank.

"The bridegroom?" she echoed. "Mercy, no—I haven't decided on him at all. Why, what's that got to do with the wedding?"—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29— Representative Underhill of Massachusetts has rediscovered the origin of the word "bunkum."

It is in the Congressional Record, he finds, and at this late date he has set out to "debunk" that publication—at least, the house part of it.

And when you consider figures Underhill submitted to the house, he seems justified. He finds that the appendix of the Record, which is the receiving vault for speeches and other matter never delivered on the floor, aggregates in volume 33 per cent of the bulk of the stenographic report of the actual proceedings of the house.

"We hear the word 'bunkum' frequently," Underhill said. "That word had its origin in this body. When a gentleman from Buncombe county was chided for a speech he was making on the floor of the house, he stated he was talking for Buncombe county. Now, I think we had better 'debunk' the Record.

Call For Operation

"There is an appendix in the human body on which frequently you have to operate. The appendix of the Record is not in healthy condition."

Underhill also took issue with insertion of the word "applause" in speeches actually made on the floor. Usually, he said, "apple sauce" would be a more fitting way to describe what happened.

"A man may make a speech and, unknown, plant somebody down in the body of the chamber," Underhill explained. "When he comes to a point that he wants to emphasize, his little man down there gets the wink and supplies the 'apple sauce.'"

And the house appreciated the point so fully that the faithful Record shows the notation (laughter and applause) at this point in Underhill's own remarks. In fact, the house took to kidding him by applauding every time his voice dropped.

(Applause)

"If the house is taking this as a joke, I'm going to quit," he finally declared, and again the Record noted (applause).

One single embalming of unspoken matter in the appendix cost the government $13,169 to print, Underhill said. To exculpate the house without violating the rule against criticizing the senate, he added:

"I absolve the house of blame for that."

Asked if house members should not enjoy the same right to flood the Record and appendix as enjoyed at the other end of the capitol, the Massachusetts member said:

"If you want the house to enjoy the same estimate that is held by the public generally all over this country at the present time of some other legislative bodies, why, all right."

Which, if you think it over, is going pretty far in speaking out about the ways of the other half—and by no means the better half in house eyes—of congress.

It shows what can be done inside the rules, and again the Record noted (laughter and applause). Or was it "apple sauce"?

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

A Breakfast and a Temper Lost

Some people find their greatest joy
When they their neighbors can annoy.
—Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

Blacky the Crow is black-coated and some people think he is black-hearted. But this is not true. Blacky is not nearly as black as he is painted. Those who like him least have to admit that he is smart. Yes, sir, they have to admit that Blacky the Crow is smart. In fact, most of them will agree that there is no smarter person in all the Green Forest than Blacky the Crow.

Blacky knows all about Chatterer the Red Squirrel

Now, Blacky the Crow gets up early in the morning. He is a brave enough fellow by daylight, but he is anything but brave after dark. So as soon as it begins to get dark Blacky hides himself away where the big eyes of Hooty the Owl will not find him. Then, just as soon as the Black Shadows begin to leave the Green Forest in the morning, Blacky is out looking for breakfast and mischief.

Blacky knows all about Chatterer the Red Squirrel. He knows his habits, just as Blacky knows the habits of all the other little people in the Green Forest. When any one of them does anything unusual, Blacky is almost certain to notice it. So he had taken notice of the fact that Chatterer was scampering over to Farmer Brown's very early every morning.

"There must be a reason," said Blacky to himself. "That reason must have something to do with food. Chatterer isn't going over there every morning for nothing. I'll look into this. If Chatterer is getting a breakfast over there, perhaps I can get a breakfast over there."

So Blacky followed Chatterer one morning. Chatterer didn't know he was being followed. If he had noticed Blacky Crow at all he didn't give him any special thought. The only thought in Chatterer's mind was to get over to that corncrib and see if Timmy the Flying Squirrel had left anything for him. He did not notice Blacky the Crow when the latter alighted on the roof of Farmer Brown's barn. Blacky said nothing. His sharp eyes watched Chatterer. He saw Chatterer run across and under Farmer Brown's corncrib. Then he saw Chatterer begin to pick up something and eat it. Blacky simply spread his wings and sailed right down there. Chatterer was so intent on eating corn that he didn't see Blacky until the latter alighted right beside him.

If ever there was a startled squirrel, that one was Chatterer. You see, at first he didn't know whether it was Blacky or one of the Hawk family or one of the Owl family. He didn't wait to find out. He scampered for the nearest tree and dodged around the trunk. Blacky chuckled and began to pick up corn.

When Chatterer peeked around and saw who it was, he lost his temper completely. My, how his tongue flew! He called Blacky "a black robber" and "a black thief" and everything else he could think of. He even ventured halfway back to where Blacky was, all the time scolding as fast as his tongue could go and jerking his tail as only Chatterer can. Blacky didn't pay him the slightest attention and this made Chatterer angrier than ever. Blacky simply went on picking up the corn as fast as he could until the last piece had disappeared. Then he turned to Chatterer. "Caw!" said Blacky. "I'm much obliged to you for showing me a good breakfast, Chatterer. Caw!" Then he spread his wings and flew away.

As for Chatterer, his day was spoiled. He had lost his breakfast and he had lost his temper and for a while it didn't look as if he would get either of them back.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Milk

Mr. Editor: Is it not clean pure milk from healthy cows and produced under sanitary conditions, that the public want, should have and will soon demand? Is not the proper housing of cattle, with direct light, correct ventilation, suitable drainage, pure drinking water, a system that will cool milk quickly, cleanliness, general sanitation, etc., necessary to the production of such milk?

Are not the consuming public always ready to pay the price for clean and wholesome foodstuffs? Why not a substantial premium on quality milk that would stimulate the dairymen's interest and make possible such improvements? Would they not appreciate an incentive rather than a command?

Would not conditions as mentioned above, serve to destroy practically all cause for tubercular and most other diseases of cattle?

It was my privilege, and pleasure, to spend a week end last summer with a New York dairyman who was a producer of Grade A milk. This man told me that his premium check for quality alone for the month previous was $125.

Although I have no cattle, I am interested in the farmers and their welfare, if for no reason other than that their prosperity is necessary to that of all industries and to the progress of our country as a whole.

Stomach Troubles Headache and Dizziness

If your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength, get nervous and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

For 10 years Tanlac has restored to health and activity thousands who suffered just as you do—many of them right here in town. For instance, here is a letter from Mr. Nicholas Buynak, who says: "Indigestion was carrying me down at an alarming rate. One time it had me laid up in bed for six weeks. Tanlac has me eating, sleeping, and feeling fine and I don't believe it has an equal."

Let Tanlac do for you what it did for this sufferer. It corrects the most obstinate digestive troubles—relieves gas, pains in the stomach and bowels. It restores appetite, vigor and sound sleep.

Tanlac is made of roots, barks and herbs. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you. Accept no substitute.

YOUR HEALTH

Play.

By Edward Livingston Hunt, M. D. New York.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

To preserve their balance and to keep the even tenor of their way, nervous people must work and rest and play. Each of these three is important but each must be proportioned properly to the other.

Play means intelligent and constructive amusement. It must please and at the same time improve. One child playing with blocks soon tires, while another acquires dexterity, learns facts, and finds out how to reason. It is not what you play, but how you play that is important. There must be play for the mind and play for the body. Clever people combine both.

There are many different kinds of mental play—games, cards, crossword puzzles, charades. The more substantial and more stimulating are private theatricals, chess and auction bridge. Of all mental play, reading is the best. People should acquire the habit of reading. To read daily is to be happy and wise—it is a tonic for the old and young and will add many hours of happiness to life. Cards were made for nervous people; they combine concentration with skill, and occupation with pleasure. And on some chosen few nature has bestowed gifts so that they can play at painting, drawing and singing.

Nervous people do not realize why they have difficulty in concentrating, thinking and reasoning. It is largely because the brain has not been properly trained, is not properly used, and is not being cared for in a proper way. Women especially fail to realize this; they tend to take too much for granted and forget that the brain needs care just as much as the body. No day should pass without our making a sincere effort to add to our knowledge and our logic. In this way and in this way only can we get most out of life and make the greatest return for life.

Play for the body is unlimited; it can be found to suit every taste, every purse and every age. Tennis for the young, golf for the middle aged and croquet for the old; farming for men and gardening for women; walking for all. Nature even provides play as the climate changes—swimming in the summer and skating in the winter. The great advantage of physical play is that it not only affords interest and occupation but also improves the general health and stimulates the circulation. Competitive play has a double advantage, for sports and games in which two or more play add to the physical exercise the spirit of competition and in this way stimulate and bring advantages to both the mind and body.

Nature intends us to play, and has placed in our hands innumerable toys and nurseries in which to use them. All outdoors is ours, and pastimes galore. Feeble and lacking is the life that fails to play, play regularly, and play hard.

Stories That Recall Others

Dad Pays

A man was discussing his income tax report in the presence of a young guest. The lad said with much pride: "My dad sure has to pay a big income tax on my dog. He catches so many rabbits."

Mixed

A four-year-old sometimes forgets his manners without his mother's help in remembering. One Sunday at dinner he could scarcely wait until grace was said, he was so hungry.

"Pass the bread," he ordered.

"If—," suggested his mother, trying to teach him to say, "if you please." But what it suggested was his prayers, so he said, "If I should die before I wake."

Many persons who received holiday greeting cards from the President and Mrs. Hoover had them framed. About 300 were sent. Each card showed a scene around the white house grounds. The pictures were etched in green or sepia ink and were made by a Washington photographer. Signatures of President and Mrs. Hoover appeared along with greetings.

POETRY

To The Modern Man

From mysteries of the past
The future is [illegible]
The cities, crowns and gods
Like shadows to a tide.

Realities come and go
Like shadows on a pool—
The leaves are for the wise man,
The shadows for the fool.

Out of the moment now
Rises the god to-be,
The light upon his brow
Is from eternity.

Leave dreaming to the fool
And take things as they are;
All things are in yourself—
Who stand upon a star.

And look upon the stars,
And yearn with deepening breath—
All things are in yourself,
Love and life and death.

—John Hall Wheelock.

A Prayer For The Kitchen Wall

My labor make me glad!
May I have eyes to see
Beauty in this plain room
Where I am called to be;
The scent of clean blue smoke,
The old pans polished bright,
The kettle's chuckling joke,
The red flames' lovely light.
May I have wit to take
The joy that round me lies
Whether I brew or bake,
My labor make me wise!

My labor leave me sweet!
When twilight folds the earth,
May I have grace to smile,
And count the day's good worth.
An old song in my soul
And quiet in my breast,
To welcome tranquilly
The night's old gift of rest
And gather strength to face
Tomorrow's busy strife.
Here in this humble place,
My labor bless my life!

—By Nancy Byrd Turner.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Teacher—What is the meaning of the Knight of the Bath?

Tommy (impetuously)— Saturday night—Detroit News.

Poor Golfer—Well, how do you like my game?

Caddy—I suppose it's all right, but I still prefer golf.—Montreal Star.

"How did you like that amateur quartet on last night's program?"

"Great! They started fighting and refused to sing."—Brooklyn Eagle.

Disappointed Convict (back on the rock pile after several years)—"T'ain't altered a bit, 'as it. I thought after all these years they'd have introduced some labor-saving devices."—London Opinion.

Anastasia—Last night Philip gave me his heart.

Anathema—Well, he gave you damaged goods, dearie, because the night before he told me I'd broken it when I refused him.—The Pathfinder.

"Look, there's Mrs. Ponsonby-ffollott, wearing that frock of hers which always call 'the upper ten.'"

"Why on earth do you call it that, Henry?"

"Because one can see the upper ten vertebrae."—London Opinion.

Editor—Well, what happened to McTavish?

Reporter—Someone told him he could get his pants pressed free by letting a steamroller run over them.

Editor—Why did that kill him?

Reporter—They forgot to tell him to take them off.—Boston Transcript.

Two young men had been behaving in a disorderly manner at a Revivalist meeting, and the missioner asked them:

"Why did you come to this meeting?"

"To see miracles performed," answered one of them.

Whereupon they were summarily ejected. "We don't perform miracles," explained the missioner, "but—we cast out devils!"—Exchange.

What is believed to be the first seal ever seen in Chesapeake bay has been shot and killed at Worton point, near Chestertown, Md. Benjamin Lively, who was returning from a duck hunting trip, saw a black head arise from the water not far from shore. The seal came thirty feet nearer land before Lively shot it with his duck-shooting gun. The seal, which was a male, measured fifty-two inches from nose to tail, and when dry was of a silver gray color.

Tokio police were so shocked by a dramatized version of the German novel "All Quiet on the Western Front" that they censored seventy-six passages and three whole scenes before they would allow it to be presented by the Tsukiji Little Theater Company there. A police board censors all motion pictures and spoken dramas presented in Japan. Remarque's famous novel was translated into Japanese only a few months ago and already has gone through fifty-five printings. The novel as translated was not censored in Japan either in the English or Japanese version.

Feeling the call of the south, John Nagelschmidt, Jr., of Pittsfield, Mass., says the Boston Globe, bought a car of uncertain years in a January clearance sale for $5 and set out for Florida. En route, cash to the amount of 41 cents was discovered at different times under the front seat, where it had jingled from the pockets of previous owners. This reduced the actual cost of his car, to $1.59. The car rendered transportation for 941 miles, but collapsed entirely at Charleston, S. C. Nagelschmidt continued his journey without any considerable outlay to Daytona, Fla., where he received a shiny dime from John D. Rockefeller, Sr., which reduced the liabilities for the old car to only $1.39.

Heals Eczema
In 7 Days or Less

Here's a surgeon's wonderful prescription now dispensed by druggists at trifling cost, that will do more towards helping you get rid of unsightly spots and skin disease than anything you've ever used.

Not only does this great healing antiseptic oil promote rapid and healthy healing in open sores and wounds, but boils, abscesses and ulcers are almost immediately relieved and cleanly healed.

In skin diseases its action is little less than magical. The itching of eczema is instantly stopped; the eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of barbers' itch, salt rheum and other irritating and unsightly skin troubles.

You can obtain Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) in the original bottle at any modern drug store. It is safe to use, and failure in any of the ailments noted above is rare indeed.

BAILEY JUMPS AHEAD IN WEST SIDE PINOCHLE

A. J. Bailey, moving up from fifth place, took the lead Wednesday night in the West Side Pinochle club tournament, displacing Parker who dropped back to the place vacated by Bailey. Bailey made an unusually high score for the evening, 8,590. The scores Wednesday evening:

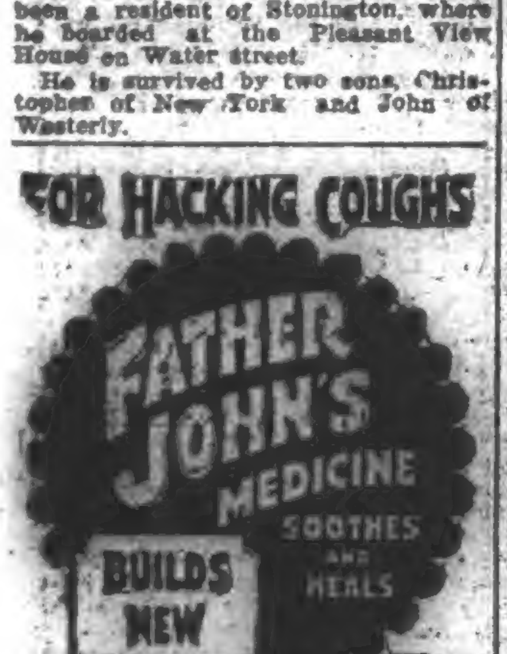
DIES SUDDENLY IN STONINGTON RESTAURANT

James Connolly, aged 58, of Water street, Stonington, died suddenly there at 11:30 Wednesday morning in the Coffee Cup restaurant on Pearl street. Death was caused by a sudden heart attack. Mr. Connolly was born in Ireland, but had spent most of his life in this country and for several years had been a resident of Stonington, where he boarded at the Pleasant View House on Water street.

He is survived by two sons, Christopher of New York and John of Westerly.



Why Few
Are Fat

Excess fat has been disappearing fast in late years. So fast that excess fat is the exception now. You see that in every circle.

That change is largely due to the discovery that excess fat is largely the result of a gland weakness. A gland whose secretion helps turn food to fuel. So modern physicians, in treating obesity, seek to combat this cause.

Their method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. Now almost everyone has slender friends to show them the results.

Go do what they did—try Marmola. All druggists supply it at $1 a box, and a book in each box tells you how and why it acts.

ALL SLATER MUSEUM EXHIBITS FREE TO PUBLIC

During the present exhibition of European peasant embroidery, at Slater museum, Mrs. Osias Dodge, director of the museum, has been called upon again and again to answer the inquiry whether the public were allowed to come and whether it were free.

In answer it can be stated that all exhibitions in Slater museum are free and the public is cordially invited to them.

Confusion has also arisen from the fact that the exhibitions are in Converse art gallery. Some people, it seems, do not know that the Converse art gallery adjoins and is entered from Slater museum. Mrs. Dodge has also been asked if there were evening hours for working people. So far it has not been found advisable to keep the building open in the evening, but it is hoped by the museum management that working people will find it possible to come during the Saturday and Sunday hours, which are from 2 to 5 in the afternoon. The needlework exhibit will be open this Saturday and Sunday and through to Thursday of next week.

SECOND SCOUT TROOP FOR ST. PATRICK'S PARISH

At the meeting of Troop 5, Boy Scouts of St. Patrick's church Tuesday night, it was decided to form another troop, owing to the crowded conditions in Troop 5. John Murphy, teacher and track coach at Norwich Free Academy is to be scoutmaster of the new troop. Mr. Murphy has had valuable experience in this kind of work in New York.

The first troop to be formed by St. Patrick's parish was Troop 5, organized by Rev. Rocco I. Guerriero, who was in charge of the boys until he was transferred to Bridgeport. Then Rev. John J. Reilly was assigned to Norwich and has continued the efficient work of Father Guerriero up to the present, with John Hill as scoutmaster of Troop 5. The boys have advanced rapidly to places of leadership in the troop. At the next Court of Honor, one of the boys, Nicholas Tarrant, is to become an Eagle Scout; he deserves much commendation for his good and faithful work in the troop. It is hoped that the new troop will get under way by Tuesday next.

FUNERALS

Nazzareno Paradisi

At 8.15 o'clock Wednesday morning the funeral of Nazzareno Paradisi was held at his home, No. 131 Thames street, with a large attendance of relatives and friends and at 9 o'clock there was a mass of requiem at St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Galvin, celebrant. Mrs. Bernard C. Coyle presided at the organ and rendered Chopin's Funeral March at the recessional. At the offertory Roderick F. Sullivan sang De Profundis, and, as the waiting hymn, Jesus, Lover of My Soul. Abide With Me was the recessional number.

Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery and Rt. Rev. Msgr. Michael H. May conducted the committal service. The bearers were George Tretorio, Frank and Jerry Ferri, Caesare Conti, Fedali Sevelino and Hermando Metali. There was a wealth of very beautiful floral tributes and among those present was a delegation from the United Italian society. Undertakers Cummings and Ring had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Mrs. Elmer J. Nolan

With many relatives and friends present the funeral of Mrs. Elmer J. Nolan was held Wednesday morning at 8:20 o'clock at the home of her sister, Mrs. Oscar Pellerin in Uncasville. Rev. James A. O'Meara was celebrant of a mass of requiem at St. John's church and Miss Helen Ganey presided at the organ. The choir sang Pie Jesu at the offertory and the waiting hymn was, Abide With Me. The burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Montville, and Rev. Fr. O'Meara conducted the committal service. The bearers were William Nolan of New York, Peter Campagna of Taftville, Gene Coty, Oscar Pellerin, Peter Millard and James Appecilo of Montville. Hourigan Bros. were in charge.

Nicholas Macht

The funeral of Nicholas Macht was held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at his home in Sprague, with a large attendance of relatives and friends. Rev. Elder Frenberg, of New York city, conducted the service at the home and also the committal service at the grave in Lovett cemetery. There were many beautiful floral tributes. The bearers were: Renny Roiling, Samuel Taylor, Charles, George, John and Henry Macht. Undertaker George G. Grant had charge of the funeral arrangements.

George T. Backus

With relatives and friends present from Waterbury, Worcester, Boston and Middletown, the funeral of George Tyler Backus, late of Worcester, was held at the home of his nieces, the Misses Osgood, No. 1 Rockwell street, Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The service at the home was conducted by Rev. Thomas Richey, rector of Christ Episcopal church, who also conducted the committal service at the grave in City cemetery, Oak street. There were many beautiful floral tributes and the casket was covered with an exquisite blanket of asparagus fern, calla lillies, white hyacinths and violets given by the American Wire and Steel Co., of Worcester, with which concern Mr. Backus had been associated for 40 years.

The bearers were Robert R. Wallace of Worcester, representing the American Steel and Wire Co., L. T. Shipps of New Britain, Fred Clark of Middletown and Ralph Emerson of Boston. The Henry Allen & Son Co. had charge of the funeral arrangements.

JONATHAN TRUMBULL HIGHWAY TRAVERSES HISTORIC SECTION

The Jonathan Trumbull highway, which has been a dream for so many years, is a reality at last. The first step in making the dream come true was the putting of such a highway on the trunk line system, which was done by the highway commissioner several years ago in response to many arguments brought forth by residents of Columbia and Lebanon, the two towns which would most benefit from such a highway.

This having been accomplished, the next thing was to get the project started, which was done much sooner than it would otherwise have been, by the two towns agreeing to put their state aid money towards its construction. The work was finally started early last spring and continued until the highway itself is now complete, with some work still remaining to be done on the shoulders and fences. Work was stopped for the winter the last night of the old year and will be resumed in the spring.

About eight miles of new road in the towns of Columbia and Lebanon and a short distance in the limits of Andover connect with state road already built at either end, making a direct road to Hartford for Columbia and Lebanon, cutting off several miles. Some of the old milestones of stage coach days are still standing along this section of the highway.

For Norwich Traffic

This new highway will divert much of the Hartford-Norwich traffic, which formerly passed through Willimantic, it being the most direct route between these two points. A franchise was granted some time ago to the New England Transportation company, which will doubtless operate buses in the near future on this new route.

It is expected that traffic on this new section of road will be very heavy, not only being used by Lebanon and Columbia, but also for through travel. Hundreds of people will travel over it in the near future, passing through the towns of Columbia and Lebanon, which will be new and undiscovered territory for most of them. Columbia is already "on the map" for the many Hartford people who visit the beautiful lake shores in the summer. Columbia has also become more widely known in recent years since the completion of the New Haven to Willimantic road which crosses the new highway at Columbia Green.

Historic Columbia

The travelers coming from Hartford over the new highway for the first times leave the Hartford-Willimantic road at Lindholm's corner, continuing straight over the hill. They will get a most interesting view of Columbia lake from the top of Woodward hill, then passing by the shores of the lake to Columbia green. This green and the village of Columbia are said by many to make one of the prettiest small towns in Connecticut. There are many points of interest here. On the left is the beautiful colonial type church, built in 1832, the chapel, town hall, and Center school house, used first by Eleazer Wheelock for his Indian charity school. On the right is the Saxton B. Little free library, which houses over 7,000 volumes, and is a most efficient library for a town the size of Columbia. At the corner on the right is the old stage coach inn of Revolutionary days Columbia being on the Boston Post road. At the left is the residence of Eleazer Wheelock, early pastor of Columbia church and founder of Dartmouth college.

Continuing south, the traveler next passes through Chestnut Hill, one of the most fertile farming sections of Columbia, and over the tracks of the Air Line railroad to Liberty Hill, a part of Lebanon. Here is an interesting old grave yard, with an epitaph that has been quoted widely. A certain citizen had several sons, and the epitaph states "He gave his eldest son a college education, the rest he brought up reputably."

Lebanon Church Controversy

Lebanon originally consisted of a number of pieces of land purchased by different persons at different times, afterward united into one town by the consent of the owners about 1700. Lebanon First church was founded the same year, and in 1716 a church was erected in Lebanon North Parish or "Lebanon Crank," as it was known, this section later becoming the separate town of Columbia, which was incorporated in 1804.

The present Congregational church in Lebanon was built of brick in 1807 on the site of the original church. At that time there was a great controversy and division of the society as to where the new church should be built. A majority favored erecting it about 300 rods north of its present location, which was bitterly opposed by the minority, about eighteen in number. They resisted the attempt to raze the old building and were fined as rioters. This was in 1804 and it was not until 1807 that the majority finally erected their church on the site which they had selected 300 rods north of the old church. The feeling was so bitter that they declared it a Baptist church and hired a Baptist preacher. The legislature favored the views of the minority and helped them build the present brick Congregational church on the old site. There are still two church bodies in Lebanon, Baptist and Congregational.

A visit to Lebanon's historic places of interest is well worth any one's while. It is doubtful if there is another town in Connecticut richer in revolutionary patriotism. Here was the home of Jonathan Trumbull (in whose honor the new highway is named), the loved friend of George Washington and Connecticut's war governor. He bears the distinction of being the only colonial governor who asserted the rights of his country as opposed to the king. He was known and bitterly denounced in England as "the rebel governor of Connecticut."

"Brother Jonathan"

Jonathan Trumbull was born in Lebanon in 1710 and went to Harvard college at the age of 13. He studied for the ministry and was about to start preaching at Colchester when his brother was lost at sea and Jonathan felt it his duty to return to Lebanon and assist his father in his store. It was this store that became the celebrated war office, where over 1,200 councils were held during the war.

Jonathan Trumbull became governor in 1769, holding the office until 1784. He was 65 years old at the beginning of the war.

All through the early months of the Revolution the calamitous state of American affairs did not dishearten Trumbull, but only spurred him on to still greater exertions for his country. In dark days when the army needed supplies, Washington would say, "we'll see what Brother Jonathan can do for us," and Brother Jonathan never failed. He received letters from General Washington thanking him for his timely assistance again and again. In August, 1776 Washington called on Trumbull to assist with soldiers in the defense of New York, and Trumbull published a letter, which so aroused Connecticut that 22 regiments, together with many companies of volunteers, were soon collected at New York. At one time over 500 men from Lebanon alone (which then included Columbia) were in the American army.

The harbor at New London received much attention as a port of preparation for American naval offense and defense, and the ships which were prepared and manned through Trumbull's efforts succeeded in warding off most of the threats by sea as well as inflicting much damage on the enemy.

Fifty barrels, weighing 108 pounds each, of powder were sent to Massachusetts for the defense of Bunker Hill, more than half the entire quantity used.

Responded to Lexington Call

Lebanon is proud of the fact that standing as she did on the direct road to Boston, 14th in population, 11th in taxable property, yet she was third in number of men who responded to the Lexington alarm.

Governor Trumbull's activities made him a marked man and he was equally guarded by a half a dozen men. During the night while the governor slept, a sentinel stood at the window overlooking the valley beyond in which the red coats were encamped. The house is still standing and used as a residence.

Governor Trumbull died in 1785, at the age of 75. Washington said to him: "A long and well spent life in the service of his country places Governor Trumbull among the first of patriots." It is said to note, that, as in the case of so many great men, Trumbull shortly before his death was the victim of jealousy, slander and political ferment.

Lebanon has other patriots of whom to be proud, the outstanding figure being William Williams, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and son-in-law of Governor Trumbull.

War Office Retained

The old war office in Lebanon is a most interesting place. It has been taken over by the Connecticut Society Sons of the American Revolution which has granted use of it to the Lebanon chapter of the D. A. R. It is full of interesting relics of the Revolution. The counter on which the horsemen sat waiting the commands of the governor, still show the marks of spurs. Many noted men of the time met there and were entertained at Governor Trumbull's home, among them being General Washington, Dr. Franklin, Jefferson, Rochambeau and Lafayette.

The Duke de Lauzen with his 500 mounted hussars, a regiment of Lafayette's French army in aid of the colonists, were quartered and had their barracks from December 1780, to June, 1781, on Lebanon green, where a mound and remains of their ovens are marked by a boulder with a bronze plate.

Connecticut Governors

Lebanon is also proud of the fact that she has supplied five governors for the state of Connecticut as follows—Jonathan Trumbull, 1769-1784; Jonathan Trumbull, Jr., 1798-1809; Clark Bissell, 1847-1849; Joseph Trumbull, 1849-1850; William Buckingham, 1858-1866. The old boast of the town was as follows: "We supply Norwich with butter and cheese, and the state with governors especially when they want good ones."

The Lebanon cemetery is just off the main highway, about half a mile on the road to North Franklin. It is believed that no cemetery in the country contains the ashes of more Revolutionary heroes than this one. The governor, one commissary general and a signer of the Declaration of Independence are buried there. The tomb off the Trumbull highway is of great interest, and it is here that the illustrious William Williams is also buried with the Trumbull family. In 1891 when the war office was purchased by the Sons of the American Revolution the doorway to the old tomb was bricked up and sealed for greater security because of its historical value.

Among the more modern buildings in Lebanon, the most prominent is the Lyman Memorial high school, given by the late George Lyman, a citizen of Lebanon.

After passing through Lebanon green, the Jonathan Trumbull highway soon emerges on the Willimantic-Norwich road and follows that route into this city.

WEST END SEWING CIRCLE HAD BIRTHDAY TABLE

The West End Community Sewing circle had an attendance of 26 when it met Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Albert Clayton of Champlin place. After the business meeting at which the president, Mrs. Edward Sourbier, presided, a luncheon of crabmeat salad, candle salad, rolls and coffee was served by the committee, Mrs. Frances Chapman, Mrs. Helen Corey, Mrs. Gertrude Alquist.

As it was the birthday of five of the members they had a special table with a birthday cake that was made by Mrs. Grace Latimer. Those thus honored were Mrs. Krause, Mrs. Gifford, Mrs. Harris, Miss Elsie Sourbier, and Mrs. Partridge.

A rising vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. Clayton for her hospitality, to Miss Ward and Mrs. C. Armstrong and to the committee. The meeting on Feb. 10 will be with Mrs. Rogers of Peck street.

Prizes at Hostess Whist

Fourteen tables were in play at the hostess whist Monday evening at the Elizabeth street school under the auspices of the West End Community association. Those taking the prizes were Miss Lillian Murphy, Mrs. Edward Sourbier, Mrs. Hargreaves, William Corey, Mr. Welman and C. Beetham.

The hostesses were Mrs. E. L. Latimer and Mrs. B. C. Hall. Refreshments were served.

NORWICH ELKS WIN GAMES FROM WILLIMANTIC

Norwich Elks won from their Willimantic brothers Wednesday night at the Elks home in this city by the score of 8 to 5 in the inter-lodge series in cards, pool and bowling. This night of play closed the first half of the series in which the Norwich, New London and Willimantic lodges are participating, but a new series is to be taken up at once.

Norwich won Wednesday night in bowling, pool and cribbage, but lost to the visitors in pinochle, pitch and forty-five.

In the duckpin match, the Norwich Elks took all three games and the total pinfall by the following scores:

Norwich

HENRY B. PLANT SAID TO BE ILL—PATIENT AT A NEW LONDON HOSPITAL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 29—It became known today that Henry Bradley Plant, millionaire resident of Branford House, Eastern Point, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital here. While it is understood that Mr. Plant is very ill, the impression is given out that his ailment is nothing more serious than a severe cold. The hospital authorities tonight expressed disclination to make any statement regarding the condition of the millionaire yachtsman, and his physician, a prominent local surgeon, was deaf to all calls.

Mr. Plant is the only child of the late Commodore Morton F. Plant, generous donor to many public enterprises in this city and Groton, whose shore estate was at Eastern Point and whose residence was on Fifth avenue, New York.

It is a coincidence that only a few months ago Mr. Plant made the New London hospital a gift of two up-to-date ambulances at the same time.

DIAMOND RING STOLEN FROM MITCHENDORF HOME

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 29—Mrs. Mitchendorf, 7 Franklin street, reported to the police this afternoon that during her absence from home a sneak thief had entered the house and stole a valuable diamond ring. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh is investigating the case.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Newton Smith

Mrs. Roxanna O. Smith, 76, widow of Newton Smith, died yesterday at her residence, at Lakes pond, Waterford. She is survived by three brothers, William Calkins, Waterford, Joseph W. Calkins, Montville and George Calkins of this city and by a sister, Mrs. Mary Coroley, also of New London. Mrs. Smith was born in Waterford April 27, 1853. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of this city.

Mrs. G. J. Racine, 34 Brewer street, complained to the police this afternoon that her Scotch collie had been stolen. Mrs. Racine said that she allowed two young girls to take the dog for an airing and that near the corner of Washington and Coit street, a man took the dog from the children and carried it away. Mrs. Racine requested that she be given assistance in recovering the animal, the color of which is sable and white.

The clothing and tailoring store of Fosconi, Leandri & McCormick, located in the Burckle block, 36 Bank street, was damaged by fire last night, the greater part of the loss being to stock and caused by smoke and water. When the fire was discovered it was burning briskly in the rear of the store and that part used by the tailors. An alarm was sent in from Box 33, corner of State and Bank streets, which was responded to by Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and four pieces of apparatus. The interior of the tailor room was a mass of flames when the firemen arrived and a stream of water from the rear and another stream from the front entrance were poured into the building causing the quick subduing of the fire. The blaze originated when the last of the employes in leaving the store failed to observe a gas stove burning. A short time afterwards the heat from the stove caused clothing to be ignited and in a short time the entire interior of the rear of the store was ablaze. Mr. McCormick is a resident of Norwich.

WEDDINGS

Fisk-Hatton

Howard Wilbur Fisk, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick D. Fisk, of West Pleasant street and Miss Emily B. Hatton, daughter of Mrs. Charlotte Hatton, 291 Vauxhall street, were married at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Second Congregational church in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the church. The best man was Harold E. Carpenter of Norwich. Miss Evelyn Hatton, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid. Mr. Fisk is a pharmacist employed by Starr Brothers. His bride is a musician. She wore a gown of aquamarine and tan, wore a tan hat and carried a bridal bouquet of white roses, gardenias and freesias. Miss Evelyn Hatton wore flesh color with hat to match and carried afternoon tea roses. Roger N. Daboll played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin as the bridal party approached the altar and after the ceremony played the Mendelssohn wedding march. After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother for about 50 guests.

Mitchell-Jackson

Samuel P. Mitchell, formerly of Lyme, now residing at Malvern, Ohio, and Miss Jessie M. Jackson, Flanders, were married last night at the parsonage of the Second Congregational church by Rev. Dr. J. Beveridge Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. William M. Darrow, 186 Ocean avenue and the former's mother, Mrs. Sarah Darrow have gone to Florida for the balance of the winter.

McGarry-Walsh

The marriage of Miss Mary Adelaide Walsh, daughter of Mrs. Katherine Walsh of 63 Lincoln avenue and Attorney John J. McGarry, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John J. McGarry of 303 Williams street, was solemnized this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley who also officiated at the nuptial mass which followed. Miss Walsh was attired in a gown of brown chiffon with which she wore a corsage of talisman roses. Her hat was of brown bakuk straw. Her sister, Mrs. Helen Malone, who was matron of honor, wore a silk print in a combination of black and chartreuse, with hat to match and a corsage of pink roses. J. Edward Murray of this city, was best man. After the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother to members of the two families. Attorney and Mrs. McGarry left for New York and Washington. On their return they will reside at the Marquise apartments in West street. The bride was secretary to Judge Alfred Coit and Attorney McGarry prior to her marriage. Attorney McGarry is deputy judge of the New London police court. He is a graduate of Bulkeley high school and Georgetown university and studied law at Yale university law school.

HOT ASHES IN BARREL CAUSE OF GROTON HOUSE LOSS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 29—One Groton residence was completely destroyed by fire and another was badly damaged this morning, when the worst blaze Groton's fire department has been called upon to quell, attacked the homes of Benjamin and William Kay, Elderkin avenue. Benjamin Kay's residence, together with its contents is a total loss, while the damage to the home of William Kay will be several thousands of dollars.

The fire originated from hot ashes deposited in a wooden barrel in the cellar of the home of Benjamin Kay. The barrel became ignited, bursting into flames which communicated with the woodwork. The fire made its way to the partitions before it was discovered and an alarm was rung in. The borough department responded, but by the time the firemen reached the burning house it was doomed to destruction for the flames had made their way through the structure to the roof. A brisk wind prevailed and fanned the fire into fury. So fierce was the blaze that the residence of William Kay became ignited and a call was sent in for assistance. The Benjamin Kay house being doomed, the firemen gave all their attention to saving the residence of William Kay. The former house and its contents was but a mass of smouldering embers and the other house was badly damaged, being partially gutted.

Another automobile driver lost his right to drive today because of the edict of Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel, who suspended the license of George Lund, a member of the crew of the submarine O-8, Submarine base.

Harold H. and Nellie M. Dunbar have sold a house and lot on Cape Ann court to George E. and Adeline M. Colombe.

Gregory C. Davidson has sold a house and lot, corner of Crocker street and Lower Boulevard, to L. B. Davidson.

FREDERICK FINED $400—HELPER PARTS WITH $100

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 29—Three men and a woman were in the police court today charged with violation of the liquor law.

Victor Frederick, 83 Walbach street and John Bartolucci, of the same address, were jointly charged, the former on two counts and the latter on one count. Both pleaded guilty. Frederick was fined $200 and costs on each of the counts, while Bartolucci was fined $100 and costs. Frederick and Bartolucci and Eugene Gianetti were arrested several days ago when the police conducted a series of raids. At the Walbach street house, Frederick, Bartolucci and Gianetti were doing business and a large quantity of beer and whiskey was found, together with implements for the manufacture and bottling of the beer. All of the liquor and equipment were seized and the three men were arrested. The following day when the cases were called in the police court, Gianetti was discharged and the cases of Frederick and Bartolucci, who is employed by the former, were continued until today. Frederick has been arrested several times during the past year as has been Gianetti, who was employed by the home-brew manufacturer.

$400 From Pozzello

Joseph Pozzello, 73 Woodbridge street, was charged on two counts and pleaded guilty. He was fined $200 and costs on each count. Pozzello's residence was raided Thursday last and there was found a considerable quantity of beer and liquor.

CONDUCTOR H. M. DARLING ILL WITH PNEUMONIA

Harry M. Darling, 137 Montauk avenue, one of the most widely known conductors in the passenger service of the New Haven railroad, is critically ill with pneumonia at Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Mr. Darling contracted a severe cold about a week ago and Sunday, when pneumonia developed, he was taken to the hospital. His condition today is such as to cause his family and relatives much concern.

Collapses at Station

Fred Fox of Quaker Hill, employed as a trucker at the pier of the Central Vermont railroad, suffered a fainting spell at the union station. Fox collapsed on the platform and suffered minor cuts and bruises. He was taken to police headquarters by Patrolman Frank Philopena and was given emergency treatment, then went to his home.

Sues Husband For $35,000

Mrs. Angelina Messer today brought suit and in a drastic manner by which she seeks to compel her husband, Arthur Messer, to provide adequately for her support. She sued in the sum of $35,000 and property owned by the defendant on Jefferson avenue has been attached. The case is returnable before the next term of the superior court. Messer and his wife have been estranged for several weeks.

Tufonia Piscatella reported to the police this morning that when he was leaving from his home he discovered that during the night a malicious person had deposited the contents of a barrel containing swill on the front veranda. Piscatella also reported that a quart bottle of milk that had been intended for the consumption by his family had been stolen.

GUEST SAVED GARAGE FEE BUT HAD HIS CAR STOLEN

A Ford coupe owned by Robert Hanna, 58 Worthen street, West Springfield, Mass., was stolen from its place of parking last night and has not been covered. The car carries Massachusetts registration, 206687. Hanna was a guest at the Crocker House last night and instead of driving the auto to a garage, he parked it on Union street. When he went to where he had left the auto today he discovered it missing and reported the theft at police headquarters.

YOUTHFUL THIEVES FEEL SEVERITY OF THE LAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 29.—The police believe that they have broken up a gang of youthful thieves who have been guilty of numerous robberies throughout the city for several years. This morning, when Cornelius McCarthy, 18, of 39 Howard street; Edward Klimberg, 17, of 53 Shaw street; Stephen Delaporta, 19, of Archer court; Joseph Mugovero, 17, of 23 Belden street, and Rosario Rinardo, 18, of 36 Grand street, were in the police court charged with breaking and entering and theft, Judge Daniel M. Cronin handed out severe punishment to three of the accused. Rinardo was sentenced to the reformatory at Cheshire and Mugovero and McCarthy got a similar penalty, but execution of the sentence was suspended. The case of Klimberg was continued until April 26 and Delaporta was found not guilty. Rinardo has a police court record, for he has been arrested seven times, five of the charges being for theft.

The youths recently forced an entrance to the storehouse of the estate of the J. E. Fitzgerald Co., corner of Belden street and Belden court, where a quantity of brass and copper, together with electrical fixtures, were stored. Altogether the youths stole $1,575 worth of the metal. Last Saturday when Patrolman John Sullivan observed McCarthy and Klimberg carrying a weighty bag, the officer held up the boys and, on discovering the nature of the bag's contents, arrested them. It then developed that the loot was from the storehouse and McCarthy and Klimberg implicated the other three youths.

At the annual meeting of the parish of St. James' Episcopal church, held last night at the parish house, the following were elected members of the vestry: Senior warden, F. D. Crandall; junior warden, Charles H. Goss; vestrymen, Philip K. Dewire, Frank T. Arms, Chester E. Dimock, Charles H. Chittenden, Henry Holt Smith, Gerard E. Jensen, E. Clinton Winchester, Edwin W. Cruise, James T. Potter; treasurer, F. D. Crandall; clerk of the parish, Henry Holt Smith; delegates to diocesan convention, Charles H. Goss, Frank T. Arms; alternates to diocesan convention, Fitch D. Crandall, Chester E. Dimock.

Foren Larsen of Gales Ferry; Earl Daboll, Groton; James Eckford, Lower Boulevard; Dominick Brennelli, 8 Mitchell court; Mrs. Lawrence Minson and infant daughter, Uncasville; Joseph Trentore, Milford; Mrs. William Scott, Orange, N. J., patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

FUNERALS

Manuel E. Foster

The funeral of Manuel E. Foster of Shapley street was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The bearers were Charles Smith, George Enos, Napoleon Fraser, Joseph Hewitt, Charles Rose and John Courtney. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Charles H. Bennett

Funeral services for Charles H. Bennett of Eastern Point, Groton, and formerly caretaker at the Hotel Griswold, were held this afternoon at 15 Masonic street, Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church, officiating. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. James P. Ammerman

The funeral of Mrs. Susan G. Ammerman, wife of James P. Ammerman, late of 245 Pequot avenue, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Beckwith Memorial chapel, Cedar Grove cemetery, and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. The bearers were Laurence A. Chappell, Arthur H. Shurts, Nathan Belcher and Stanton Green.

MRS. FRANK JULIANO GIVES UP $400 OF HER PROFITS

Mrs. Augusta Juliano, wife of Frank Juliano, 108 Golden street, was charged on two counts. She also pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and costs on each count. Mrs. Juliano was arrested early Sunday morning last when a raiding squad found a small amount of liquor and three men with whiskey in glasses ready to consume. The men, James Craddock, John Curran, and James Maloney were arrested on a charge of frequenting, but today the charges against them were nolled.

BUMPED TAFTVILLE CAR—GANNON FINED $50 AND COSTS

George Gannon was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor, but the complaint was amended to that of reckless driving. Gannon pleaded guilty to the less serious of the charges and was fined $50 and costs. He was arrested Sunday night upon complaint of William O'Brien, Providence street, Taftville, and after the car that Gannon was driving collided with O'Brien's auto. Both cars were damaged.

Center Groton Man Penalized

Lee Perry, 32, Center Groton farm hand, was charged with intoxication and was fined $10 and costs. He came to New London yesterday afternoon and drove Miss Elsie A. Rathbun's auto, which Perry took without permission of the owner. This charge Miss Rathbun refused to press when she came to New London and took charge of her auto, after she had been informed of Perry's arrest. After reaching New London, Perry parked the automobile and visited drinking resorts where he became intoxicated. When he was found roaming about the streets by Patrolman Frank Philopena, Perry was arrested.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

ENDORSED BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES

Besides affixing his signature to the act of congress, granting a charter to the Boy Scouts of America, the president has personally endorsed the Boy Scouts of America. In a part of one of his statements he says:

"Anything that is done or given to increase the efficiency of the Boy Scouts of America is a real contribution to the nation."

Authority of and for the Boy Scouts of America is vested in its national council, which is made up of representatives who come from the chartered local councils.

The honorary president of the national organization is the president, Herbert Hoover.

The local council is made up of representative citizens and the officers are as follows:

President, H. D. Larrabee; vice presidents, Max Hanover and Rev. John J. Reilly; treasurer, Arthur E. Story; scout commissioner, Arthur L. Peale. Executive board members: Wilbur S. Williams, C. B. Gilbert, Dr. R. R. Agnew, C. V. James, H. A. Tirrell, J. Pedace, E. J. Graham, Rev. A. H. Abbott, H. M. Lerou.

The executive and administrative head of the local council is known as the scout executive. This office is held by John L. Sellman. The scout executive is directly accountable to the local council. He also acts as the secretary of it.

Application for membership is made by boys of not less than 12 years of age and is made to the certain troop which they desire to join. That means that the boy is not assigned to any troop without his consent. This important in relation to the statement previously made in these articles concerning the movement being absolutely non-sectarian.

For instance the boy would naturally apply for membership in the troop of his own church if there were one, or for transfer to it when organized, if he had first joined another.

The application is made to the scoutmaster of the troop which the boy wants to join, and reads:

"I have read the requirements for the Tenderfoot Scout rank, I have carefully considered the Scout oath and law, and I hereby apply for membership.

"If admitted, I agree to be guided by the rules of the troop and the regulations of the Boy Scouts of America. I further agree that if at any time I cease to be a scout, I will turn over to the scoutmaster my membership certificate, badges, uniform and other scout insignia."

In addition to the application of the boy and on the same form there is an accompanying certificate of the parent or guardian of the applicant showing that the obligations to be assumed are now familiar to the parent (or guardian), that the application is made by his consent, and that he pledges co-operation in seeing that the boy fulfills his obligations.

Palace Theatre

If there be any doubt of the reception which has been accorded in other cities to "Evangeline," the great screen play of Longfellow's matchless epic now playing at the Palace theatre, along with a second big feature, then let the following write-up by the movie critic of the Baltimore Post, speak for itself. This review which is only one of countless favorable pieces written about "Evangeline," reads as follows:

"Movie version of Longfellow's 'Evangeline' is a grateful relief from the blood and thunder films which have been flooding the screen. It is the Dolores who is here in person, I suspect, who is responsible for the fact that long lines stand in front of the Stanley box office and long rows of paid admission spectators wait for seats in the theatre. Edwin Carewe has built this film in a placid, mellow fashion. He has a number of good characterizations. It is a fine setting for the exquisite love scenes between Evangeline and the Gabriel who is her affianced lover. Through it all Miss Del Rio moves with much grace and much fine acting. She has the gift of subdued. She is one of the most graceful of movie stars and she makes of her role a sympathetic and charming thing. It is decidedly a grateful sort of film after the jazz stuff and the crime stuff which is our weekly movie fare."

In "Playing Around" the action is as exciting as the film is colorful. When a gangster and a regular "Sheba" start to play around together the going is likely to be lively. That is what happens in this feature which is the companion picture on the Palace bill at this time and which has a great cast. The story which was written by Vina Delmar the little lady who told the world all about "Bad Girl" "Loose Ladies" and "Kept Woman" has a cast including Chester Morris and Alice White. The plot is a tense one. Sheba attracts the attention of a dangerous gangster while she is at the Pirates' Den Cafe with the boy to whom she is engaged.

The gangster fascinates her and she promises to marry him which of course puts her sweetheart in great danger when that gentleman tries to rescues her. But in a smashing climax all turns out well again.

Begining Saturday the Palace changes its bill and for a week will show in its full glory Marilyn Miller's latest talking, singing and dancing sensation, the colorful and highly moving and amusing story "Sally."

Breed Theatre

"Ladies and gentlemen of the jury . . ."

The man and woman on trial bow their heads. The prosecutor is demanding their lives. The weight of the evidence has tipped the scales against them.

Is there no hope?

You will be just as surprised as they were when you see what happens just before the case goes to the jury in "The Bellamy Trial," now playing at the Breed theatre.

For this Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer mystery drama is a masterpiece of suspense, a gripping courtroom epic that will thrill you with the realism of the trial scenes and character delineations.

As for the ending—after you see it, don't spoil the surprise for your friends by telling them about it. You will try to guess it, of course, as the picture goes on. But the dramatic climax comes so abruptly and without warning that it attains a new pinnacle for cinematic suspense treatment.

Leatrice Joy plays the leading role in the murder mystery drama and an elaborate cast includes George Barraud, Kenneth Thompson, Betty Bronson, Margaret Livingston, Edward Nugent and many others.

Stomach Troubles Headache and Dizziness

If your stomach is sick, you are sick all over. If you can't digest your food, you lose strength, get nervous and feel as tired when you get up as when you went to bed.

There's a new and easy way to lose the fat you don't need and don't want—

And at the same time gain in energy, vigor, ambition and health.

Take a generous half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts every morning in a glass of hot water—don't miss a morning.

A jar that will last you a month costs but 85c at Lee and Osgood's or any drugstore anywhere in the world.

When the jar is empty get on the scales and see how many pounds you have lost—after that you'll tell your friends that Kruschen Salts is worth one hundred dollars of any fat man's money.

After you have had your daily supply of Kruschen every morning for a couple of weeks you'll get what is known in Great Britain as "that Kruschen feeling."

The urge for activity will fill your entire being—you'll not be content to sit in the old arm chair after your day's work is done.

You'll feel the spirit of youth within you—what a joyous feeling—you'll want to take long walks, play games and your work will cease to be a hardship—it will become a pleasure.

Your old time ambition will return—you'll arise early filled with the joy of living—no grumbling at the breakfast table—your keen appetite will cause you to relish everything that's put before you.

For Kruschen Salts—not one salt—mind you—but the six vital salts that Nature says your body must have if your life is to be a happy, healthy one.

Kruschen Salts will help you to lose fat—it keeps your kidneys, liver and stomach in such good shape that they perform their functions properly, keeping the system free from poisonous waste. Its tonic influence reaches every organ, gland and fibre in the body, bringing good health to all who put their faith in it.

WESTERLY

LOCAL SHRINERS ATTEND PROVIDENCE BIG NIGHT

Many Westerly Shriners attended Wednesday evening the annual meeting of Palestine Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, held in Providence at the Modern theatre. At 7 p. m. the business session was called to order upon the stage in the theatre. Retiring Potentate George E. Phillips of Providence, and summer cottage owner at Misquamicut Beach, presided.

Following the business session at 8:30 p. m. a theatre party was enjoyed featuring Max Fields and His Kuddling Kuties company with Miss Sugar Schaad in two acts and five scenes. Among Westerly Nobles of the Mystic Shrine present were Horace E. Burdick, Charles M. Lamb, James H. Blackler, James Hodgson, Lewis Stanton, Herbert E. Cooke, George B. Utter, Wilbur G. Cheever, Raymond E. Taber, Leon York, C. E. Burdick, Fred W. Harvey, and Fred Holdsworth.

Under direction of Nelson G. Himes, superintendent of Westerly Fire District fire alarm telegraph system, workmen were engaged Wednesday in wiring the motor traffic beacons located at the junction of Canal and High streets and Canal street and Railroad avenue. Both traffic lights can be controlled by an officer stationed in front of the Westerly drug store located in the Alcazar hotel block, corner of Canal and High streets. These beacons have been in place since their removal on Broad street when the sidewalk pedestal beacons were installed, but up to the present time have not been put into working order. It is hoped by their use to prevent motor traffic congestion in Dixon square by controlling the traffic to the railroad station and the incoming and outgoing traffic by way of Noose Neck Hill state highway in and out of Westerly.

The session of Stonington probate court for Pawcatuck was held by Judge Frank H. Hinckley, of Mystic in the Walton block probate court rooms Tuesday afternoon.

At the canvassers' meeting of Westerly town council held Tuesday evening in the council chamber, the following changes were made: Added to real estate, First District—Nicholas G. Smith, Elizabeth Nicholas, Lucrezia Peragy, Niccolò Costanza, Henry R. Havens, Dorothy B. Havens, James V. Salimeno, Mary J. Berth and Pasquale Eposito; Second District—Charles W. Connors, Samuel F. Seciliano.

Off real estate, First District—James McKenzie, Jr., Margaret N. W. McCloy, Alice J. Segar; Second District—Natale Comoli, Harry A. Baird, Barbara D. Baird, Charlotte P. Clarke, Edward Sumner J. Henry Burk, Salvatore Speranza.

Off personal, Second District—Donald C. Cottrell, Kathryn C. Chandler, Mary C. Watts.

Died, First District—Lucy E. Peabody and Alice I. Saunders; Second District—George E. Champlin, Lewis S. McNeil, Henrietta C. Bentley, Albert Langworthy, Phebe W. P. Buffum.

Mrs. John E. Burdick of Pawcatuck has been confined to her home for several weeks by illness.

Walter C. Hiscox, Oliver P. Crandall and D. Harold Rogers, Westerly fire district tax assessors, have issued their annual notices of the fire district tax assessment date.

Your Cold May Develop Into Pneumonia

If you've a cold, it's your danger signal. Pneumonia can follow speedily. Don't tolerate a cold. It too frequently leads into a serious disease. Stop it; get over it. Creomulsion will help you do it. It is pleasant, easy to take. It relieves coughs from colds that hang on. It can help you avoid the dangerous diseases that sometimes follow colds.

If you've a rattling bronchial irritation; or cough from a chest cold that tears and hurts your throat, go and get a bottle of Creomulsion.

Take it like we tell you to take it, and we guarantee relief. We know what it can do. Millions of users know how it helps. Your money will be refunded if you are not relieved. Adv.

BISHOP MACE, HUMAN FISH, GIVES PALS A BIG THRILL

The human fish, Bishop Mace, pulled a good one, on the coldest day of the year, when the house carpenters at Groton Long Point laid away their tools on account of the weather and the fishermen were sitting alongside of a stove laughing at the ones on the outside trying to work. But who came down to the dock to take a swim but Bishop Mace, who can stand more cold water than a wild duck. Several young men braved the cold to see the man from Canada do his salt water stuff on a January morning.

In his yellow bathing suit, he jumped into the water that had a thin coat of ice, but that did not bother the human fish. After being in the water for ten minutes he got out and asked for a row boat and Leo Harris loaned his boat, "Mince Pie." So getting out chains to tie his feet and with five strong, able-bodied men, Huck Taylor, E. Hiscock, Eddie Burns and Billie Barry, also Smokey Joe Walsh, aboard, with his feet chained, he towed those heavy men for a quarter of a mile through the cold water. The men had on sheep-skin coats and mittens and were shaking with the cold like a circus dancer. Gold Tooth Taylor said, "How is the water?" "Well, it was cold when I started out, but now it's getting warmer!" "Well," Shorty Burns said, pulling a laugh for the gang, "You're sure, Bishop, no one has turned on the hot water this January morning and you are breaking the thin ice ahead of you?" It is like getting used to anything! Did you ever try eating olives? That is like swimming in cold water. Getting near Mystic Island, the goal, the human fish wanted to reach, Smiling Billie Barry asked if anyone had a cup of coffee in his pocket. He was blue from the morning's cold, while the winter weather swimmer was laughing at his pals in the boat over the Indian summer morning that Noank was having.

It was around 9:30 o'clock when he reached the shore of Mystic Island, one time rated the most popular island along the coast. The human fish, Bishop, was a little under the weather, for he had swallowed some salt water and it made him sick. A wave hit him on the port side and to swim with chains on his feet, five heavy men in the boat that he was towing for quarter of a mile, is some stunt in the winter time with the harbor covered with a thin coating of ice. It has never been done around the shores of the fishing village in the history of this town. Human Fish Mace is the only one to do it.

A power boat, "Gold Bug," went over to Mystic Island and towed the row boat "Mince Pie," and the five men were almost frozen. While the swimmer was having a rub down with the snow, E. Hiscock said, "Gee! Bishop, don't do that! A cold wave goes up my back that shakes my teeth!" As the power boat Gold Bug, with Capt. Lawrence Sullivan at the wheel, headed toward the shipyard dock, as soon as the ropes were put on the spiles the five men hurried away to find a warm spot, while the human fish ran to his home, one-half mile off, in his bare feet through the snow. A hot bath with salt and pepper in the water was waiting for him so he would not get cold or have the influenza or grip. Then three cups of coffee with a dropped egg on toast sure puts pep into a fellow after being in the water an hour. Then the human fish went right to bed for a few hours and that keeps the winter colds away.

Smokey Walsh claims he froze his big toe sitting in the row boat so long and he wants to know who could he sue to get back a new toe. "Well," Eddie Burns said, "You cannot get a suit on the swimmer for you went without being asked to go, for a free ride on the seven seas! Well, that is a different horse with a short tail."

It sure was a good time and many jokes were told by the gang while Human Fish Mace was swinging his arms every way till his goal was reached. The great cold weather swimmer said that it is his last stunt in the water this winter. "I am going in training to try to swim the English channel this summer and my manager, O. Foote, has given me enough rules to fill a Charles Williams bargain book! No smoking, plenty of coffee, no A. & P. steak, but Long Island potatoes; plenty of rope-jumping, to bed every night at 9 o'clock, also a swim off the North dock three times a week for 20 minutes. Rule 96, no boxing. I might get hurt in some way."

The members of the party that sat so still for about an hour in the row boat were looking over a place that Human Fish Bishop could do his training and his five pals could help him out each day or night, by sending the only human fish around here through his work-out daily so as to be in the pink of condition for that long swim across the English channel where many have failed. If the human fish does swim that channel he will get $300 and expenses paid both ways, over and back.

Bishop Mace said: "Pals, also ladies, I come from Canada where winters are real ones, where snow is five to six feet deep, and I have gone out to the store in my bare feet and without a cap. I saw a snow storm where the drifts came up to the second story window and people were shut in for over seven days—could not get out to buy a stick of chewing gum! Well, pals and ladies, I will try and make the English channel. I'm afraid I will lose weight, but I will make it. Every day you will see me on the road, or using row boats. That is all for this time!"

He was given a good hand by the small gang and all wished him luck and success.

WHAT'S THE MATTER WITH THIS Cake Recipe?

Cream 1/3 cup butter and add gradually the beaten whites of 3 eggs. Sift 2 1/4 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder and 1/2 teaspoon salt and add, alternately with 3/4 cup milk to the first mixture. Beat well and bake in a shallow cake pan for about 40 minutes in a slow oven.

You can readily see that sugar is missing from this cake recipe. To be exact—one and one-half cups. What a failure you'd have if you followed the recipe with this single but important ingredient missing.

Too often we are inclined to leave sugar out of our meals. As a result the food is not palatable. This is true of certain vegetables. Yet you can make them appetizing by adding a dash of sugar in cooking. For example, tomatoes, peas, carrots and spinach taste much better when a pinch of sugar is added. Also many stewed fresh or dried fruits are made more palatable by including sugar.

When nourishing foods are pleasant to the taste, you naturally eat what your system requires. Since sugar adds flavor to such foods why not cultivate the practice of using it as a flavorer? No doctor will prescribe against this suggestion. Neither will he object to the serving of simple puddings, cakes and custards for desserts. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

LOCAL SHRINERS ATTEND PROVIDENCE BIG NIGHT

Many Westerly Shriners attended Wednesday evening the annual meeting of Palestine Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, held in Providence at the Modern theatre. At 7 p. m. the business session was called to order upon the stage in the theatre. Retiring Potentate George E. Phillips of Providence, and summer cottage owner at Misquamicut Beach, presided.

Following the business session at 8:00 p. m. a theatre party was enjoyed featuring Max Fields and His Kuddling Kuties company with Miss Sugar Schaad in two acts and five scenes. Among Westerly Nobles of the Mystic Shrine present were Horace E. Burdick, Charles M. Lamb, James H. Blackler, James Hodgson, Lewis Stanton, Herbert E. Cooke, George B. Utter, Wilbur G. Cheever, Raymond E. Taber, Leon York, C. E. Burdick, Fred W. Harvey, and Fred Holdsworth.

Under direction of Nelson G. Himes, superintendent of Westerly Fire District fire alarm telegraph system, workmen were engaged Wednesday in wiring the motor traffic beacons located at the junction of Canal and High streets and Canal street and Railroad avenue. Both traffic lights can be controlled by an officer stationed in front of the Westerly drug store located in the Alcasa hotel block, corner of Canal and High streets. These beacons have been in place since their removal on Broad street when the sidewalk pedestal beacons were installed, but up to the present time have not been put into working order. It is hoped by their use to prevent motor traffic congestion in Dixon square by controlling the traffic to the railroad station and the incoming and outgoining traffic by way of Noose Neck Hill state highway in and out of Westerly.

The session of Stonington probate court for Pawcatuck was held by Judge Frank H. Hinckley, of Mystic in the Walton block probate court rooms Tuesday afternoon.

BISHOP MACE, HUMAN FISH, GIVES PALS A BIG THRILL

The human fish, Bishop Mace, pulled a good one, on the coldest day of the year, when the house carpenters at Groton Long Point laid away their tools on account of the weather and the fishermen were sitting alongside of a stove laughing at the ones on the outside trying to work. But who came down to the dock to take a swim but Bishop Mace, who can stand more cold water than a wild duck. Several young men braved the cold to see the man from Canada do his salt water stuff on a January morning.

In his yellow bathing suit, he jumped into the water that had a thin coat of ice, but that did not bother the human fish. After being in the water for ten minutes he got out and asked for a row boat and Leo Harris loaned his boat, "Mince Pie." So getting out chains to tie his feet and with five strong, able-bodied men, Huck Taylor, E. Hiscock, Eddie Burns and Billie Barry, also Smokey Joe Walsh, aboard, with his feet chained, he towed those heavy men for a quarter of a mile through the cold water. The men had on sheep-skin coats and mittens and were shaking with the cold like a circus dancer. Gold Tooth Taylor said, "How is the water?" "Well, it was cold when I started out, but now it's getting warmer!" "Well," Shorty Burns said, pulling a laugh for the gang, "You're sure, Bishop, no one has turned on the hot water this January morning and you are breaking the thin ice ahead of you?" It is like getting used to anything! Did you ever try eating olives? That is like swimming in cold water. Getting near Mystic Island, the goal, the human fish wanted to reach, Smiling Billie Barry asked if anyone had a cup of coffee in his pocket. He was blue from the morning's cold, while the winter weather swimmer was laughing at his pals in the boat over the Indian summer morning that Noank was having.

It was around 9:30 o'clock when he reached the shore of Mystic Island, one time rated the most popular island along the coast. The human fish, Bishop, was a little under the weather, for he had swallowed some salt water and it made him sick. A wave hit him on the port side and to swim with chains on his feet, five heavy men in the boat that he was towing for quarter of a mile, is some stunt in the winter time with the harbor covered with a thin coating of ice. It has never been done around the shores of the fishing village in the history of this town. Human Fish Mace is the only one to do it.

A power boat, "Gold Bug," went over to Mystic Island and towed the row boat "Mince Pie," and the five men were almost frozen. While the swimmer was having a rub down with the snow, E. Hiscock said, "Gee! Bishop, don't do that! A cold wave goes up my back that shakes my teeth!" As the power boat Gold Bug, with Capt. Lawrence Sullivan at the wheel, headed toward the shipyard dock, as soon as the ropes were put on the spiles the five men hurried away to find a warm spot, while the human fish ran to his home, one-half mile off, in his bare feet through the snow. A hot bath with salt and pepper in the water was waiting for him so he would not get cold or have the influenza or grip. Then three cups of coffee with a dropped egg on toast sure puts pep into a fellow after being in the water an hour. Then the human fish went right to bed for a few hours and that keeps the winter colds away.

Smokey Walsh claims he froze his big toe sitting in the row boat so long and he wants to know who could he sue to get back a new toe. "Well," Eddie Burns said, "You cannot get a suit on the swimmer for you went without being asked to go, for a free ride on the seven seas! Well, that is a different horse with a short tail."

It sure was a good time and many jokes were told by the gang while Human Fish Mace was swinging his arms every way till his goal was reached. The great cold weather swimmer said that it is his last stunt in the water this winter. "I am going in training to try to swim the English channel this summer and my manager, O. Foote, has given me enough rules to fill a Charles Williams bargain book! No smoking, plenty of coffee, no A. & P. steak, but Long Island potatoes; plenty of rope-jumping, to bed every night at 9 o'clock, also a swim off the North dock three times a week for 20 minutes. Rule 86, no boxing. I might get hurt in some way."

The members of the party that sat so still for about an hour in the row boat were looking over a place that Human Fish Bishop could do his training and his five pals could help him out each day or night, by sending the only human fish around here through his work-out daily so as to be in the pink of condition for that long swim across the English channel where many have failed. If the human fish does swim that channel he will get $300 and expenses paid both ways, over and back.

Bishop Mace said: "Pals, also ladies, I come from Canada where winters are real ones, where snow is five to six feet deep, and I have gone out to the store in my bare feet and without a cap. I saw a snow storm where the drifts came up to the second story window and people were shut in for over seven days—could not get out to buy a stick of chewing gum! Well, pals and ladies, I will try and make the English channel, I'm afraid I will lose weight, but I will make it. Every day you will see me on the road, or fising row boats. That is all for this time!"

He was given a good hand by the small gang and all wished him luck and success.

RECOVERY IN LEADING STOCK PRICES; WHEAT AND COTTON FUTURES WEAK

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—Speculative interest in today's markets was divided between the further recovery in stock prices, which carried the index of 90 leading issues to a new high level for the year, and the renewed weakness of wheat and cotton futures, the latter touching new low levels for the season. Gains in the stock market ran from 1 to 12 1-2 points but these were interspersed with a number of declines ranging from fractions to 4 points.

Excellent steel news, including the publication of the unexpected favorable statement by the U. S. Steel corporation and reports of a further upturn in steel mill activity, provided the chief stimulus to the buying movement. This was fortified by a series of favorable dividend developments, including a resumption of payments by Colorado Fuel after a lapse of nine years and extra payments by Liggett & Myers and International Silver, and by a further reduction in the daily average of crude oil production.

Such irregularity as developed in the stock market during the day was due largely to liquidation by traders who had piled up profits in the recent advance. There was little evidence of any aggressive short selling, although the resistance encountered by many stocks on the way up indicated that large blocks of stock, some of which is believed to represent securities bought for supporting purposes during and since the break still were overhanging the market.

The money market showed no evidence of a month-end strain although February 1 dividend and interest disbursements are expected to run close to $500,000,000, a record for this period. Call money dropped from 4 1-2 to 4 per cent with the supply plentiful, and there was an easier undertone for the shorter maturities in the time money market. In view of the recent movement of gold from England to Germany and the relatively low rate of sterling exchange here, hopes of a reduction in the Bank of England rate tomorrow are not very bright. It is generally conceded that a drop in the London rate will precede any further reduction in federal reserve quotations.

U. S. Steel common was marked up more than 5 points to a new high for the year at 182 1-4, or within a point of the high price reached since the November break, and then eased 1-2 a point. Youngstown Sheet & Tube jumped 10 points on a couple of sales. Vanadium ran up 3 1-2 points. Transue & Williams, which is expected to show earnings of around $8 a share for 1929 and has just received a contract to supply Crumbian Steel to a new American company, advanced nearly 3 points. Colorado Fuel made only a slight response to the dividend announcement.

Except for a gain of nearly 4 points in Simms Petroleum the oils made little response to the sharp drop in crude production. Farm implement shares lost none of their buoyancy, Case soaring 12 1-2 points. Auburn Auto jumped 10 points on reports of record-breaking January business. Business Machine shares extended their recent gains. International Telephone was one of the few active soft spots.

The reaction of more than 2 cents a bushel in wheat prices, based on the publication of a bearish government weather forecast and reports of increased Russian offerings in foreign makets, carried quotations to within a fraction of the season's low levels. Cotton dropped about $2 a bale on selling inspired by reports of difficulties encountered in attempts to control acreage and output during the coming season, corn prices yielded slightly. Coffee and sugar markets showed little change.

Trading in the foreign exchange market was featured by a rally of about half a cent in Spanish pesetas, part of which was lost, on buying inspired by the fact that a change of government was being accomplished without any serious disturbances. Sterling cables were slightly firmer around $4.86 9-16. Other changes were nominal.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—The first 50 railroads to report December earnings had net operating income aggregating $40,174,000 compared with $49,587,000 in the corresponding month last year, a decrease of 18.9 per cent. The November net operating income for the same roads totaled $45,458,000.

The Gillette Safety Razor Co., is reported to have sold its entire output of new model razors for 1930.

Orders from ultimate consumers of copper to domestic fabricators are somewhat better at the present time than earlier in the month, reports from the trade today stated, but the fabricators are only buying their nearer requirements for meeting these orders. A fairly substantial business is believed to be accumulating for next month and March.

The General Motors Corp. now is making a distribution to 15,177 of its employes through the corporation's savings and investment fund class of 1924, which matured at the end of 1929. The amount so distributed represents a total of $8,608,000, and consists of $2,768,245 in cash and 145,994 shares of common stock. Any employe who in 1924 paid $300 into the fund, now received a total of $1,415. Of this amount, $415 is paid in cash, the remaining $1,000 is represented by shares of stock.

Today's gold report of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed imports of $5,200,000 from Brazil, and an increase of $500,000 in the amount of gold earmarked for foreign account. There were no exports.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—Trading in today's curb market showed a sharp contraction in volume, but the main price tendency continued upward. Chief interest centered in a handful of issues in which special developments are pending, the general list moving within a rather narrow range, due to the absence of any extensive public participation.

Deere & Co. soared 18 points to 440, or within 3 points of the record high established last year, and then dropped back 5 points on realizing, in response to the announcement of a 5 for 1 stock split-up. Gleaner Combine Harvester (new) advanced 1 3-4 to a new top at 23 1-2.

Oils failed to make any response to reports of a sharp decrease in crude oil production last week. Cosden dropped 3 1-4 points and Gulf 3 7-8, with the other active issues showing only narrow fractional changes. Pandem, a low price issue, was turned over in large volume.

Public utilities displayed a rather firm undertone, with gains of 1 to 3 points recorded by American Light & Traction, American Gas & Electric, Bell Telephone of Canada, Dixie Gas, Standard Power & Light (new) and United Gas. Electric Bond & Share recorded a large fractional gain but Commonwealth Edison dropped 5 points and New England Power 3 on small turnovers.

Republic Steel (new stock) sold down 4 points at one time but recovered more than half its loss. A gain of 8 points in Western Air Express was based on reports of a favorable 1929 earnings report. United Zinc & Smelting (new) fell 5 1-4 points to a new low at 2, and Kobacker Stores broke 18 1-2 points to a new low at 29.

BOND MARKET.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—Convertibles afforded most of the action in today's bond market in the share privilege group. The heaviness of International Telephone 4 1-2s and American I. G. Chemical 5 1-2s stood out, the former dropping to 111 7-8, or just under its low at the time of the stock break. The other debenture lost a point and a half on fairly heavy selling coincident with the Chemical Foundation's demand for an inquiry by the state bureau of securities into the $30,000,000 flotation last April. The telephone bond closed at 115 for a net loss of 2 points.

Chicago & Northwestern convertible 4 3-4s were active, but made no change on the day. American Telephone 4 1-2s rose 1 1-4, while Missouri Pacific 5 1-2s and Baltimore & Ohio 4 1-2s each gained a small fraction.

There was little interest in the standard investment list, which was again irregular. The Liberty 3 1-2s and Fourth 4 1-4s were in slightly better demand, but moved narrowly, while the high grade rails and utilities made mixed changes.

Canadian National 5s, Atchison General 4s, Burlington General 4s, Delaware & Hudson 5 1-2s, New York Central 5 1-2s and Union Pacific 4s of 1968 worked lower. Moderate inquiry for Missouri Pacific General 4s, New Haven Refunding 4 1-2s Lehigh Valley (Pennsylvania) 4s, Pennsylvania General 4 1-2s and St. Louis & San Francisco 4 1-2s found a firm market. The seaboard listings advanced about a point. New York city tractions were again buoyant.

Rather persistent offerings of the new American Telephone 5s, for which payment has now been made, pared a quarter point from the quotation and the debentures closed at 109 1-8, their lowest since the offering at 99 1-2. International Telephone debenture 4 1-2s were marked up nearly a point in small dealings. Current reports of the prospective new financing for this company mentions a bond issue of about $30,000,000 instead of the $75,000,000 total which was being discussed recently in market circles.

The foreign list saw numerous declines of one and two points, although prominent European loans were steady. Brisbane City 5s, Buenos Aires 6s, April maturity, Queensland 6s, Bolivia 7s and Bergen City 6s were heavy. On the other hand, French 7 1-2s and 7s sold at their high levels for the last year. Belgians and German 7s were firm.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Jan. 29—(AP)—Big setbacks in price for all grain brought wheat within .314 cents a bushel today of the season's bottom-most level here. Corn, oats and rye fell below any previous quotations for the present crop. Sudden widening out of pressure to sell wheat from Russia to other European countries was largely responsible, together with British reports that Argentina is also giving evidence of anxiety to rush export marketing of wheat.

After a day of heavy liquidating sales of wheat futures deliveries, Chicago closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 2c to 2 5-8c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1-4c to 7-8c down, oats 5-8c to 1 3-4c off, and provisions unchanged to a decline of 2c.

Accelerating the downward course of wheat values in Chicago was execution of many standing orders that future delivery holdings be sold out at various fixed limits so as to put a stop to further losses.

Confronted by reports that Argentine wheat is being offered in Europe cheaper than wheat from the United States, the Chicago futures market closed within 1-8c of the day's bottom figures.

Although corn as a result of sympathy with wheat weakness established a new all-around low-price record for the season, the corn market showed stubborn resistance to selling pressure. The fact that corn and hog values are at a profitable feeding ratio of about 12 to 1 led to predictions of a smaller movement of the corn crop to market centers than of late has been generally looked for. Oats followed corn.

Provisions were easy owing to grain weakness and a late downward trend of the hog market.

COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—Cotton futures closed barely steady at 27 to 40 points lower. Spot easy; middling 16.85.

Treasury Balance.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29—(AP)—Treasury receipts Jan. 27 were $7,900,449.87; expenditures $7,904,187.73; balance $162,113,913.59.

PLAINFIELD TROUNCES BOSTON IN ODD GAME OF SERIES, 30 TO 29

(Special to The Bulletin)

PLAINFIELD, Jan. 29—Unleashing a fierce attack in the last half the Plainfield Pros. just managed to defeat the Boston Whirlwinds in a spectacular contest this evening at the Community house by the narrow margin of one point, the score being 30 to 29. The victory gave the locals two games against the visitors one in the series.

Plainfield played its usual brilliant game this evening with Kasper and Bernot leading the scoring attack with 10 points each, while Kiley played a top notch game for Boston, scoring 13 points, the high for the evening. Each member of both teams made themselves useful in the scoring way by getting at least one point.

Slow in starting the locals found themselves three points behind the visitors at the end of the half time, the score being 12 to 15, but in the remainder of the game they showed better form and slowly forged ahead. The sensational shooting of Kasper was responsible in great measure for Plainfield's taking the lead towards the end, he making several difficult shots.

The Buddies were not pushed to win against Willimantic in the preliminary, winning by a 21 to 13 score. With the exception of Leclair for Willimantic each man also scored at least one point. Dancing was enjoyed after the games. The summaries:

LOCAL BOYS IN TRIM FOR DANIELSON BOUTS

The local boys of the fistic realm who are taking part in the boxing bouts at the town hall, Danielson, tomorrow evening, under the auspices of the Danielson boxing club, are in top form and raring to go. This card of bouts, five in number, bringing together some of the best boxers in this section of the state, and neighboring states, is worthy of note and should pack the house.

Patsy Ferra, Honey Boy Gauvin and Al Koziol have completed their training, the former two at the state armory gym, and are reported to be in the pink of condition. These boys are stacked up against a trio of hard crashing fighters, but their managers feel confident that they will have little trouble in taking them over.

The Norwich boxers are matched as follows: Al Koziol vs. Leo Ledoux of Worcester, semi-final; Joe Preston of Worcester vs. Patsy Verra, four rounds; Honeyboy Gauvin vs. Al Rodman of New York, four rounds.

The main bout is between Dynamite Lou Brouillard of Danielson and Iron Man Reid of Syracuse. Rene Peloquin of Danielson and Bud Dempsey will also be seen.

DAWSON LEADS AMATEUR QUALIFIER AT TEXAS

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 29—(AP)— Johnny Dawson, Chicago amateur today shot a 75 over the Willow Springs course here to lead a field of more than 100 amon pures in a qualifying round for Thursday's amateur-professional 18 hole event, preliminary to the ninth annual Texas open tournament.

Rain last night soaked the Springs course and made play difficult over the par 71 layout. Dawson had a 39 going out, but lightened up to come in with a 36. He received a gold medal for his work.

Close behind the Chicago star was Ted Menafee, San Antonio, with 76 and Lewis Levinson, also of San Antonio, 77. Jack Dold, Houston, winner of last year's event, required 90 strokes for the round. While the boys who play for love of the sport were scrapping it out for places in Thursday's event, more than 100 professionals from the band which recently has been battling with par and the elements on the Pacific coast were busy tuning up their game over the Brackenridge park course, where the $7,500 Texas open will be played.

Among those who engaged in practice tours of the tricky Brackenridge course today were Wild Bill Mehlhorn, New York, Texas open winner in 1928 and 1923; Horton Smith, Joplin, Missouri pro; Denny Shute, Columbus, Ohio, winner of the Los Angeles open; Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., winner of the 1927 Texas open; Al Espinosa, Chicago, and Joe Turnesa, New York.

Most of the sharp-shooters were banging close to par figures, 71.

Exercising the champion's prerogative, Bill Mehlhorn has asked to be paired with Horton Smith in the first 18 hole round of the championship proper on Friday. The second 18 is scheduled Saturday with the final 36 hole round Sunday.

A cash prize of $100 will go to the winning professional in tomorrow's amateur-pro test with a medal to the amateur.

Other scores in today's amateur qualifying round included: M. B. Arnett, New York, 91; C. N. Schoenmehl, Waterbury, Conn., 91.

FAVORITES EASY VICTORS IN PAN-AMERICAN GOLF

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., Jan. 29.(AP) —Favorites won by wide margins in the first 36 hole round of the championship flight of the Pan-American amateur golf tourney here today.

Russ Martin, Chicago medalist, eliminated Don Armstrong, Aurora, Ill., former titlist, 6 and 6.

Fred Lamprecht, New Orleans, former inter-collegiate champion, eliminated Elmer Cosard, Chicago, 10 and 9.

Chick Evans, eliminated Henry Hafer, Chicago 10 and 9.

Jack Westland, French champion, put out H. F. Bowbeer, Chicago, 12 and 11.

Johnny Lehman, Chicago, eliminated Walter Shearer, Mobile, Ala., 9 and 8.

Gus Novotny, Chicago, title defender, eliminated Harry Pritchett, Birmingham, southern intercollegiate champion, 11 and 10.

Frank Justin, Chicago, eliminated Al Welch, Biloxi, Miss., 9 and 8.

Sam Perry, Birmingham, Ala., southern amateur champion, eliminated Lee Schneider, Oshkosh, Wis., 6 and 5.

LIEB WANTS $10,000 YEAR FOR HEAD COACH POSITION

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 29—(AP)—A three year contract at $10,000 a year are the terms on which Tom Lieb, former assistant coach at Notre Dame, will accept the post as head football coach at the University of Minnesota, it was learned today.

Lieb, it was learned unofficially, submitted these terms yesterday to a special committee which is making a survey of candidates for the position left vacant by the resignation of Dr. Clarence Spears to become head coach at the University of Oregon.

Minnesota's counter proposal to Lieb was $7,500 a year with an annual increase of $500 up to $10,000 a year, which is the highest salary paid any member of the faculty. Lieb insisted today he would not consider the post for less than $10,000. He said he had a contract in his pocket calling for $12,000 a year from another school.

BELANGER AND SEKYRA IN GARDEN SEMI-FINALS

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—There will be fights at Madison Square Garden February 7 regardless of the heavyweight finally chosen in place of Johnny Risko, as a "fit opponent" for Victorio Campolo, lanky Argentine, in the feature bout.

The semi-final was fixed today with Charley Belanger, Canadian light heavyweight, meeting Joe Sekyra, of Dayton, in a ten round match. Joe Banovic, of Binghamton, N. Y., will box Henry Lamar, of Washington, D. C., in another ten rounder.

Despite the ruling of the boxing commission yesterday that Risko, who has whipped a host of big men, was not capable of handling Campolo, officials of the Garden will ask the solons Friday to reconsider their decision. If the commission refuses again to accept Risko another opponent probably will be substituted.

RAY BARBUTI, TRACK STAR, REINSTATED

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—Ray Barbuti, former Syracuse track star and Olympic 440 meter champion, tonight was reinstated by the National Amateur Athletic union. Barbuti was barred from further competition in meets sanctioned by the A. A. U. nearly a year ago when he aroused the ire of the organization by stating that certain amateur athletes were paid.

Without retracting any of his remarks of a year ago of the conditions bordering on professionalism in the A. A. U. circles, Barbuti was reinstated without any ceremonies. His reception back into the amateur organization came as a surprise, although Dan Ferris, secretary, said recently that the A. A. U. was ready to take the former Syracuse star back into its arms as soon as he apologized for his statements.

Barbuti, in his statement, said he was applyong for reinstatement as an amateur, because, "I prize my reputation as such, and furthermore I hope to be able to get myself in condition to compete in the near future."

Barbuti's letter to Deignan follows: "If my original statements made in anger seem to reflect on the whole body of amateur athletes, I am sorry, for I had no such intention in my original remarks or subsequent statements. I believe that the vast majority of the competing amateur athletes are real amateurs. I am hoping that the few competitors and promoters, who may have contributed to the condition I referred to, will be abolished in the near future.

"I feel that your organization is doing all it can to correct conditions and I only hope that you may be given more power and courage to face these evils and make further improvement."

Barbuti was given an indefinite suspension on Feb. 23, 1929, after he had "blown off" about conditions when he and other athletes were summoned to A. A. U. headquarters to investigate their non-appearance at the New York A. C. meet. A. A. U. officials read a newspaper report of his caustic remarks concerning the excess expense money received by track stars and meted out a suspension until he "proved or retracted" the statements.

The Olympic star refused to do either, reasserting the statements and adding that the facts were known to certain A. A. U. officials. But he would not become a "tale begrer" by making affidavits naming the runners who were supposed to have been paid.

Later he went further into the matter in an article in "Sportsmanship" magazine, giving a description of how the athletes were paid.

This was the last move in the case until tonight. The indefinite suspension stood until Barbuti finally decided to offer the apology.

"The Great" Susie wishes to inform her reading public that due to a pressing engagement she will not be able to furnish her readers with her usual "hot stuff" today.

It was indicated, however, in her conversation that she would have a lengthy story to tell upon her return, which will be of vital interest to her large following of readers.

Until she returns, Toodle do.

BALTIC WEAKENS TO DROP GAME TO WESTERLY TEAM

In an exciting game at the Baltic gym Wednesday evening the Battery E Seconds of Westerly barely nosed out the Baltic Maroons by a 41 to 40 score, the visiting team coming from behind in the second half to win. At half time the Baltic squad was leading by a 30 to 20 count and were only able to score an additional point during the remainder of the tussle, while the opposition countered for 21. Passmore, playing right forward for the Maroons, was the star of the game, scoring 20 points. The summary:

COLCHESTER CLASHES WITH WEST HARTFORD SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Jan. 29.—Manager Joseph Bush, of Bacon academy basketball quintet announces that his team will play the team from the American School for the Deaf, of West Hartford in Colchester, Saturday evening. This will be the first time the Bacon team has met the West Hartford boys and a close, exciting game is expected. The Baconians are having daily practice under the direction of Coach Goodrich, and should be in top form for Saturday's battle.

On February 8, the Bacon team is to play their old rivals, the Nathan Hale high school quintet in Moodus. On February 15, a return game is to be played in Colchester. In two games played with Nathan Hale high school last year the Bacon boys were victors both times, winning one game by a score of 38-6, and the return game 29-18.

On February 11, the Bacon boys will play the Woodstock academy team in Colchester. This is to be a return game, the Woodstock academy quintet having defeated Bacon academy 28-4, in a game at Woodstock on January 10.

WOMEN SKATING CHAMPS OF U. S. AND CAN. TO CLASH

OTTAWA, Jan. 29.—(AP)—Rival women's speed skating champions of the United States, Loretta Neitzel, of Detroit and Mrs. Leila Brooks Potter, of Toronto, are scheduled to clash during the Ottawa winter carnival which gets under way on Saturday.

Other crack skaters expected here are Rose Robinson, Toronto, Canadian champion; Elsie Muller, Hastings, N. Y.; Lloyd Guenther, Detroit; Irving Jaffe, New York; Valentine Bialis, Utica, N. Y.; and Faith Schoen, Chicago, North American indoor titleholder.

YANKEES GET WILLIAMS ON WAIVERS FROM BOSTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 29—(AP)—Ken Williams, veteran major league outfielder, was claimed today by the New York Yankees on waivers from the Boston Red Sox.

Williams spent nine years with the St. Louis Browns before being sold to the Red Sox after the 1927 season. The 37 year old veteran cannot be expected to make a place for himself in the Yankee outfield but probably will be useful as a pinch hitter. He is a long distance left hand batsman, and the right field bleachers at the Yankee stadium offer an inviting target.

HIGH WINDS BALK GOLF PLAYERS AT BERMUDA

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 29—(AP) —J. H. Beavis, former English amateur star now a resident of Bermuda, won the qualifying round medal today in the annual combined tournaments for the MacCalum perfection trophy and Light Bourn cup. High winds hampered the players and Beavis won with a score of 36-43-81, nine over par, for the reconstructed Belmont Manor course. Poor putting cost Raynor M. Gardiner, Boston, a chance to lead the field. He carded 37-45-82.

Sold to London, Ont., Club

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 29—(AP)—The Pittsburgh National league hockey club today announced the sale of Archie Briden to the London, Ont., club. Ren Manners was recalled from Ontario. The transfer will be made immediately. Briden, obtained from the Philadelphia Arrows, has played at center and wing for the Pirates.

JACK ELDER COPS SPRINT SERIES AT NEWARK MEET WITH NEAR RECORD TIME

NEWARK, N. J., Jan. 29—(AP)— Speeding over the board floor in near record time, Jack Elder, Notre Dame speed demon tonight won the Rupert F. Mills' Memorial sprint series over the 113th Regiment armory track in the St. Joseph Catholic club meet. Elder won the 70 and 60 yard dashes and placed second in the 50 yard sprint.

The Notre Dame star, whose sprint of 96 yards defeated the Army football team last fall, stepped the 70 yards in 7 2-5 seconds to win, clinch the series after dropping the 50 yard dash to James Pappas of the Newark Athletic club and winning the 60 yard dash in 6 2-5 seconds. Elder's times for the 70 and 60 yard sprints were only two-fifths of a second off the world's record.

After bowing to Pappas at the shorter distance, Jack came back to clearly demonstrate his superiority in the last two races. He breasted the tape four feet in front of Pappas in the 60 and led the Newark Athletic club star six feet in the deciding race at 70 yards. William Bruder of Newark Athletic club ran third and Sol Furth of New York university fourth in the latter.

Running his last race in the colors of New York university, Phil Edwards gave a great demonstration of speed to defeat Ray Conger, the Iowa giant-killer, 15 yards in the 1,000 yard event. Edwards sped around the boards in the good time of 2.14 4-5 after being clocked at 54 flat for the first quarter. Conger, lacking his usual finishing stamina, just managed to save second from D. G. Bilke of the Boston Athletic association. Gene Venzke of the Swedish-American Athletic club of New York, trailed in fourth place.

Fred Sturdy, successor to Sabin Carr as Yale's greatest pole vaulter, won the invitation pole vault event with a leap of 13 feet four inches. Barney Berlinger, University of Pennsylvania's all-around athlete tied with Victory W. Pickard, former Pittsburgh ace, for second at 13 feet. Fourth went to Willard Smith of Pennsylvania, with a jump of 12 feet, eight inches.

Gus Moore, diminutive University of Pittsburgh hunner and holder of the National A. A. U. cross country championship, romped away with the mile handicap. Starting from the scratch, Moore lapped the field at the half way point, and then went on to win easily in the good time of 4.28 3-5. Frederick C. Titzell of the West Side Y. M. C. A., New York, finished second with Jules Shapiro and Joe Hickey of New York university third and fourth respectively.

The crack New York university relay team won the special college relay from Fordham and St. John's college, without much trouble. Taking the lead at the start, the quartette stepped the distance in 3.29 1-5 to lead Fordham to the tape. St. John was third.

Eddie Roll of the Newark Athletic club set a new meet record for the 600 yard Waldron Memorial when he was clocked in 1.13 3-5. The old record of 1.14 3-5 was made by Johnny Gibson of Bloomfield, N. J., last year. Gibson competed tonight but dropped out. Fred Veit of New York university was second and Maxwell Bates of Brooklyn, and former Bates college runner was third. Fourth went to A. F. Noyes of the Boston Athletic association.

CONCERT BY ACADEMY BAND AT TRACK MEET

The Academy's new band will make its second appearance when it plays at the indoor track meet Saturday night at the state armory when the Wildcats tackle Stonington in a dual affair that will be surrounded by several specoial events. From the favorable response to the band two weeks ago it is evident that it has made a hit with the townspeople and that many will come Saturday just for the purpose of hearing these talented musicians play. The band will give a 30-minute concert before the meet and will also probably play between the events.

The armory is being put into first-class shape for the meet. The banks are to be improved among other things so that it is hoped the evening's programme can be run off without a hitch.

Two more local runners were expected for Saturday when it became known that Ed's Lyons, track captain last year, and Moses Harvey, a fellow member of the New England championship relay team, will probably enter.

PHIL SCOTT ARRIVES IN MIAMI TO START TRAINING

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 29—(AP)—Phil Scott arrived in Miami tonight to take up training for his fifteen round fight with Jack Sharkey in February 27.

The Englishman was accompanied by Charlie Rose, London boxing writer, and Ned Johnston, trainer. Johnston is a brother of Jimmy Johnston Scott's American representative.

Georges Carpentier, former heavyweight championship aspirant, and Pierre Charles, who will meet Tommy Loughran in the semi-final bout of the February 27 program came in today.

Frank J. Bruen, general manager of Madison Square Garden corporation announced he had been informed that Max Schmeling, who will fight the winner of the February bout for the heavyweight championship, will be a ringside spectator.

THREE SEEDED PLAYERS LEFT IN BROOKLINE TENNIS

BROOKLINE, Mass., Jan. 29—(AP)— Three of the seeded players in the women's national indoor tennis singles championship play reached the semi-final round here today on the Longwood Indoor courts. Miss Mianne Palfrey, of Brookline was the unseeded player to continue in the tourney and she gained the second last bracket by eliminating Miss Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham, in a spirited extra set match by scores of 6-4, 1-6, 6-4.

In the other quarter-finals matches, Mrs. John B. Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., advanced by defeating Mrs. Charles J. Hubbard, Jr., of Cambridge, 6-2, 8-6. Mrs. Jessup was top-seeded and her opponent was also on the list. Miss Margaret Blake of Lenox, the defending champion, ousted Mrs. J. Dallas Corbiere, of Southboro, 8-3, 6-4, and Miss Edith Sigourney, Boston, defeated Mrs. William M. Shadden, Boston, in another extra set match, 6-0, 1-6, 6-0.

Miss Palfrey's semi-final match will be against Miss Sigourney, 1928 winner of the indoor title, tomorrow and the other match, involving Mrs. Jessup with Miss Blake, the current titleholder, will not be staged until Friday.

GRAHAM AND MILLER BOUT A DRAW; DECISION BOOED

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 29—(AP)—A chorus of boos greeted the judges' decision here tonight when they declared the ten round boxing match between Bushy Graham, Utica, N. Y., featherweight, and Freddie Miller, Cincinnati, a draw. Miller was floored three times in the tenth round.

Appointed Umpire-in-Chief

PORTLAND, Me., Jan. 29—(AP)—Bob Hart, former National league umpire, has been appointed umpire-in-chief of the New England league for the 1930 season, President Claude B. Davidson announced here tonight.

BAR FILIPINOS FROM CALIFORNIA FIGHT RINGS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 29.—(AP)— Filipinos were barred today from California boxing rings as a precaution against further race trouble in the state.

Hanlon said crowded fight arenas "seem ideal places for creating of riots." He was particularly fearful of the consequences should a Filipino boxer win a victory over a white opponent.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

BROADWAY MANAGKER RECEIVES CHALLENGE

"What is Greater Entertainment month?" Briefly an original idea on the part of the Broadway theatre management to bring to Norwich during the month of February eight of the greatest programs of talking pictures possible to book in one theatre. Not only will the latest and biggest productions of Paramount, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Universal, United Artists and others be shown together with selected comedies and specialties from Vitaphone and others, but in many cases, leading photoplays will be combined in a double-feature program. The entire program for the month will be all-talking, no synchronized pictures being shown. To make it doubly worth-while for Broadway fans to attend every change of program, the management is offering three cash prizes, one of $10, and two of $5 each, for the best letter sent in by a patron at the end of the month, covering two questions, i. e., "Why I Prefer the Broadway Theatre," and "What Was the Outstanding Photoplay of the Broadway's February Program?" These letters will be judged by two important literary authorities of Norwich, and the prizes will be awarded from the stage according to the judges' decision. Everybody, young or old, is invited to participate in this unusual and interesting contest. Manager Fitz announces he has been challenged by all the other theatres in the chain of which the Broadway is a part, and is depending on the excellence of his programs and the friendly interest of his patrons to put him over the top for the circuit prize for the best business report for the month.

Broadway Theatre.

Brandon Trent, well known in the lower strata of society in far-off Calcutta, was found mysteriously murdered in his apartment. The British secret police, not worried much at his death, figured him as just another rotter who got his just reward, and were more or less apathetic in their efforts to round up the assassin. One of Trent's friends, dissatisfied with the official attitude toward the case, took up the investigation, but lost his own life in doing so. A queer old lady whom he had engaged, and who was known to have spiritualistic powers, continued the search, because her daughter was suspected of the crime. How this feeble old woman sprung her trap, using the dead man himself to convict the murderer, forms the basis of the story of The Thirteenth Chair, the all-talking thriller now playing the Broadway. The scenes are laid in and around Calcutta. On the same bill are shown Raymond Griffith in "The Sleeping Porch," a featured comedy, Harry Fox and His Chambermaids; Frances Williams and Her Yacht Club Boys in "On the High C's"; Derickson and Brown in a song and musical novelty, and the latest Fox movietone news. Saturday's program, which marks the beginning of the Broadway's "Greater Entertainment Month," is featured by the famous Duncan Sisters in their first all-talking comedy feature "It's a Great Life."

Burton's Agency Sells Another.

Mrs. Mary E. Murtagh, administratrix of the estate of Mary Leion, has sold to Joseph Cooper of this city the property located at No. 100 Thames street, consisting of an eight room house and store connected.

The sale was negotiated through the real estate agency of Mrs. Rosa E. Burton.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*
By refraining from over-indulgence

You men who would keep trim and fit . . . you women who covet the tantalizing curves of the truly modern figure—when tempted to do yourself too well, light a Lucky instead. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. Eat healthfully but not immoderately. When your eyes are bigger than your stomach, light a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence, if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette you ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

"It's toasted"

*Be Moderate! . . . Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our nephew and brother, Alme G. Pepin, whom God called home January 30, 1929.

You are not forgotten, dear Alme,
  nor will you ever be;
As long as life and memory last, we will remember thee.
You suffered much, you murmured not;
We watched you from early morn
  till evening close;
With broken hearts we saw you pass away;
Friends may think that you are forgotten,
But the wound is as fresh today
As the day you left us brokenhearted,
Just a year ago today.

MISSES FAUCHER AND ANITA PEPIN.

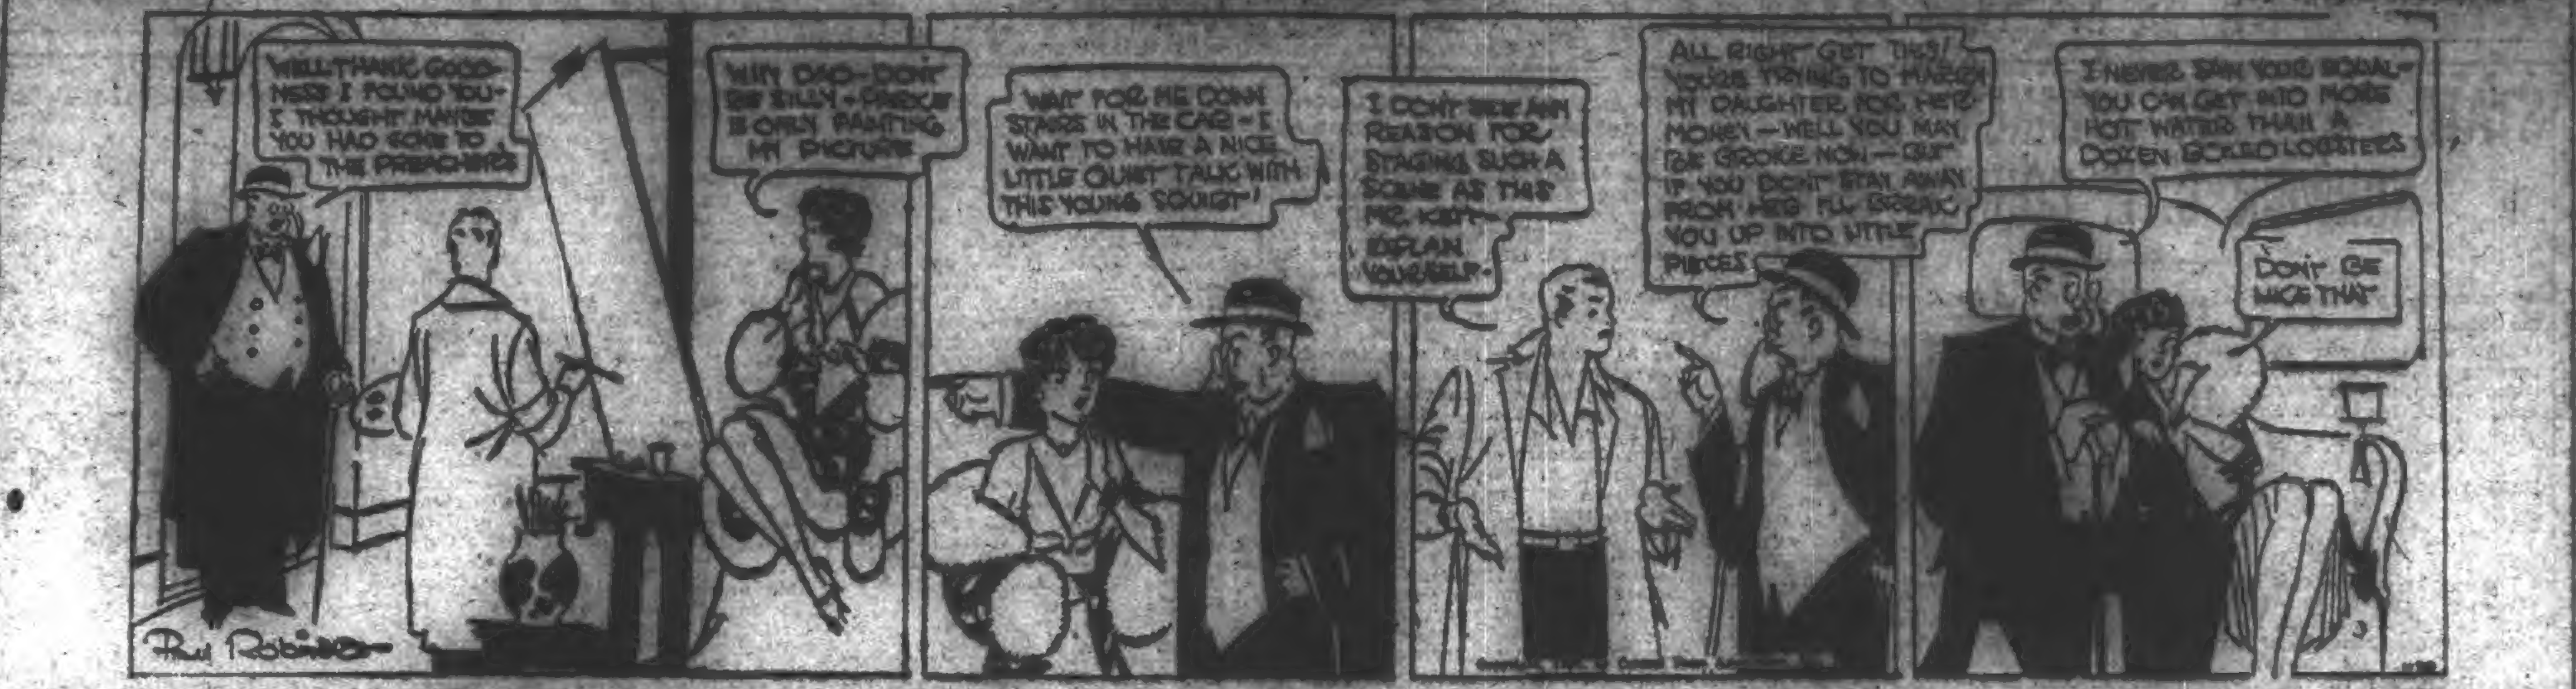
DAD TO THE RESCUE !

—By PAUL ROBINSON



WELL, THANK GOODNESS I FOUND YOU—I THOUGHT MAYBE YOU HAD GONE TO THE PREACHER'S
WHY DAD—DON'T BE SILLY—FREDDIE IS ONLY PAINTING MY PICTURE
WAIT FOR ME DOWN STAIRS IN THE CAR—I WANT TO HAVE A NICE LITTLE QUIET TALK WITH THIS YOUNG SQUIRT!
I DON'T SEE ANY REASON FOR STAGING SUCH A SCENE AS THIS MR. KETT—EXPLAIN YOURSELF.
ALL RIGHT—GET THIS! YOU'RE TRYING TO MARRY MY DAUGHTER FOR HER MONEY—WELL YOU MAY BE BROKE NOW—BUT IF YOU DON'T STAY AWAY FROM HER I'LL BREAK YOU UP INTO LITTLE PIECES
I NEVER SAW YOUR EQUAL—YOU CAN GET INTO MORE HOT WATER THAN A DOZEN BOILED LOBSTERS
DON'T BE MEAN THAT

The Executor appeared in Court and filed a written application alleging that said estate is now in settlement in said Court, and praying for an order to sell certain real estate belonging to said estate, fully described in said application.

Whereupon, it is Ordered, That said application be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in Montville, in said District, on the 4th day of February, A. D. 1930, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, and that notice of the pendency of said application, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District at least 4 days prior to the date of said hearing, and that return be made to the Court.

DAN D. HOME, Judge.

The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.

Attest, CARRIE W. CRAIG, Clerk.

LENA SCHWARTZ VS. ABE SCHWARTZ, supplemental order of notice.

State of Connecticut, County of New London, ss. January 23rd, 1930.

Upon the complaint of the said Lena Schwartz claiming for the reasons therein set forth a divorce and a change of the plaintiff's name, now pending before this Court, having been returned thereto on the first Tuesday of October, 1929;

It appearing to and being found by this Court that Abe Schwartz, the said defendant, is gone to parts unknown and that notice of the pendency of the complaint was given as required by order of notice heretofore issued, and now the plaintiff asks for a further order of notice in the premises.

Therefore ordered, that notice of the pendency of said complaint be given by publishing this order in The Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper printed in Norwich, Connecticut, once a week for two successive weeks, commencing on or before the 15th day of February, 1930.

By order of Court,
WILLIAM H. SHIELDS, Jr.,
Assistant Clerk of the Superior Court for New London County.

WINDHAM

The annual roll call and business meeting of the Congregational church was held Friday evening. A supper of hot meat loaf, escalloped potato, rolls, cabbage salad, cake, ice cream and coffee was served to about 80. At the business session the pastor, Rev. E. L. Smiley, presided. The clerk and treasurer, H. C. Lathrop, stated that conditions were better than for a number of years. There is a membership of 190. The benevolences were $345, of which $140 was credited to the church school, Eden C. Cook; member Lathrop said that finances warranted a substantial increase in the pastor's salary. Supt. Eden Cook reported a membership of 85 in the church school with an average attendance of 21. There are 14 in the cradle roll and 14 in the home department. The receipts were $116, with $32.63 on hand. Mrs. Eden Cook gave the report of the Ladies' Aid society with receipts of $758 and $127, on hand. The reports of Miss Dorothy Brown, secretary, and Mrs. Clara Jenison, treasurer of the Missionary society were given. Cassius Barstow spoke for the C. E. society with its 32 members who carry on the Sunday evening services. The former officers were re-elected; church clerk and treasurer, H. C. Lathrop; superintendent large percentage of church members church committee for three years, Rev. W. M. Brown; delegate to conferences, Rev. W. M. Brown; alternate, Mrs. Alfred Harvey, music committee, Mrs. A. E. Harvey, Mrs. F. E. Guild, Eden Cook. Mention was made of the gift of $25 from Miss Clare Bass of Ohio and gifts from Misses Anna and Grace Bates of Hartford and Miss Margaret Bixby, a student in Oxford college, England, absent members. After the roll call, Rev. E. F. Smiley gave a brief address.

The C. E. meeting Sunday evening was led by Rev. E. L. Smiley and an interesting discussion was held in ways of improving church and C. E. services and how to interest the large percentage of church members who seldom or never attend services.

Miss Marie Rizzo has returned from a two weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. John F. Woods, who is spending the winter in New York. Mr. and Mrs. Woods were recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bates of Chicago, while Mr. Woods was on a business trip to Minneapolis.

A splendid sermon on the Five-Power Armament conference was preached by Rev. E. F. Smiley Sunday. As a violin offertory solo John Dean played Menuetto in G.

The C. E. society is planning a special C. E. day program for Sunday evening, the 49th anniversary of the founding of Christian Endeavor.

Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Guild, Mrs. Charles Larrabee, Mrs. Ada Larrabee, Misses Clara and Sara Johnson, Mrs. E. F. Smiley, Miss Gertrude Arnold, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Leffingwell, Mrs. Vantine Anderson, Miss Dorothy Brown were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Abbe of South Windham at a bridge party Saturday night. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. George Stiles and Miss Sara Abbe of South Windham and Mr. Scates of Trinity college, Hartford. Prizes were won by Miss Clara Johnson and Mr. Stiles, Miss Brown and Mr. Leffingwell.

The Grenfell society met with Mrs. Charles Larrabee Monday afternoon.

Francis Wood returned to his studies in the Hartford School for the Blind, Tuesday, after ten days at home, having been ill with pharyngitis.

SOMERS

The subject of Rev. Edwin T. Jones' sermon Sunday morning was "Christian World Friendship."

The Somers Choral society met with Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Percival Monday evening.

The Enfield C. E. Union held its mid-winter meeting in the Somers church Friday evening. Members of the Ladies' Aid society provided them supper in Piedmont hall. Following the C. E. meeting Charles Brandon Booth gave an address on "The Just So High Man." Mr. Booth is as was said of him "brilliant and soul-stirring" in his addresses.

Rev. Edwin T. Jones is to give a series of six lectures at a young people's institute to be held on successive Friday evenings in Methodist churches of Rockville, Manchester, South Manchester, East Hartford and Hockanum.

The local town clerk Miss Elsie Burdon is in the Stafford hospital where she is ill with appendicitis.

Mrs. Anna Chapin of Agawam, Mass., is spending a fortnight with her daughter Mrs. Arthur Keery.

The new Kibbe Fuller school was dedicated last week Monday evening. The dedication services were held in the assembly hall of the schoolhouse. The school was a gift of Judge Ernest S. Fuller and Mrs. Mabel Kibbe Fuller in memory of Mrs. Fuller's grandmother Mrs. Mabel G. Fuller. The program of the service of dedication follows: Stein's orchestra of Rockville; invocation, Rev. Edwin T. Jones; vocal solos, Mrs. Ruth Hurd Pinney; introduction, School Supervisor Arthur L. Young; presentation of the school building by Judge Fuller, unveiling of tablet which reads: "The Kibbe Fuller School Presented to the Town of Somers in Memory of Mabel G. Kibbe by Ernest S. and Mabel K. Fuller, 1929" by Miss Charlotte K. Fuller, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Fuller; Acceptance by James W. Wood, member of Somers school committee who in turn gave the gift to First Selectman Louis A. Goudy. Vocal solos, Harry Hutchinson of Hartford; address, N. Searl Light of Conn. State Board of Education; responsive services; selection by orchestra; a talk, Mrs. Hazel B. Clough, principal of the school; "The Building," William Thomas Towne, architect of Towner-Sellen Associates of The Manchester Construction Co. An unexpected number on the program was the presentation of a beautiful silver loving cup to Judge and Mrs. Fuller by the people of the town. Rev. E. T. Jones, pastor of the local church, made the presentation and expressed the appreciation felt by the townspeople. America, by all; benediction, Rev. E. M. Hussey of Somersville Congregational church. Public inspection of the building; the orchestra. The accompanist was Mrs. Clarabell Lisle, music supervisor of the Somers schools. The school has five class rooms, playrooms, kitchen, teachers' room and is fitted with the best of everything. The cost of building was about $70,000.

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The disturbance that was central over western Quebec Tuesday night has moved eastward to Newfoundland with a marked increase in intensity, and the slight disturbance that was over the western Gulf of Mexico is centered over northern Florida and moving east northeastward.

The Florida disturbance will move northeastward over the ocean and it will likely cause snow Thursday from North Carolina to the coast of Maine. Otherwise generally fair weather will prevail Thursday and Friday in the Washington forecast area.

The temperature will continue low east of the Appalachian mountains Thursday, but the weather will become warmer throughout the eastern states during Friday.

Storm warnings are displayed on the Atlantic coast from Jacksonville, Florida, to Sandy Hook, New Jersey.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook—Increasing north and northeast winds, probably becoming strong over south portion, and overcast weather followed by snow Thursday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras—Strong northeast and north winds, possibly of gale force, and overcast thick weather with rain over south and snow or rain over north portion Thursday.

Forecast

For southern New England—Cloudy and continued cold probably snow in east and south portion Thursday; Friday fair with rising temperature.

GIRLS CLUB HAS HOME NURSING DEMONSTRATION

The regular meeting of St. Mary's Girls club was held Monday evening in St. Mary's Memorial hall and after the business meeting Miss Marie Gadle gave an interesting demonstration in home nursing with Miss Alice Lenoie a member taking the role of a patient. This is the first of a series of lessons to be given by Miss Gadle. The bed used in the demonstration was loaned through the courtesy of the Plaut-Cadden Co. A social hour followed, during which refreshments were served by the entertainment committee, assisted by Mrs. Michael J. Farrell and the officers of the club.

Miss Isabel Flynn, a student at New Rochelle college, New York, is spending a few days with her aunt, Mrs. Homer Larose of Fourth street.

A benefit card party was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Hall of Russell road with ten tables in play, five tables each of whist and pinochle. Mrs. F. Robinson was awarded first ladies prize in pinochle while Mrs. Charles McMillan won second and Mrs. Frank Prodell was awarded consolation prize. William Banfield was awarded first mens pinochle prize, Fred Moll, second and Frank Prodell, consolation. May Adams was the winner of the first ladies whist prize, Miss Iola Shaw, second and Mrs. Morie consolation. John McNeil was awarded first gents prize, Frederick Johnson, second and James Johnson consolation. The proceeds of the successful affair will be added to St. Andrew's Episcopal church treasury.

DELIGHTFUL SHOWER FOR MISS SARAZELWSKA

A miscellaneous shower was held Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Sarazelwska in honor of their daughter, Miss Jennie Beatrice Sarazewska of 36 St. Regis avenue, who was married Tuesday at St. Joseph's church to Edward Pruknesko. Twenty-five of her friends were present. During the evening piano and vocal solos were rendered. Mrs. Joseph Skindzier gave an illustration of toe dancing, accompanied on the piano by Miss Lottie Sarazewska. Many games were played and enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sarazewska, assisted by the Misses Harriet and Lottie Sarazewska and Anna Skindzier. The hostess was the recipient of many beautiful and useful gifts. Among those present were Misses Cassie Rodzay, Helen Narocky, Stella Rodzay, Sophia Osiak, Pauline Rodzay, Justine Osiak, Harriet Skindzier, Mrs. Beatrice Martin, Mrs. Alice McQuarrie, Mrs. Ann McQuarrie, Miss Josephine Skindzier, Miss Helen Koske, Mrs. Anna Skindzier, Mrs. Jennie Sarazewska, Miss Lottie Sarazewska, Miss Harriet Sarazewska, Miss Agnes Dudkowski, Mrs. Joseph Skindzier and Mrs. Paulina Sarazewska. The party broke up at a late hour, all present wishing the bride-to-be success and prosperity in her newly married life.

The Greeneville H club met Monday evening in the club rooms on Fourth street. Regular business was transacted with President Wallace Atterbury presiding. After the meeting a pinochle contest was held with Horace Woolley awarded first prize while second prize went to Raymond Kirby.

STATE PRESIDENT SPEAKER FOR NORWICH C. E. COUNCIL MEETING

The annual meeting and banquet of the Norwich Christian Endeavor Union executive council was held Wednesday evening at the Preston City Baptist church. Supper was served at 6:30 o'clock with the following menu:

Tomato Soup a la Mode
Chicken Pie
Mashed Potatoes Carrots Peas
Pickles
Rolls Coffee Ice Cream
Cakes

The speaker of the evening was Rev. Vernon Phillips of Kensington, president of the Connecticut State C. E. Union and his theme was "Youth Ideal for 1930." In part Rev. Mr. Phillips said: What are the ideals of youth by which the young people live? There are only two ways in life, selfishness and altruism. Youth is looking in the direction of altruism. It is not stylish to be selfish. The biggest job is getting rid of selfishness and living for others.

Jesus never had a social contact but that He left the other person better than He found him. This is a challenge for the young people to raise for their ideal. Young people of today are not bound to custom. Jesus never broke a custom but that He replaced it with an ideal that was better. He was not afraid to risk His life when He was sure He was right. Young people when thinking seriously are not afraid of things they believe in. If we want to be in step we must live on the basis of altruism.

A vote of thanks was given to the entertaining society, and the meeting was dismissed with prayer by Rev. P. A. Kilmister of the First Baptist church and the C. E. benediction.

During the evening two selections were rendered by Stephen Gorski of the Goshen church. There was an attendance of about 75 at the meeting.

SUITS FOR FORECLOSURE ON NORWICH PROPERTY

Three foreclosure suits upon property in this city were among the new superior court suits filed here Wednesday with Clerk John H. Walker.

John A. and Helen P. Johnson are defendants in a foreclosure suit brought by the Chelsea Savings bank on a $12,000 mortgage on property on Central avenue and Sixth street. The mortgage was dated Jan. 21, 1925, and taxes due to the city and town of Norwich amount to $1,936.07, according to the papers. A receiver of rents is asked for in the suit.

Jennie May Lee of this city sues for foreclosure against Walter W. Lang of a $2,300 mortgage, dated July 1, 1912, on property on Winchester street. Party defendants named are Ignatius J. Murphy of Somerville, Mass., claiming a $1,250 mortgage, Schwartz Furniture company of New London, claiming a judgment lien for $144.24, and Charles S. Storms, administrator of the state of Joseph Prentice Storms, claiming an attachment lien.

For foreclosure of a mortgage on premises at Thames park, dated Dec. 17, 1923, the Chelsea Savings bank is suing Henry and Alice Valliquette. Party defendants named are Carrie B. Gallup, claiming a $135 mortgage, John and Alice Izbicki, claiming a bond for deed on the property. It is stated that there are $114.28 due the city for taxes.

MADE FRAUD CLAIM IN FRANKLIN FARM SALE

On the ground that all the representations made to them to induce them to buy a farm in Franklin were false, Maria Dilanzafami of West New York, N. J., and Giovanni Vitali of New York city have brought suit in the superior court here against Morris Schwartz and Abraham Schulman, Franklin for $1,500 damages and cancellation of an agreement to purchase the place, which is known as the Armstrong farm.

The purchase agreement, made in writing, set the price of the farm at $18,000 for real and personal property, on which $1,000 was paid down in cash, $3,000 to be paid on or before Feb. 9, 1930 and $3,050 payable $1,000, yearly with the assumption of mortgages totalling $11,750 to the Norwich Savings society and Clarence Sholes.

The plaintiffs claim that they have found out the farm is not worth $18,000, that it was assessed for $7,700 in the town of Franklin and that it contained 183 acres instead of the 200 acres as represented to them. Further that it was represented that the only encumbrances on the place were the bank and the Sholes mortgages on which nothing need be paid till the third mortgage was liquidated, that apples from the farm had been sold for $4,000 in 1929 and that milk was selling at 12 cents wholesale from the cows which the sellers of the farm owned. The plaintiffs claim that the sellers did not own the cows, that no such sum as $4,000 was received from the sale of apples, that milk sold for only 9 1-4 cents a quart, that the farm was not free and clear except for the two mortgages named and that large sums were payable on the principal of the mortgages.

Upon demanding their money back, it was refused and they brought suit.

SUES TO HAVE DEEDS OF TWO FARMS RE-FORMED

Suit to correct and re-form deeds given by the late Paul F. Werth of farm property in the town of Franklin has been brought in the superior court by his widow and administrator of his estate, Anna Werth, of this city, against William and Rosi Lychack, Henry and Anna Monar, all of Franklin. The suit is returnable in February, the papers having been filed here Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff George Hoxie, Jr., with the court clerk, John H. Walker.

The property is on the road from North Franklin to Sprague. Mr. Werth deeded one piece to the Lychack defendants on Oct. 1, 1920, and another piece to the Monars on Jan. 18, 1921. According to the complaint in the case, there was scarcely anything right in the deeds that were written to show the directions and location of boundary lines.

The Lychack family, it is claimed, is willing to have the deeds re-formed, but the Monars refuse, and their refusal makes it impracticable to re-form the Lychack deed.

BRINGS FORECLOSURE ON PROPERTY IN MONTVILLE

Foreclosure of a mortgage for $5,600 on 14 lots at Center Lisle terrace tract in the town of Montville is sought in a suit brought in the superior court against Irene M. Le Pre of this city by the Norwich Building and Loan association. The mortgage was dated Feb. 8, 1923, and a mortgage of $380 is claimed against the property by Jacob R. Slosberg and another mortgage for $469.05 by Joseph Connor and Sons, Inc. The suit is returnable in December.

Patients Dismissed at Hospital

Dismissals of patients at the Backus hospital Wednesday were the following: Andrew Przekop, 87 Fifth street; Clarence Miner, R. F. D. No. 7; Miss Hilda Von Tassel and Miss Helen Towers, both of Backus hospital; Mrs. Weston Goodnow and infant daughter, 68 McKinley avenue; Mrs. Emery H. Davis and infant son, 55 Palmer street.

Fined in City Court

At the city court session Wednesday morning Charles Satiewicz of No. 40 North Cliff street was fined $5 and costs on a charge of failure to grant the right of way. He was arrested Tuesday afternoon after the touring car he was driving collided with another machine near the Greeneville car barn.

COMPLETED DOCK CONTRACT AT DAWLEY'S, FORT POINT

The Saybrook Dredging Co. has just completed a contract for the H. F. & A. J. Dawley Co. of this city at its plant at Fort Point on the Thames river. The Dawley Co. is one of the largest dealers in heavy timber in New England, bringing material in deep sea vessels from gulf ports and the west coast. For many years it has been necessary to remove upwards of half the cargo of these vessels at New London in order to lighter the cargoes to the Dawley mill. During the past year the government has deepened the channel in the Thames above New London to a full 18-foot depth. Taking advantage of this, the Dawley Co. let a contract to the dredging company to dig a channel from the main ship channel in the river to its wharves, carrying the full 18-foot depth at low tide and taking the material removed in this work to make a "fill," increasing very considerably the lumber yard space. Deep sea Pacific coast ships will now be able to come directly to the Dawley wharves and discharge without delay or transfer of any part of their cargo.

SEA SLED CORPORATION DEVELOPS NEW MODELS

Three new models of Sea Sleds, two of which show radical departures from former styles in that they are small boats powered with high speed, light inboard motors, have been developed by the Sea Sled Corp., with main plant at West Mystic. The Sleds were on exhibition at the New York motor boat show, where they were decidedly popular.

The new inboard models are 17 and 20 feet long. The other new model, driven by an outboard motor, is 14 feet in length. Work on quantity production of the new models is being done at the West Mystic plant. The creation of the new boats, particularly those with the inboard motors, is expected to boom the business of the corporation.

There is now a range of ten models in the company's line, with a range in size from 12 feet to 28 feet.

The 13-foot boat developed last year by the company still is popular. At the New York show, Vincent Astor filed an order for one o fthe craft, his fourth Sea Sled. The boat is driven by an outboard motor.

TAFTVILLE

Rumor has it that a new state road is to be built from Versailles to the point in the town of Lisbon where the present country road joins the Jewett City road at the railroad bridge, known as the Newent Arch, one of the most dangerous spots on any state highway.

Windows of local stores tell of the approach of St. Valentine's day.

With a large attendance the regular business meeting which was followed by a social session of the St. Veronica's society was held Wednesday evening in the society's rooms on Providence street, with the president, Miss Mary Nolan presiding.

When Miss Agnes M. Dougherty entertained the members of her bridge club Monday evening at her home on Prentice street, the prizes were won by Miss Isabelle Vignot and Miss Betty Shannon.

The 26th annual dinner of the McKinley association of Connecticut will be held at the Hotel Elton in Waterbury on the evening of Thursday, Feb. 6. Franklin W. Fort, republican congressman from the ninth district of New Jersey and secretary of the republican national committee, Governor John H. Trumbull, Chairman J. Henry Roraback of the republican state central committee will be speakers. Senator Edward W. Goss of Waterbury will act as toastmaster and the invocation will be offered by Rev. Anthon T. Gesner of Waterbury.

NORWICH TOWN

During his sermon at the First Congregational church, at Sunday morning worship, the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, spoke impressively of "A Reasoning God." In his introductory remarks which concerned the naval conference in London, Rev. Mr. Bailey declared that God approaches a conference of men in a reasoning point of view, and unless men approach each other under similar conditions, that they may know each other's point of view, the conference will be unable to accomplish its purpose. In closing Rev. Mr. Bailey alluded to the fact that popular sentiment had much to do with it and unless people were in sympathy with it, the desired results would not be effected. The text was taken from Colossians.

Miss Eleanor Smith was leader of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service Sunday evening in the chapel when the topic treated was, "What Is Our Church Planning This Year?" (Denominational Day, Beginning Christian Endeavor week.)

The mid-week service of conference and prayer Thursday evening in the Congregational chapel is to be turned over to the Young People's C. E. society this week, they to have full charge. Miss Eleanor Smith will be in charge of this meeting in observance of Christian Endeavor week. She will be assisted in the service by other members. For the Sunday evening meeting of this society in the Congregational chapel, Rev. Wynn Fairfield, with the American Board, having recently returned from China, will be the special speaker.

The program committee of the Woman's department of the League of Service, Miss Susan C. Hyde, chairman, held an interesting meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Herbert L. Yerrington, at Peck's Corner.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy had as callers Sunday, Mrs. Mary Gaffney and daughter, Miss Marjory Gaffney, of Danielson, also Mrs. Kennedy's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Dwyer, of Webster, Mass.

Mrs. William Weaver, of Huntington avenue, is to be leader of a company of women Thursday afternoon who will visit Slater hall and make an inspection of the display of beautiful needle work on exhibition in Converse Art gallery. As leader of Norwich Town club of New London County Home and Farm Bureau, Mrs. Weaver has extended an invitation to all club members, also to the women members of the Methodist Episcopal parish, where she is an influential worker; and to any others interested to join the party. The time and place of meeting is two o'clock at Slater hall entrance. A special guide is to show this company around and all who attend have been asked to go in groups. Those who go by trolley have been asked to take the car leaving Yantic at 1.30 Thursday afternoon.

Norwich Town club of N. L. C. Home and Farm Bureau is formulating plans for a meeting to be held the early part of February in the vestry of the Methodist church. The instruction at this meeting will on re-seating chairs. The leader, Mrs. William Weaver, is to be notified by those proposing to attend, as early as possible this week, that she may know how much material to order through the demonstrator, Miss Ruth T. Russell, of Norwich.

Dr. and Mrs. Frank D. Coles, of 169 Harland road, motored over to Middletown Sunday afternoon to call on Dr. Coles' brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Ellsworth M. Bitgood. Dr. Bitgood, who has been in failing health since last September, a part of the time in Middletown hospital, during which his condition was considered very serious, shows marked improvement, and has been able to take three short automobile rides of late; though he is by no means back to normal condition. His illness was accompanied by a pronounced case of fever, which it seemed almost impossible to conquer. At the beginning Dr. Bitgood was confined to his bed for many weeks.

No More Piles

Pile sufferers can only get quick, safe and lasting relief by removing the cause—bad blood circulation in the lower bowel. Cutting and salves can't do this—an internal remedy must be used. Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid, a harmless tablet, succeeds because it relieves this blood congestion and strengthens the affected parts. Hem-Roid has a wonderful record for quick, safe, and lasting relief to Pile sufferers. It will do the same for you or money back. Don't Get Up Nights

Rev. D. Lee, Portsmouth, N. H., says, "Come or write to 101 Crescent Way and I will tell you how in a short time the bladder irritation was relieved by Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). My case was of long standing and painful. Was bothered 4 to 5 times each night." It acts on bladder as epsom salts do on bowels. Drives out foreign deposits and lessens excessive acidity. This relieves the irritation that causes getting up nights. The tablets cost 3c each at all drug stores. Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio, or locally at Lee and Osgood Co.

PROHIBITION IS PUSHING TARIFF ASIDE IN SENATE

Lively Debate Started When Senator Brookhart Read a Letter Stating That "Real Gin Cocktails" and "Fish House Rum Punch" Are Served In the Century Club In New York—Senator Bingham Demanded the Name of the Author, Which Brookhart Declined to Reveal—Senate and Galleries Roared With Laughter During the Debate.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—(AP)—A rough and tumble prohibition debate swept over the tariff-occupied senate today after Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, read part of a letter reporting that "real gin cocktails" and "fish house rum punch" are served in the Century club in New York city.

Refusing to name the author of the letter Senator Brookhart fought back at the wets when they challenged his assertions that "booze conditions" in New York city have improved.

Senator Tydings, democrat, Maryland, told Brookhart if he made a diligent search he could find 50 such clubs in any of the larger cities of the country. Brookhart replied to Tydings that he "belongs to that crowd which is absolutely crazy on this liquor issue."

Senator Copeland, democrat, New York, insisted the Iowa dry was "blind and deaf" in picturing an improvement of prohibition enforcement in New York city. The answer given him was that "even the policemen in New York city have to go to Canada to get their booze."

The Iowan warned that he had "more fish to fry later." He said he sent the letter to Chairman Wickersham of the law enforcement commission, with the "hope that at an early day he will be ready to advise us how to stop these violations of the liquor law in the Century club, 7 West 43rd street, New York."

Once before, Senator Brookhart reported to the senate some liquor drinking at a dinner party he attended in Washington, but after an investigation, the district grand jury failed to take any action.

The portion of the letter read by Brookhart was undated and unsigned. It bore the heading "Century Club, 7 West 43rd Street, New York City," and read:

"With all the chaotic conditions now surrounding the enforcement of the Volstead act, why not inquire sometime about the special privilege accorded this association where real gin cocktails are served at the monthly dinners usually attended by 100 to [illegible] members and then consider the wonderful fish house rum punch that appeared at the last New Year eve celebration?"

Senator Copeland wanted to know if Brookhart actually had been in the club. The Iowan replied that he had not, and the New Yorker said, "I wondered, because I can't get in there with a pick axe." Brookhart observed that Copeland was "personally dry."

Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, demanded that Senator Brookhart name the author but he declined with the remark that he would have more to report later.

When Brookhart had said that conditions have improved in New York, Senator Copeland inquired, "what conditions? Financial conditions?"

"Booze conditions", shouted back the Iowan, while the senate and the galleries roared with laughter.

"With the exception of those who naturally turn aside from a bad habit in a decade," replied Senator Copeland, "I am here to say that in my opinion every man in New York state who drank liquor ten years ago and is now alive is drinking liquor today and can get it.

"Further, in my opinion, there have been more accessions to the ranks of the drinkers in this 10 years than in any other decade that I can remember. I believe that in New York state today, and perhaps in every state—certainly in every state I know anything about—there are more persons drinking liquor now than did 10 years ago and that consumption of liquor disposed of by these people is greater than 10 years ago."

Senator Brookhart contended that "no law in the history of the world has been so successful."

"I will admit that," Tydings said. "There is no liquor on the outside for those who don't want it and the people who want it have all they want on the inside—so both sides are satisfied."

"May I say to the senator," Tydings continued, "that if he will take a week off and go to any large city in the country and diligently search around he will find a good many places where liquor is sold. In my judgment he can discover in almost every large city 50 places which are no different from that mentioned in the article he has just read."

"I can get all I want right here now," broke in Brookhart. "I will call the senator's attention to this fact: When Chicago had 7,000 open saloons, she had 12,000 speakeasies—12,000 of them—paying licenses to the government of the United States in violation of the state law."

The Maryland wet reported that 218 persons died of alcoholism last year and the government seized 250,000 stills. Computing the consumption of liquor on the basis of these statistics, Tydings said it must be the same today as before prohibition.

Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, suggested to Brookhart that he was violating the Volstead act by advertising where liquor can be obtained. Brookhart said he was not worried about that because of the guarantee of privilege to senators, and added: "So I am not particularly alarmed at the 'bigger shooter' from the senator the 'bigger shooter' from the senator from Wisconsin."

HOOVER MEMBER OF CENTURY ASSOCIATION

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—President Hoover is among a long list of distinguished members of the Century association, the club referred to today in a letter read in the senate by Senator Brookhart.

Officers of the association could not be reached for comment on the charges contained in the letter. A clerk at the club said:

"The club is one of the most exclusive in New York. It was founded by William Cullen Bryant. Although its spirit is essentially artistic it does not limit itself to artists. Its membership includes many distinguished persons.

"It operates an art exhibit every month, and because of its varied membership it is able to provide its members with regular lectures by members which may deal with anything from playwrighting to deep-sea fishing or politics."

Among the members of the club listed in the latest edition of "Club Members of New York" are: Roy Chapman Andrews, Paul D. Cravath, Frank H. Damrosch, Walter Damrosch, Dr. John Huston Finley, Dr. Simon Flexner, the Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, Hamlin Garland, General James G. Harbord, Bishop William T. Manning, Don Marquis, John Bassett Moore, Rev. Dr. Karl Reiland, Otis Skinner, Edward H. Sothern and Augustus Thomas.

SEVEN ARRESTS OF ALLEGED BAND OF BOOTLEGGERS

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Jan. 30—(AP)—State and federal officers joined forces today and arrested seven men in a second attack on an alleged band of bootleggers who last night killed a deputy sheriff in a gun battle when a group of officers raided a Sandia mountain ranch.

The mountain fastness bristled with gunfire last night when the officers swept into one of the remote regions where people of pioneer stock still live to themselves and where each man makes his own laws. Deputy Sheriff Emilio Candelaria was shot to death and one of the alleged bootleggers was wounded.

Gregario Espinosa, 45, stands charged with first degree murder for the death of Candelaria, six other farmers alleged to be moonshiners are in jail in Albuquerque, and another is sought by officers.

It was the second raid in two weeks on the ranch of Procopio Espinosa near Sedilla, N. M., 26 miles from Albuquerque in the Sandia mountains and in each visit the officers had difficulty in finding evidence.

At the time of the raid two weeks ago men of the ranch threatened the officers. Last night their threats broke into a gun battle and after Candelaria's death the raiding party withdrew while a posse was gathered in Albuquerque.

LIQUOR GRAFT TRACED TO STATE CAPITAL OF OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 30—(AP)—Herbert K. Hyde, assistant United States district attorney, asserted in court today that money collected in an alleged widespread liquor conspiracy in Pottawatomie county would be traced to the "state capitol of Oklahoma." The assertion was made in Hyde's opening statement in the trial of more than 30 defendants in federal court on charges of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law.

SEARCHING UNDERWORLD OF CHICAGO FOR BOMBERS

CHICAGO, Jan. 30—(AP)—The underworld was searched today for the perpetrators of three crimes which left two men shot to death, another dying of bullet wounds, and a mass of debris to mark the place where a powerful bomb played havoc with a wholesale grocery firm.

The slain men were Barney Mitchell, treasurer of the Checker Taxi company and George Jackson, a Checker cab driver. Both were found dead in Jackson's bullet splintered cab.

John Genaro, reputed racketeer, was shot down by two gunmen after he had been "put on the spot" at a Chinatown restaurant, with five bullet wounds portending his death. Genaro "sang to the cops," violating one of gangland's unwritten laws by "squawking." He named Lewis De Lucha and Angelo Lucci as his assailants, and accused James Belcastro, of "putting him on the spot." Belcastro was arrested, but denied complicity in the shooting.

INCREASE IN LOANS TO BROKERS AND DEALERS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York federal reserve members banks for the week ending January 29, were announced by the federal reserve board today as $3,445,000,000, representing an increase of $4,000,000 as compared with the preceding week.

OBITUARY

Most Rev. Charles P. Anderson

CHICAGO, Jan. 30—(AP)—Most Rev. Charles Palmerston Anderson, who gave 41 years to the service of his church, died today just eleven weeks after his elevation to the primacy.

Death for the second time in three months had made vacant the highest office in the Protestant Episcopal church of the United States of America.

For 25 years the bishop of Chicago, Bishop Anderson put on the robe of presiding bishop and accepted the added labor of his double office last Nov. 13 in the full knowledge that a frail heart might yield to overstrain at any moment.

Yet in the weeks that followed his election he gave time and energy without stint, traveling between his Chicago home and the church headquarters in New York. Nine days ago he was prostrated by a heart attack.

For two years, his physicians said he had been a sufferer from angina pectoris, sustaining life only with the aid of a powerful drug.

Bishop Anderson was 64 years old. He was born in Ontario, Sept. 8, 1865. His last official act was the dictation, during an interval of consciousness Tuesday, of a call for election of a bishop coadjutor of Chicago at next week's diocesan convention. The coadjutor would have succeeded him as bishop of Chicago. Instead, it was expected the convention would elect a new bishop.

CABLE PARAGRAPHS

BRUSSELS, Jan. 30—(AP)—Pending solution of disarmament problems, Belgium is prepared to spend this year $35,130,000 for its army as against $34,500,000 last year.

MOSCOW, Jan. 30—(AP)—A bundle of junk will be the admittance price to a special concert tomorrow night by Anna Luboshitz, a well known cellist who has played before American audiences.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Jan. 30—(AP)—An appeal for a popular election of the legislative assembly of Haiti under American supervision, is contained in a 7,000 word message which the National League of Constitutional Action has forwarded to President Hoover.

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Jan. 30—(AP)—Lions and other wild and ferocious beasts in northern and southern Rhodesia and Tanganyika can rest in peace. It was announced that the Prince of Wales, who had planned a shooting and photographic trip in those districts, had revised his plans because of weather conditions.

MORE THAN A FOOT OF SNOW IN WASHINGTON YESTERDAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Snowflakes swirling hour after hour dressed Washington deeply in white today to the delight of the children and the dismay of persons in a hurry.

Just as with Herbert Hoover, the thousands of government workers found their getting to work presented a problem out of the ordinary. The president, whose temporary office is only across the street from the white house, avoided walking through the snow by being driven from his front door to the state department building.

The snowfall was the heaviest since the record day eight years ago this week, when the weight of 28 inches led to the loss of 98 lives in the crash of the Knickerbocker moving picture theatre roof. By late afternoon the foot deep mark had been passed, with flurries still dotting the air as twilight approached—and a probable 16 degrees above zero forecast for tonight. No serious accidents were reported during the day.

TWO EXECUTIONS AT SING SING LAST NIGHT

OSSINING, N. Y., Jan. 30—(AP)—Frank Plaia and Michael Sclafoni were executed in the electric chair at Sing Sing prison tonight for the slaying, a year ago, of Sorro Graziano and his wife at Franklin Square, N. Y.

Plaia entered the death chamber first. He carried a lighted cigaret and smiled, but made no remarks.

Sclafoni followed him closely. He dusted off the seat of the electric chair before sitting down.

The slaying for which they were electrocuted was allegedly committed to silence Graziano, who was said to be a former member of the gang to which the two belonged. After Graziano had reformed, other members of the gang feared he might testify against one of their number who was to be re-tried for a holdup. Plaia and Sclafoni lured Graziano and his young wife to a lonely bungalow at Franklin Square and shot them to death.

PANTAGES' PETITION FOR RELEASE ON BAIL DENIED

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 30—(AP)—Alexander Pantages, multi-millionaire showman in jail here pending his appeal from conviction of criminally assaulting 17-year-old Eunice Pringle, again today was refused release on bail. Superior Judge Fricke ruled that the showing made by Pantages' attorneys "is no more sufficient to justify release on bail than the last showing in the latter part of December."

Simultaneously Judge Fricke denounced what he called "ex-parte efforts of members of the defendant's family to influence this court" to favor the release. He said Mrs. Lois Pantages had appealed in a three-page letter for consideration of her husband, saying he was "a very sick man" who was "needed at home by his sick wife and his children."

GARMENTS NOT THOSE OF DOROTHY BALDWIN

ORANGE, Conn., Jan. 30—(AP)—Examination of a bundle of knife-slashed, bloodstained clothes found just off the Derby turnpike near Maltby lake, here, January 30, convinced police today that they were not garments worn by Dorothy Baldwin, 20, Bridgeport girl missing since January 2.

Authorities are now turning their attention toward learning whether the clothing belonged to Frances Reynolds who disappeared from her Litchfield home a few days after the Baldwin girl vanished.

Police here said today they are convinced the wearer was slain, evidently having been stabbed to death. Blood stained the holes in the upper part of the dress.

MAY REVIVE CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING OF TOBACCO

HARTFORD, Jan. 30—(AP)—Cooperative marketing of tobacco, dormant and unpopular in the Connecticut valley since the collapse of the Connecticut Valley Tobacco Growers' association, again has been brought to the attention of representative tobacco men by the federal farm board, created by congress to aid cooperative marketing associations with money and advice. J. J. Scanlon of the farm board's crop marketing division, has been the representative of the board here.

Any such association must be formed, at least as a temporary organization, before the farm board will extend aid, Mr. Scanlon has informed growers.

FOUND HELMET AND GLOVES OF EIELSON AND BORLAND

NOME, Alaska, Jan. 30—(AP)—The flying helmet and gloves of Earl Borland, Seattle mechanic, who disappeared with Carl Ben Eielson, noted Arctic pilot, on a flight over Siberia Nov. 9, were found today among the wreckage of Eielson's plane which was buried in snow ten miles from the Arctic ocean and ninety miles southeast of North Cape, Siberia.

GIRL STRUCK AND INJURED BY AUTOMOBILE

NORWALK, Jan. 30—(AP)—Miss Nora Qualey, 18, was struck and injured tonight by an automobile driven by William A. Wilkinson of Hartford. Miss Qualey was taken to the Norwalk hospital, where it was said she was suffering from shock and body bruises. Her condition is not considered serious.

Escaped Ct. Convicts Pleaded N[redacted] Guilty

Were Arrai Jacksonville, F harged With Murde etective Smith.

JACKS LE, Fla., Jan. 30—(AP)—Pleas o guilty were entered by three escaped Connecticut convicts when they were arraigned today on indictments charging them with the murder of Detective W. D. Smith during a gun battle here January 17.

Shackled and heavily guarded, the convicts, Watson Moulthrope, Roland Lalone and Leo Landry, were taken from the county jail and arraigned before Circuit Judge G. C. Gibbs.

Judge Gibbs said setting of a trial date would be left to State's Attorney Charles Durrance, who said he would ask death sentences for the trio. Durrance previously had said he would seek to bring the men to trial during April or May.

Indictments against the convicts, returned by a county grand jury yesterday, contained four counts. The first charged them jointly with murder. The others charge each of them directly as being the slayer and name the other two as accessories.

Detective Smith was fatally shot and Detective Willie Jones seriously wounded when they attempted to arrest the convicts on suspicion that the car they were driving had been stolen in Massachusetts. The bandits escaped from the Connecticut prison recently and were traced to Florida. Landry was captured here shortly after the shooting and Moulthrope and Lalone were arrested in Pensacola.

EXPLOSION IN GASOLINE PLANT KILLED FOREMAN

FRESNO, Cal., Jan. 30—(AP)—The new gasoline absorption plant of the Petroleum Securities company, eighteen miles southwest of Coalinga, was destroyed early today in a series of explosions and a fire which killed the foreman and injured five other men.

Loss was limited to the plant itself, constructed at a cost of $500,000 and opened for operation last Friday; 25,000 barrels of gasoline stored in the tanks at the plant, and wet gas from the nearby Felix well, which the plant served.

Charles L. Phillips of Los Angeles, foreman of the night crew who would have been off duty had the blast been delayed only a few minutes, died as he tried to save the plant from further damage by shutting off the flow of gasoline from the huge stills.

While the cause of the explosion still was to be determined, officials of the Felix company, which hold a half interest in the plant said a preliminary survey indicated there had been no [illegible].

Those injured included Dana Hogan, manager of the plant; George Thompson, member of the night crew; H. M. Harris of the Petroleum Securities company, Ed Fulgam, proprietor of a small restaurant near the plant, and Roger Boice, assistant field superintendent for Western States Gas.

NEW SPANISH GOVERNMENT ASSUMED POWER LAST NIGHT

MADRID, Jan. 30—(AP)—The new government headed by General Damaso Berenguer officially came into power this evening, ending the six-year dictatorship of General Primo De Rivera. The new premier and most of his ministers took their oaths of office at the royal palace shortly after six p. m.

Make-up of cabinet:

Premier and minister of army—Gen. Damaso Berenguer.

Interior—Gen. Enrique Marzo.

Finance and economy—Manuel Arguelles.

Public works—Leopoldo Matos.

Public instruction—the Duke of Alba.

Marine—Vice Admiral Salvador Carvia.

Labor and pensions—Pedro Sangro Y Ros De Olcano.

Justice of worship—Jose Estrada.

The cabinet contains no portfolio for foreign affairs as the premier automatically acts as foreign minister.

Primo De Rivera intends in a few days to go to his home town, Jerez De La Frontera, and devote himself to a simple life. "No, I will not write a history of the dictatorship," he said tonight "I leave that to a better writer than I am."

ANIMATED DISCUSSION OVER LENGTH OF SKIRTS

PARIS, Jan. 30—(AP)—The temporary lull in summer style shows here today gave everybody a chance to do some thinking with tape measures.

The American buying group is not agreed on the best length for sport skirts so far, but the average simmers down to something like 15 to 18 inches from the floor, which is slightly below the top of the calf.

Street and tailored clothes average an inch more, bringing them within a foot of the ground. Afternoon dresses range from the top of the calf to ankle length.

And the evening dresses are growing longer and longer, they no longer stop at the floor at some houses but lie around the feet in billows and folds.

CLERGYMAN CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTED MURDER

OTTAWA, Ill., Jan. 30—(AP)—Rev. James A. Wilson, 30-year-old Mendota, Ill., Methodist minister, was formally charged with attempted murder by State's Attorney Russel O. Hanson today, and was removed to the Lasalle county jail to await action of the grand jury.

Wilson shot Amos Elliott, church janitor, and the latter's wife in their home last night during a struggle for possession of a letter which the minister had written to a woman member of his congregation. He then turned the gun on himself, but inflicted only slight scalp injuries.

Rev. Wilson told police that he was "rendered furious, with mind a complete blank," in the controversy over the letter.

MAJOR AND MRS. COOLIDGE TO ATTEND YALE JUNIOR PROM

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 30—(AP)—Major John Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge, the former Florence Trumbull, are among the guests who will attend the junior prom at Yale next Monday night. Their names are included in the prom directory which went to press today.

To Urge Designation Of National Anthem

Patriotic Organizations to Advocate Adoption of "The Star Spangled Banner."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Flourishing a revised copy of music for "The Star Spangled Banner" with the high notes eliminated to make singing easier, a committee representing virtually every patriotic organization in the country tomorrow will urge congress to designate the song as the national anthem.

The 50 or more men and women will appear before the judiciary committee of the house with a petition signed by 5,000,000 persons.

Not only will they present the revised copy of the famous old tune—they will take along an attractive soprano as exhibit "A" to prove to the objectors that the "Rocket's red glare, bomb's bursting in air" no longer soar too high for the average voice.

For three years, the national Americanization committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars has been working to have "The Star Spangled Banner" officially recognized by congress as the national anthem. Last year a bill was introduced but never reported out of committee. At the hearing the objection was raised that no ordinary gathering or no ordinary soprano can get to "The land of the free" without a breakdown."

So Christian A. Praetorious has made a transposition which keeps the original tune, but in a lower octave. Those sponsoring the transposition consider the song better adapted now to the basses than to the sopranos.

Elsie Jorss-Reilley, soprano, will sing it tomorrow before the judiciary committee while the Stars and Stripes are unfurled and the petition is presented by Walter I. Joyce of New York, director of the national Americanization committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FUNERAL IN NEW HAVEN OF COL. ISAAC M. ULLMAN

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 30—(AP)—With many civic and business representatives of city and state attending, as well as hundreds of friends, funeral services for Col. Isaac M. Ullman, president of the Strouse, Adler company and widely known as a dominant republican leader, were held here this afternoon.

Col. Ullman died suddenly early Tuesday morning of heart disease in his suite at the Hotel Taft here. He had been ill since October.

The body lay in state at Temple Mishkan Israel from noon until 1 o'clock, but long before that a large crowd waited at the doors and lined the streets to pay its respects to the departed business and political leader. Among those were dignitaries of city and state government, including Congressman John Q. Tilson, who had come on from Washington, and many employes of the company which Col. Ullman had headed.

Active bearers were foremen of the Strouse, Adler company.

The rites began at 2 o'clock and were performed by Rabbi Sidney Tedesche, formerly of Temple Mishkan, but now of Brooklyn, N. Y., and the present rabbi, Edgar E. Siskin. At the close of services at 3 o'clock, the cortege left for the Temple cemetery in Westville.

By order of Mayor Thomas A. Tully, flags were at half mast over the city from 1 until 4 o'clock. The regular meeting of the chamber of commerce was adjourned early that the members might attend the rites for the man who had been president of their organization for five years.

LADY READING DIED YESTERDAY IN LONDON

LONDON, Jan. 30—(AP)—One of the best known and widely admired partnerships in public life was broken today by the death of Lady Reading, wife of the British statesman for 43 years.

The career of Lord Reading who rose from humble origin to become viceroy of India, representative of the king's person which is the highest dignity to which a British subject can attain—reads more like fiction than fact and he himself often declared it would have been impossible without his wife's affection and support.

Lady Reading suffered from a painful malady for many years and only a few intimates knew what courage often was needed to carry out her long and trying ceremonies at the viceregal lodge. When at one time she was temporarily unable to carry on and her illness was announced officially, prayers for her recovery were said all over India.

"She did more to cure racial animosity between England and India than any work I did myself," said Lord Reading on one occasion.

Lady Reading is remembered in Washington as a brilliant and sympathetic hostess when she was there in 1917 and 1918 when her husband was ambassador to the United States.

THOMAS SEARS, TAFTVILLE, GRAND LIASION OFFICER

WATERBURY, Jan. 30—(AP)—Emil Schaal of New Britain was appointed grand correspondent and Thomas Sears of Taftville was appointed grand liasion officer in the state "40 and 8" society at a meeting of the Grand Chemineot held in the American Legion home here tonight. Appointments were made by Grand Chef De Gare Otto E. Kasser, of Ansonia. Representatives from each of the seven voitures in Connecticut were present.

The annual state convention will be held in Bridgeport during the spring. Howard Boland, of Shelton was appointed chairman of the committee in charge of arranging for this convention.

ICE JAMS CONTINUE MENACING IN INDIANA

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 30—(AP)—Posey county, in Indiana's southwestern extremity, tonight bore the brunt of depression resulting from flood conditions along the Wabash river, reported to be forced from its regular channel near Mackey's Ferry by a huge ice-gorge.

Homes in that district were believed menaced as the stream was driven from the course into a new channel. The ferry is about ten miles southwest of Mt. Vernon, Ind.

Ice jams continued to menace the district from New Haven, Ill., to New Harmony, Ind., on the Wabash.

FRENCH NAVAL COMPROMISE PROPOSAL TO BE DEBATED

Conference Has Appointed a Committee to Consider the Proposal as Between Categories and Total Tonnage—To Expedite Matters Italy Has Agreed to Postpone Consideration of Her Naval Parity With France

LONDON, Jan. 30—(AP)—In a plenary session at old St. James' palace today, the five power naval conference publicly attacked and partly diminished the problem of finding a method to measure naval strength for purposes of international treaties, one of the most baffling and intricate in the whole subject of disarmament.

As a result of the first conference session open to newspapermen, the problem of measurement by global tonnage or by tonnage in categories of ships, was tonight in the hands of a special committee. The committee is charged with the task of taking these bad boys of disarmament, global tonnage and categorical tonnage, and of making them presentable and acceptable in a compromise for the conference table.

Secretary of the Navy Adams and Ambassador Hugh Gibson are the American members with Secretary of State Stimson ready to assist them. For the British, First Lord of the Admiralty Alexander and a delegate from the Dominions, will act with Prime Minister MacDonald.

The first committee meeting will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow.

With the help of Secretary Stimson, Prime Minister MacDonald cautiously and successfully steered today's plenary session through the dangerous whirlpools of European politics.

Italy's decision to withhold discussion of the political issues involved for her enabled the delegates to proceed without delay to consideration of the French compromise plan for fleet measurement. On the American side, Ambassador Gibson furnished a notable contribution to the proceedings by reviewing the history of the conflict between the rival theories.

The American diplomat explained that there were, roughly, two schools of thought. That of limitation by categories fixes the tonnage that each country may use for each type of ship, and thereby fixes the total tonnage. That of limitation by the global method fixes the total tonnage for each navy and allows each country to apportion that tonnage as it sees fit among the various types of ships.

As Mr. Alexander declared later during the session, Great Britain, Japan and America are in complete agreement in favor of limitation by categories. France and Italy are the champions of limitation by global tonnage.

In its essence the French compromise proposed that each power be allotted a total tonnage figure for its navy, which is divided into recognized categories of battleships, cruisers, submarines, etc. While keeping within the limits of this total, each nation can alter the employment of a small percentage of that tonnage subject to giving one year's notice of the transfer from one category to another.

Ambassador Gibson emphatically stated the faith of the United States in the system of limitation by categories, but at the same time recognized that smaller navies have a tendency toward specialization. He said that the United States was not disposed to press her theories upon other peoples who do not agree with her, and for this reason the American delegation was ready to accept the French compromise for new discussion.

On the French side, Premier Tardieu declared that Mr. Gibson had summed up the French theory so well that he did not need to do it again, beyond explaining that limitation by total tonnage seemed to be more elastic and gave necessary guarantees to powers whose navies were not among the most powerful.

An American spokesman tonight indicated that the work of the committee would be "long and arduous." There will probably be a lull in other conference activities in the next week, and Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand will go to Paris for that time, leaving Minister of Marine Leygues in charge of the French delegation.

The exact terms of the French compromise proposal are that each nation shall specify the maximum figures of its total naval tonnage which will not be exceeded. Then, each nation will specify a figure for each category of ships which will not be exceeded. The total tonnage of the categories would be the global tonnage of each power. Each power would have the right to deviate from its category allocation up to a certain percentage, which has yet to be decided upon but which has been generally mentioned as between 10 and 15 per cent.

According to the French proposal the right of transfer from one category to another is applicable to all categories, which would indicate a conflict with the British desire as expressed by Mr. Alexander, that the tonnage transfer apply only to the less powerful types of ships.

DECISION AGAINST CITIES SERVICE STOCKHOLDERS

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—An attempt by stockholders of Cities Service corporation to compel the board of directors to go through with an offer purchasing rights which the latter made last October 16, was frustrated today in federal court.

Hugo Cohn, a common stockholder, had brought injunction proceedings on behalf of himself and others similarly situated soon after the directors on October 30 reconsidered their offer of stock purchasing rights.

Judge Bondy dismissed the suit today, ruling that nothing contained in the offer prohibited revocation before its acceptance. He also said he believed the plaintiffs had no cause of action, but that if any existed it should be enforced through a damage suit rather than injunction proceedings.

Hundreds of stockholders had sold their rights in the offer before the withdrawal, however, and these, under the rules of the New York curb exchange, must reimburse the purchasers. The rights sold at $1.50 to $3.25 a share.

SILK ASS'N SPENT $10,000 TO URGE PROTECTIVE TARIFF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—(AP)—Expenditure of more than $10,000 by the Silk Association of America to advocate a protective tariff on silk products, during consideration of the pending tariff bill, was disclosed today before the senate lobby committee.

This testimony was given by Horace B. Cheney, of South Manchester, Conn., chairman of the association's legislative committee, who said he had been coming to Washington on tariff matters since 1883. The first trip was with his father, who had been active in tariff matters for many years previously.

In a manner contrasting sharply with those of some previous witnesses who quarreled with members of the committee, Cheney testified slowly, in a gentle tone, that the silk association had spent $8,048 in connection with the pending tariff, while he had expended $1,962 on fourteen trips to Washington.

PURCHASED WHEAT AT FED FARM BOARD'S LOAN VALUE

CHICAGO Jan. 30—(AP)—The Farmers National Grain corporation stepped into several principal markets today and purchased wheat at the federal farm board's loan value.

Wheat futures prices slipped down to new bottom marks for the season at Chicago and carried corn also to low records. The downturn here came after an early small gain based on a smaller official Argentine crop estimate than was anticipated.

The close was 2 to 2 7-8 cents a bushel lower than yesterday, with March wheat at $1.15 1-2, May $1.20 3-8 to 1-2, July $1.23 1-8 to 1-4 and September $1.26 1-4. Corn varied from 1-4 cent loss to [illegible] cent gain and rye slumped as much as 2 3-8 cents a bushel.

MADE BONFIRES OF RELIGIOUS SYMBOLS

URIUPINSKAYA, Northern Caucasia, U. S. S. R., Jan. 30—(AP)—To the accompaniment of harmonica playing and singing eight wagonloads of ikons today were burned here by peasants who had joined the newly established state collective farm.

COMPROMISE REACHED ON TARIFF ON STRAW HATS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30.—(AP)—While their felts and derbies were drying from the snow which was falling, members of the senate concerned themselves nearly all day today with straw hats and finally compromised this tariff controversy by approving increases in existing duties far below those carried in the Hawley-Smoot bill.

Sewed straw hats, including chip hats which are imported in large quantities from Italy, were assessed a duty of 88 per cent under the first Barkley amendment approved today. The vote was 42 to 38, with 23 democrats, 18 republicans and the one farmer-labor senator—Shipstead, of Minnesota—supporting, and 34 republicans and four democrats opposing.

The rate compares with existing duties of 60 per cent on hats valued at more than $9.50 a dozen and 88 per cent on those worth $9.50 and less. The house and pending bills proposed a combination levy of $4 a dozen and 60 per cent.

TRAPPED DEEP SEA DIVER PETER TRANS FOUND DEAD

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 30—(AP)—Peter Trans, whose quest for livelihood led him into paths that he feared—down along the cold and lonely beds of seas and lakes and rivers—is dead.

And somewhere in faraway Denmark are two little boys who won't be "going to America next spring to see daddy."

Trans died as he had feared he would die—helpless and alone, locked in the cumbersome and grotesque habiliments of his job, deep down in the black waters, surrounded by the fantastic shadows of the river bottom.

His lifeless body was brought up at dawn today from the bed of the Outardes river, where he had been imprisoned since Monday forenoon after his lines became caught on spikes in a cofferdam in which he was working.

LOCAL YOUNG MEN CAPTURE STRANGE BIRD

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 30.— Several people here are seeing the grebe, a species of the podicipoid diving bird, for the first time this week. The grebe is a funny bird. The ancient ditty entitled "What a Funny Bird the Frog Are," almost befits this water fowl. The grebe is almost a duck, almost a penguin and in fact, almost anything in the bird line. Being not exactly none of the more commonly known birds he has been given the name of grebe, pronounced greeb, and is of the genus podiceps, family colymbidae.

A grebe that had wandered too far from native haunts and was apparently frustrated from getting regular meals by the freezing over of ponds and rivers, was captured near the Willimantic Country club last Monday by Joseph Benoit, chauffeur, and Wilfred Chartier, local barber. The men were riding along the North Windham road when they saw the bird fluttering in the snow and after a chase and somewhat of a fight on the part of the bird, it was taken captive. It is now thriving well and plans are being made for placing it on exhibition in one of the Jordan Hardware show windows within a few days.

The grebe is characterized by a straight, conical bill measuring about two and a quarter inches in length. It has no tail. It has three long toes that are flattened, separate and broadly fringed at their edges by a firm membrane allowing powerful propulsion in water. Its legs are set so far back that on land it assumes the upright position of the penguin, making it almost helpless out of water. There is a wide geographical distribution of these birds in Europe and North America but hereabouts, well known hunters claim that they have never seen the species. The grebe haunts seas as well as ponds and rivers and feeds on small fish, frogs, crustaceans and insects. The bird is an excellent swimmer and diver and lives in large grass nests placed among reeds and sedges and allowed to rise and fall with the water. The specimen captured by the local young men has a wing spread of 30 inches and a swan-like neck about 6 inches long. When dry the feathers are of deep blue and sprinklings of white. In size it is about that of the average wild duck, weighing between three and five pounds.

Sunday was very cold with mercury near zero and string northwest wind in the forenoon, which abated somewhat in the afternoon. Although it was perfectly clear, the mercury did not get above about 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Kinnaird brought John Kinnaird home Sunday from Hartford hospital where he had been four weeks. He was one week with his son and daughter-in-law before returning home.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hoxie motored to Hartford, Sunday afternoon, taking with them Mrs. Hoxie's sisters, Misses Ruth and Julia Standish, who are employed in that city.

Mrs. Vera Manning and sons Harold and Edward of Norwich visited Mrs. Manning's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hoxie, Friday.

Bluejays and English sparrows are about and appear quite hungry since the ground is covered with snow. Some hang suet outside in different places all winter and the birds are regular visitors for it.

Five years ago the day before the total eclipse of the sun, January 23, 1925, was at most exactly like last Sunday only it was a little colder, the mercury not going above 7 and 6 degrees above zero in the middle of the day. The day of the eclipse was much milder and partly cloudy but not so as to prevent seeing the eclipse.

Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Stiles had as visitors Friday the latter's brother, Walter Robinson and her sister-in-law, Mrs. William Robinson and son, Henry, all of New Haven.

At the next meeting the first and second degrees will be conferred on Michael Pease, Aldo Pesce and Elvira Pesce. This will be St. Valentine's night.

The Ladies' Aid society met Thursday afternoon at the basement.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ubert and infant daughter of Hartford were callers in town Sunday at the home of Mrs. Ubert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Sumner.

Mr. and Mrs. John Toomey of Hartford spent Sunday with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David C. Toomey.

Miss Helene Percival, music supervisor, visited schools in town this week.

Miss Elizabeth and Miss Margaret Daly of Hartford visited Mr. and Mrs. James Connors Sunday.

Miss Mary Maybury spent the week end at her home in Springfield.

MAHARAJAH'S PALACE HAS WESTERN COMFORTS

JODHPUR, Rajputana, India—(P)—Oriental splendor and western comforts are combined in the new palace being built for the Maharajah of Jodhpur. It is expected to deplete the royal treasury by $7,500,000.

The spacious royal edifice, for which the cornerstone recently was laid, will have everything that is dear to the Oriental heart as well as such modern notes from the west as titled bathrooms and electric refrigeration.

Besides the maharajah's personal suite, the palace will contain many guests suites of great luxury, a staff court, a women's court (zenana) and a sumptuous swimming pool.

1929 SECURITY SALES EQUALLED WAR DEBTS

NEW YORK—(P)—Estimates of the volume of new security offerings in the United States during 1929 range all the way from $8,000,000,000 to $10,000,000,000.

The National City bank places the figure at approximately $9,900,000,000, or an amount almost equal to the total war debts owed the United States by foreign countries.

The same authority classifies $5,752,832,000 of this sum as common stock financing. The remainder was divided among domestic corporation bonds and notes, domestic municipal loans and foreign issues.

LARGE LEAD-ZINC AREA LOSES ITS LAST BANK

PICHER, Okla.—(P)—The largest lead and zinc mining camp in the United States is without banking facilities.

Picher had five banks not long ago. Three closed on request of Oklahoma bank authorities and the two survivors liquidated voluntarily. The last to close had more than $400,000 in deposits.

Mining camps near Picher have a weekly payroll averaging $280,000. The district produced $35,000,000 worth of lead and zinc last year, but an ever-changing population is given financial institutions.

The land on which Picher is located is owned by the Quapaw Indians, with the result that only a few deeds have been issued.

CHINESE WARS AID SOUTH'S TUNG MEN

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—(P)—China's spasmodic warfare has been a boon to Florida's fastest growing farm industry.

As a result, 350,000 tung trees grow in Florida where only 14,000 grew in 1923. They produce nuts from which an oil essential in manufacturing high grade water proof paints and varnishes is extracted. The nuts bring about 5 cents a pound.

China used to be the sole source of supply for tung oil. But frequent civil wars crippled the industry and paint manufacturers turned to American farmers for the product.

In addition to Florida tung groves there are extensive plantations in Alabama, Louisiana, Georgia, Mississippi and Texas.

DANIELSON

FORMER KILLINGLY MAN RESIGNS FROM HARTFORD BANK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 30.—Sidney W. Crofut, long a resident of Danielson, but for the past 30 years an official for the Society of Savings in Hartford, has tendered his resignation as vice-president of that bank, to be effective Saturday of this week. It is understood that Mr. Crofut is to retire.

Mr. Crofut has made an enviable record in the Hartford banking field, and this is attested by the high praise he is now receiving from his colleagues upon the eve of his retirement. For the past ten years he has been in charge of the mortgage loan department of the bank.

Before leaving Danielson for Hartford Mr. Crofut had been warden of this borough, chairman of the town school committee, a member of the legislature from Killingly, 1893-94, and had served as vice-president and treasurer of the Windham County Savings bank and as a director of the First National bank of this town.

He was bank commissioner of this state under three governors, and it was while serving in this capacity that his talent for finance became so widely known throughout the state.

Since going with the Society for Savings in Hartford he has filled the offices of secretary, assistant treasurer, treasurer and vice-president. During those years the assets of the bank have increased from $20,000,000 to $62,000,000, the deposits from $12,000,000 to $50,000,000, and the surplus from $1,000,000 to $7,000,000.

During his residence here, Mr. Crofut built the house now owned and occupied by Moses H. Berthiaume on Cottage street, near the high school building.

Small Fire

Just after 11 o'clock this morning an alarm from Box 34 called out the fire department for a blaze at the Charon house on Railroad street, opposite Academy street. A stovepipe running through an unprotected partition is believed to have caused the fire, which gave the firemen some difficulty as it was making headway inside the partition. Chief A. P. Woodward estimated the damage at about $10, said to be covered by insurance. Last evening just before 8 o'clock a call from Box 13 sent the firemen out to control a chimney fire at the Peter Berthier home on Reynolds street. There was no damage of moment.

Local Club to Carry On

The Bohemian club, which, earlier this month, voted to terminate its corporate existence and go out of business, isn't going to do anything of the kind. It has taken on a new lease of life, the members having voted last night to rescind the vote providing for closing up the affairs of the club, and then proceeded to elect new officers. All of this is good news to many residents of Danielson, who at one time or another have been members of the club, which during the three decades of its existence has become something of an institution. There was general regret for many at the early January announcement that its end was at hand.

The new officers elected last evening are: W. W. Wheatley, president; Lucien Lambert, vice-president; Howard Franklin, treasurer; George Quinn, secretary; Rene Caron, Gerard Boulaine, A. E. Withington, members of the executive committee. To those who were members of the club in its early days, it is a matter of interest that some of the new officers had yet to be born into this life when it was a young organization, and all of these will wish that the new official board will carry on successfully. Several new members were admitted to membership at last night's meeting, and there is assurance that still others will be added, making a strong organization. The quarters of the club are in the Danielson Trust Co. building.

KILLINGLY TOWN COURT HAS TRIED ITS 6,000TH CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 30.—Henry David of Central Falls, R. I., who did one term at the county jail in Brooklyn, starting last November, went back there this afternoon, apparently considerably pleased at the opportunity to serve 30 days for having been intoxicated. He was picked up by Chief John McFarland of the borough police.

There is no great distinction to be achieved in being sent to jail from Danielson for having been drunk—it has happened so many hundred times—but it is a matter of passing, and possibly minor interest, that David's case was the 6,000th that has been before the town court since it began to function back in 1897, a matter of 33 years ago. Judge W. Fenner Woodward, who presided this afternoon, and who also is clerk of the court, noted the incidental fact that the case of David rounded out another thousand.

Prior to the organization of the town court in 1897, Killingly disposed of minor offenses against the law in justices' courts throughout the town. Town Clerk Frank T. Preston, who had acted at many cases as a justice, was the first judge of the town court. He served for a comparatively short time, to be succeeded by Attorney Harry E. Back, who was judge for nearly a score of years, and he, in turn, was succeeded by Judge Woodward, who has been in office since May, 1913, and still has another year to serve under his present appointment.

Local relatives were at Springfield yesterday to attend funeral services for William J. Ouimette, who, during his youth, was a resident of Danielson. His death followed an illness of ten days, following an apoplectic stroke. Mr. Ouimette leaves his wife, resident in Springfield; his mother, Mrs. Alexina Ouimette; three sisters, Mrs. Delima Marchand, Miss Amelia Ouimette and Miss Louise Ouimette, all of Danielson. There are also two brothers, Nelson of Danielson, and Harmidas of Worcester.

Closing his labors here, Rev. Joseph Bergin, M. S., a curate of St. James' parish and largely concerned during his assignment here with ministering spiritually to the Catholic population of Brooklyn and Hampton, missions of the local parish, left today for Hartford, where he will be attached to the Church of Our Lady of Seven Sorrows. He will be succeeded here by Rev. Francis Baldwin, M. S., who is transferred here from Hartford.

Not many persons enjoyed the biting northeast snowstorm that set in shortly after 1 o'clock this afternoon, with its threat of piling up the worst drifts of the winter if it continued for any length of time, but it proved a boon to the taxi drivers, whose services were in great demand.

Inspection of the Headquarters detachment, stationed at the state armory, and under command of Major E. L. Darbie, is fixed for Friday evening of next week. Inspection of the Service battery, Captain Gordon J. Gale commanding, is set for April 28. National guardsmen here are interested in the change of assignment for the annual tours of field duty this year. Instead of going to Tobyhanna, Pa., as for several years past, the Service battery will be at Niantic for a fortnight next summer, while the special troop detachments here will go to Camp Devens instead of to Niantic, as they have been doing for several years.

Last evening at a meeting of the entertainment committee of the Telephone Employes' association arrangements were made for a whist party and dance to be held during February, and Mrs. Abby Hopkins named as chairman. Other members of the committee are Miss Elizabeth Dunn, Miss Blanche Gauthier, Miss Agnes Payne and William Sargent.

At the home of Philip Keech a stag party was given in honor of Daniel Caffery. Among the number of friends attending were some from New London.

Colonel E. C. Dale came here last evening from Boston for an inspection of the medical department detachment stationed at the state armory. Other visiting officers were Colonel Charles A. Comfort, Jr., division surgeon, of New Haven, and Majors Barnes and Vorea, members of Colonel Comfort's staff.

Hair that sparkles!

No one can deny the importance of having the hair arranged in the style best suited to the individual type. Much of the effect is lost, however, unless the hair is kept soft, abundant, lustrous.

A million busy women and girls know the easiest way to keep the hair in perfect condition is with Danderine. The first application will show you how marvelously it removes excess oil from the hair; cleanses it; makes it sparkle with new life and lustre. It's so simple to use Danderine. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair! The consistent use of Danderine will dissolve the worst crust of dandruff; soothe, heal the scalp; stimulate the growth of long, silky abundant hair.

Danderine isn't sticky or oily; doesn't show. It makes the hair easy to manage holds it in place for hours. "Set" your waves with it and see how much longer they stay in.

Old Man Winter has certainly shown us what an old-fashioned winter really is. Friday at 7 a. m. local thermometers registered 14 below zero. Sunday, the mercury hovered around the zero mark all day and at 10 p. m. was 6 below. Auto traffic was very light. A reminder of ye olden times was the appearance of several sleighs passing through the village Saturday and Sunday. A contrasting view of ancient and modern transportation was given when an airplane passed overhead shortly after the passing of the sleighs.

Many are anxiously awaiting the appearance of the groundhog Sunday to inform them whether winter will be long or short, and hoping for the latter.

PUTNAM

S. H. PECKHAM, DIES SUDDENLY AT HARTFORD MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 30—The town of Woodstock and northern Windham county at large suffered one of its greatest losses today when Stephen Howard Peckham of East Woodstock, a life-long resident of that town died suddenly following a heart attack, suffered after a meeting of prominent state agriculturalists which was in session at the office of S. McLean Buckingham, state commissioner of agriculture in Hartford this morning.

According to word received in this city shortly after noon today, Mr. Peckham was stricken at about 11:30. He was dead before a doctor could be summoned. When word of Mr. Peckham's death was sent to the members of his family in Woodstock, a member of the commissioner's committee said that Mr. Peckham was seemingly in good health until the moment when he collapsed in his chair.

Mr. Peckham left his home this morning for the capitol city at about eight o'clock by automobile to attend the session of the special committee to which he was appointed last week at a meeting of state agricultualists. Members of his family said he was in good spirits. He bade his wife and sons a pleasant farewell promising to return late this afternoon in time for the evening meal. It was said today that Mr. Peckham had been in excellent health for more than a year and the news of his sudden death came as a distinct shock to his family, fellow townspeople and to a large circle of friends in Windham and New London counties where he was widely known.

Stephen Howard Peckham was born in Newport, R. I., on June 11, 1865, the son of Amos and Hannah (Gifford) Peckham. When five years of age, Mr. Peckham's family removed to East Woodstock to carry on their large farming and dairying enterprises. He attended district schools in the town and followed his primary education with a course at Woodstock academy. He was married on April 13, 1887 to Miss Edna Lyon of Woodstock. There were eight children, a daughter, Mrs. Ernest Hibbard, of East Woodstock; seven sons, Amos Clarence, the eldest, who was a victim of influenza in the epidemic at Camp Devens during the war; Leroy E., of Norwich, Adelbert V., Clayton L., Charles L., Ernest H., and Warren P., all of Woodstock, who together with their mother, survive Mr. Peckham.

Mr. Peckham was one of the leading citizens of the town of Woodstock. His political affiliations were with the republican party. He has been tax collector of the town and until his death held two public offices—grand juror and justice of the peace. In the campaign of 1928, he was a foremost member of the Hoover and Curtis club of Windham county, which gained national recognition by reason of its mass meeting held one Saturday afternoon on Woodstock common, attended by men and women of state and national prominence and by nearly five thousand people. He was an active member of many local and state farm organizations. He conducted one of the better known produce farms and possessed a herd of cows which on more than one occasion won many laurels for him at dairy meets. Mr. Peckham was a past president of the Windham County Farmers association and president of the Woodstock Farmers Cooperative association and a director of the Eastern States Farmers exchange of Springfield, Mass. His fraternal associations were with the Putnam lodge of A. F. and A. M., of South Woodstock, of which he was treasurer and with the Senexet gange. Mr. Peckham was a trustee of Woodstock academy.

At the opening of the annual convention of the Connecticut Dairyman's association held last Thursday at the Bond hotel in Hartford, Mr. Peckham was appointed, because of his superior knowledge of farming conditions in Eastern Connecticut, to a committee named for the purpose of drawing up a programme for the solution of an agricultural situation now confronting farmers. It was this meeting that Mr. Peckham was attending in Hartford when death came to him today.

The first official note will be introduced into the city's traffic ordinance situation at the February meeting of the common council to be held Tuesday evening, February 4. Members of the council have met informally and discussed the petition of a group of down-town merchants who desire the institution of time limit systems for controlling traffic on the thoroughfares in that section. They have made known their intentions of taking first official steps in the solution of the problem at next Tuesday's meeting.

At the present the police department is enforcing the present code of laws on the same scale, begun more than a month ago by the late Captain William J. Jarvis, who was instructed by an edict from the council to enforce the ordinances. Officers of the department are tagging motor vehicles parked on streets in such manner as to cause infractions of the present rulings. No arrests are being made in this campaign.

An official train bearing divisional officers of the New Haven railroad, among the group was Robert M. Smith, superintendent and former trainman in this section, visited this city today for inspection of freight forwarding methods. William E. Sault, assistant superintendent of the New Haven division of this city was host to the executive visitors.

A death in this city yesterday was that of Octave Loiselle of Bridge street, who died at his home late yesterday afternoon following a prolonged illness. Mr. Loiselle was in his 64th year. He was a native of St. Mark, Canada, but had resided here practically all of his life.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Harry F. Prentice of Mechanics and School street, on January 21st, to Mrs. Tressa L. Dennler of South Manchester, in that city. Mrs. Prentice is a trained nurse. The wedding was solemnized in the Congregational church parsonage in South Manchester and was followed by a reception at the Bond hotel in Hartford.

The grammar school basketball league, sponsored by the Putnam Rotary club got under way Monday evening when the first series of games between the various teams were played off under the direction of Rotarian Arthur E. Smith, cashier of the Citizens National bank. The league is known as the Rotary Nut league. Six teams are represented. Each quintet has named itself after some specie of nut. There are the Hickorynuts, Cocoanuts, Walnuts, Chestnuts, Peanuts and Hazelnuts. In the first games the Hickorynuts defeated the Cocoanuts, 8 to 4; the Chestnuts defeated the Walnuts, 30 to 4; the Peanuts defeated the Hazelnuts 8 to 4; and in the junior league, games in which older boys are taking part, the All Stars took a fast game from the Collegians by a 4-2 score. The Rotary boys basketball tournament will be played each week for the next month at the Putnam high school gymnasium on Monday evenings at 7:30. Rotarian Ray C. Bosworth will be in charge next week. The Hazelnut and the Chestnut teams are in the lead with two victories and no defeats on their slates. At the close of the season a fitting trophy will be presented to the winning team by the Rotary club.

Mrs. Jacob Rosenwald of Main street, for many years a resident of this city died early this morning at her home following a long illness. Mrs. Rosenwald is survived by her husband and four children, Ruben, Mildred, Celia and Sadie, all of whom reside in Putnam. Funeral services took place today from the Rosenwald home on Main street.

Associated Press despatches appearing in The Bulletin this morning told of the death of Colonel C. T. Davis, British war veteran and actor, in St. Luke's hospital in New York yesterday. Colonel Davis was a son-in-law of the late Rear Admiral C. F. Goodrich of Pomfret. He was married in Pomfret in May 1918 to the daughter of Admiral Goodrich, after meeting her during a visit to Bombay, India.

JEWETT CITY

TWENTY-SIX LIGHT POSTS FOR THE NEW VIADUCT

State Highway Commissioner John Macdonald, First Selectman Daniel F. Finn, of Griswold, and First Selectman James Graham of Lisbon are completing the final arrangements for furnishing the lighting system for the 2550 feet of the new Quinebaug viaduct. There are to be 26 posts for the accommodation of the bronze lighting fixtures, which are to be 16 feet high and made of concrete at the bases. The lamps may be in clusters of three or of single design. The posts are not to be built opposite each other, but are at stated intervals apart, one on the north and the next on the south side of the roadway. A 6-foot sidewalk is to be on the north side only. Twenty of the lights will be in Griswold and 6 in Lisbon. The cost of each, all ready for wiring equipment is to be $200, Griswold's part will be $4,000, and Lisbon's share $1,200. In an interview this week with Commissioner Macdonald, Mr. Finn learned that in projects of this type, the state assumes no responsibility of lighting. Mr. Finn will go before the board of borough government at their meeting February 3rd, asking that the borough of Jewett City pay one-quarter of Griswold's share of lighting the big viaduct, which will be $1,000. This request by the selectmen is very reasonable and proper, as the borough is to be the main beneficiary by the proposed lighting. The contractors and the selectmen, are agreed that the cement posts, wire conduits and switch locations, must be built during the initial construction.

At 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon a big airplane circled over the borough, flying low in the teeth of a northeast snow storm. When BABIES are upset

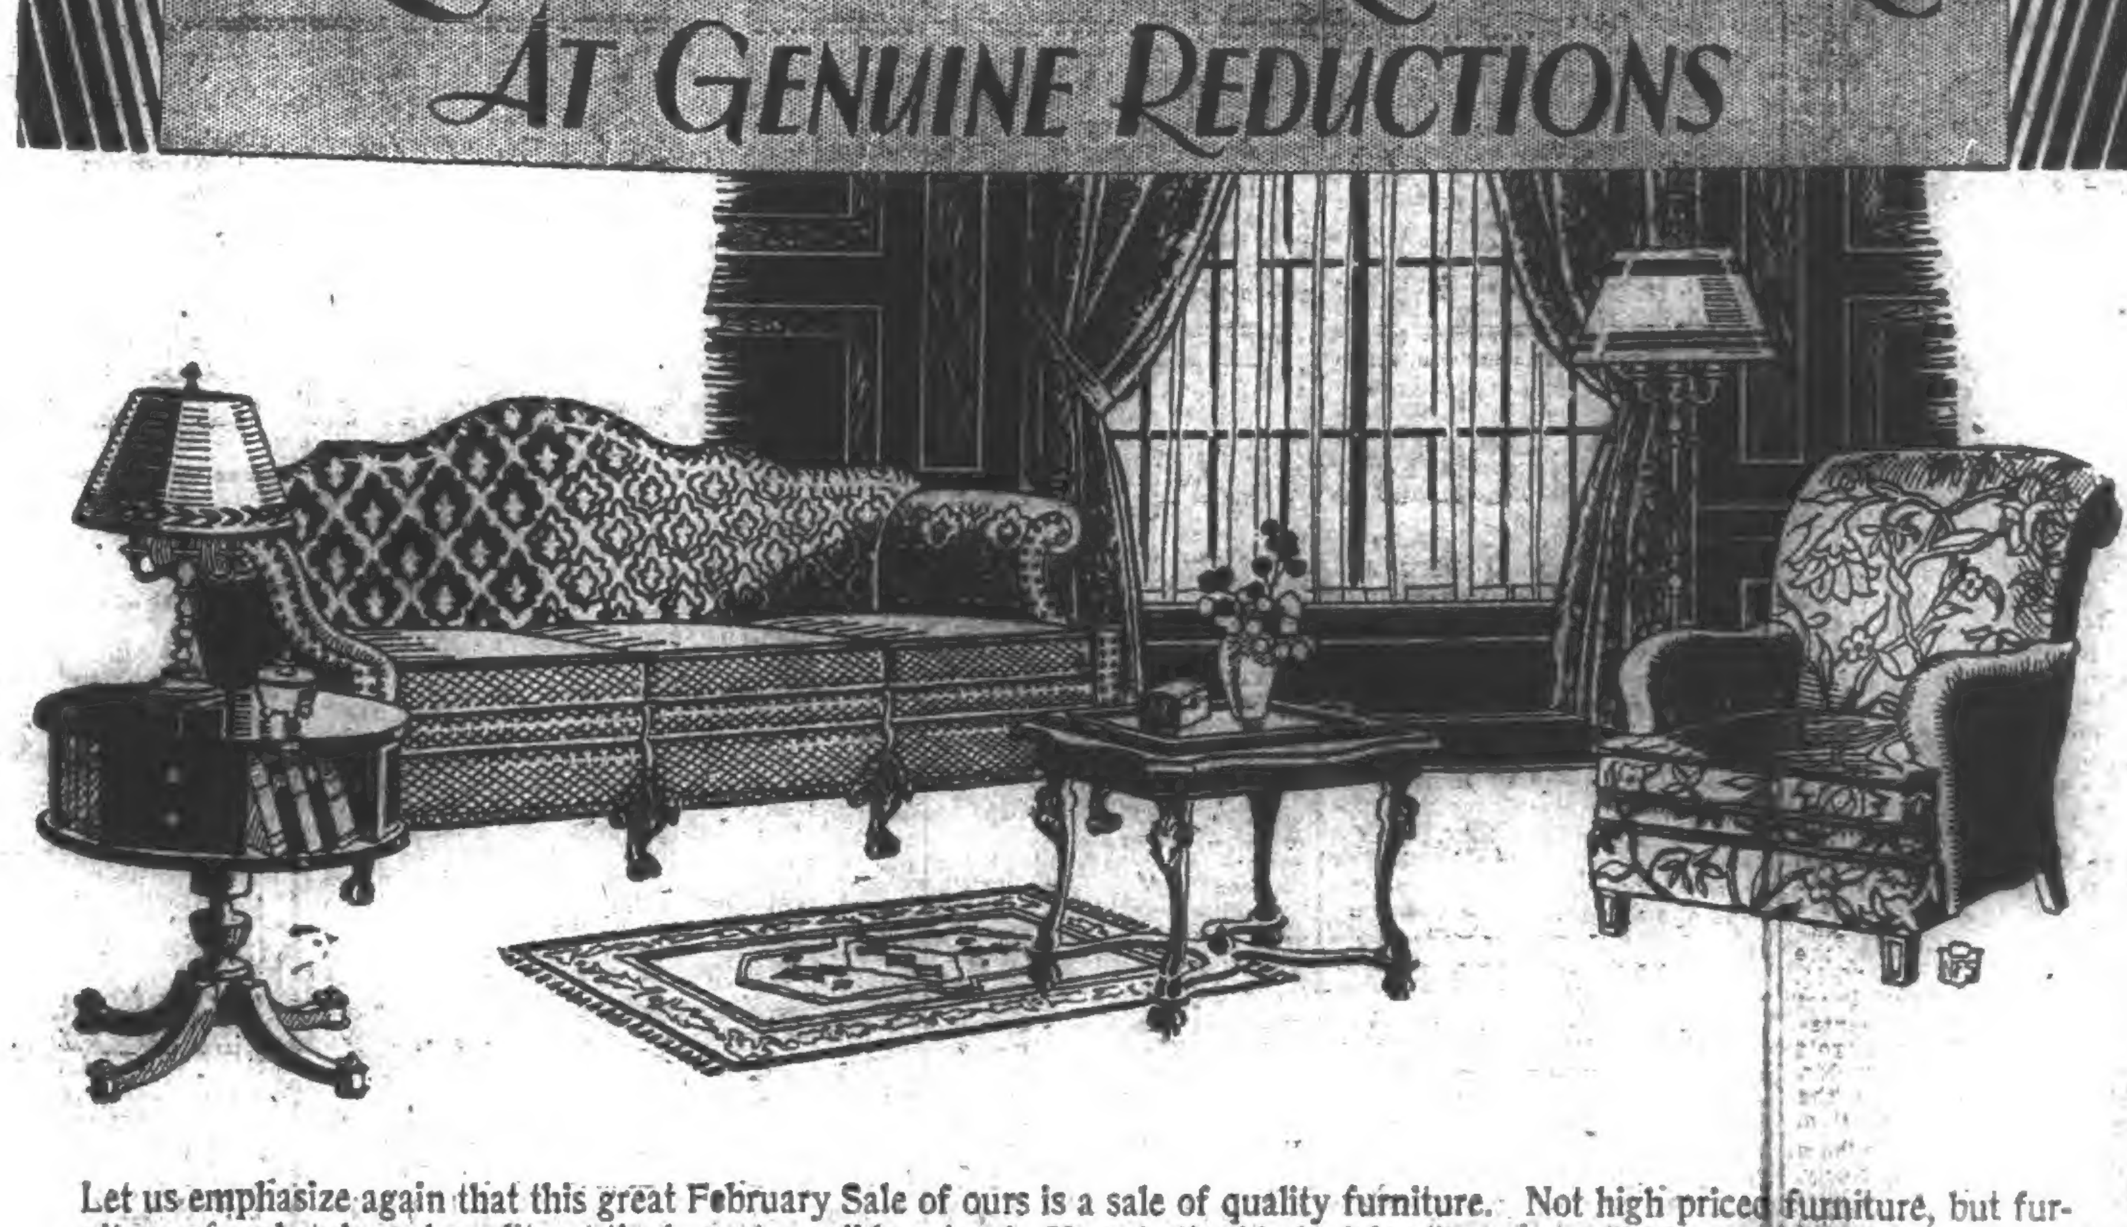
Baby ills and ailments seem twice as serious at night. A sudden cry may mean colic. Or a sudden attack of diarrhea—a condition it is always important to check quickly. How would you meet this emergency—tonight? Have you a bottle of Castoria ready? There is nothing that can take the place of this harmless but effective remedy for children; nothing that acts quite the same, or has quite the same comforting effect on them.

For the protection of your wee one—for your own peace of mind—keep this old, reliable preparation always on hand. But don't keep it just for emergencies; let it be an everyday aid. Its gentle influence will ease and soothe the infant who cannot sleep. Its mild regulation will help an older child whose tongue is coated because of sluggish bowels. All druggists have Castoria; the genuine bears Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper.



QUALITY FURNITURE AT GENUINE REDUCTIONS

Let us emphasize again that this great February Sale of ours is a sale of quality furniture. Not high priced furniture, but furniture of real style and quality at the lowest possible prices! Here is the kind of furniture you will be proud to have in your home—the kind that has so much quality built into it that you will get many extra years of service out of it. It certainly pays to buy good furniture and there is a limit below which it is not wise to go.

SUBMARINE SAFETY

While disasters do not always start movements for prevention of other cases of a similar character, the sinking of the S-4 appears to have, and the results are being shown are most encouraging.

When the submarine was struck and sunk off Cape Cod the members of the crew were trapped. There was no means of escape and there was no way by which outside aid could get in to assist them. It was a case of trying to get the helpless underwater boat to the surface as quickly as possible. With the many handicaps of weather, depth and lack of facilities, it was impossible to save the men, but there were set in motion many brains for the development of means of successfully meeting such a situation if it ever occurs again.

Many inventions have been suggested. Some are practical, while others are not. Those believed to have the greatest merit are being put to a test that offers much encouragement. The salvaged S-4 is being employed for these tests and has been equipped with a special hatch through which members of the crew can emerge and rise to the surface by the use of what is known as a "lung." This has been tried under various circumstances with gratifying results, and there is now being tested a diving bell, which is lowered to the special hatch and takes out any of the crew or permits those from the bell to enter the disabled submarine.

If this latter device makes it possible to reach submarines at a greater depth than would be possible otherwise it means just that greater advantage, it being realized of course that test conditions may not be those encountered in an actual disaster.

Nevertheless, it is evidence of what inventive genius can accomplish when it sets about a task. It means that greater protection is being thrown about those who operate submarines and it furnishes increased assurance that the helplessness of those crews and those who would aid them in case of trouble is being steadily decreased. Peace time submarine safety is a goal toward which steady efforts must be made as long as the submarine is retained as a part of the naval equipment of nations.

SPLASHING DRIVERS

Mud and water splashing by automobile drivers is peculiar to no one city. It prevails in all of them, though the cities with the narrow streets are apt to experience the worst effects. This is true in the central part of cities, but those using the sidewalks in the outskirts are just as liable to get the full effect of a shower of muddy water from the rapidly-moving automobile.

The situation has caused the New Haven Register to take the lenient view that "apparently a good many automobile and truck drivers don't realize that they add to the woes of persons on the sidewalks when they drive rapidly through slush-filled streets," but it points out that "A car going full tilt down Center street, for example, will often splash mud and water clear across the sidewalk so that pedestrians who happen to be walking there are completely at its mercy."

Just how much of the mud and water throwing is done innocently is a question. The person at the wheel of an auto or a truck has an opportunity to see what the cars coming in the opposite direction are doing in the way of throwing muddy water and he cannot fail to realize that his car is doing the same thing. Too often it is the case that drivers are gleefully contemplating the distress of the pedestrians who endeavor fruitlessly to get out of the way of the stream of spray. Happily that isn't the case with all drivers, but it is the conviction of the Register that victims of flagrant examples of conduct of this sort would do well to take the registration numbers of such cars and present their owners with the cleaners' bills resulting from such carelessness. It is not at all improbable that courts of law would even sustain actions for damages brought on these grounds." Further than that, the Register believes that the police should be alert to reprimand such drivers.

Possibly that is the avenue through which the water splatterers can be reached and made to respect the rights of others, provided one is quick enough in his dodging efforts to catch the number. With speeding machines that is not the easiest thing to do and if it happens after dark there is slight chance that the number could ever be deciphered.

WHEN INSPECTION FAILS

From time to time building conditions of a serious character are disclosed in New York city. This may be after a bad fire, after the collapse of the structure or after an inspection which showed the need of immediate action to insure safety.

This week there was an inspection of a hospital building, where 21 patients were cared for, which revealed the structure to be in such a condition that its abandonment was started almost at once.

Naturally the question is raised as to why the building was permitted to get into such a condition before something was done about it, and why such a building should have been tolerated for hospital purposes for any such length of time.

Evidently it was a case in keeping with those which have previously disclosed laxness where inspection was involved. It doesn't appear that there had been previous inspections when the unsafe conditions were discovered and ordered corrected, and it doesn't appear that there had been delay in complying with orders for lack of adequate quarters elsewhere. Evidently this was another one of the instances where there had been no inspection, no thorough looking over of the building to determine if it was structurally safe, but where the revelations came in time to prevent any harm as the result of the unsafe conditions.

Not so long ago New York had occasion to wonder if there were any more picture studios in the city doing business in violation of the restrictions placed on such establishments and limiting the number of films stored there. This was because one had failed to comply with the law and the fatal fire disclosed the disregard for the law and the failure on the part of the authorities to detect the violation.

For much the same reason, New York has reason to wonder how many other buildings there are in an unsafe condition because of laxness on the part of the inspectors who are expected to discover them and protect life and property by doing so. Inspection is a fine thing when those charged with that duty tend to their business, but it provides a false security when there is laxness and negligence.

CONNECTICUT AGRICULTURE

When Commissioner of Agriculture Buckingham advocates getting the farmers and extension workers together to thrash out their problems he is unquestionably hitting the nail on the head and doing a valuable thing for agriculture in this state.

There is an opportunity for more intensive agricultural activity in Connecticut. This may not be rated as an agricultural state but that doesn't mean that better results cannot be obtained from those acres which are used for growing vegetables, producing fruit, growing trees, producing milk and raising poultry.

At the union meeting next month of agricultural interests of Connecticut such questions as Where is Connecticut agriculture headed? Should Connecticut farmers join in nationwide movements to control production? Does Connecticut need a definite agricultural programme? and Are consumers of Connecticut products receiving just consideration? are of vital concern to those who are in the business of farming for what they can get out of it.

By such discussions there should be created a different attitude toward many of the problems that exist, a different idea of what is needed and a better appreciation of what united efforts will produce. Through a better understanding of the conditions that exist and the manner of meeting the problems, the business of the farmers cannot fail to be aided. There is need for getting together and exchanging views, studying the methods being employed by others and culling out from it all that which can be put to the best use by the conditions existing on the respective farms. There is always a chance to learn from the other fellow, and there is always need of keeping in touch with modern methods and market requirements. Connecticut has a long way to go before there will be any chance of overdoing its efforts in behalf of agriculture.

BOULDER DAM

From the time that it was proposed, the Boulder dam proposition has been a bone of contention. Hopes that it had been settled in such a manner between the states directly involved so that progress could be made on its construction were entertained at the time the favorable action of congress was obtained, but now a new hitch has developed and uncertainty once more prevails.

Congress surrounded the Boulder dam bill with certain definite requirements. It stipulated that the money should not be appropriated until contracts for power had been obtained which would insure the return to the government of the money it would advance. It was left with the secretary of the interior to make these contracts, which were to be subject to such demands as the states and cities might make for the development of their own power projects.

Secretary Wilbur has succeeded in negotiating contracts which will dispose of the power so as to permit of a start being made on the construction of the dam. But no sooner is this indicated than there is a great hue and cry made that the project is being turned over to the power interests. This is because it is a private power company which has been found willing to deal with the power proposition. So far it doesn't appear that the states or cities entitled to participate in the power resources here have been desirous of doing so. If it is necessary to wait until they want or are ready to there may never be any dam constructed. In order to get early action and to meet the requirements in that part of the country, it is apparently necessary to turn to a private corporation, as is most often the case in other sections. Those ranting against the power interests fail to realize that much of the important development in that direction would not be undertaken if it were not for them.

ZOE PLAYS THE GAME

"Well," remarked Zoe Curtiss, leaning in the doorway with her hands in the pockets of her gray sweater, "I must say this place looks like a reproduction of 'The Deserted Village'."

"You said it," rumbled a deep voice from the depth of an orange and black porch chair.

"Oh!" exclaimed Zoe, surprised, "I didn't know this porch was inhabited."

"Only by Robinson Crusoe," replied the occupant of the chair, gloomily, unwinding himself and rising to his feet, "and it looks," he went on still more gloomily, "as if even good old Friday had vamosed." Clad in plus fours and a soft white shirt open at the neck, the tennis racket in his hand made the reason for his disgruntled state apparent.

"Here for the tournament?" asked Zoe.

"Supposed to be," was the reply, "but if I can't get some practice on the court this morning——"

"Meaning that your man Friday hasn't shown up?"

"Meaning just that."

"Why not take me on?" suggested Zoe. "I've knocked a ball about quite a bit."

"Why—er—I—" he stammered unhappily, "what I need is some stiff practice, and a girl——"

"Of course," murmured Zoe with deceiving sweetness. "I'd expect to muff your fast ones, but my serving's really not half bad and it might limber you up while you're waiting for your man Friday." The dazzling smile which he found directed at him proved sufficiently overpowering to wring forth an unwilling response.

"Come on, then, I'll pass you a few easy ones for an hour," he said.

On the court Zoe resembled streaked lightning. It very soon became apparent to Gene Parker, tennis champion of his state, that he had met his match. For his strength she had litheness—for the speed in his reflexes she had marvelous agility. The slim figure in gray and green flannel on the other side of the net seemed to fill the landscape; wherever he glanced there was a golden brown head under a swinging racket. Zoe polished off her opponent in two setts, 6-3, 6-4.

"Whew!" ejaculated the defeated champion, "you knock a mean ball, Miss Friday."

"Thanks for the stiff practice you've given me for the tournament, Mr. Crusoe," retorted Zoe gayly.

"For the tournament, eh? May I be permitted to learn who laid my pride in the dust?"

"I'm Zoe Curtiss of Oakland."

"And I kindly consented to pass you some easy ones!" he groaned. "Well, I've certainly taken my punishment for that."

The tournament was over. Tomorrow would come the parting of the ways, but tonight there was music and a moon—the winner of the cup for men's doubles and the winner of the cup for women's singles—also, there was youth and the urge for romance. The moon, Zoe admitted to herself, complicated matters. It was proving difficult to hold out under the circumstances, but—moonlight was moonlight, she told herself sternly.

"Zoe," said Gene finally, after his perfectly good arguments had proved ineffectual, "you look so much like a daffodil in that yellow gown that if I didn't know from bitter experience what you can do in sport clothes I'd not have the heart to put this proposition up to you."

"Tell it," said Zoe unsuspecting. "I hope to always be game whether my gown is of chiffon or of flannel."

"Will you," asked Gene impressively, "play me one set of tennis tomorrow morning?"

"If you'll make it at 6 a. m.," replied Zoe. "I've some packing to do after breakfast."

"Will you," he went on still more impressively, "agree that if I win the set I win—the girl?"

"I'll be game," was the gallant response.

The glory of early morning flooded the court. Song birds twittered an accompaniment to the game. Back and forth flew the ball which was to decide more than the superiority of one of the cup winners.

"Deuces all!" was the simultaneous cry at the end of the set.

"Good work, Miss Friday," said Gene a bit shakily as their hands met over the net.

"I'm afraid my speed would suffer if I hadn't you to give me this stiff practice regularly, Mr. Crusoe," replied Zoe, giving up the attempt to get her hand back to her side of the net.—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—(AP)—Big, genial John Tilson, majority leader in the house, takes himself and his job rather seriously.

Even so, he seems to get a deal of fun out of the game of politics as he goes along. He's a Connecticut Yankee with a sense of humor. He can laugh as heartily at a joke on himself as he can when the democrats writhe under shafts of a republican wit.

But you can get under the Tilson hide, it seems. And one of the ways of doing it is to wisecrack about that long standing notion that congressmen do all their long distance hauling under their postal franks.

Colonel John doesn't like a good many of the things he reads in the papers which seem to reflect on the honesty, integrity and ability of congressmen and senators generally.

Calm.

He rarely breaks out about it, however. Two-score years of congressional life have not tarnished his respect for the legislative branch of government or the men, by and large, who do the legislating. Yet he has also learned that bickering with captious editorial critics doesn't get a member anywhere.

The colonel did not like, for instance, the fun poked at congress over the press and news reel pictured version of the fire in the capitol building.

And when, on the heels of that, somebody elected to charge in print that abuse of the congressional franking privilege accounted for a large share of the $90,000,000 post office deficit, the colonel's verbal lid blew off with a bang.

Actually, Tilson told the house, the deficit total broke down to show the cost of all congressional franking to the government to be $637,000, while "handling second-class matter free in counties, which refers to county newspapers, was at an expense of $8,731,588."

"This (charge of abuse of franking privilege) has been repeated over and over again until many believe it," thundered Colonel John.

"Twenty years ago, during early days of my service, I thought that perhaps there were some abuses. Since then, from close observation, I have become convinced that so far as this city is concerned, there is absolutely nothing to it. There has never been a wolf in sight.

The Mote and the Beam.

"The deficit is a considerable item. Some of it is brought about by transportation of second class mail matter at less than cost.

"I am not complaining of this, but we are told in Holy Writ that if we would go on an expedition searching for the mote in our brother's eye, we should first remove the beam from our own.

"In this case it might be well for our friends of the press to remove the lumber yard from their own eyes before looking too closely for the mote in the eye of congress.

"Members of congress have their fair share of faults, but this isn't one of them."

YOUR HEALTH

Try to Avoid Measles.

By Herbert N. Barnett, M. D., Texas State Department of Health.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Parents are prone to consider measles rather lightly and sometimes laugh at the "pink spots" and swollen eyes of sister and little brother. Yet measles is really one of the most serious diseases of childhood, not only in its immediate effects, but in the after effects. The common after effects consist of permanent injury to eyes and ears. In some cases the ears become so involved as to necessitate a mastoid operation.

Measles is very infectious and easily spread from an infected person to a well person. Measles begins with symptoms of common cold, running nose and watery eyes, accompanied by a little cough. The rash appears from two to five days later. It is infectious from the very beginning of the symptoms of a cold and until the rash and all cold symptoms are gone. This usually covers a period of about two weeks. After a child has been in contact with a case of measles in the cold or rash stage, he may continue in school for eight days and then should stay out of school for one week. The reason of this is that a child who has been exposed to measles is likely to develop the disease from the eighth to the sixteenth day. He may then return to school if no measles have developed. It is a serious matter for any parent to send to school a child with a cold when measles is prevalent in the community.

When measles breaks out in a school it is not necessary to close the school. Children who have had colds or sore throat and who have not had measles should not be permitted to attend school, and parents will do well to keep a child at home if he has a cold that might develop into measles.

Formerly it was thought that measles was mild and insignificant and that all children should have it. But this is not true. There are two simple rules that will help to avoid it by preventing transference of secretions from the mouth and nose of one child to another.

Rule 1—When you cough or sneeze bow your head or put a handkerchief over your mouth and nose.

Rule 2—Don't put into your mouth fingers, pencils or anything that does not belong there, or use a common drinking cup.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Hooty Does Chatterer a Good Turn

It matters not by whom 'tis done,
A good turn shineth like the sun.
—Chatterer the Red Squirrel.

For several mornings Chatterer the Red Squirrel had watched his breakfast of corn disappear down the black throat of Blacky the Crow. Chatterer and Blacky are much alike in one thing—neither likes to be out after dark or to start out before daylight. So usually they arrive at the same time over by Farmer Brown's corncrib to pick up the corn that Timmy the Flying Squirrel had dropped there in the night. Sometimes Chatterer would get there a moment or two ahead of Blacky, which would give him a chance to get two or three grains of corn. Sometimes Blacky would get there first. But after Blacky arrived, Chatterer got no more corn.

Finally there came a morning when it seemed as if the Black Shadows never would go back to the Purple Hill. You see, it was a cloudy morning. So when Chatterer reached the corncrib it was much darker than usual. Chatterer grinned when he peeped out from under his corncrib and saw that Blacky the Crow had not yet arrived. Chatterer ran out and began to eat corn as fast as ever he could. All the time he kept a watchful eye open for Blacky the Crow. He had no desire to be hit by that stout bill of Blacky's and he knew that if Blacky got the chance he certainly would hit him. The instant he caught sight of Blacky he darted under the corncrib. Blacky alighted and as usual shook out his feathers before beginning to eat. He stood for a moment or two looking keenly in all directions. Then he began to pick up corn.

"He's in a dreadful hurry," thought Chatterer. "He is picking up that corn as if he hadn't a minute to spare. I wonder what ails him. He certainly is nervous. He keeps looking this way and looking that way."

All the time that Chatterer was thinking these things he was scolding as usual. Every morning he had to tell Blacky just what he thought of him. Blacky paid no attention to Chatterer, but appeared to be most uneasy. He was. You see, it didn't get light as fast as usual and Blacky never can feel fully himself until the full light of day. Suddenly, when only half the corn had been eaten, Blacky spread his wings and left in a great hurry. In fact, he made Chatterer stop scolding and stare.

"Something has frightened Blacky," thought Chatterer. "He is a frightened bird if ever I saw one. Yes, sir, he is a frightened bird. There must be some one around. I guess I'll keep under here for a while and keep my tongue still."

So Chatterer did both these things. He kept under the corncrib and he kept his tongue still. At the same time he peeped out and used those bright eyes of his for all they were worth. It was fortunate for Chatterer that he did. He saw something shadowy pass swiftly in the direction Blacky had just taken. Chatterer caught his breath. "Hooty!" he whispered to himself under his breath. "That was Hooty the Owl. Blacky must have seen him. I don't wish Blacky any real harm, but I hope Hooty will drive him away into the Green Forest and keep him there."

Chatterer danced about excitedly underneath the corncrib, but it was a long, long time before he dared to go out to get the remainder of the corn. You see, he didn't know where Hooty might be, and he knew that Hooty would like nothing better for breakfast than a red squirrel. But gradually it grew light, and at last it was so light that there was no chance that Hooty would come back. Neither was there any chance that Blacky would come back, for by this time Farmer Brown and Farmer Brown's Boy were up and out. So it was that Hooty the Owl did Chatterer a good turn, for Chatterer had that corn all to himself.

Stories That Recall Others

To Prevent a Cold

A teacher in the grades was giving a lesson in hygiene. Calling on one little boy she asked: "Arthur, what would be one way to prevent a cold?"

"To take a hot bath in hot water," was Arthur's response.

Cause for Dieting

A woman who is an enthusiastic gardener had been reveling in the gorgeous seed catalogues arriving daily. She accompanied her husband to consult his physician.

"Overeating?" inquired the doctor.

"No, we have been dieting since the seed catalogues began to arrive," replied the husband.

SANTO DOMINGO PLANS MEMORIAL TO COLUMBUS

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Santo Domingo, resting place of the bones of Columbus, plans an international Columbus library.

There the books and documents of all nations relating to the discoverer of the new world would be assembled for permanent record.

The proposed library would be a part of the Columbus memorial lighthouse, a $4,000,000 structure to be erected by Pan-American subscription in the Dominican republic. Architects throughout the world now are in a competition for the honor of designing the lighthouse.

Albert Kelsey, Philadelphia engineer and technical adviser to the permanent executive commission of the memorial, has approved the Domican plans for the library.

FAMILY TENDS SEA LIGHT FOR THREE GENERATIONS

WASHINGTON—(AP)—If the United States happened to be a monarchy instead of a republic, C. A. Baker, of New Bedford, Mass., certainly would be invested with the title of "hereditary keeper of the light," or something equally distinctive.

He, his father before him, and his grandfather before his father, have been keepers of a single lighthouse station off the New Bedford harbor for 89 years in unbroken succession.

The first Baker took charge of the Clark Point light, lighthouse service records reveal, in 1875. He died in 1879, and was replaced by his son, A. C. Baker.

The lighthouse station underwent a change of name just before the present century began, but C. A. Baker was appointed in 1898 to assist his father in keeping the Butler Flats light burning, this being the new name.

In 1911 the second Baker died, and the third Baker stepped forward to his father's and grandfather's post.

A Law Against Laws

"There ought to be a law"—how often have I heard that phrase
From lips beyond recount, in any multitude of ways!
'Way back, when freedom first was sought by those who would begin it,
Somebody croaked: "There really ought to be a law agin it."

When Ezra Perkins' horses rambled faster than a trot,
Or when a flock of youngsters scrambled through a lot,
Or someone found a novel way to gather in the straw,
You'd hear some village yokel say: "There ought to be a law—"
And still, in these be-jazzed days of dresses short and sweet,
When airships skim the cloudy ways and autos swarm the street,
We hear the antiquated saw in many a modern flat:
"I think someone should make a law and put a stop to that."

A law for this, a law for that, a law for every sin,
A law to make the thin folks fat and make the fat ones thin—
It seems some folks are never done enactin glaws. The fact is,
We now should pass another one prohibiting the practice.

Don't Forget Baby!

ATLANTA —(AP)— "Your automobile is registered, but what about your baby?" asks the Georgia motor vehicle department in a leaflet enclosed with new license tags. The question is part of a campaign to have every baby in the state registered against the death rate to improve the health rating.

TRAVELER CITES EVIDENCE OF TROPIC AREA IN NORTH

JUNEAU, Alaska —(AP)— Returning from a prospecting trip of 13 months into little parts of northern British Columbia, Jack "Scrap Iron" Steel reported finding some measure of corroboration of the reported existence of "Tropical valley."

The valley, he says, is in a favorable belt where Chinook winds strike and great areas of bare ground may be seen in the heart of winter.

These warm winds and numerous hot spring temper the climate so that gardens will grow there when elsewhere all is fridity, Steel declared.

AHEPA'S ANNUAL BALL WAS BRILLIANT SUCCESS

Norwich chapter, No. 110, The Ahepa, scored a brilliant success Thursday evening in its third annual ball which was given at the Elks hall with an attendance of several hundreds which included a large delegation from Springfield, accompanying the Springfield uniformed patrol, whose cleverly executed drill was a feature of the evening.

The drill team of 16 men, with its captain, two drummers and two color bearers, executed many fancy figures, including the letters of the order, and were given a continuous round of applause while they were on the floor.

Two pretty specialty dance numbers were given with graceful effect by Miss Helena Crandall and a group of her pupils. Miss Crandall, in ballet costume, danced "The Flapperette," and her little pupils did a clever costume number as The Tap Tap Tiller Girls. This group, which included Isabel Kennedy, Clara Bryant, Ruth Bryant, Betty McKeag, Vivian Bolduc, Betty Bamber and Caroline Hamill, was given an ovation for their pretty dance.

Music for dancing was by the Ideal Radio orchestra and the arrangements for the evening were in charge of the following:

OBITUARY

Sister Mary Renee

After an illness of five weeks, Sister Mary Renee, (Florence Charbonneau), formerly of Putnam, died Wednesday morning about 9 o'clock at the Academy of the Holy Family. Sister Renee entered the congregation December 8, 1877, being located at Willimantic for some years before being transferred to the Baltic academy, about five years ago.

Sister Renee was widely known throughout the eastern part of the state and had numerous friends and acquaintances who are deeply grieved to hear of her passing from earthly life.

Dr. John H. Gardner, Jr.

The death of Dr. John H. Gardner, Jr., formerly of this city and Taftville, occurred Thursday at Wollaston, Mass., according to word received here Thursday evening. Dr. Gardner passed most of his life here and in Taftville, being a son of John H. Gardner, who was boss farmer for the Ponemah company for the first 31 years after the company located in Taftville. Dr. Gardner was well known as an expert veterinary here for many years.

He was a graduate of the Connecticut Agricultural college at Storrs, Snell Business college in Norwich, and a veterinary college in New York, where he completed a three-year course in two years. This included an extra course in dentistry. After his graduation he located in this city, having an office at the stable of L. L. Chapman and built up a successful practice.

In 1908 Dr. Gardner received a government appointment as an inspector in connection with supervision of the packing industry, which took him to Chicago, where he remained for a time. He had been a member of the Connecticut Veterans association and a member of the examining board of the association.

Dr. Gardner was united in marriage with Grace E. Bowen on June 30, 1906, at Wareham, Mass. Among those surviving him are his father, J. H. Gardner, of this city.

Took Prizes in Whist Club

The Diamond Whist club held its weekly meeting Thursday evening at the home of Miss Lillian Bergeron. Prizes were won by Miss Mildred Combies, and Miss Winifred Kilroy. Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Combies. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Winifred Kilroy of No. 38 Platt avenue.

GRAND LIST $57,315,776 TOTAL; TAXABLE LIST FIGURES $48,781,783 INCREASE OF $422,581 IN YEAR

The board of assessors, whose members are Arad R. Manning, chairman, John B. Oat, secretary and Fred G. Prothero, have completed their work in making up the grand list for the town of which the grand total is $57,315,776, which includes all exemptions.

The taxable list is $48,781,783, which is an increase of $422,581 over the figure of the taxable list of a year ago as left by the board of relief at that time.

This (Friday) afternoon the assessors will attend to the final detail in their work by making affidavit to the abstract book and after that the list will be in the hands of the board of relief for hearing appeals. This board consists of Francis Beique, Edward Kirby and Edwin V. Ross, who will hear appeals for the first twenty days of February and use the last days of the month in making up their final report.

Lists Increase in Number

A comparison with the list last year is shown as follows:

	1929	1930	Gain or loss
Residents' lists	6,030	6,182	152
Non-res. lists	266	265	*1
Exempt. to soldiers	571	596	25
Ex. sold. relatives	58	75	17
Blind exempt	4	4	—
10 Pc. lists	1,721	1,880	159
Houses	5,309	5,383	74
Barns, garages, etc.	4,544	4,767	223
Building lots	9,785½	9,797½	12
Stores	839	842	3
Mills	276	260	*16
Acres	13,188	13,909	721
Horses, mules	264	246	*18
Neat cattle	1,011	1,057	46
Automobiles	4,795	5,182	387

*Shows loss.

The grand list figure of property of all kinds is $57,315,776, from which there are deductions for two classes of exempt property. This takes off $8,533,992 for such property as schools, cemeteries, churches, city, county, state and government property. There is a further deduction of $484,597 for blind and soldier exempt property, making the net taxable list $48,781,783.

The assessors made increases in 221 lists above the figures which the taxpayers had put in and made additions on 90 lists.

Taxable Property Lists

In the taxable property list valuations, there were significant changes in several items from the figures of a year ago. Dwelling houses increased in number from 5,272 to 5,355 and in value from $17,540,807 to $18,016,860. Motor vehicles increased from 4,775 to 5,140 in number and from $1,519,399 to $1,644,770 in value. In the item of stock in trade, which includes inventories of mills, there is a decrease from $3,767,165 to $3,660,730, which is largely accounted for, according to the assessors, by smaller inventories in one of the large woolen mill industries. Values of mills and manufacturing plants are shown at $8,642,088, which is a decrease from $8,723,428, which is largely because of the removal of machinery from Tidewater paper mill property at Thamesville. The number of pieces of mill property is shown at 16 less than last year but the assessors say that does not represent an actual reduction in number, but is due to some changed classifications. There were 159 more lists ten percented this year than last but the amount was not so great by $14,377.

The accompanying figures give a comparison between this year and last on the taxable property:

GOOD YEAR SHOWN BY GREENEVILLE CONGREGATIONAL

The annual meeting of the Greeneville Congregational church was held Thursday evening in the parlors of the church with a large attendance, Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, the pastor, acted as chairman and Mrs. Charles D. Foster was secretary. The meeting was opened at 7:30 with prayer by Rev. Mr. Ricketts with reports from the different societies of the church being read.

These included the report by the pastor for the church and Sunday school, for the Ladies' Aid society, by Janet M. Young, for Euphemian circle, King's Daughter, by Gertrude E. Murray, and for the Circle of Bright Jewels by Natalie P. Service, leader.

The reports showed that the church and societies had a very successful year, both financially and by gaining new members.

The following officers were elected: Trustee, 5 years, William A. Pitcher; deacon, 4 years, Hugh Blackledge; assistant deacons, 1 year, Charles Levitsky, John McNeely, Kirk F. Ricketts, Fred C. Heller; treasurer, 3 years, James W. Semple; assistant treasurer, 3 years, Mrs. James W. Semple; auditors, 1 year, William A. Pitcher, Milton M. Osborne; music committee, 1 year, George E. Geer, Mrs. John McNeely, Mrs. William A. Pitcher; standing committee, 1 year, Jabes West, Mrs. Jennie Young, William S. Murray; reception committee, 1 year, John McNeely, Mrs. James Service, Lloyd Thompson; nominating committee, 1 year, Howard Spalding, Mrs. William L. Clark; 2 years, James P. Service, Mrs. Charles D. Foster; charity and visitation committee, 1 year, Mrs. Robert Agnew, Mrs. S. S. Lathrop, Mrs. William Gordon, Mrs. Charles Levitsky, Miss Ellen Hayes, Mrs. Fred A. Fox, Mrs. Howard Spalding, Miss Gertrude Murray.

A motion to change the annual meeting to a later date was laid on the table.

Refreshments were served after adjournment of the business meeting.

IN SERIOUS CONDITION WITH BLOOD POISONING

The condition of Thomas Perkins Sears of Providence street, Taftville, who is a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital, remained about the same this (Friday) morning, no improvement having been noted. He is quite seriously ill with blood poisoning in the hand, which developed when he accidentally pierced the hand while he was embalming a body at the undertaking plant of George Grant in Taftville, where he is employed. This happened the latter part of last week, but he paid little attention to the injury until his hand and arm swelled up Monday, and calling a doctor he was advised to go to the hospital. He was admitted the following day.

SAYBROOK WOMAN IS BENEFICIARY UNDER WILL

Sarah E. Strickland of Saybrook is a beneficiary under the will of Frank Brown Adams of New York, which cuts off six nephews and nieces and divides the estate, estimated at about $2,300 in personalty, after debts are paid, equally among three friends.

Mr. Adams, who was the famous "Yank" Adams, internationally known finger billiardist, was uncle of Joseph S. Adams of 7 Boswell avenue and Mrs. Olive Potter, R. F. D. No. 2, Norwich.

Prizes at Colonial Club Pinochle

There were seven tables in play at the weekly pinochle party of the Colonial club Thursday evening with the prizes going as follows: Mrs. Austin 7210, Mrs. Hunt 6790, Mrs. Cooney 6710, Mr. Austin 7230, J. Sadinsky 7180, Mr. Fish 7090.

TAKES HIS LIFE IN NORWICH ROOMING HOUSE

Despondent over his physical condition, Theodore F. Dayon, 25, Pawcatuck, took his life by gas Thursday morning at the rooming house in the Young block, Franklin square, conducted by Mrs. Mary Griffin. He was found dead in bed about 11:30 o'clock, Thursday morning.

While the fact that Dayon was found to have no money, when his effects were examined, led to the conclusion that his despondency was the result of financial conditions, his brother, Arthur Dayon of this city, scouted that theory, declaring that Theodore's earnings were at a good rate in the tree surgery line.

Arthur Dayon gave it as his opinion that it was his brother's physical condition that led to his determination to take his own life. Two years ago while at work in Buffalo, Theodore suffered a broken neck in a fall from a tree and he spent three months in a hospital in recovering from his injuries. When he was finally discharged from the hospital, it was necessary to leave a silver wire in his neck where the break was and ever since then he had been subject at times to the most intense pains, according to what his brother said. At times they were so severe that he would be in excruciating agony. It was expected that the wire would soon be removed and he feared the suffering that might attend that operation.

Dayon, according to Mrs. Griffin, appeared to be in good spirits Wednesday night when he was last seen alive. He had been in Norwich for several weeks, following his business as a tree surgeon. Several days ago he went to the rooming house, asked for a room and told Mrs. Griffin that he had no money. Although it was against her rules, Mrs. Griffin told Dayon he might stay at the house and pay for his room when he got the money. Since then Dayon raised some money and paid for his room.

Shortly before 10 o'clock Wednesday night, Dayon went to his room. Thursday morning about 10 o'clock friends who had been working with him called at the rooming house and shook the door of his room but received no response. His failure to appear excited no suspicion at the time as it was thought that he was still asleep. About 11:15 o'clock a second attempt was made to awaken him. A slight odor of gas was noticed and Wilfred Campbell, another roomer, was notified, and he informed Mrs. Griffin.

The door was forced open and the room found filled with gas. The windows in the room were thrown open and police headquarters notified. Officer Bernard Keenan was detailed to make an investigation. In the hope of reviving the man, Chief Henry R. Taft, Deputy Chief D. J. Brennan and Fireman Charles Tatro responded to a telephone call and worked over the man with the inhalator for nearly an hour, but to no avail.

Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve conducted an investigation, after which Undertakers Cummings & Ring were given charge of the body. The body will be taken to Dayon's home, No. 24 Wilford street, Pawcatuck, this (Friday) morning.

A small hose pipe was attached to a gas jet and the end of the pipe placed on the pillow. It is believed that Dayon committed his rash act sometime Thursday forenoon.

Besides his father, Arthur Dayon of Westerly, the young man is survived by his brother, Arthur, in this city; three sisters in Westerly, Mrs. David Bertwhistle, Mrs. Eleanor Gibson and Miss Alma Dayon; a brother Joseph in Jewett City, and a brother Leo in Worcester.

FOR STRICTER REGULATION OF MILK IN NORWICH

In an address before members of the civics department of the Woman's City club Thursday afternoon at the Wauregan hotel, Dr. Clarence O. Thompson, local milk inspector, said that he will ask the court of common council at its monthly meeting next Monday evening to amend the milk ordinances specifying that all milk distributed locally be from tuberculin-tested cows or be pasteurized. Dr. Thompson spoke on the topic, The Milk Situation, saying in part:

At the coming February meeting of the court of common council, an attempt will be made to amend our present statute on milk distribution in this city, by adding a clause stating that after a certain date all milk sold in this city must come from tuberculin tested cows or pasteurized.

Many cities in Connecticut are already blest with this protection and it is only a question of time when the state government will make us take this all-important step. It would be wise for us to realize the great value of properly prepared milk and, at the same time, show our Hartford officials that we are alive to the situation and that we do wish to protect our citizens from possibly avoided disease and its dreadful toll.

The question naturally arises, why do we wish tuberculin-tested milk or pasteurization of milk. It might be wise at this time to explain what we mean by these terms. Tuberculin-tested means that the cow has been inoculated by tuberculin virus and by the presence or absence of a phenomonum called a reaction, we tell whether or not that particular cow is afflicted with tuberculosis. One criticism of this test, given to me by the only farmer voicing a mild adverse opinion, was that the test was not 100 per cent perfect. That may be correct; nothing in medicine is perfect, but with the proper technique in skillful hands the tuberculin test is very rarely wrong. Pasteurization milk is submitted to 145 F. for a half hour. This kills practically all virulent bacteria and also possibly some of the vitamins. However, vitamin deficiency is luckily easily controlled by the use of cod liver oil, irradiated ergosterol and orange juice. The question practically answers itself. The lessened incidence and possible blotting out entirely of such dreaded diseases as tuberculosis, typhoid fever and undulant fever, septic sore throat, and many other definite milk-born infections will surely result if we adopt these measures. In all probability the septic sore throat epidemic in Lee and Melrose, Mass., might have been avoided had pasteurized milk been used. The voice of scientific medicine is strong in favor of these measures; they are well past the experimental stage and are definite safeguards to the well-being of any given community. Only the outstanding efficiency of the state and local health departments prevented a possible epidemic in Norwich last fall. Six cases of typhoid fever appeared in Greeneville with one death; these cases came from the use of the milk of one milkman, in other words this milk, innocently, definitely gave typhoid fever to six people and caused the death of one young man. Whether we wish to admit the fact or not, it still remains that we are Our Brother's Keeper and we are responsible, in one way or another, for his success or defeats, his health or his illness. Let us not shirk our responsibility but be ever alive to our opportunity.

In closing, let me add that the state department of health, domestic animals and dairy and food are lending us whole-hearted support. The know the value of tuberculin-tested and pasteurized milk; they want us to be in line with many other progressive cities of this state. It was recently my great privilege to interview the various commissioners and they urged me to do everything possible to pass this proposed amendment to our present milk law. Now, let us to our part. Better health means for a better city; better health means for a better personal well-being which, after all, is the gift we all so greatly desire. Self preservation is the first law of nature.

Among others who spoke were Dr. Harrison Gray, who told why the milk had been taken from the schools. Miss Kate McKenzie told about the boiled milk ordered from the clinic until we get proper pasteurization. Dwight Beebe, a Norwich boy, gave an interesting talk on his connection with the $2,000,000 plant in Boston. He had also been with the Borden corporation. He is managing a small plant here and is owner of an ice cream dairy. His manager, Harold Taylor, was present, as was also Mr. Browning and Samuel Antzis.

Charles Colt gave an interesting account of the way Cambridge handles its milk situation.

NORWICH WOMAN'S LEGACY TO HUMANE SOCIETY

The receipt in the past year of a legacy of $3,000 from the estate of the late Mrs. Mary R. Osgood, widow of Hugh H. Osgood, was acknowledged in the annual report made by President Charles A. Goodwin at the annual meeting of the Connecticut Humane society in Hartford on Wednesday.

Other legacies received were the following: Alene Lyons Kipen, Westport, $1,000; Charlotte H. Palmer, Brooklyn, $2,000; Andrew B. Hyde, New York city, $1,000; Mary W. Proud, Bridgeport, $500; Mary S. Wells (final settlement), $23.08.

In his report President Goodwin said in part: "This last year has been one of unusual importance to the society. Being a legislative year the officers of the society were active in clarifying the legal situation. Several legislative bills bearing on the humane treatment of animals were passed—among them the "Cropping Bill" which eliminates under penalty of law the cropping of dogs' ears unless for humane reasons; the "Trapping Bill" which placed further restrictions on the promiscuous setting of steel traps; and by agreement with the rabbis of the state the "Humane Slaughtering Bill" was withdrawn, the rabbis agreeing unanimously to cooperate with us in the alleviation of all unnecessary cruelty in the kosher slaughtering of animals rather than have us impose restrictions which would interfere with their religious liberties."

Directors were elected as follows: Charles A. Goodwin, Dr. George C. F. Williams, Robert H. Gillespie, Arthur L. Shipman, Francis R. Cooley, Robbins B. Stoeckel, Burton Mansfield, Mrs. W. B. Williams, Irving H. Chase.

The publicity director, Ernest A. Legg, reported the receipt of contributions for memberships amounting to $19,030.70. 244 new members enrolled during the year; 184 lapsed memberships renewed during the year. 211 members increasing their contribution in 1929.

The report by Mrs. Nellie T. Brent, director of the children's department, showed: Numbers of families reported 1,161, involving the welfare of 5,506 children, of which 65 were in the Norwich-New London district.

The director of the animals department, Reed W. Hitchcock, reported 4,640 cases handled during the year. Forty-eight prosecutions were conducted resulting in jail sentences for 5; fine and costs for 37; 2 were placed on probation; 5 jail sentences suspended.

RAKLETTS-GONZALES TEAM WINS IN TEXAS PRO-AMATEUR; MILLER PLAYS

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Jan. 30—(AP)—Combining team work with par breaking golf, Tom Rakletts, young Columbus, O., professional, and his amateur partner, M. J. Gonzales, San Antonio schoolboy, produced a 65 over the Brackenridge Park course today to win the annual amateur-pro best ball event, preliminary to the ninth annual Texas open golf tournament starting tomorrow.

Rakletts himself had a 69, two under par and Gonzales helped him on four holes. The win was worth $100 to Rakletts and a gold medal to Gonzales.

The day's toughest break befell Wilfred Cox, veteran New York professional. He turned in a 66, tying the competitive course record, but had to be content with second place, as he received no help from his partner, F. H. Strong, Pearsall, Texas.

Two teams tied for third place, each with a 67, they were Walter Murry, Gary, Ind., professional, and Lewis Levinson, San Antonio amateur, and Paul Runyon, Little Rock professional, and Emil Mueller, San Antonio. Levinson, a southpaw and former state champion had a 70.

Eighteen teams turned in cards of 70 or better. Some sparkling golf in the 72 hole medal test starting tomorrow was expected. A record field of 147 professionals and amateurs is entered, 115 of them eligible for the $7,500 in cash prizes.

Horton Smith, ranking favorite to capture the first prize of $1,500 was off his game somewhat today, but he and his partner, Logan Van Zandt, Tulsa amateur, carded a 69. Van Zandt bagged a 71 to help things along. Wild Bill Mehlhorn, defending champion, and his helper, C. A. Hodgson, San Antonio, had 73.

One of the most colorful pairs in today's competition was Al Espinosa, swarthy Chicago professional and Tris Speaker, better known as a manufacturer of base hits, who came down from his winter home at Hubbard, Texas, to have his fling. Their best effort was a 73.

John Dawson, Chicago winner of yesterday's amateur qualifying event, paired with R. J. McAuliffe, Buffalo tutor, to card a 68 today. Harry Cooper, unattached, teamed with Tom Lawrence, San Antonio for a 68. Other teams which recorded 68's were R. J. McAuliffe, Buffalo, N. Y., Clarence Hubby, Waco, Texas; Tom Creavy, New York and Tom Penna, White Plains, N. Y.

Miller Has a 74

Massie B. Miller of Norwich, Conn., placed well down the list as he and his amateur partner, M. B. Hinton had a best ball card of 36-38—74. Miller will play in the Texas open which starts today with the qualifying round, champion, Russ Martin, of Chicago, lost to Johnny Lehman, Chicago, 3 and 1.

The largest gallery followed Chick Evans and Jack Westland, French amateur champion. Westland finally won, 3 up in 36 holes.

PROGRAM FOR IN DOOR TRACK MEET COMPLETE

All arrangements have been practically completed for the Academy's indoor track meet at the armory Saturday night. Coach Murphy of the Wildcats has lined up an attractive card and expects a banner crowd.

The Academy is expected to make a strong bid for its first indoor victory when it tackles Stonington high. Two weeks ago the Red and White lost its first start to Suffield prep but gave the much more experienced visiting outfit a stiff tussle in most every event and the Suffield athletes went home knowing they had been in a hard meet. Local followers will place much faith in Sam Berkman, the N. F. A. captain, who was high scorer in the other meet, totaling 14 3-4 points. Agnew, who won the 440 in a fine race, and all the others who made a good impression, including Johnny Lyons, Georgie Lambert, Sera, Mahoney, Bootes and Baronsky will be on hand.

McCAFFERY TO DEFEND TITLE IN "MILLROSE 600"

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—Bernie McCaffery, Holy Cross sophomore, signed today to defend his laurels in the classic "Millrose 600" at the Millrose A. A. games in Madison Square Garden. Reginald "Pete" Bowen of the University of Pittsburgh, intercollegiate and national quarter mile champion, and two other middle distance stars not yet announced, will oppose him.

SIX CHAMPIONS TO DEFEND INDOOR TITLES

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—Six of the nine individual champions of 1929 will return to defend their laurels in the annual indoor track and field intercollegiate, March 1, at the 102nd Engineers armory.

The defending champions will be Jimmy Daley, Holy Cross, 70 yard dash; Joe Hickey, New York university, mile run; Joe Hagen, Columbia, two mile run; Sol Furth, New York university, broad jump; Ben Hedges, Princeton, who tied for first in high jump, and Leo Sexton, Georgetown, 35 pound weight.

AMERICANS TURN TABLES ON DETROIT COUGARS

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—The New York Americans came back from a long losing streak tonight to defeat the Detroit Cougars, 3 to 2, in a spotty National Hockey league game. It was New York's first victory in seven games.

Detroit scored first only to have the Americans come back to gain a 2-1 lead in the first period. New York scored again in the second period and the Cougars in the third.

Bill Brydge, American defense man who played with Detroit last season, put up a good game against his former teammates while Worters, always good, shone especially for a short time in the second period when penalties reduced his team by two. Goodfellow, Cooper and Aurie were the leaders of the Detroit attack.

MISS HOLM SETS NEW BACKSTROKE RECORD

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 30—(AP)—Miss Eleanor Holm, of the Women's Swimming association of New York, tonight swam the 220 yards backstroke event in the world's record breaking time of 3 minutes and 3-5 seconds.

The present recognized record is 3 minutes 1 3-5 seconds made by the late Miss Sybil Bauer, of the Illinois Athletic club at Miami, Fla., in 1924.

Miss Holm swam tonight's event against Miss Mae Cutnell, of the Carnegie Library club, Pittsburgh at the Keystone Athletic club pool.

LAMPRECHT WINS FROM NOVOTNY IN P-A TOURNEY

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., Jan. 30—(AP)—Fred Lamprecht, of New Orleans, former intercollegiate champion, today defeated Gus Novotny, Chicago, one up in a quarter final match in the Pan-American amateur golf tournament.

By the same score Frank Justin, of Chicago, overcame Sam Perry, of Birmingham, Ala., former amateur

BARBUTI TO TRY OUT SPEED IN THE DASHES

(By Ted Vosburgh, Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—Ray Barbuti, now back in the good graces of the amateur athletic union after eleven months under suspension, may be seen this winter in the role of a sprinter instead of a quarter-miler.

Reinstated last night by the A. A. U., the big Olympic 400-meter champion decided today that the best way to begin a come-back would be to try his luck at the dashes.

Just what events he will enter Barbuti has not yet determined but it is understood the promoters of such outstanding indoor fixtures as the Millrose games here Feb. 8; Meadowbrook at Philadelphia, Feb. 12; Boston A. A., Feb. 15; New York A. C., Feb. 17; and the Knights of Columbus here, March 12, would welcome this colorful runner's entry blank. The National A. A. U. indoor event at Atlantic City, March 8, is another possibility.

Ray formerly ran in the New York A. C. colors and probably will carry the winged foot again in his come-back attempt.

Barbuti, at 190 pounds, is close to the weight at which he won Uncle Sam's only foot-racing victory at Amsterdam.

Later, after putting in the mileage that is so essential to the making of a quarter-miler, he hopes to return to the top at his chosen distance but this bid will probably be made on the outdoor tracks in the spring and summer.

Barbuti is no stranger to the sprints as he captured the intercollegiate championship at 220-yards as well as 440 in 1928, his final year at Syracuse university.

"In high school I used to be a cross country runner," he remarked with a grin. "Now look at me coming all the way down to the sprints."

Barbuti is eager for the opportunity to return to his best "four-forty form" and try conclusions with the young quarter-milers who have come along fast since he ruled the division, such as "Pete" Bowen of the University of Pittsburgh, national and intercollegiate champion, and Bernie McCafferty of Holy Cross.

FARRINGTON WINS STATE SPEED SKATING CROWN

HARTFORD, Jan. 30—(AP)—Clifford "Red" Farrington, of Stamford, matched strokes with the best skaters that Connecticut had to offer tonight in the annual ice skating championships held at Colt Park and when the final race was over, was declared the new state champion.

Miss Helen Cosker, of Hartford, making her final appearance in competition in Connecticut, was never pushed in retaining her title. This is the third successive year that Miss Cosker has dominated the women skaters. Miss Cosker easily finished first in the four events for women with Mary Fallon, of Hartford, taking second place in the four races.

BEAVIS, ENGLISH AMATEUR, WINS AT BERMUDA

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 30—(AP)—Playing the game steady golf that won him the medal yesterday, J. H. Beavis, former English amateur star now living in Bermuda, defeated M. G. Briggs, Great Neck, N. Y., by a margin of six and four today in the first round of the annual combined tournaments for the MacCallum Perfection trophy and Light Bourn cup.

A. C. Gregson, New York, covered the reconstructed Belmont Manor course in 77, five over par, in downing F. W. Perkins, Bermuda, 4 and 2.

In other first round matches A. Green, Orange, Conn., defeated J. L. Brown, Montclair, N. J., 4 and 2; Raynor M. Gay Diner, Boston, defeated Stanley S. Hawe, Bermuda, 3 and 2.

HUTTON IS TRADED TO SENATORS FOR CONNER

BOSTON, Jan. 30—(AP)—C. F. Adams, president of the Boston Bruins hockey club tonight announced that he had traded Bill Hutton, his third string right winger, for Harry Conner, of the Ottawa Senators, a left wing. The deal will go into effect immediately and Hutton will join the Senators in time for their game with Les Canadiens on Saturday night.

In the event that either club is dissatisfied with the trade, Adams said, the players involved will revert to their original teams at the start of next season.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Windham by beating Killingly, and Chapman Tech whipping Putnam this week in Eastern Conn. league basketball tilts, further strengthened their positions as the only contenders for the championship. Windham beat Tech early in the season, however, and only needs to repeat in the game to come and which will be played at New London, in order to have a pretty firm grip on first place.

New Britain high football team will not elect its captain until next fall because of friction among the members of the squad.

The big event in scholastic circles this week is the Academy's track meet tomorrow night at the armory.

Three members of the Wilby high basketball team of Waterbury have been indefinitely suspended by Coach Jimmy Lee.

Chapman Tech basketball team meets Stonington tonight at Stonington in a conference game. Next Tuesday at New London the Tech team will play Commercial high of New Haven.

Suffield prep track team, which was credited with a victory over the Academy tracksters in the Wildcats' opening meet, last Saturday won the Y. M. C. A. meet at Hartford.

One of the recent suggestions in the basketball world that would be more than interesting to the high schools is that both baskets be available as scoring territory. It is claimed this would speed up the game and the movement is said to have quite a following.

If the Academy had sponsored a basketball team this year it would now be preparing to enter the second part of its schedule. Last year at this time the Red and White team had won two and lost five games, and Fat Stevens was the leading scorer with 82 points. The team had scored 105 points against 195 for its opponents.

Hello, folks, back on the job after a couple days vacation.

And right off the reel let me tell you that I didn't write that stuff about "The Great Susie" in Thursday's paper. It was one of the boys in the office and if I know him right it was written in a sarcastic vein.

Somebody accused me of calling myself great and wanted to know whether I referred to my ability or my size. As I didn't write the piece I couldn't say but having neither I think that it was written in derision, for which I am thankful.

While I have been absent from the city I attended an auction of antiques, household goods, etc. Folks, those auctions are a scream and buying antiques at auction is like buying stock in new oil companies, if they strike oil you win.

Why some people go absolutely crazy over antiques is beyond me. Can you imagine two women bidding and bidding for an old broken down chair that trembles when a fly walks across it? And the more broken down, the higher they bid.

I heard more about Windsor, Hepplewhite, Chippendale, Sheraton and a lotta other fellers, than I ever heard before. At first I thought they must be minor leaguers until I found out they was old-time carpenters.

Now I suppose some of the antique worshippers are going to be up in arms over calling those boys carpenters instead of cabinet makers. Well believe me, if a good carpenter couldn't have built more substantial furniture he oughta turn in his union card.

Of course I know some of it is very graceful and quite the thing, but just the same, don't you hate to see one of your heavyweight friends park herself in the old Chippendale, Hepplewhite or Windsor, which ever it is your taste runs to? Sure you do, and every time she moves you and the chair groan.

Now at that auction there was lots of antiques and some were good and some were not so good, that is, according to who bought 'em. If you bought 'em they were good and a bargain at the price, but if somebody outbid you they were reconstructed pieces.

You oughta hear those antique dealers give the other dealers the grand and glorious razzberry. If one dealer bought a piece that another dealer wanted you'd hear the disappointed dealer say that that guy never did know anything about antiques or he'd never bid so high. And so it went.

But where I got my greatest kick was when an old couple came to buy a bedroom suite. The suite was put up at auction and the bidding was between two parties, the old couple and one lone woman. The man was doing the bidding for the twosome.

The bidding was brisk between the two until it got fairly high. Then before each raising of the bid the old couple would hold a conference, and after due consideration the man would raise the bid. A prompt raise from the other party would send the couple into a huddle again.

This went on until they stayed in the huddle a few seconds too long and the auctioneer announced that the suite had been sold to the other woman. "Well, we was going to make another bid," pipes up the feminine half of the huddle. "Well, you're too late," comes back the auctioneer.

"There," says the man, "ain't that too bad, and to think we come here just to buy that bedroom suit and now we lost it. Come, Maria, let's go home."

Then there was a young woman who bid on some dishes she thought was cut-glass and when she got them and found they was just ordinary glass she pipes up, "Well, I sure got stuck that time." But that didn't stop her from bidding again, not much.

Auctions is a great thing and you sure can get a great kick out of them if you keep your money in your pocket.

MIANNE PALFREY REACHES FINALS AT BROOKLINE

BROOKLINE, Mass., Jan. 30—(AP)—Eighteen-year-old Mianne Palfrey, third oldest of Brookline's five tennis playing sisters, today reached the championship round of the women's national indoor singles tournament by defeating Miss Edith Sigourney of Boston, the 1928 champion, 2-6, 6-4, 7-5.

Miss Palfrey is the youngest player ever to reach the finals of this event and, though unseeded, she forged her way into the last bracket by eliminating three seeded opponents in as many days. Her previous victims were Virginia Rice, of Boston, and Marjorie Morrill, of Dedham.

Miss Palfrey will clash in the finals Saturday against the winner of the semi-final match between Mrs. John B. Jessup of Wilmington, Del., who was top seeded, and Miss Margaret Blake, of Lenox, the defending champion, who will match strokes tomorrow.

After being eliminated from the singles play, Miss Sigourney teamed with Miss Morrill to defeat Mrs. Charles J. Hubbard, Jr., of Cambridge, and Miss Blake, in a semi-final doubles match by scores of 5-7, 6-3, 7-5.

The defending champions will clash with Mrs. Jessup and Mianne Palfrey in the second semi-final match tomorrow.

During the afternoon and early evening, the second round mixed double matches, seven in all, were played. This tourney will also have its final on Saturday.

STATE ARCHERY TOURNEY AT STORRS THIS SUMMER

STORRS, Jan. 30—(AP)—Roy J. Guyer, professor of physical education at Connecticut Agricultural college, tonight announced that a state archery tournament will be held at the college some time next summer. The tournament will be sponsored by the Connecticut State Association of Archers, of which Prof. Guyer is acting president.

Prof. Guyer is chairman of the committee which is arranging the tournament.

HUDKINS-FLYNN BOUT FEATURES BOSTON CARD

BOSTON, Jan. 30—(AP)—Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, will engage in his first important light-heavyweight battle here tomorrow night, when he clashes with Arthur Flynn, of Lawrence, in the Boston Garden's feature ten-round contest.

The program will mark Eddie Mack's retirement as boxing promoter for the Garden.

KOZIOL AND BROUILLARD ON FAST CARD AT DANIELSON TONIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 30—Dynamite Lou Brouillard will appear in the star bout of a boxing card at the town hall here Friday night. This will be the first card of bouts in Danielson for many months and should prove a treat to the fans. Brouillard is going to have tough Ironman Reid as an opponent. Reid is an old time battler, having taken part in 125 bouts, of which he won 76, many of them by knockouts, in New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts. On the other hand Brouillard has taken part in 42 fights and won 38 and has 30 knockouts to his credit. He has fought all over New England and has lost only two matches. Brouillard has never been on the floor and has never taken any count.

The semi-final is to be between Al Koziol of Norwich and Leo Ledoux of Worcester. Koziol is the former amateur champion of Rhode Island and is a rough and ready fighter, who is always boring in. Ledoux has been beaten only once since entering the professional ranks and it so happens that the man who beat him is the one that will face him here Friday evening. As a matter of fact this will be a deciding bout between the two, because Ledoux also holds a decision over Koziol.

In a preliminary Rene Peloquin, a local boy, is on the card to go six rounds with Bud Dempsey of Woonsocket. Peloquin has a nice record with 19 wins and 12 knockouts to his credit in 32 professional bouts. Dempsey is a slugger and has fought many battles in Rhode Island rings.

Patsy Ferra of Norwich will meet Joe Preston of Worcester and Honeyboy Gauvin of Norwich will meet Al Rodman of New York in the other preliminaries.

BRITISH PLAYERS CONTINUE THEIR BRILLIANT PLAY

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 30—(AP)—British players continued their brilliant play in the national racquets doubles championship today, both teams coming through with victories. Teams from New York and this city also reached the semi-finals.

Lord Aderdale former amateur racquets singles champion of England, and his partner, Dr. H. W. Leatham, England, won from Stanley W. Pearson, Philadelphia, and A. L. Corey, New York, 15-10, 15-10, 8-15, 11-15, 15-2. The British pair captured the Canadian championship in Montreal last week.

The national champions, C. C. Pell and S. G. Mortimer of New York, won easily in their first start, defeating P. Wharton and G. F. Fearing, 3rd., of Boston, in straight sets, 15-1, 15-4, 15-8.

E. M. Edwards and J. R. Rowland, Philadelphia, turned in a victory over another New York pair, H. D. Sheldon and W. Palmer Dixon, 15-6, 12-15, 17-18, 15-3, 15-9, 15-12.

Peter Kemp-Welch and Duncan Cambridge, England, defeated Hewitt Morgan and C. J. Coulter, New York, 15-9, 15-9, 15-10.

SPORTS COMMITTEE TO PROBE MINNESOTA ATHLETICS

MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 30—(AP)—Hailed as the first definite step toward reorganization of athletics at the University of Minnesota, appointment of a committee of sport experts to make a survey at the school with a view to establishing a "constructive and forward looking program" was announced today by President Lotus D. Coffman.

Those named on the committee are Major John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics of the western conference; Grantland Rice, New York sports writer; President H. M. Gage of Coe college at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and C. W. Savage, athletic director at Oberlin college, Oberlin, Ohio.

President Coffman revealed that all members of the committee had accepted and would come here as soon as possible to start the survey which will be used as a basis for the university's sports program for the next ten years.

BACON FIVE TAKES CLOSE GAME FROM LYMAN HIGH

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, Jan. 30—The Bacon Academy basketball team defeated their old rivals, the Lyman Memorial high school quintet in Lebanon Wednesday evening by a score of 21 to 19. The game was unusually exciting and close throughout both halves, both sides being well matched and played in top form. Abell featured for Lebanon with 12 points and D. Horwitz starred for Bacon Academy with 16 points. It was Horwitz's brilliant playing that put in the three deciding points to give the Bacon team the victory. Horwitz is fast making a name for himself in the Bacon basketball records, he having been the outstanding star in the game in Colchester Saturday evening when the Bacon outfit defeated the Phi Delta Nu quintet of the United Congregational church of Norwich.

The Bacon Academy team is elated over the fact that it defeated the Lyman quintet in both of two games played last year and has also beaten the Lyman outfit in the two games played this year.

The summary of Wednesday evening's game:

Maroons Blank Leafs.

TORONTO, Jan. 30—(AP)—Montreal's battling Maroons shut out the Toronto Maple Leafs tonight, 3 to 0, in a hot and fast National Hockey league game.

Northcott scored twice, one goal coming in the second period and one in the third, while Stewart tallied in the second frame. For the Leafs, the veteran, Frank Nighbor, was outstanding.

Some Dogs!

BROCKTON, Mass., Jan. 30—(AP)—The largest pair of shoes ever manufactured in this city were sent tonight by air mail to Primo Carnera, giant Italian boxer. They were boxing shoes and measured 9 inches across the sole, and 18 1-2 inches from heel to toe tip. The size was 21 and they were ordered for use in Carnera's fight at Chicago tomorrow night.

Aggies Play Trinity Tonight

STORRS, Jan. 30—(AP)—The Connecticut Aggies basketball team will play Trinity college at Hartford tomorrow night.

The Aggies' lineup will include Captain Ryan and Lamoureaux, forwards; Chubbuck, center, and Duffy and Flydal, guards.

SPEAKER'S SUBJECT TO BE "PROHIBITION UP TO DATE"

The members of the Woman's Christian Temperance union will be the special guests at the service to be held Sunday evening in the temple of the Methodist Episcopal church at 7:30. The pastor, Rev. George Warren Potter has arranged a special service to celebrate the tenth anniversary of prohibition and he has secured an excellent speaker, the state president of the Anti-Saloon League of America, Rev. Myron E. Genter. His subject will be, "Prohibition up to Date." The speaker has just returned from the biennial convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America, held at Detroit, and is well qualified to speak on the topic announced. Mrs. Nathan Gilman, president of the Norwich W. C. T. U. at the recent victory dinner, held in the city, announced the Sunday night service and urged the members to attend in large numbers. The service is open to the public. There will be special music.

The Boy Scouts of Troop 2, connected with the Methodist Episcopal church, have started rehearsals of a play entitled, "Coming Clean," which will be presented at an early date. The meeting of the scouts this (Friday) night, will be in charge of Assistant Scoutmaster Lewis E. Aldrich and Ralph Smith.

BURIAL FOR MICH. ROVER— BUT HE DESERVED IT

The skunk dog Rover, owned by Mrs. Nellie Cransberry, has caught many skunks stealing chickens on the farm of Mrs. Cransberry, on the outskirts of the village. She has about 1,000 chickens, including a fine flock of white ones. With the snow on the ground, the sun shining on those white ones, makes a real picture. That western dog sure knows his stuff on catching the mean thieves from the woods which come at night while the chickens are roosting and take them away for a week's meal to the woods. When this dog Rover made the trip from Michigan in a crate, he was all in from the long trip on the train and so thin you could read a newspaper through him. But after a good lunch of about several pounds and a big bone to gnaw on, getting fat, Rover was ready for action.

So the farmer lady put him near the coop that had the most chickens in it. As the night was dark and the hour of midnight drew near, Rover was lying there like a bank watchman making his rounds. Soon a big black and white kitten known to Mrs. Cransberry as a skunk, came on his tiptoes for a chick or two. Rover let the thief get into the coop, then as he was ready to take a chicken from its beauty sleep, the dog made a flying tackle and had the skunk with two tosses, in the air, with its head to the sky and both eyes closed. No more chickens will he steal during the long hours of the night. It took the pride of Michigan six minutes to kill the thief and it weighed around 11 pounds. But Rover wanted more action; he went over into another coop and killed another skunk, and before the sun smiled on the world he had a record of five skunks in one evening. The chicken-raiser did not lose any of her flock that night. The dog Rover has proved his money's worth to Mrs. Cransberry for it cost $300 to bring that skunk dog from the west, with freight and everything. Rover sure likes his skunks. To the left of him or to the right, you can see them go in the air like a football going with the wind. The chicken-raiser called up a skunk buyer and let him have the dead animals for nothing for she was going around with a cloth pinned on her nose and the doors locked on account of those skunks lying in the yard.

Rover was all in after his night's work and went to bed, all tied out. That western dog slept for about 16 hours, then got up fresh as a brand new shave and put away a big meal while Mrs. Cransberry was busy with her prize stock, that lay many golden eggs for her and her neighbors and friends.

That western dog was doing tricks that gave some of the chickens the laugh, to see a dog trying to stand on his tail.

But now, sad news shocks the whole village; Rover was chasing a rabbit that ran across the road when an automobile came by going fast and hit the dog in the back. That left the skunk-catcher dead as a door nail, never to catch another poultry thief. When Mrs. Cransberry heard the sad news, smelling salts had to bring her to, for it sure was hard luck to see a dog worth $300 kiss the world good-bye, so young.

Two kids brought the dead dog Rover over to the farm of the chicken-raiser so he could have a proper burial. Mrs. Cransberry said: "I had Rover for seven months and he sure has been a real pal, catching skunks so as not to let them ruin my chicken business. He must have known I was a widow, trying to make a living but I will miss my pal, known to every one around as the champion skunk catcher. He was not afraid of a lion, brave as Sergeant York going into battle and winning crosses in the war!"

The $300 dog got a real funeral—in a box made by a kind carpenter, George Moore. The grave was dug by Joe Nash. By the wooden box were four pall-bearers, two on each side, taking him to his last resting place, with a crowd of 50 following, till the wooden box was put under ground. The words on the box read, "Western dog Rover, champion skunk catcher of Noank." Flowers were laid on his grave by the children.

The kids around the farm miss the dog, a playmate that would get a ball, or climb a ladder—but no more will Rover do these things for them.

One night, as the chicken-raiser was sleeping sound, she heard a noise among the chickens and saw the skunk running away with her stock. The bold thief was carrying out a chicken between his teeth. She said: "I reached for the shot-gun, took aim, and got the thief with one shot—never even killed the chicken! The skunk thieves did not dare to come back any more that night! Well, but I miss poor Rover, who used to get the black and white kittens for me! He was faithful and I never had to whip him for he minded like a child!"

D. A. R. MOTION PICTURE GUIDE FOR JANUARY

Motion pictures rated in January by the better films committee of the national Daughters of the American Revolution for the D. A. R. motion picture guide are the following:

They Had To See Paris. Fox. An amusing domestic comedy starring Will Rogers; while outstanding for its entertainment values this picture carries the message that simple, home-loving hearts are best. Recommended for all.

The Virginian. Para. Famous Lasky. Entertaining comedy drama of western life based on the novel by Owen Wister. Gary Cooper and Richard Arlen portray characters typical of pioneer days when the real empire builders held to their standards, fought lawlessness, and were respected even by those whom they punished. Family.

Oh Yeah. Pathe. Highly entertaining railroad comedy drama. Exceedingly well written and acted; Jimmy Gleason and Robert Armstrong. Shows the love of two men for each other and their loyalty when one gets into trouble. Family.

Love, Live And Laugh. Fox. Intensely human war drama. Lila Lee and George Jessel. As Italian lad, Jessel radiates happiness and cheer throughout. Magnificent scene on Italian war front. Wm. K. Howard director. Recommended for all.

Disraeli. Warner Bros. A film classic. The inimitable George Arliss gives a brilliant portrayal of England's great statesman, in story of mystery and intrigue. True love beautifully exemplified by age (Lord and Lady Beaconsfield-Disraeli) and by youth (Charles and Clarissa)—the central figures in a dramatic chapter of English history.

The Viking. Technicolor—M. G. M. Historical romance based on the novel "The Thrall of Leif the Lucky," depicting the roving life of the Vikings in ancient [illegible]. Delightful entertainment for everyone.

Salute. Fox. A clean, highly entertaining comedy of Annapolis. Shows also some traditions and customs of Annapolis. Arouses patriotism. Good photography; excellent direction. Family.

Taming Of The Shrew. United Artists. Co-starring Mary Pickford and Douglas Fairbanks, in an outstanding production. "The true spirit of Elizabethan drama and the vigorous vitality which underlies it is caught in this adaptation of Shakespeare's rollicking comedy. Family.

Navy Blues. M. G. M. All dialogue. Cast includes William Haines, Anita Page, Karl Dane, J. C. Nugent and Edythe Chapman. When real love comes to a young sailor, he fails to recognize it. Flirting merrily with a romantic girl, he implicates her in the eyes of her family, with unhappy results. Later he takes desperate means to atone; all ends happily. Breezy and delightful entertainment for all the family.

His First Command. Pathe. All dialogue. William Boyd and Dorothy Sebastian in an army romance. A young adventurer joins the ranks to be near the girl he loves. His heroism is recognized when he saves a child who falls in the path of racing cavalrymen; promotion brings a satisfactory ending. Splendid out-of-door scenes of cavalry post discipline and activities strike a fine patriotic note. Thrilling entertainment. Family.

This Thing Called Love. Pathe. All dialogue. Based on the stage play by Edwin Burke. Cast includes Edmund Lowe, Constance Bennett, Zasu Pitts. A refreshing society comedy satirizing modern experiments with marriage. Ann and Robert determine to make a business partnership of marriage in which love has no part, but the little green god of jealousy upsets plans when they find they are truly in love. Witty dialogue, color sequence. Adults.

The Vagabond Lover. R. K. O. All dialogue. Featuring Rudy Vallee, Marie Dressler, Sally Blane. A light, amusing comedy in which Rudy, who has studied music by mail, poses as a well known orchestra leader. Excellent singing, orchestral music and amusing comedy element by Marie Dressler make good family entertainment.

Officer O'Brien. Pathe. All dialogue. William Boyd, Ernest Torrance, Dorothy Sebastian. A tense and grim picture of crime and retribution. The well developed plot concerns young Officer O'Brien's determination to prove the guilt of a gangster leader, and thus remove the barrier that exists between the girl he loves and himself. Good characterization and rapid action make gripping entertainment for adults who care for films of underworld mystery and intrigue.

Men Are Like That. Para. Famous Lasky. All dialogue. Based on the stage play "The Show-Off" by George Kelly. Featuring Hal Skelly in a domestic drama about an ordinary family and a good-hearted son who cannot resist lying and exaggerating. Family.

Half Way To Heaven. Para. Famous Lasky. All dialogue. Cast includes Charles "Buddy" Rogers, Jean Arthur, Paul Lukas. A circus drama about young acrobats who love the same girl. Not outstanding, but fair entertainment for family.

Dangerous Females. Christie-Paramount. All dialogue. Marie Dressler, Polly Moran, Frank Rice. This hilarious farcical comedy revolves about two elderly sisters living in a small town, and the mix-up that results when they confuse an escaped convict with the new evangelist. For average audience.

ONLY TWO VOTES CAST TO CARRY ANNEXATION

SANTA ANA, Cal.—(AP)—Probably the smallest election ever held is the one which recently made the area of Santa Ana an acre larger.

M. and Mrs. John Mangold are ranchers whose property lay just outside the city limit. They petitioned for annexation. The clerk of Orange county ordered the regular voting equipment moved to the Mangold front porch and the oath was administered to her as judge and to her husband as election inspector.

When the polls closed it was determined that both voters had been recorded for annexation, carrying the proposition 100 per cent.

Local members of Connecticut chapter of Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America, have received notice of the 26th annual meeting of the chapter to be held at Hartford Golf club Friday, February 14, at 11 a. m. Luncheon will be at 1 p. m. In the afternoon, there will be greetings from Mrs. John L. Buel, national president and an address, "A Century's Test of Connecticut's Principles," by John S. Rolfe, publisher of the Hartford Times. Miss Mary Swift Whittlesey is president of the chapter. During the past three months, 14 new members have been added, and two have been lost by death.

Earl Finney has returned from Blue Ridge mountains, near Richmond, Va. where he was called by the serious illness of his sister, who was not expected to live. She was still alive when he left, but it is not certain that even now she will have strength enough to recover.

The Ladies' Aid society of Old Mystic Baptist church met with Mrs. Joseph D. Austin Wednesday afternoon. The members sewed on the usual patchwork, also on sheets which are to be sent to some mission.

Bergman brothers are busy cutting ice on their pond in Old Mystic. The ice is of good thickness and quite clear.

Mrs. Abel Louden of Westerly, visited friends in the village Wednesday.

Miss Frances Travena, R. N., of Boston, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Fanny Travena of Broadway, Mystic, for a few days.

There was a large crowd at the recital given by the pupils of Mrs. Mildred C. Keigwin, teacher of piano, in Masonic temple, Wednesday evening. All of the pupils did very well and praise was heard on all sides. Mrs. Keigwin gave two recitals in one this year. Other years she has given a recital by the younger pupils, and later one by the older ones. This year, both classes gave their recital the same night.

Mrs. Joseph Startz, who has been confined to her home by illness, is improving slowly.

Mrs. Beatrice Noyes, R. N., is caring for Conrad Kreizer, who was painfully injured in a fall on the ice a short time ago. He is as comfortable as can be expected.

Mary Dora Blanchet, 8 months old, daughter of Aldios E. and Alida Ratelle Blanchet, died Wednesday at the Lawrence Memorial hospital, New London. She was born on May 5, 1929, in Mystic. Her parents, a brother and one sister survive. The little one had been ill but a short time.

Williams Woman's Relief corps held a whist in G. A. R. hall Wednesday afternoon with 8 tables in play. Prizes were won by Mrs. George Tift and Miss Clara Burnet. Following the play, sandwiches and coffee were served by the committee, Mrs. J. Sherman Hammond, Mrs. George Tift, Mrs. Albert Neff, Mrs. Nathan Murphy and Mrs. Thomas Wilcox.

A delegation from the local Methodist church is planning to attend the Epworth League institute to be held in Norwich, this (Friday) evening. The matter of transportation is in charge of Chester Gremley.

Miss Gwendolyn Pierson has been entertaining Miss Irene Moore, of Bristol.

Mrs. William Prescott and son have been dismissed from a sanatorium in West Mystic, and have returned to their home in Waterford.

Mrs. Florence Goodfellow, of New York, was in town Tuesday, to attend the funeral of Miss Lurinda Dudley.

Robert Gremley, of Hartford, has been visiting his parents in the village.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Roux of Willimantic, were callers in town Wednesday.

Helen Starkey chapter of St. Mark's Episcopal church, met Thursday afternoon and tied a quilt.

Thomas Donelly, of West Mystic avenue, is confined to his home by illness.

Local members of the D. A. R. tuned in to station WJZ Wednesday afternoon, and heard Mrs. Thomas L. Green give a very interesting talk on the Detained Immigrant at Ellis Island. The National society keeps two paid workers at the island all the time, Mrs. Green said. Charters throughout the country furnish material for the immigrants to work on while they are detained. Some of the people are rather indignant to have work handed out to them, but when they find that they are to be kept at the island for some time they are very glad of some work to do.

The roads have been rather slippery for the past few days.

Mrs. John Eldredge, of Old Mystic, entertained Mrs. C. H. Burdick and Mrs. J. H. Williams at supper, Wednesday.

William D. Breaker returned Wednesday to New York, after being in town Tuesday to attend the funeral of his aunt, Miss Lurinda Dudley. Mrs. Breaker, who was on her way to California at the time of Miss Dudley's death, has reached there.

LEDYARD

Rev. Edward P. Kelly preached in the Ledyard church on Sunday morning and in the evening Mrs. Barbara Holdridge was leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting.

Miss Ruth T. Russell, of Norwich, home demonstration agent of the New London County Farm bureau had an all-day class in chair-caning at the residence of Mrs. Arthur D. Barrett Friday, Jan. 24. There were sixteen in this class and all were pleased with the help shown and the amount of work done. The fine dinner was appreciated by all.

The community ice-house was filled with clear 9-inch ice from Holdridge's pond Tuesday. More ice was put into this community ice-house this year than for several years past.

S. E. Holdridge, executor of the estate of Delano Sheldon and Sarah A. Sheldon, has sold the Sally O. Sheldon farm belonging to these estates to Delano A. Sheldon, of Ledyard. Mr. Sheldon now owns all the real estate that the late Delano Sheldon and Sarah A. Sheldon had at the time of their decease.

There will be no C. E. meeting in the local church Sunday evening next as the young people are planning to attend the C. E. meeting at Norwich Town.

Local vegetable growers attended a vegetable growers' meeting in the Farm bureau office Wednesday evening. County Agent Walter Clark and Prof. A. E. Wilkinson of the college showed many slides of the corn borers and other interesting slides were shown which were helpful.

Delano A. Sheldon has sold the recently purchased place of the late Sally O. Sheldon place to Earl B. Geer, of this town.

Rev. Edward P. Kelly, Mrs. Everett Gallup, Paul Holdridge and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holdridge attended an executive meeting of the C. E. union held in Preston City church Wednesday evening.

ANDOVER

The Girls' league met at the home of Miss Dorothy Cook, Saturday evening.

The Boys' club held a whist in the Town hall Friday evening last.

Mrs. E. M. Yeomans left last week Wednesday for West Palm Beach, Florida, to visit her sister-in-law, Mrs. Raymond Yeomans and her daughter, Emily Yeomans who is attending school there. She expects to remain for the rest of the winter.

Randall Jones was taken to Manchester hospital, Friday, having suffered a shock at his home a few days before.

Mark Bass of New York spent the week end with his sister, Mrs. E. H. Cook.

The Lake corporation held its annual meeting at the town hall Saturday afternoon and elected their officers for the ensuing year.

Charles E. White returned last Wednesday from a trip to Tennessee.

Winthrop White who has been confined to the house ill with a severe cold is improving.

After fifty-three years, Timothy Grant, aged Negro, has been paid for teaching school in Anderson county, South Carolina. Grant recently filed a claim check for $2.75. School records of 1874 showed that it never had been paid and the teacher received a check.

"Thick suds soak out all dirt" says Mrs. Belle Richmond 364 W. Main St.

"Since I discovered what wonderful suds Rinso makes, washday never worries me at all.

"Why, those thick suds just soak out all the dirt. I never have to do a bit of hard rubbing or even boiling—the clothes come out so snowy!

"And Rinso is great around the house—for dishes, floors, etc. It goes almost twice as far as some soaps I've tried!"

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

THE WILD ORGY OF SPENDING

(Written specially for The Bulletin)

A reasonably wise man, solicitous for the safety of his own scalp, will be chary of any expressions relative to the morals of the on-coming generation. Whether their newly acquired "freedom" of speech and manners tends toward license and looseness or towards a wiser evaluation of life and a shrewder discrimination between the "oughts" and the "ought-nots,"—that is a question upon which really wise men will avoid taking open sides.

For, whatever their verdict, they'll be broom-sticked or bludgeoned because of it. The Pollyannas of Softsoap-dom are thoroughly self-assured that bobbed hair and bobbed skirts and bobbed courtesies and decapitated punctilios are all to the good. The Cassandras of traditional custom are equally certain that these and what goes with them are all to the bad.

And there you are. Agree with Pollyanna and the Cassandraites promptly denounce you as anathema maranatha—if not worse. Agree with Cassandra and Pollyanna's cohorts even more vigorously berate you as a back number, an old fogy, an enemy of progress, and an undesirable cumberer of the ground, under which you properly belong.

Consequently, if you can't help thinking some things, you had better keep them to yourself. You will recognize that, however silvery your speech might be, your silence is comparatively golden, and you will keep it.

What do YOU really think about the flappers and floppers, anyway? Whatever it is, don't air it. Put your opinion in a steamer trunk, strap it, shut, lock it, throw the key away, tote the trunk up into the attic and pile all the stuff you can find on top of it. Then forget it. Only by such conduct may you hope to carry your gray hairs with you to a peaceful grave, and avoid having them torn off by the vixenish depilations of opposing partisans.

But there are certain changes in less sacro-sanct matters about which it seems as if experience might be permitted a word or two, without causing civil war.

For instance, wages and profits have gone up tremendously in the last 20 years. The total of wealth has increased hugely, and it has, on the whole, been disturbed more widely. Not only has the number of millionaires grown larger, but the number of "thousandaires,"—if we may be permitted to coin a needed word,—has also swollen. Men who, 20 years ago, thought themselves well paid with $500 a year, are now getting $2,000 or $2,500. Men who then considered $2 or $3 a day fair pay for certain mechanical trades now draw from $5 to $12 a day for similar work.

There is not only more money piled up in banks and treasuries than ever before, there is, at the same time, more money circulating or in the pockets of the people than ever before.

And one result of this growth and spread of wealth has been and is a veritable orgy of spending. Multi-millionaire Croesus, who can afford to pay a million down for an ocean-going yacht and $250,000 a year for its up-keep, is no more truly extravagant than "thousandaire" Pettijohn who now demands 60-cent steak where he used to be content with 30-cent stew-meat.

There used to be in old England a saying that, if you put a beggar on horseback, he'd ride straight to the devil. And we one-time farm boys can't forget how we were warned by our elders that if we gave the staked-out calf too much rope he'd hang himself.

Far be it from me to intimate that the great American people are either beggars or calves. But I trust I may be pardoned for suggesting, with much deference, that they have some characteristics common to both.

One trait which allies them with the former class is that they don't seem to show any wise appreciation of what to do with prosperity, once it comes to live with them. And a trait which allies them with the latter is that they can't let well enough alone, but are all the time tangling themselves up in their own tethers in a greedy strain for tufts of grass or ceds just out of reach.

The clerk or mechanic who used to go to his office or shop on the street-car now must have his own flivver or eight-cylinder automobile. And if it isn't as good as that driven by the chap at the next desk or bench, then he's jealous and unhappy.

The house wife who used to put up her own fruits and jams and jellies, etc., now buys them at the delicatessen store, and the dresses she used to create for herself, with the occasional aid of a peripatetic dressmaker, now come to her already "tailored" from the swell couturier. Instead of the toast and "fried mush" of former breakfasts, we're now served with forty-eleven varieties of packaged breakfast foods, at anywhere from two to ten times the former cost. Some of us even have to have them already cooked and seasoned and predigested in their wax-papered cartons.

—In connection with that latter fad the story of one of my neighbors is enlightening, if not valuable. Some years ago, he raised a few bushels of wheat just as "a flier." He had some ground into flour; he had some screened and left whole. When he wants a grain cereal for his breakfast, he simply grinds up a few handfuls of this whole wheat in a hand spice-mill, cooks it thoroughly, salts it judiciously and sugars and creams it in the customary way.

The result is a dish which he knows to be absolutely unadulterated; a dish which contains nothing but wheat and yet all the elements which go to make the wheat-berry the most nearly perfect cereal food for humans. Furthermore, he gets it at only a fraction of the cost of packaged and more or less uncertain cereals. Wheat at present quotations runs about $1.20 for a 60 pound bushel, or two cents a pound. Compare this with the prices charged by even the "cut-rate" groceries for packaged wheat, in any form. My neighbor, by the practice of what used to be called common-sense and in obedience to the dictates of ordinary thrift, gets a better food of unquestionable purity, at a quarter the price the rest of us are paying for packaged goods which contain we don't know what, combined we don't know how, and prepared in ways we may be fortunate not to know about.

He has been doing this for several years. What he does and how he does it has been common knowledge among his neighbors for a good while. Yet I haven't so far heard of a single one who has taken a leaf from his book or tried to imitate his well-judged efficiency.

We, that is, the rest of us, keep on buying packaged goods though we know that the makers of them, even when they are made of wheat, don't pay any more than the market price of two cents a pound for the grain. We cheerfully chip in two cents more to pay for the grinding and "processing," and another two cents to pay for the weighing and packaging and printing and pasting, etc., and another two cents for the advertising, and another for the packer's profit, and still another for the dealer's,—when we could buy all the food the 15-cent or "two-for-a-quarter" carton contains for the first two cents and save all the rest.

No, indeed, that isn't the kind of saving the present generation goes in for.

We don't seem to care a straw about saving money, or saving health, or saving for emergencies.

But we go in whole-heartedly for "saving trouble," meaning by that last word care and patience and work. In order to have his two-cents-a-pound dish of wheat cereal, my neighbor has to crack the wheat berries and cook them for at least two hours till they're tender and digestible. This is "too much trouble" for the ultra-moderns. It's less "trouble" to pay some one else ten cents for doing two cent's worth of work than to do it oneself.

I've been reading Mr. Wells' "Outline of History," recently. The thing which has most forcibly impressed itself upon me is the steady and unvaring recurrence of the same periods in human history. From the days of the only recently uncovered Sumerian civilization of 5000 years ago, the annals of the race have been almost tidal in the regularity of the rise and fall of empires.

A race of frugal, hardy semi-barbarians come into possession of territories where life is easy and nature gracious. Slowly they discard their savageries for the refinements of civilization. For a longer or shorter time, carried on by the inertia of their stern origins they conquer and rule, found states and develop new arts and welcome new luxuries. Under these influences they gradually soften till another irruption of hardier tribes, bred to war and inured by rigor, swallows up their civilization and begins, itself, to retrace their steps through empire to wealth, to luxury, to effeminacy, to impotence and helplessness.

So it has been from the dim beginnings of human history. There is no reason for us to suppose that the logic of nature has been set aside for us, and that we are going to be the shining exception to a world-long record.

Anyway, whatever's ahead of us we're plunging towards it with constantly accelerating speed. We are spending like drunken sailors in port after a three-years' voyage. We are spending not only money but ourselves. We are forever greasing the skids on which to slide.—And we don't care a snap that all sliding is down hill.

Pollyanna may, perhaps, be right about the disputed morals of the new order. But not even a Pollyanna would have the face to claim for it a growth in thrift, or sagacity, or capacity for forethought.

As some wise-cracker once remarked; "We may not know where we're going, but we're on our way."

And our brakes wouldn't meet the safety requirements of the Connecticut highway commission, either.

THE FARMER.

Eastern Voluntown

Morace Harrington has gone to Canterbury to work at a sawmill drawing logs.

Mrs. William Bitgood has a bunch of evergreen that her great granddaughter Sella Bitgood of Pachaug gave her the Sunday before Christmas. It is as green as it was the day she gave it to her. She keeps it in water all the time.

The people that live around Beach Pond are getting in their ice. They are Mr. Hill, Mr. Lybeck and Mr. Halkman. The Lewis boys are helping them get it cut and in their ice houses.

Old Voluntown is getting up some in the world, having electric lights in all the buildings and along the streets. Now I wish we could have some good roads to ride over so we could go and use them.

Mr. and Mrs. James Congdon and family have had colds and coughs. Almost every one is having these bad colds.

Jefferson Barber and the hired man that works for him are having bad colds. Mr. Barber thinks he feels a little better at this writing. He has been so hoarse he could hardly speak aloud.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Remington and four children of Oneco visited Sunday with Mrs. Remington's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bitgood in Eastern Voluntown. They have two children sick with bad colds.

Mrs. Henry Bailey was a caller at Mr. and Mrs. Lee Remington's recently. Mrs. Kenyon and Annie Bitgood have had colds and coughs. They live on Sterling Hill. Mrs. Kenyon is Mrs. Bitgood's sister and Annie Bitgood is her niece.

Mrs. Bitgood heard from Mary Douglas recently and she was sitting up. She is getting along nicely. Hope to hear of her being home soon. Mary is Mrs. Bitgood's niece.

Mrs. Percy Clark of Oneco is very feeble. Her children have all been called home to see her.

Mrs. Fletcher's girl that has been so sick is much better so she is up and around the house.

Mr. and Mrs. James Congdon had for company Sunday their son Frank and family from Plainfield.

Mr and Mrs. Warren Tanner's little girl is better of her cold so she has gone back to school.

Dates Average $3.75

PITTSBURGH —(AP)— Dates, just the ordinary any-night-in-the-week kind, cost the college boy $3.75 each on the average. At least, that's what they've found at the University of Pittsburgh.

BUCKINGHAM ADVISES FARM GROUPS TO ORGANIZE

Pointing to the definite need of modern marketing methods by the farmer if he is to make agriculture pay. State Commissioner of Agriculture S. McLean Buckingham has just made public his annual report for the fiscal year ending July 1, 1929. Commissioner Buckingham forecasts a definite trend toward some type of marketing organization if modern market conditions are to be successfully met, and also predicted the growth of co-operative purchasing organization for materials used in quantity by farmers.

"The farmer's problem lies beyond political relief," says Commissioner Buckingham. "Legislature can at most merely furnish agriculture with the ways and means of working out her salvation. The actual solution must be worked out by the farmers themselves from an exact knowledge of the facts and the problems involved."

Vegetable Growers Hit.

The vegetable growers are most seriously hit by the encroachment of out-of-state competition in their markets, and the premium prices paid for the first native products on the market annually becomes less in the face of increasing costs of production, the report states.

Tobacco resumed its leadership as the state's most valuable crop in the year ending July 1, 1929, with a crop valued at more than $11,000,000, while hay, dairying, fruit and poultry ranked high on the list.

Farmers have attained considerable success with the marketing of produce sold under grades established at the requests of growers of certain types of produce, according to the report, and grass will be established in other lines as rapidly as the growers involved show a desire to co-operate with the department.

Commissioner Buckingham cites the success of the Connecticut Milk Producer's Association Incorporated and the two poultry organizations, the Connecticut Poultry Producers' Incorporated and the Eastern Connecticut Poultry Producers' Incorporated in standardizing the Connecticut markets.

Distant States Compete.

"Because of improved transportation facilities we find our markets being invaded by products from ever increasing distances," the report continues. "These shipped-in products are meeting with approval of both the dealer and the consumer because they are uniform in grade and pack, standardised in quality, and available in sufficient quantity to meet demand.

"This competition is certainly driving the Connecticut farmers to the adoption of a definite marketing program, based on the sale of quality products, properly graded, packed and identified."

Vegetable Growers' Plight.

"There is probably no group of farmers in Connecticut who feel more keenly the effect of increasing out-of-state competition than the vegetable growers," says Commissioner Buckingham. "The premium prices paid for the first native products on the market are annually becoming less, largely because we are now receiving practically a year-round supply of fresh green vegetables from the south and west."

The production costs of vegetables in the state is continually increasing, largely because of inflated land values and high wages in the vegetable producing centers. Definite and reliable information is needed regarding actual acreage by crops and cost of production, as well as information concerning the amounts and grades of local vegetables going to market. Lack of uniform containers and grading practices make this information difficult to secure.

The bureau of markets is particularly concerned with this situation, recognized as the most serious facing Connecticut agriculture today, and has made a successful start in establishing voluntary grades and agitating for standard containers.

Proposes Sheep Raising.

Sheep and swine should be given more prominence in the general movement of livestock diversification on certain types of Connecticut farms, in the belief of Commissioner Buckingham.

Tobacco resumed its place as the most valuable crop in the state in 1928, taking the lead over hay, which held the lead for several years. Acreage, production and total value showed an increase over the previous year, but yield per acre showed a slight drop.

Dairy Expansion.

Renewed confidence on the part of dairymen, expansion of the co-operative movement and a more stabilized market condition were the outstanding features of dairying during the year. Milk production during the year was lower and demand for milk increased.

Among the fruit growers the year brought forth many obstacles to a successful crop, but apple production increased to 1,500,000 bushels, and peach production to 289,000 bushels. The production of pears showed a drop of 42,000 bushels.

Poultry has become a steadily increasing factor in farm income. Despite a slight increase in the number of hens and pullets, prices held up well during the year and prospects for the following year were good. The co-operative movement resulted in the establishment of grades, 314 poultrymen owning 181,721 birds, packing in accordance with the grades established by the department. The standard grades were distributed through 214 retail stores.

Swine population of the state is fluctuating between 20,000 and 25,000, the annual valuation a head during the past three years showing a steady decrease.

Death of Walter E. C. Worth

NEW LONDON WOMAN'S STOLEN BROOCH IS RECOVERED FROM DEEP RIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 30. — Mrs. Spencer Brown, of the Crocker house apartments, has recovered a brooch, set with several diamonds and valued at several hundreds of dollars, which was stolen about three months ago.

Mrs. Brown wore the brooch to a beauty parlor where she had arranged for service. After the attendants had performed their work and Mrs. Brown returned to her apartment she discovered the loss of the brooch. She remembered having the brooch when she entered the beauty parlor, but on returning there, Mrs. Brown failed to find the trinket. When a continued search failed to recover the brooch, Mrs. Brown being of the opinion it had been stolen, reported her suspicions at police headquarters. Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to the case and recently he obtained a clue, both as to the thief and where the brooch was secreted. Subsequent developments resulted in the identity of the thief being established and the fact that he had taken the brooch to the home of a friend in Deep River. He requested that the brooch be kept for him, stating that he found it on the street. Because of the value of the brooch it was deposited in the safe of a factory and there it was recovered. When the brooch was returned to Mrs. Brown she did not desire that the thief be prosecuted, so long as she had recovered her property, so the fellow will escape punishment. It is the opinion of Detective Sergeant Cavanaugh that the brooch was removed from the dress of Mrs. Brown by the attendant as he arranged or removed raiment used when patrons are being given treatments.

Mrs. Brenaide Modelli, of 83 Blinman street; Mrs. Frank Tonkiel, Groton, and Miss Victoria Sleckman, Connecticut College for Women, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

OBITUARY

John Flanagan

John Flanagan, 70, died last night at his home, 342 Broad street, after an illness of many weeks. He is survived by two sons, James and John Flanagan and two daughters, Misses Abbie and Margaret Flanagan. Mr. Flanagan's wife died less than a year ago. Mr. Flanakan was for many years employed by the late Thomas Underwood.

FUNERALS

Mrs. Wilbur Carrier

The funeral of Mrs. Julia I. Carrier, wife of Wilbur Carrier, of Myrock avenue, Waterford, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at 62 Washington street. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Frank Sanville

The funeral of Frank Sanville was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at his residence, 117 Howard street, the services being conducted by Rev. Detlief Kraff, pastor of the Lutheran church. The bearers were Walter Thompson, Homer Heinenman, Henry Supville and Joseph Connelly. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Police Sergeant Samuel Hick is confined to his home, Blydenburg avenue as a result of a severe cold.

MARRIED AT 2 A. M. THURSDAY TO ESCAPE PENALTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 30—Donald Morrison and Dorothy Slegyely were arrested early today charged with lascivious carriage, but they will not be prosecuted. The couple have been residing out of wedlock in a cottage near the submarine base and when this fact became known to the state police, Officer Fred Johnson went to the cottage shortly after last midnight and arrested the man and woman. Because of their willingness to be married Donald and Dorothy will escape presentation in court for at 2 o'clock this morning they were escorted to the residence of Judge of Probate Arthur M. Anderson where they were married.

Husband Neglects Wife

Another New London husband was arrested today because he refused to support his wife. He is Roderick V. James, 36 Cleveland street. His wife, Lila May James made complaint today to Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer that her husband continuously refused to properly provide for her support and a warrant for the man's arrest was issued. Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin arrested James, who provided a surety on his bond of $500 and he will be in court tomorrow.

George Nichols, Station 12, Waterford, made complaint to the police this afternoon charging the driver of a New York automobile with evasion of responsibility. Nichols said that he was driving on Bank street and when near Sparyard street the New York car crowded the Waterford man to such an extent that the latter was forced to drive his machine against the curb, causing damage to it. The New York driver speeded away and although an effort was made to intercept him in other cities, he was not found.

There was no session of the police court today. One man, Theron R. Finley, United States Coast Guard, was arrested by Sergeant Samuel Hick and Patrolman Anthony Turello last night charged with refusing to pay for food furnished him at a restaurant. Finley was delivered into the custody of a shore patrol, who paid the restaurant bill. Finley was taken back to the state pier for military discipline.

Threw Liquor Down the Sink

The police last Tuesday night raided a residence on Tenth street where it was believed liquor was for sale. The raiding squad secured a search warrant from Judge Daniel M. Cronin, but when they entered the house and instituted a search, no liquor was found. The officers declared that the occupant of the house spilled the liquor in a sink when the raiders were observed entering the building.

John Jurich, 89 State street, parked his automobile last night on Masonic street and this morning he discovered that a spare tire had been stolen. Jurich reported the theft at police headquarters, but as in similar thefts no trace of the thief or the tire was obtained.

Car Back-Fires

A Nash sedan owned by Ernest Watrous, 41 Benham road, Groton, was damaged and the Watrous garage scorched early this morning, when the automobile became ignited through a back-fire. The auto was being backed from the garage about 6 o'clock when the back-fire occurred and in an instant the car was enveloped in flames. An alarm was rung and on the arrival of the firemen the blaze was quickly subdued, but not before the auto had been partially destroyed and the wooden building seared.

There is no improvement tonight in the condition of Harry M. Darling, 46 Montauk avenue, well known conductor in the passenger service of the New Haven railroad. He continues critically ill with pneumonia at Lawrence-Memorial hospital.

Officers of Carrie Davenport camp, Juvenile Royal Neighbors of America, were installed in Odd Fellows' hall, Bank street last night by Past Oracle Florence Mallon, assisted by George Ackroyd. The officers seated were: Oracle, Katherine Prevost; past oracle, Marjorie Martin; vice oracle, Priscilla Cable; chancellor, Elizabeth Prescott; recorder, Frederick Harrison; receiver, Medrick Maynard; marshal, Selma Keeney; assistant marshal, Phyllis Prescott; inner sentinel, Harold Prescott; outer sentinel, George Ackroyd; patriotism, Donald Prescott.

Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain is confined to her home on Moore avenue, by illness.

George B. June, 116 Ocean avenue, is a patient at the United States Veterans' hospital, Rutland Heights, Mass., for rest and observation.

At the annual meeting last night of St. James' circle of the King's Daughters, the following officers were elected: Leader, Mrs. Ida N. Beggaw; vice leaders, Miss Elizabeth C. G. Stark, Mrs. John Manion and Miss Stella Rademacher; secretary, Mrs. Frederick M. Taylor; treasurer, Miss Emma Keeney; corresponding secretary, Miss Wilhelmina Phillips. The following committee chairman were elected: Flower committee, Mrs. Margaret Lyman; work, Mrs. Mary J. Cruise; entertainment, Miss Harriet Dumerich and Miss Marian Douglass.

X-RAY BEDSIDE MACHINE IS GIVEN TO HOSPITAL

Mrs. Edward S. Harkness, Goshen Point, Waterford and New York, has given an X-ray bedside machine to Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital. The machine will be used in taking pictures, particularly fractures while the patient is in bed and not compel the removal of the patient to the X-ray room on the top flor, where there are two other X-ray machines.

BELIEVE MISSING MAN HAD BEEN "TAKEN FOR A RIDE"

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 30—(AP)—Two days after he was last seen on a street corner near his home, the mystery of the disappearance of Max Price, elderly real estate dealer, was no nearer solution tonight in the minds of police and members of his family.

The latter were inclined to believe that he had been taken "for a ride." This belief was based on the report that Price had been talking to an unidentified stranger just before he dropped out of sight at 5:30 p. m., Tuesday.

Sound health and freedom from business worries, they said, eliminated theories that he was a victim of amnesia or depression.

A reward of $1,000 was offered today for information leading to his discovery. A description was broadcast throughout the state.

MISSING LIEUTENANT LOCATED IN JUAREZ

EL PASO, Texas., Jan. 30.—(AP)—Lieut. John B. Allen of Fort Bliss, reported missing since Friday, was located today in Juarez. Police had feared the lieutenant had met with foul play.

When the officer was found an organized search had been instituted for him. Police had worked on a theory that he might have been mistaken by prize fight racketeers in Juarez and slain.

It was not immediately learned where Allen had been since Friday.

FOREST LAND IN TOLLAND AND WINDHAM COUNTIES

NEW HAVEN, Jan. 30—(AP)—Three more gifts to the Forestry school, were announced by Yale today. The Charles Lathrop Pack foundation given last year by Charles L. Pack, of Lakewood, N. J., has been increased to $325,000. A gift of $100,000 to endowment has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Starling W. Childs, of New York. George H. Myers, of Washington, is transferring to the school a tract of forest land in Tolland and Windham counties, aggregating 8,000 acres.

BROKER DIED SUDDENLY IN CHICAGO DEPT. STORE

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—(AP)—H. Pickett Withers, 29, member of Eastman, Dillon & Co., investment brokers, and son-in-law of John T. Pirie, president of Carson, Pirie Scott & Co., a large loop department store, died suddenly today in a doctor's office.

Withers was born in Kansas City, and was a Yale graduate. His marriage in June, 1921, to Miss Margaret Pirie was one of the outstanding social events of the year.

CHARLESTOWN OYSTERS FURNISH MASONS' FEAST

The first in a series of monthly socials by Westerly Square and Compass club, No. 176, National League of Masonic clubs, J. Russell Oppy, president, was held Thursday evening in the club rooms, Potter-Langworthy block. The committee in charge was Farquhar Smith, chairman, Ed. N. Burdick, Thomas Collings, William H. Browning, George B. Utter and Bourdon A. Babcock. The committee issued an invitation to all Masons of Westerly and surrounding towns to be present and to enjoy an oyster stew from oysters "dug" in Charlestown Pond, near the summer home of Chairman Smith. Music was furnished by a 17-piece orchestra led by Charles Downey and card games, pool, billiards and a social time completed the evening for the more than 200 Masons present. Chorus singing from new song sheets was led by William H. Browning.

"Mr. Pim Passes By," a three-act comedy was greeted by good audiences Wednesday and Thursday evenings, when presented by the Westerly Players' club. The members of the cast were: Gertrude M. Denicourt, Olivia, wife of George C. Marden, J. P., Clifford Langworthy; Ruth Williams, Dinah; Walter E. Krebs, Jr., Brian Strange; Mrs. Mildred Ashforth, Anne; Miss Rose Bannon, Lady Marden; Elvin Andrews, Carraway Pim. Mrs. Alexander M. Blake was chairman of the executive committee in charge of the production. Previous presentations by the Players' club have been given at the United Theatre, the presentations at the high school auditorium being in the nature of a successful innovation.

GARDNER MURDER TRIAL MAY BE CONTINUED AGAIN

A week's continuance, it is expected, will be requested this (Friday) morning by Attorney M. Walter Flynn, counsel for James Derrico, alleged murderer of Atwood Gardner. Prosecutor John Ferguson who is also the coroner of the town has been holding an inquest with the average of one witness heard a day for the past week or so and more are scheduled to be called so that the inquest will not be closed until next week end.

Gardner died Jan. 15th at Westerly hospital as the result of a revolver shot wound in his stomach. In the emergency operating room of the hospital he was confronted by Derrico, whom he said did the fatal shooting, the identification being made in the presence of Chief Brown, Medical Examiner Dr. Michael H. Scanlon and Prosecutor Ferguson, who also secured Gardner's signature to his ante-mortem statement.

Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell had Derrico removed from the Westerly lockup to Washington county jail at Kingston, where he is held without bail awaiting trial.

About noon Thursday snow began falling, in what promised to be about the heaviest storm thus far this winter. The wind at times reached almost gale proportions and blew from the northeast, causing the snow to drift. The cold weather which preceded the snow caused previously melted snow to freeze, making a dangerous coat of ice, covered by snow, on streets and sidewalks.

Thursday evening the annual meeting of the Rhode Island Bankers' association was held in Providence. Delegates from the Westerly branch of the Industrial Trust company and from the Washington Trust company were present. Tables were reserved for both institutions.

NEW MEMORIAL WINDOW TO THOMAS MCKENZIE

The parish of Christ Episcopal church will dedicate a window in memory of Thomas McKenzie at the 10:45 o'clock service Sunday morning. The setting of the window was recently completed. The window is in harmony with others of the church and is located on the east side of the nave. Its subject is "St. Peter and St. Paul." and it is a companion to other windows already in place and a part of the plan to eventually completely equip the church with similar windows. The new window cost about $2,500. Its inscription is "To the Glory of God and in Memory of Thomas McKenzie."

Mr. McKenzie died following a brief illness, at his home on Elm street, July 26th last. Funeral services at the church were conducted by the Grand Lodge of Masons of Connecticut of which Mr. McKenzie was a past grand master, and his was the most largely attended Masonic funeral ever held in Westerly. He was a member of the parish for many years and at the time of his death was serving as warden and church treasurer. The dedicatory services will be conducted by Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, rector of the church, with the assistance of the vested choir, Mrs. Florence S. Larkin, organist and choir leader. The committee which had charge of the placing of the window consisted of Harry R. Milner, Arthur L. Perry and David A. Lowry.

Wednesday night the first re-organization meeting of Admiral Dunn troop, Westerly Sea Scouts, tok place in the town hall. Forty-two members of the old troop and prospective new members attended and informally discussed plans. They were introduced to Geoffrey More, who was recently appointed commodore. Mr. More spoke to the boys and after an informal discussion the meeting adjourned to Feb. 5, when the reorganization plans will be completed.

Following the completion of her work with the Westerly branch of the Lorraine Manufacturing company, closing down its plant in Pawcatuck, Miss Alice E. Culley, stenographer and cashier at the mill is to go to the Industrial Trust company on High street. Miss Culley has been employed by the Lorraine company for nearly 14 years. She will complete her duties as cashier Feb. 2.

Wednesday evening in Pawcatuck, the first in a series of whists given by Harley P. Chase post auxiliary, V. F. W., was held in the post's rooms and was largely attended. The prizes were won by Mrs. Valcena Champlin and Mrs. Stella Keegan, S. Madden and S. Biando. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Rose Ericson, chairman, assisted by Miss Helen Morensoni.

Death of Infant Daughter

Thursday morning Florence Emily Rayner, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rayner of this town, formerly of Mystic, died at The Westerly hospital. She was aged two months and 13 days. Suffering with an organic weakness, the infant was taken to the hospital for observation and surgical attention.

Music Club Plans

The February meeting of Westerly Music club is to be held at the home of Miss Kate Virginia Cottrell, 21 Elm street, Monday evening. The artist will be Miss Julia Stacey Gould, contralto. Miss Gould is soloist at the Central Congregational church, Providence, and is a teacher of vocal classes in Boston and Providence. The program will be in charge of Miss Mary L. Vose.

Clarence A. and Raymond C. Vars were in Providence Wednesday morning.

George O. Murphey and Frank E. Collins were Pawcatuck visitors Wednesday evening in Providence.

James D. Docking was in Providence Thursday.

After being the guests of Westerly relatives and friends Miss Ella Byrdick returned to Hartford Wednesday.

Miss Dorothy R. Larking of the office of the Westerly Automatic Telephone Co., is ill at her home in Pawcatuck.

The Young Men's club of Pawcatuck Congregational church will meet next Monday evening in the church vestry in Pawcatuck.

William Mitchell and Everett A. Kingsley were Westerly visitors in Providence on Thursday.

Westerly Hi-Y club held its meeting Wednesday evening at the Elm street home of Jack Tobin when two new members were initiated into membership.

Fractures Ankle

Mrs. Grace Ferguson, cook at the Elm street home of Miss Bessie Taylor fell on Wednesday and fractured her left ankle. The fracture was reduced by Dr. J. Gordon Anderson.

STONINGTON

At the funeral of Miss Blanche Collins, held at her home, Brookvale, Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. J. Mortimer of Jersey City, and Rev. William F. Williams of Calvary church officiated at the home, also at the cemetery. The body was placed in the family vault in the Road cemetery. The bearers were: Edward Newton of New York, Alex Loper, Walter Cole, Asa Wilcox, Wilcott Palmer and Ralph Rathbone, of Stonington.

There is interest in the twin sons born to Mr. and Mrs. Cutler Cheesebrough at Westerly as Mrs. Cheesebrough was Miss Lois Brown, of Elm street.

Mrs. Carlyle Graham and daughters, Anne and Sarah, were in Boston Wednesday.

Mrs. Joseph F. Joseph and Mrs. Thomas Tuite were in Hartford Wednesday.

A committee, composed of Robert Spellman, chairman; Roy Gavitt, M. Harper, E. Foley, R. Hanks and K. Newbury, has arranged for a dance to be given by the "S" club of the Stonington high school. The proceeds will be used to buy gold emblems for the letter men of the graduating class.

The Mistuxet club defeated the Masonic club of Westerly in the first game of a series of three in the Mistuxet club rooms Tuesday evening. The losers of the series will entertain the winners at a turkey supper later in the season. Following the game an exhibition game was held between Representative Henry Stahle and Paul Schepis versus Loren McLaren and "Turkey" Smith.

Officials of the South County Public Service Co., of Westerly, have announced that an office will be opened in the borough. This is the result of a petition signed by over 100 local residents, asking that an office be opened here that bills might be paid without traveling to Westerly. Clyde Clendennen of Mystic, who has been in the employ of the company for several years has been appointed to take charge.

GALES FERRY

A local group of 12 attended the exhibit of foreign needlework at Converse Art gallery, Slater hall, Norwich, Wednesday afternoon. Transportation for the party was provided by Mrs. Walter M. Buckingham, Mrs. Charles Tyler Bard, Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt, Mrs. Andrew G. Miller and Mrs. C. Alton Chapman. Others attending included Mrs. Billings F. S. Crandall, Mrs. Joseph P. Ce Rusha, Mrs. Jerome Greer, Mrs. J. Edmund Norman, Mrs. Charles F. Bartlett and daughter, Mrs. Robert Townsend, of Mystic; Mrs. Everett Noyes, Mrs. Allen Shaw Bush, Mrs. Edward H. Latimer, Mrs. Dudley C. Perkins and Misses Caroline B. Freeman, Grace E. Povey and Mabel Smith. Another group from this vicinity is planning to visit the exhibit Saturday.

Mrs. Lucy A. Hurlbutt sustained a fractured rib as the result of a fall at her home Monday.

Members of the Ladies' Aid society were occupied with work on aprons, basket weaving and fancy articles, at a recent afternoon meeting in the vestry. The next session will be held with Mrs. Latham E. Smith and daughter, Miss Mabel Smith, Friday afternoon, Feb. 7, at 1:30.

A new tile pipe well is being sunk on the Yale property in the village by Carroll S. Hurlbutt and Ralph A. Hurlbutt. This is to provide a larger supply for a new water system, which a New Haven firm will install before the arrival of the crews in June.

Nelson Parker has been in New Haven and Bridgeport for a few days this week, on business.

Mrs. Robert Townsend of Mystic is visiting her mother, Mrs. Charles F. Bartlett.

LARGEST AREA IN WORLD IS ST. LOUIS' AMBITION

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—(P)—A city covering a greater area than any municipality in the world is St. Louis' dream.

St. Louis county long has loomed as an obstacle to the realization of that dream. Prof. Thomas H. Reed of the University of Michigan, who has been retained by the metropolitan government committee, is attempting to work out a compromise plan satisfactory to the county along the lines on which Los Angeles, London and Berlin have been enlarged.

Should the plan be approved and St. Louis' corporate limits include the county, the city's area would be expanded from 61 square miles to 548. Los Angeles now is the world's largest city area, covering 204 square miles.

American Applesauce Popular

LONDON —(P)— American applesauce has achieved extraordinary popularity in the United Kingdom. More than three-fourths of all exports from the United States find a market in British isles.

Air Baggage Limited

CHICAGO —(P)— Air passengers may carry 30 pounds of baggage without cost, it has been decided following tests by the American Air Transport association in which it was found that the average air traveler carried other articles into a plane.

STOCK PRICES IRREGULARLY HIGHER IN ACTIVE SESSION OF STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—An irregular recovery in stock prices, which lifted the index of 90 leading issues to a new high level for the year, shared speculative interest today with the renewed collapse in wheat and cotton futures to new low levels for the season. The volume of stock trading set a new high level for the year at 3,645,-900 shares, with ticker delays again the rule.

In the stock market, final quotations disclosed a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 11 points, interspersed with a number of 1 to 3 point declines. Wheat futures broke about 3 cents a bushel and cotton futures dropped $2.50 a bale, but showed a slight recovery from the day's low levels.

There was no change in the credit situation although the prolonged meeting of the New York Federal Reserve directors this afternoon caused widespread anxiety until it was announced that there was no change in the 4 1-2 per cent rate. In view of the fact that no change had been made in the Bank of England rate earlier in the day, none was expected here, although the reduction from 3 1-2 to 3 per cent in the Bank of France rate was believed to pave the way for an early lowering of the London charge by decreasing the possibility of further gold exports from England to France.

Call money again dropped from 4 1-2 to 4 per cent, indicating that preparations for the payment of nearly half a billion dollars in dividend and interest payments during the next few days were being conducted without any disturbance to the money market. Time money, commercial paper and bankers' acceptances were unchanged. The weekly federal reserve statement showed an increase of only $3,000,000 in brokers' loans.

The recovery in stock prices was going along at a brisk pace from the opening until the early afternoon when a series of selling attacks were launched against International Telephone, Simmons Co. and United Aircraft, all of which dropped 3 points, or more before they met effective buying support. This selling tended to check bullish operations in other quarters and led to a considerable profit-taking.

The market received its chief stimulus at the opening from the record-breaking 1929 report of the Sears Roebuck company. Merchandising and mail order shares were conspicuous in the day's advance. Sears Roebuck, Montgomery-Ward, May Department Stores and Spiegel May Stern, closing 3 to nearly 5 points higher. U. S. Steel common crossed 183 to a new high on the current recovery but fell back to 182, where it was up fractionally. Auburn Auto lost all but 1 1-3 points of its extreme gain of 11 points. There was a brisk demand throughout the day for General Electric, Celotex, General Motors, and New York Central, although early gains were not fully maintained.

In the cotton market all active futures broke below 17 cents a pound, with March contracts selling within 6 points of the 16 cent level. Liquidation was influenced by the reported statement of Chairman Legge of the farm board that cotton would not be supported "at foolish prices" and by reduced estimates of the probable consummation of the commodity this year.

Selling of wheat was influenced by the poor export demand, favorable weather reports and the drop in prices in Winnipeg. Corn prices closed steady. Coffee quotations dropped 23 to 39 points. Sugar prices held steady.

Establishment of new low levels for the year by French francs and Dutch guilders featured the irregular foreign exchange market. Sterling cables were slightly firmer around $4.86 5-8. Spanish pesetas lost a small part of yesterday's gain, being quoted around 13.26 cents.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—Increased activity in foreign bonds and in a few convertibles tended to lift today's bond market out of the rut. However, the movement of prices in domestic corporation issues continued along irregular lines, with the rails still meeting moderate pressure.

The expected new issue of International Telephone obligations was announced after the close of the market. It is a $50,000,000 loan in 25 year 5s, priced at 96 1-2. The imminence of this flotation led to liquidation of the company's stock and the convertible 4 1-2s, which move with the shares, dropped to 112 3-4, later recovering a quarter point for a net loss of 2. The straight debenture 4 1-2s yielded 5-8.

New bond financing is showing a considerable decline. Some of the recent offerings, it is reported, have not yet been completely absorbed and it therefore would not be surprising if additional issues were withheld until conditions have become more stabilized. However, two or three sizeable loans are being planned for the early part of February.

Numerous foreign bonds turned over in large blocks, especially the French governments, the 7 1-2s touching a new high at 120 5-8 and the 7s reaching 114 1-2. Italy 7s, Japan 7s, Belgian 7s, Brazil 6 1-2s, Cuba 5 1-2s, Denmark 4 1-2s and Poland 8s and 7s participated in the busy trading. Final prices were mostly at a slight advance. Outstanding changes developed in Buenos Aires 6s, October, up 5 1-2, and Pirelli Co. 7s, up 3 1-8.

United States governments gained on small turnovers. The advance in the Treasury 4s amounted to 11-32 while the Treasury 4 1-4s rallied 9-32.

The American Telephone convertible 4 1-2s were traded actively within a 3 point range, with the closing price of 142 5-8 representing a net loss of 1-8. Atchison convertible 4 1-2s gained 2, Missouri Pacific 5 1-2s lost 1 1-4 and Chicago Northwestern 4 3-4s eased.

St. Paul 5s, Erie General 4s, Missouri-Kansas Texas prior lien 5s, New York Central General 3 1-2s, Northern Pacific General 3s, Southern Pacific Refunding 4s, Pennsylvania Consolidated 4s of 1948 and numerous other representative rails declined moderately.

Industrials, particularly the semi-speculative listings, tended upward. Fisk Rubber 8s, Hoe & Company 6 1-2s, International Paper 5s, Hudson Coal 5s, Liggett & Myers 5s, and Armour Real Estate 4 1-2s improved.

Net changes in the utilities were small. The new American Telephone 4 1-2s were very active at 100 1-8 to 100 1-4, closing at the latter figure for a gain of 1-8. Other high grade issues were dull.

Additional new offerings scheduled for tomorrow include a $5,280,000 issue of New York Central railroad serial equipment trust 4 1-2s, priced to yield 4.50 to 4.65 per cent.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 30—(AP)—Treasury receipts Jan. 28 were $4,203,936.61; expenditures $6,255,526.42; balance $101,061,223.17.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—Led by its old time favorites, the utilities, the curb market moved upward today, establishing several of the leaders at the highest levels in several weeks. Much of the buying developed in the final hour when the rather irregular tendencies of the earlier trading gave way to strength.

Electric Bond & Share accounted for one-seventh of the day's total volume of business. The stock rose to 89 5-8 on brisk accumulation, easing off from the top to show a net advance of 1 7-8. Duke Power advanced 4 on small sales, while United Light & Power B shot up 10, also on limited transactions. Consolidated Gas of Baltimore, rose 2 3-8. American Superpower and United Gas were firm.

The old Deere stock, which is to be split five for one on approval of the shareholders, soared to 650, where it was 8 points above its 1929 high, and closed a point under that figure with a net gain of 14 points. The new, when issued, traded between 129 and 131 1-2. Aluminum Company of America and Huylers, with gains of 6 and 5 points, respectively, were other industrial features.

Oil shares joined in the advance, Gulf climbing 2 1-4 while Cities Service and Humble improved fractionally.

Mayflower Associates up 4 points, featured the investment trusts, which were mostly firm. Mayflower's strength reflected a reported increase in the value of its investment portfolio since December 31. Petroleum Corp. rose more than a point.

Republic Steel corporation common, when issued, was steady around 73 1-2. Liggett & Myers rights were active at an average price of about 12 1-2, while Transcontinental Oil, when issued, ruled between 19 and 19 1-2.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Jan. 30—(AP)—Wheat pitched downward today to more than 10c a bushel lower than last week, and finished prostrate at the bottom-most level reached yet this season. The wheat market here reeled owing largely to reports that Russia is offering wheat not only through ports on the Black sea but also by way of the Baltic, slashing under the cheapest prices quoted on wheat from North America. Meanwhile, with Liverpool dispatches intimating that a price-cutting war in grain exists between Canada and the United States, rye and corn here, as well as wheat, broke the season's low-price record.

Chicago closing prices on wheat were shaky the lowest point touched yet both for the day and the season, 2c to 2 7-8c under yesterday's finish. Rye closed 1 1-2c to 4 3-8c down, corn varying from 1-4c decline to 1-4c advance, and provisions unchanged to setback of 12c.

Violent fluctuations in wheat prices here followed one another rapidly today from start to finish, ending in an especially swift break of more than 2c a bushel in the last fifteen minutes by trading. Earlier buyers allowed themselves disheartened at this stage as a result of the market failing to maintain rallies. Holdings of future deliveries were thrown overboard in the face of nearly complete absence of purchasers for the time being, and values collapsed quick. Adding impetus to the late downward rush of prices here was announcement that northern American export business in wheat today totaled only 300,000 bu. and that the bulk consisted of wheat grown in Canada.

After the Chicago market closed today, the Farmers' National Grain corporation posted bids of $1.20 a bushel for No. 1 hard winter wheat to arrive. This is the federal farm board's loan basis, and is equivalent to $1.18 for No. 2 hard, a grade acceptable on ordinary future delivery contracts in the Chicago market. The government loan basis on wheat and the Farmers' National Grain corporation's latest posted offer for immediate delivery of rural receipts of wheat in Chicago is therefore 8 1-2c a bushel higher than wheat deliverable here in March went begging at in today's final transactions. The acute weakness at the finish here was particularly associated with price breaks at Winnipeg and to reports from there that London bakeries were exhibiting window signs saying no Canadian wheat was used in the shop's bread. Argentine government estimates that the Argentine wheat crop is 4,000,000 bu. less than previous forecasts was the chief basis on which wheat buyers here acted today and afterward.

Corn and oats received late buying support from previous speculative sellers, a strengthening element which was lacking in wheat.

Provisions eased down, responsive chiefly to downturns in the value of hogs.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Jan. 30—(AP)—Gold movements at the port of New York Jan. 23 to Jan. 29 inclusive comprised imports of $5,304,000, of which more than $5,000,000 came from Brazil and the remainder from other Latin-American companies. Exports totaled $34,000, of which $24,000 was sent to Mexico and $10,000 to Germany. There was a decrease in gold under earmark of $2,501,000. The daily gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank today showed imports of $1,000,000 in gold from Columbia. There were no exports today and no change in ear-marked gold.

Deere & Co. officials state that the dividend rate on the new stock to be outstanding after the 5 for 1 split-up has not been discussed.

Otis Steel Co. has resumed operations in all of its eight open hearth furnaces at the Riverside plant. Operations of the finishing departments are now at 60 per cent of capacity, and President Kulas estimates that they will be in full operation by the early part of March as a result of expanding requirements of the automobile industry.

MORE STRINGEST RULES MADE FOR LAW STUDENTS

New requirements passed by the bar examining committee of the state as to study in law offices, which went into effect Jan. 25, will make it impossible for law students to follow other occupations while pursuing their law studies. The attorney in whose office the student is following his studies is obliged to make semi-annual reports showing the progress made.

A copy of the regulations has been received here by Clerk John H. Walker of the superior court.

In order to satisfy the requirements with respect to study "under competent professional instruction in the office of a practicing attorney," the following regulations are established by the state bar examining committee:

The student throughout the required period, shall have been actually and continually in the office of a practicing attorney who is engaged in the general practice of law. The office of a practicing attorney means an office open to the public generally, and does not include the private legal department of a firm or corporation.

The student, throughout said period, shall study under the direction and advice, and subject to the immediate supervision of the attorney certifying to the period of study in his office.

The student shall be actually engaged in the study of law and or in the general practical work of such law office during the usual office hours of the day, which shall consist of not less than six hours and during at least five secular days in each calendar week, except for legal holidays, and during not less than forty-four weeks in each year. The student shall not, during such usual office hours, accept employment, or be engaged in business other than that of the law office.

The practicing attorney in whose office a law student is registered shall semi-annually, in December and June, in each year, make a report to the secretary of the bar examining committee, showing in detail the subjects studied during the preceding six months and the extent of the progress made in each subject. Such report shall be in substantially the same form as provided for the form for the final certificate.

Any student desiring to apply to study in the office of a practicing attorney may submit a written statement setting forth the proposed office, his position therein, and the course and method of study to be pursued, to the secretary of the bar examining committee for approval. Unless such prior approval is obtained, the student selects his office, his occupation there, and his course of study at his own risk.

POETRY

The Answer

No, I guess New England's where I'll settle down
When everything's said; I don't think I'll come
Out there with you, where Summer and the sun
Come round each day, or almost that, as smooth
And steady as a lazy, ticking clock,
You don't wake up and find the world
Coated with half-frozen slush, and the skies
Full of more of it dropping down in dreary
Ragged lines, splashing like watered mud,
And the trucks and drays spatter it on
The sidewalks—they don't care! They haven't time.
It's slippery walking. The old folks stay
Indoors or walk with careful, tested steps
If they go out, and going shiver.

I took up your letter and remembered
What you said when you left nine months ago.
It was Summer then. You wanted something steady—
Sunshine you could count on, not chill rains
And dripping fogs in August. Now it's Winter!
You send pictures. You say: "See! this land Grows January roses!" I look out
My window where a queen's white coverlet
Lies studded by the sun with rhinestones—
A world of topsy-turvy trees, waving
White rootlets in the air, and the crooked
Ruts of the milkman's cart, I go to sleep
Leaving one world and wake up in another.
It's Winter today. It may be Spring tomorrow.
No, I don't think I'll come. I'm not even Enough. I like my flowers in season
Wild, when I haven't seen them for five months,
Except in picture—like yours—or flower ships.
I like provoking change. I want to know
The heights and depths of living.

—Willis H. Gerry, in Providence Journal.

Whispers Of The Wind

Someone walked beside me
As I came up the hill,
I heard a low, caressing voice
Murmuring with a great sweetness.
I felt a cool touch on my arm,
Turning with wonder
I saw only a soft, white mist;
But the night wind walked beside me.
Whispering of wonder things.
Of the glory of blossoming stars,
Of the mist of silver raindrops,
The lovely odors of pale flowers
In the moonlight,
The wispy touch of the fingers
Of the trail, white mist,
Of the unfathomable secrets
Of the wind in the pine trees.
All this the night wind told me of
As he walked beside me up the dusk-shrouded hill.

—Dorothy Whipple Fry, in Boston Transcript.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Roadside Gypsy—I am a seer. I can see far ahead.
Motorist—Do you see any parking space?—Brooklyn Eagle.

Wife (to her husband who is peering over cliff)—Don't stand so near the edge, dear. Someone with a sense of humor might come along.—London Tit-Bits.

"Any chance for a man to work himself up in your concern?"
"Chance! Why nearly every minute there's something to work a man up."—New Bedford Standard.

She (mournfully)—Just think, Henry, I weigh 200 pounds.
He (tenderly)—And all that belongs to me. What have I done to be worthy of such a great blessing?—Detroit News.

"Why do you always address the letter carrier as professor?"
"It's a sort of honorary title. I'm taking a course by mail."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Mandy, why did you call your latest son Judas? Don't you know what a terrible man Judas was?"
"Ah don't know anything about that, boss, but ah read in the Good Book about Judas 'better he never have been born.'"—Boston Transcript.

Mother (haughtily)—My daughter drives her own 90-horse-power car, plays golf, tennis and polo.
Suitor (icily)—Yes, madam, and I have some skill at cooking and housekeeping.—The Pathfinder.

A road hog, known for his determination never to be overtaken, was going at a good speed one day when he heard an insistent "honking" behind him. He turned and saw just on his hind wheel a baby car driven by a wild-looking individual.
Back he turned to his wheel, down went the accelerator and up rushed the speed indicator. Seventy-eight miles an hour; but still the hooting continued. At last, worn out, the speed maniac slowed down and drew to the side of the road.
"Come on then, if you must pass," he exclaimed.
"I'm sorry," said the driver of the baby car, "but I'm hooked on."—Montreal Star.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The germ cause of leprosy was discovered in 1871.

Giant armadillos lived in South America up to 20,000 years ago.

College and university summer schools enrolled 424,824 students in 1929. This is the largest summer term attendance on record.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Patten, of Hermon, Me., celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary with all their family present, twenty-four in number, including four generations. There never has been a break in the circle.

Erich Maria Remarque, the German who wrote "All Quiet on the Western Front," has demonstrated that a writer can become rich on one book. His widely-circulated work has brought him 1,000,000 marks of which the government has collected 200,000 marks in taxes. Remarque's net profit, therefore, is 1,000,000 marks or $250,000.

Binks, a wire bull terrier, owned by Colonel and Mrs. S. Gregson, of Cob Orchard, Plaxtol, Kent, England, is said to be the only dog that has ever passed through the pass of Karacoram. In 1927 the dog walked over the pass between China and India and included a mere 1,700 miles in his return trip, according to statements of his master and mistress who have recently returned from China.

To speed the time of delivery, sugar is now being distributed in liquid form through pipes instead of being handled in bags. At the refinery a gravity pipe conveys the liquid sugar to a tank car or truck and it is hauled to the buyer's plant where it is again pumped to a distributing tank. The system is a result of the discovery of a carbon of high purifying quality, making possible the production of a white syrup, as refined as granulated sugar, directly from the raw material.

George Yelich, of Detroit, Mich., chuckled as he glanced out of his window and saw a man carrying a big live goose. He was amused by the stranger's struggles to keep the goose from getting free. Yelich raised the window and called, "Hey there, where is that goose going with you?" The goose carrier did not look around. He let the goose flap to the ground and disappeared in a run. Mr. Yelich now has a goose that is being held for its owner.

A new cruising detail of the San Francisco police force was put through some tests in the early part of a morning not long ago. A pseudo bank holdup brought the entire district personnel to the bank in four minutes. During the following hour the pseudo fleeing car was stopped in various parts of the city and tests were pronounced a 100 per cent success. But, while all this was going, two robbers in an automobile made three holdups and escaped.

Telephone Engineering, Responsible for Radio's Development—Adds Perfected Record Reproduction

—Also a New Low Console with Extra-Size Electro-Dynamic Speaker

ALL America knows the superb tonal quality of Stromberg-Carlson radio. Here is an instrument in which that matchless tone, given even greater beauty through refinements of design, is made available for the reproduction of modern phonographic records.

Now—you can hear records as they have never sounded before—all the gems of recorded music as though from the musicians themselves without the slightest indication of an intervening medium . . . . A brilliance of reproduction which was not thought possible even a few short months ago.

It is entirely logical that from Stromberg-Carlson Laboratories, which for 35 years have been perfecting voice transmission and reception, should come this new quality of electrical reproduction of records. For it is telephone laboratories that have developed the tone quality of radio to its present point.

Besides this Radio-Phonograph the new year brings still another Stromberg-Carlson accomplishment—a Receiver with every radio perfection of its companion, contained in an exquisite cabinet so compact as to delight the owner of a home where space is at a premium.

These instruments, together with models No. 641, No. 642 and No. 846 offer a wide range of choice in Stromberg-Carlson Screen Grid Receivers.

Palace Theatre.

One of the greatest combinations of talent ever seen in a motion picture will be viewed here for a week beginning tomorrow, when "Sally," all-talking, all-singing, dancing and color masterpiece, adapted from the great stage success of the same name, comes to the Palace theatre, with Marilyn Miller in the star role. In addition to this brilliant Broadway star, the cast includes none less than the famous Joe E. Brown, Alexander Gray, T. Roy Barnes, Ford Sterling, Jack Duffy and Pert Kelton. With such a cast a show would have to be good, and in such a picture any cast would look great.

"Sally" is such a picture as you see only once in many, many moons. It is not a revue, but has a beautiful story running through it, the plot delicately interlaced with lovely songs, beautiful dances and sly humor. Picture for yourself the little girl, a waitress in a restaurant, with whom a young heir falls in love. Imagine if you can, the role of Joe E. Brown, as the impoverished but ever-smiling Duke, who is Sally's best friend, and who courteously refuses to give her away when she is discovered to be an imposter at the very swell garden party given in her honor on Long Island. Joe is the most human Duke you ever met, and a very funny fellow who can also dance.

As Otis Hooper, the loud-voiced, confident theatrical agent, T. Roy Barnes gives a great portrayal. Pert Kelton, as the little girl who hangs around with Otis, is also very good. And by the way, not forgetting the principals, both Miss Miller and Mr. Gray can sing as only real stars do, and Miss Miller can rattle the boards in amazing fashion when she takes off on one of her long distance dances. The plot, incidentally, is just such a story as the great P. G. Wodehouse is accustomed to write. All sorts of amusing tangles, with a good heart twist at the end. Don't miss "Sally."

Today for the last times the Palace presents beautiful Dolores Del Rio in "Evangeline," and Alice White and Chester Morris in the new Vitaphone, "Playing Around," a great underworld drama.

There are 33 schools and 4,560 pupils in the public school system of Alaska territory.

THE BOY THAT KNOWS TOO MUCH

First, there is the boy that is inclined to be a smart Aleck, who is stuck on himself. We saw one the other day whose eyes bulged out when he discovered that hundreds of boys he had kind of looked down on had learned to do a lot of things and to know a lot of other things as scouts that he didn't even have a speaking acquaintance with. Then he found out he didn't even know enough to be a "Tenderfoot." Moreover, he learned that he never could know enough without some real hard work such as he had boasted of dodging in school.

For the first time in his young life he really felt ashamed of himself. And perhaps you have guessed that the one thing this boy needed was to feel ashamed of himself and his methods. The way he hustled to turn over a new leaf without waiting for any adults first of January justified the entire boy scout system.

Do you know the boy that isolates himself from other boys, who gets off in the corner with a book? Always his nose in a book. Doesn't get exercise enough. Is indoors too much. Yet that boy is always reading. His mind is traveling with those that do things. But they are always things he can't do himself.

Get that boy to reading the wonderful boy scout handbook. It is something to read. He will go to it from his own instinct. He will find himself reading about things that he can do.

You never got so much for your boy for 50 cents in your life or his. It is a library in itself. It has the appeal for all kinds of boys which we are telling you. You will find your boy and his needs in it somewhere if you take the trouble to read it yourself.

More copies of this handbook have been sold than of any other single juvenile volume. The sales stand now at about four million. Quit that overworry about your boy. If he wants to read, introduce him to the greatest boy book published.

You know the dangerous age of the boy. Boy Scouts begin between 12 and 15. Will the boy master himself or will he go wrong? Fathers and mothers go through no more anxious period than those years of their son's adolescent development.

The clean out-door sports, the occupied mind, the constant inspiration of ideals, physical, mental, moral and spiritual, that are supplied by the boy scouts fit most admirably every need that your boy has just at this age.

Judge Landis recently personally endorsed the boy scout program to Scout Executive John L. Sellman, declaring that in his 28 years on the bench he had become convinced scouting was a great preventive for juvenile delinquency.

Frigidaire.

Restoration of wilted vegetables, and preservation of fresh vegetables in the finest condition for many days at a time have been made possible by Frigidaire Corporation, world's largest manufacturer of electric refrigeration equipment, through the invention of a moist air compartment known as a hydrator, according to a national announcement by this General Motors subsidiary.

Such vegetables as celery, lettuce, watercress, endive, spinach, parsley, radishes, carrots, green beans and similar varieties which have wilted, can be restored to their original, fresh-from-the-garden appearance in the hydrator, and sandwiches can be held fresh and appetizing for long periods of time, Carl W. Brown, local Frigidaire dealer, said.

The hydrator now is on display at the local Frigidaire display room and complete information concerning it and its uses may be obtained there, the local representative explained.

"Although the hydrator is quite simple in appearance, in operation it is amazing," he said. "Before announcing it," he continued, "Frigidaire Corporation in its experimental kitchens and bacteriological laboratory in Dayton, O., subjected the product to rigid tests. The results, which are being exhibited at our display room, are nothing short of astonishing.

"Following the policy used in introducing the cold control, Frigidaire has made it possible for all users of its product to install the hydrator in their present household refrigerator at a nominal cost. All new Frigidaires are equipped with this device."

BACKUS HOSPITAL AUXILIARY

Candlemas day, Feb. 2, brings to a close the Christmas season, so busy for all of us, but for none of us more so than for members of the various committees of the Backus hospital auxiliary. Many hours were spent by them, planning, shopping, purchasing, wrapping.

Mrs. David Bussler, heading the flower committee, had eight Christmas trees placed in the corridor, laurel and red point gaily festooned along the banister of the front staircase, the mantel in the reception room decorated with holly and red candles, and the entrance to the hospital and nurses' home brightened with Christmas trees. The effect of all was most bright and cheery.

Mrs. Judd, and her able helpers of the holiday committee, purchased a gift for each patient at the hospital—a sweater for a little child perhaps, a wrapper for another—something substantial for every single one, child or adult, who chanced to be ill at Christmastide in our hospital. Red baskets were filled with candy, and these with the presents were distributed by Santa Claus, none other than Dr. Wener, interne. Through the solicitation of this committee a few kind ladies gave strings of lights, for the trees of all the wards, including maternity. New Year's day a greeting was placed on each tray, a fancy napkin, and candy—this last festive note made possible by the generosity of the Hebrew Ladies Auxiliary to the hospital.

On Monday evening, Dec. 23, the student nurses held their annual Christmas party in the nurses' home. The recreation committee of the auxiliary helped fill a pack with gifts, which Santa distributed to them. A very jolly evening was enjoyed by the nurses and their friends.

The production committee, Miss Mary Paddock, chairman, is always busy, in season and out of season, supervising the making of bandages. A group of ladies from each church goes, each in turn, to the sewing room of the Central Baptist church where they make bandage after bandage, accomplishing much and at the same time thoroughly enjoying the comradeship of one another. December 12 and 19, the First Baptist church was represented by 22 workers who made 3,000 small gauze pads. January 9 and 16, St. Patrick's church sent a group of 39 women who made 3,172 bandages. St. Mary's church worked last week—25 women making 1,662 pads, and Thursday, January 30, the Swedish church will end the round. Next month the cycle starts again, but with the change of day from Thursday to Wednesday.

Such quantities of old white cloth are needed for these bandages! Have you any old sheets, slips, tablecloths, any old, soft, white material? Do send it to Mrs. John Rogers, 187 Washington street, or call 351 on the telephone and she will make arrangements with you to secure it. We all know the need of clean, old pieces, when there is the illness of only one in the home; when there is the illness of possibly one hundred in the home for our sick people, we must realize how much greater the need!

Perhaps you have some rather recent magazines or Sunday papers with their picture supplements, or with their "funnies" which delight the children. Call Miss Constance Learned of 239 Broadway (phone 259). She will collect the 2nd and 4th Fridays of each month.

The auxiliary makes itself useful in every possible way. I now quote one of the senior doctors of the hospital. "The activity of the women's auxiliary can be felt and seen in all the various departments of the hospital. Without its assistance many of the things of which the hospital is enjoying the advantage would be missing. Whether we think of the operating room with its up-to-date anaesthetizing apparatus, or the X-ray room with its splendid equipment, or the silver service used on the trays, or some of the wheel chairs, or many other things too innumerable to mention, we recognize the necessity and the advantage to the hospital of the activity of the women's auxiliary."

The accomplishments which brought forth these words of praise have been made possible by the cooperation of many. Mrs. Walter Lester, chairman of the membership committee, reports 725 members. Are you a member? Won't you become one of the hospital's helpers? If you live at a distance, perhaps in the suburbs, or if you are too busy for activity in the organization, you may be of support by joining the auxiliary. Send one dollar to Mrs. Lester of Laurel Hill road, and ask her to enter your name on her list soon to be published. Become a member of the Backus hospital auxiliary.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

Deep, dark mystery sustained almost until the final fade-out, is the theme of "The Thirteenth Chair," starring Conrad Nagel and Leila Hyams and showing at the Broadway today and tonight for the last times, completing a long program of highly entertaining comedies and short subjects. Tomorrow marks the inauguration of Broadway's "Greatest Entertainment Month," with the famous Duncan Sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, the most famous couple on the musical comedy stage, in their latest musicomedy funriot, "It's a Great Life," as the initial program. Differing from all other screen musical comedies, in that it has an authentic story, with fun fast and furious, "It's a Great Life," unfolds the life of two sisters, who are employed in a big department store. Their loves and spats, their friendly rivalry for sweethearts, and finally the big triumph for the store and the sisters when the annual amateur show is staged, gives opportunity for much comedy, much heartbreak, and some splendid scenery, of which the famous sisters with their big cast, headed by Lawrence Gray and Benny Rubin, take the fullest advantage. Several of the biggest scenes are entirely in technicolor. The surrounding program includes three snappy vitaphone specialties from Warner Brothers' new releases, and the latest Paramount Sound news and other novelties. "It's a Great Life" with its attendant short subjects is "Program 'A'" in the list of eight programs changes lettered from A to H, scheduled for February, and frank discussion of which in letters from the patrons will be rewarded with cash awards, full notice of which is given on the screen daily.

National Biscuit Co.

The American taste for distinctive cakes and crackers will have added opportunity to indulge itself with the wide selection of Uneeda Baker products which the National Biscuit Company began advertising in more than 400 newspapers, Jan. 13th.

With the famous Uneeda Boy as their mouthpiece, the Uneeda Bakers will remind their many millions of patrons of past favorites, and suggest numerous new delicacies to compete with the old for the palate's favor. The National Biscuit Company, always a firm believer in the value of newspapers as an effective means of reaching the consumer, is launching, in its present campaign, the most ambitious advertising program in its history. More than fifty newspapers have been added to the large number used in presenting its products last fall.

Each week the Uneeda Boy, dressed in his boots and southwester, will appear in The Bulletin and Record, and tell Norwich's housewives how they may solve their baking problems by using Uneeda Bakers' biscuit, cakes, and crackers. The Uneeda Boy has been a well known visual contact for the past thirty-five years and many retailers attribute their growing sales directly to his activities in planting in the mind of the consumer a demand for Uneeda Bakers' products.

With over 22,000,000 newspaper readers seeing the Uneeda Boy's bright young face every week, and following his suggestions for the children's lunch, the afternoon snack, and a hundred other problems that harass the busy housewife, the wise dealer will prepare himself to meet the ever increasing demand. Uneeda Bakers' products being such a popular national institution, he will find very little sales effort required as well as a great increase in sales volume.

Breed Theatre

World-famous authors, many of whom have sat as special writers during celebrated murder trials, reenacted their experiences when at the behest of Director Monta Bell, they "covered" "The Bellamy Trial," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production which closes tonight at the Breed theatre.

In the big murder trial scene of the new mystery drama, occupying front seats in the press division, these authors of famous novels mingled with noted journalists, all enjoying their first experience as actors and actresses.

Among the volunteer literary lights were Adela Rogers St. Johns, author of "The Sky Rocket," "A Free Soul," "The Single Standard" and other works; William Dudley Pelley, author of "Drag," "The Blue Lamp," and other novels; John Colton, famous playwright of "Rain" and "The Shanghai Gesture" fame; Lewis Browne, who wrote the sensational "This Believing World," and Samuel Arnitz, author of "Joe" and other works.

Sam's Barber Shop Moves

Sam Guibeault, who has conducted his well known barber shop at 215 Main street for the last 26 years, has moved to a new location at 141 Main street, over the Woolworth store. He has entire new fixtures that make his new shop most attractive and he will be glad to see all friends and patrons there.

ATTENDED BAPTIST MID-YEAR MEETING AT NEW LONDON

Mrs. Herbert I. Peckham, Mrs. Irving Larkin, Mrs. Frederick Laycock, Mrs. Gallup, Mrs. William Lund, Miss Jennie Sebastian and Rev. Harry P. Brothwell, pastor of the Third Baptist church attended the mid-year meeting of the New London association of Baptist churches at the Huntington Street Baptist church in New London on Wednesday.

Miss Dorothy Conklin has returned to her home on Prospect street, after spending a few days in Greenfield, Mass.

Attended Miscellaneous Shower

A number of the World Wide guild girls of the Third Baptist church attended a miscellaneous shower which was held for one of their members, Miss Frances Bugbee, of Jewett City, Wednesday evening.

The Missionary circle of the Third Baptist church held the monthly meeting in the chapel of the church with thirteen members present. Mrs. Elmer Mulkins had charge of the meeting and after the devotional exercises, conducted a quiz from January Mission magazine. This was followed by a brief sketch entitled, Ann Judson's Hope Chest, in which the part of Ann Judson was taken by Mrs. William Lund, who was dressed for the part. A chest, about 150 years old, was loaned to the society by a friend, to be used in the sketch and each lady had a special part. The secretary and treasurer, Mrs. James Spicer, gave a very encouraging report and many items of business were taken up. At 5:30 o'clock, a supper of escalloped potatoes, beef loaf, pickles, cabbage relish, rolls, cake and coffee was served under the direction of Mrs. James Spicer. The next meeting will be held February 27, with Mrs. Irving Larkin, leader, and Mrs. Gallup as hostess for the supper.

At C. E. Meeting And Supper

Miss Dorothy Conklin, Harold Kinney and William Sebastian attended the meeting of the Christian Endeavor societies executive committee which was held at the Preston City Baptist church Wednesday evening. They also attended the supper given there.

LADIES GUILD HOLDS ITS WEEKLY MEETING

The Ladies guild of St. Andrew's Episcopal church met at the home of Mrs. Frank Prodell on Smith avenue Thursday afternoon, for the weekly meeting. Regular business was transacted with President Mrs. Charles Erwin presiding. A social hour followed with vocal and piano solos rendered and refreshments were served by the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reardon have changed their residence from Page street to corner Eighth street and Central avenue.

Harry Larose and Albert Merrin spent Thursday as guests of relatives at Jewett City.

T. D. Sewing Circle Met

The T. D. Sewing circle held the weekly meeting at the home of Miss Grace Shaw on Golden street, Tuesday evening, with a large class present. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles after which a social hour was enjoyed with piano and vocal solos rendered. Refreshments of assorted sandwiches, cake cookies, fruit, ice cream, wafers, and hot chocolate were served by the hostess. The dining room was prettily decorated.

REQUIEM MASS OFFERED FOR MR. AND MRS. P. LAJEUNESSE

A requiem mass was offered at St. Mary's Memorial church Monday morning at 7:30 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. William A. Keefe, for the repose of the souls of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lajeunesse, with relatives and family friends present. Mrs. Michael J. Farrell, organist, had charge of the musical portion of the mass.

Andrew Prazkop Better

The many friends of Andrew Prazkop, of 87 Fifth street, will be pleased to learn that he has returned to his home after a being a patient at the W. W. Backus hospital. He was injured painfully while at his work as a carpenter about a week ago.

NORWICH BOY SCOUTS HAVE RECORD OF MANY CIVIC GOOD TURNS IN YEAR

Civic service rendered by Norwich Boy Scouts during 1929 was shown by the report given at the annual council meeting by H. M. Leroa, chairman of civic service. His report was given as follows:

Values in character training are frequently so intangible that one cannot lay one's hands on the particular activity which brings about character traning. However, in the activity of civic service we are pretty safe in assuming that character training is going on, indeed that the amount and quality of the service performed, is an index, a barometer of the amount and quality of the training.

Norwich scouts have rendered more civic service this year than before. A comparison of the two years, 1928-1929, shows an increase of about 50 percent in the quality of the service. This year we have not been called to fight forest fires but we have rendered a number of important good turns. The most memorable are:

1. The numbering of houses for the city. (This was an important piece of work. The outlying districts still have streets which should be checked. Can we not complete this work in March?)
2. Mobilization of 26 scouts and men to find lost Preston child.
3. Carving of totem pole and presentation of it to Lord Mayor Herbert P. Gowen of Norwich, England, for the scouts of that city. Watch for the description of this event in "Scouting," the official magazine. The editor promises an early publication.
4. Laying of the cornerstone to Mamohet, famous Sachem at the Royal Indian cemetery.
5. Scouts entertain Rotarians with a "Pageant of Progress."
6. Scouts servve as escorts in chamber of commerce style's parade.
7. Scouts serve as ushers at Armistice day community service.
8. Scouts serve as ushers at Lions Christmas theatre party to poor kids. Individual troops serve as ushers at many church functions.
9. Scouts distribute 200 Red Cross posters.
10. Scouts distribute 150 Red Cross seal posters.
11. Jamboree scouts of New London speak before Rotary and Lions clubs.
12. Scouts collect and repair ten bushels of toys.
13. Scouts demonstrate use of fire alarm boxes during fire prevention week.
14. Scouts display toys in window to stimulate community giving.
15. Scouts collect 1000 pounds magazines for hospitals.
16. Scouts meet Santa Claus as escorts to Porteous and Mitchell.

Many troop and individual good turns have been called to the attention of the civic service committee, but space will not permit specific mention. However, we are very proud of our scouts and of our scoutmasters, our "key" men who make this service possible. Let us inculcate that spirit which Nathan Hale possessed when he said, "I am sorry I have but one life to give for my country." Let our scouts of peace say, "I cannot do too much for my city."

Troop Organization.

Organization work was reported by C. V. James, chairman of organization, who set an objective in the formation of new troops in Norwich and the establishment of troops in Danielson, Putnam, Stafford Springs, Willimantic and surrounding towns.

His report was as follows:

The enrollment of registered scouts at the close of the year 1925 was 332 scouts, by 1926 this total had fallen to 161, in 1927 it was 143, in 1928 it was 94, and on June 29, 1929, it reached its lowest number, 84.

The chief work of the troop organization committee has been the stabilizing of troops already in existence. A ground work has been laid for the organization of several new troops but at this date, only one new troop has been registered in Norwich, proper, the Duwell troop of which Walter Weidman is scoutmaster. Since its organization in October this troop has been doing splendid work. Three new troops have been organized in the territory, one at Columbia, two in Willimantic.

Through this increase in troops and through the acquisition of troops due to the enlargement of our territory, we now have 26 registered active troops in the Eastern Connecticut council with an enrollment January 1, 1930, of 442. At this reading the enrollment is 461.

To bring this increase in numbers of scouts has meant a great many conferences, letters, telephone calls, and work on the part of the local office. Much is still to be done, however, for the surface is but scratched. It is no exaggeration to say that to be even in a fair condition, our enrollment of scouts and troops must be doubled. For a territory as large as ours to be satisfied with less than 1,000 scouts is to be satisfied with failure. Willimantic, Danielson, Jewett City, but three of the many towns in this territory should become a fruitful field for the organization of ten to fifteen troops. The boys are willing and ready. The difficulty lies with sponsoring institutions.

On January 28, a meeting of boys will be held at the American legion headquarters. A committee composed of Warren Wilcox, Carl Johnson, Dr. Thomas O'Neil has already been appointed and a scoutmaster, Carl Brend, who has completed the scoutmaster's training course, has been secured. Within a month this new troop will doubtless be registered and rated active.

Preliminary steps have been taken towards the organization of a troop in the Elizabeth street school. The plan has been laid before the West Side Community club. Edward Fedell, a member of that organization has volunteered to serve as scoutmaster. We are hopeful that a troop will be organized in that school.

We are desirous that scouting in Taftville continue. Three years ago the troops there were active and warmly supported. Many parents there want their boys to be scouts. We have met with the heads of the respective institutions where troops were, but thus far have been unsuccessful.

We understand that a new troop is about to be formed at St. Patrick's church, "a foster brother" to troop five, of which John Hill is scoutmaster. The is excellent work.

Our objectives for the coming year should include the establishment of the following troops in Norwich: Jewish troop on West Side, Elizabeth Street school troop, St. Mary's R. C. church troop, Broadway school troop, American Legion troop in Taftville, and in the territory the establishment of troops in Danielson, Putnam, Stafford Springs, Willimantic and in the surrounding towns of which these larger communities are centers. The organization of new troops in the territory becomes the province of the district committee recently organized in these centers.

W. TYLER OLCOTT WRITES OF HIS HOME OBSERVATORY

Mr. and Mrs. William Tyler Olcott, of 62 Church street, are spending the season in Tucson, Arizona. The Tucson Citizen of a recent date had a most interesting interview with Mr. Olcott, internationally known as an authority on astronomy, through his books and papers on the skies.

To the January issue of an astronomical magazine Mr. Olcott contributes an informing paper entitled "An Amateur Observatory," which proves to be a description of the observatory which he had erected a few years ago at his Church street home, which is the ancient Roath homestead built in 1768, and on the original Tyler landholdings of old Norwich. This paper is effectively illustrated, showing a clear picture of the Olcott home, with the dome of the observatory at the rear, appearing between the chimneys, the observatory on the roof and the interior of the observatory, showing apparatus for vertical motion.

Mr. Olcott describes his motive in building the observatory and gives interesting bits of experience in equipping it to suit his tastes and needs. His telescope is a five-inch Lohmann refractor, equatorially mounted. The circles are illuminated with tiny incandescent bulbs, red in color, to obviate glare. Red lights are used to illuminate the observatory. One interesting cut in the paper shows Mr. Olcott at the telescope.

Regarding the local astronomer and his work, the Tucson Citizen says that the Norwich astronomer affirmed his belief in the possibility of some form of life on the planet Mars, this belief being supported by photographic plates taken at Flagstaff observatory on which are to be seen faint straight lines intersecting each other at right angles. These lines indicate, in his opinion, canal-like structures 1,000 miles long each way. Nature does not work in straight lines and it is this fact which leads to the conclusion that these canals are of artificial origin.

280 WILL PAY PENALTIES TO MOTOR VEHICLE DEPT.

Because they gave bad checks to the amount of $9,004.40 during the rush for markers in the closing days of 1929, 280 persons will have to pay more than $1,400 extra, in penalties, for their 1930 automobile registrations. The state motor vehicle department has required these applicants to forward certified checks, money orders or cash covering the original amount plus protest fees and a $5 penalty. Failure to comply with this requirement results in forfeiture of registrations.

Uncollectible checks received at the Hartford office during the rush period represented $2,305.90; while that at New Haven amounted to $1,464.23; Bridgeport, $1,346.54; Stamford, $965.02; Waterbury, $879.40; New London, $329.40; Danbury, $65. About 40 per cent of the checks were "made good" before Jan. 15.

AGRICULTURAL ASSOCIATIONS TO MEET IN HARTFORD

The Connecticut Poultry association, the Connecticut Sheep Breeders' association and the Connecticut Farm Bureau federation are among the several organizations that will hold annual meetings in conjunction with the union agricultural meeting in Hartford, Feb. 5. Among the other Connecticut associations to hold meetings and luncheons at that time will be the Guernsey Breeders' and the Turkey Growers', while the Vegetable Growers' and Pomological society will hold executive sessions.

"The World's Poultry Congress," which will be held in England this year, will be the subject of a talk by Prof. William F. Kirkpatrick of Connecticut Agricultural college at the poultry association luncheon. The business meeting will be held at 10 a. m. During the afternoon and evening the association will cooperate with the union agricultural meeting and the remainder of their program will be on Feb. 6. Prof. James E. Rice of Cornell university, Herbert M. Tucker, chief of the bureau of animal industry, Augusta, Me., Prof. W. R. Graham of Ontario Agricultural college and C. Scott of the poultry department of New Jersey Agricultural college are among those scheduled to take part in the all-day program.

SUES FOR MONEY HER FATHER HID IN FORGE

By suit brought in the superior court against Samuel E. Holdridge of Ledyard, executor of her father's estate, Mrs. Mary S. Chaffee of West Hanover, Mass., is endeavoring to get back $2,100, which she claims is part of some money that her father, the late Delano Sheldon, gave her and which he had secreted behind an old forge in a shop on the farm in Ledyard. According to the complaint drawn in the suit, in which Attorney Hibberd R. Norman is counsel for Mrs. Chaffee, Holdridge claims the money as part of the estate and has refused to return it to Mrs. Chaffee.

Sheldon, who lived in Ledyard for many years, left an estate of about $40,000, from which Mrs. Chaffee received $6,000 and a son of hers is to share in the residue.

The plaintiff's father had a habit of hiding money in different places about his farm and after his death some of these places were found. Mrs. Chaffee makes the claim that she took care of her father for some time prior to July 19, 1928, and that on that day he showed her where he concealed a considerable sum of money behind the forge and he took out $980 from the hoard, saying this would be for expenses and he told his daughter that the balance of $2,100 was here. He told her to take it away and gave her two keys, all there were to the box containing the $2,100 and a piece of string, telling her to put the keys on the string and wear it around her neck. Mrs. Chaffee claims she took the keys and thereafter held exclusive possession of the box and money and valuables as her own.

Mrs. Chaffee alleges that she was unable to leave her father on account of his sickness, but continued with him until he died, and after his death on June 28, 1928, took the $2,100 and deposited it in a safe deposit box in the Norwich Savings society.

Before the death of her father, Mrs. Chaffee claims that she informed Mr Holdridge that her father had given her the $2,100 and Holdridge urged her to turn the money over to him, questioning the validity of the gift. Mrs. Chaffee recites in her complaint that she gave the defendant, Holdridge, access to the safe deposit box directing him to divide the money between herself and a brother named Daniel, and a sister Sarah.

Holdridge, who is executor of the will, took the money from the safe deposit box and refuses to return it according to the complaint by Mrs. Chaffee.

SUES FOR WOMAN'S DEATH IN CELLULOID BLAZE

Legal papers have been served in New London by Deputy Sheriff Nelson C. Brown in an attachment for $10,000 on the Schwartz Leather Co., Abraham Schwartz, Aaron Nathan Schwartz, Hyman Schwartz and Arthur Messer, in favor of Agostino Alfieri, administrator of the estate of the three burned to death in a fire about a year ago.

The fire, one of the most tragic in the history of New London, also snuffed out the lives of Mrs. Lena DiMarco, 68, and Joseph Spinnato, five, when celluloid which the family of Rose Spinnato of 128 Jefferson avenue was sewing in wallets suddenly burst into flames and transformed the room into a roaring furnace in the fraction of a second. Several others were seriously burned at the time.

60th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Gregory of 39 Fairview avenue, Groton, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Thursday. They were married Jan. 30, 1870, at Summit, N. J., by Rev. J. Wesley Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory had ten children, five of whom are living. They are Mrs. Max W. Winkler, Poquonoc Bridge; Mrs. Seymour H. Wright, Groton; Mrs. Charles L. Gates of Groton and Florida; Mrs. Percy H. Callbeck, Wakefield, Mass., and George H. Gregory, Groton. There are 19 grandchildren and 14 great grandchildren.

Mr. Gregory was employed by the New Haven railroad as a blacksmith for 28 years, but has been retired for several years.

NEWS FEATURE GIVES HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT'S INDUSTRIES

Realizing that thousands of Connecticut citizens are unaware of the romantic early struggles of industry, the factors which brought about subsequent growth, and the fact that almost everything "under the sun" is made within the borders of the commonwealth, The Bulletin, in conjunction with the Manufacturers Association of Connecticut will present a series of brief historical outlines under the caption of "A History of Connecticut Industry" to appear daily except Sunday, beginning on February 1st.

This series will present valuable information for the banker, the broker, commercial traveling man, the sales manager, the student, and will even show the housewife how and where many household appliances and utensils originated.

A few of the highlights of the releases scheduled for February appearance tell how the idea of a thermos bottle originated in the days of Queen Elizabeth, when knighthood was in flower and everything was done to please the queen; about a Connecticut company making the first coils for automobile starters; concerning the formation of America's largest hardware corporation; how the brass industry grew from the humble origin of a brass button; how one of our oldest textile companies was founded by a venerable patriarch eighty-five years of age; the discovery of a formula permits Connecticut-produced fish to compete with local products 3,000 miles away; how a Connecticut lady, twenty years of age, became so obsessed with the idea of building a machine and "making the dern thing work" that she forgot all about profit; about the origin of our modern friction clutch; how the experiences of Connecticut farmer boys in raising mulberry trees contributed to the founding of one of the largest silk mills; the origin of the nut and bolt industry in Connecticut, and how the name of Colt came to be a household word in millions of homes all over the world.

Other pertinent facts about capitalization, floor space, products manufactured, and present management are also included in many of these histories.

AMERICAN LEGION MAKING DRIVE FOR MEMBERSHIP

With the visit of the national commander, O. L. Bodenhamer of Arkansas, slated for next week, members of the Connecticut department, American Legion, are bending every effort to secure a full return of last year's membership in order to report the 100 per cent standing to their national chief. Over twenty local posts of this department have already achieved the goal set for the rest of the state. Among those with more members than in 1929 are Unionville, Windsor, Southington, Thompsonville, Suffield, Derby, Guilford, Ansonia, North Haven, Hamden, New Haven Musicians, Stratford, Darien, Wilton, Georgetown, Putnam, Stonington, Goshen, Norfolk and Chester.

This membership effort is being conducted on a basis of a united veteran front in the matter of world peace, with the universal draft—the conscription of industry and capital on a parity with fighting man-power—as the outstanding point in the Legion's legislative program. Information from the legion's national legislative committee reveals that while the effort to alleviate the sufferings of disabled men will continue unabated, there will also be steady work seeking to place the universal draft on the statute books.

Broke Leg in Fall

While walking in the yard of the Hall Bros. mill at Hallville Tuesday morning Otis Hall of River avenue, well known woolen manufacturer, slipped and fell on the slippery ice and sustained a broken bone in the right leg above the ankle. Mr. Hall was walking from one building to another at the time of the fall. He was attended by Dr. James J. Donohue.

STONINGTON MAN SUES FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

A suit has been filed in the superior court with Clerk John H. Walker, in which Charles Walmsley of Stonington, asks for damages of $10,000 from E. V. Scanlon and Wilfred Higgins, both of New York city, as the result of severe injuries received in an automobile accident. Walmsley claims that he was hurt when his car was struck by a machine driven by Higgins and owned by Scanlon on the highway leading from Mystic to Westerly on Christmas eve. It is alleged in the papers that Higgins was driving at a dangerous rate of speed on an icy and slippery road and that he was under the influence of liquor.

WEDDING

Pike—Brown

Miss Alice May Brown and Earl Vincent Pike were united in marriage Thursday night at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. Myron E. Genter, superintendent of the Norwich district of the Methodist Episcopal church. Mr. Pike is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryon Pike, of West Town street. His bride, who is a cousin of the pastor of the local church, Rev. George Warren Potter, has resided in the Potter home since the death of her mother, twelve years ago.

The bride was attended by Miss Marion Pike, a sister of the groom and the groom was attended by Elton Odgers. The bride's costume was of white crepe de chine and the bridesmaid wore pink crepe de chine.

Following the ceremony a supper of chicken salad, olives, rolls, coffee, fruit and cake was served. White carnations formed the center piece.

The groom is employed at the Saxton Manufacturing company. He and his bride will make their home for the present at the parsonage, 169 West Town street.

NEW COMMUNITY CLUB HAS 14 CHARTER MEMBERS

A group of men met Tuesday evening at the Methodist parsonage and after hearing a report from a committee appointed at a previous meeting, organized a community club. The committee making the report comprised Woodruff Sullivan, Frederick Ross and Lewis E. Aldrich. The report which embodied a constitution and by-laws for a men's community club, was read by the chairman, Mr. Sullivan. The pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. George Warren Potter was elected temporary chairman. He appointed Mr. Sullivan secretary pro tem. The men voted to accept the report of the committee and thereby organized the club. The name adopted is the John Mason Community club. The object of the club is to promote the welfare and to inculcate a sense of individual and corporate obligation to the community, state and nation; to foster a brotherly and social feeling among the members. All men 18 years of age and over are eligible for membership. They must be recommended by two members of the club and elected by a majority vote. The regular meeting of the club will be held the third Monday night of the month at 8 o'clock in the vestry of the Methodist church. The officers elected were: President, Rutherford H. Snow; vice president, Frederick G. Ross; secretary, Rev. Geo. W. Potter; treasurer, Stanton H. Brown; executive committee, Arthur Fulton and William Waters.

The next meeting of the club will be held Monday, Feb. 17th. The committee appointed by the president to have charge of the entertainment for that meeting is Rev. Mr. Potter and Woodruff Sullivan. The president appointed a committee consisting of William Burdick, William Waters and Edward Howe to have charge of the refreshments for that meeting. There are fourteen charter members in the club.

Wolf Cubs Plan Initiation

The meeting of the Wolf Cub pack of scouts connected with the Methodist Episcopal church held a meeting Monday afternoon with an attendance of 17. The bugler, Ellis Bentley opened the meeting by playing the assembly. Following the opening ritual the cub master, Rev. George Warren Potter announced that the initiation committee was preparing to hold another ceremony at the next meeting. Following the story period the Cubs enjoyed a novel game of human checkers. In the absence of the Asst. cubmaster Donald Olsen, the pack was inspected by Scout Earl Robinson.

Sunday evening at the C. E. meeting of the Methodist Episcopal church, Harold H. Muttart gave an interesting talk on "What Is Our Church Planning to Do This Year?"

FRENCH HAVE ISSUED DRAFT OF THEIR NAVAL PROPOSAL

Would Give Each Nation A Total Tonnage For Its Navy, Divided Into Six Classes of Warships—The Draft Has Left Open the Figures For the Total Tonnages—Work of the Conference For Some Weeks is Likely to Be Devoted to Filling in the Gaps—The Draft May Be Considered By the Full Conference, Sitting As a Committee of the Whole

LONDON, Jan. 31—(AP)—The French plan for smoothing the road of the five-power naval conference by means of a compromise between the global and category systems of tonnage limitation, was seemingly halted at an executive session of the conference today.

The difficulty arose when the British were unable to fill their two places on a special committee which yesterday's session voted for with the idea that the French suggestion would be studied by it. Until the membership of this committee is completed, it is probable that the subject will be considered by the full conference, sitting as a committee of the whole.

Reports were current that the British difficulty arose from inability to satisfy the dominion delegates. Besides the empire government delegation, there are representatives here from half a dozen dominions and the problem was to make two seats on the special committee representative of all British elements.

Only general principles were discussed at the executive session today. It is probable, however, that definite proposals will be forthcoming next Tuesday to which date the committee of the whole adjourned.

The French issued a draft text of their proposal tonight. By it each nation would be given a total tonnage for its navy, divided into six classes of warships. A certain percentage, the figure being undetermined, could be transferred from one category to another upon notice being given one year in advance.

Besides the blank left for transfer percentages, the draft also left open the figures for total tonnages. The work of the conference for the next few weeks is likely to be devoted to efforts to fill these gaps.

So long as the question is debated in committee of the whole, the desires of the British dominions regarding their representation are likely to be fully met. Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of Great Britain and chairman of the conference, held a two and one-half hour session with the dominion delegates at St. James' palace this morning. It was admitted after this meeting that a real problem existed. Whether the subterfuge of having the conference meet as a committee of the whole will prove a permanent solution of it or only a temporary measure, is not likely to be determined until after next Tuesday's meeting. The delegates scattered for their week-end rests after today's session.

It is generally recognized that the procedure adopted today does not make for speed in conference affairs. The committee of the whole sat only one hour and it heard what amounted to a restatement of views given at the Thursday plenary session.

Addresses were made by A. V. Alexander, first lord of the admiralty, for Great Britain; Reijiro Wakatsuki, head of the Japanese group; Rear Admiral Giuseppe Sirianni for Italy, Secretary Charles Francis Adams for the United States, and Rene Massigli for France.

The very nature of the French proposal, which is almost as wide in its scope as the whole disarmament problem itself, necessitates a slow progress. Consequently, the delegates anticipate long negotiations before full agreement is attained. The main thing is that the proposal has been placed before the conference in concrete form.

The exact percentage of transfer allowed from one category to another varies according to the defense ideas of each nation. The establishment of total tonnages involves the whole question of fleet ratios. This, of course, ultimately reaches to the problem of French-Italian parity, to the desire of the Japanese for a 70 per cent ratio on cruisers, to the determination of what constitutes actual parity between Great Britain and the United States and to all similar problems.

The question whether tonnage can be transferred from any category is likewise comprehensive. The French draft contains no reference to particular categories, but the British have repeatedly frowned upon any proposal permitting transfers from the most powerful classes, such as battleships.

An American spokesman tonight said he understood that transfers were not to be made from classes of warships limited by the Washington treaties. These took in battleships and aircraft carriers.

The preparation of the French draft of the compromise plan resulted from a suggestion made at today's session by Mr. Adams. He and Hugh Gibson, ambassador to Belgium, had been named as American members of the dormant special committee and when today's meeting was called unexpectedly, Secretary of State Stimson turned the work over to these two and he did not himself attend the session.

Colonel Stimson and Ambassador Morrow tonight had a conference with Premier Tardieu of France, who leaves for Paris Saturday afternoon.

The American delegates and their wives are to be week-end guests of Prime Minister MacDonald, and the latter's daughter, Miss Ishbel MacDonald, at Chequers. They will have luncheon there tomorrow and in the afternoon will visit historic spots in Buckinghamshire, particularly localities associated with William Penn and the Quakers.

Mr. MacDonald himself will guide the guests. He knows every foot of the ground from many tramps about the countryside and is eminently qualified to be the first prime minister of Great Britain to assume the role of tourist guide for a group of distinguished Americans.

STAR SPANGLED BANNER SUNG AS NAT'L. ANTHEM

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—The Star Spangled Banner was sung in the crowded house judiciary committee room today as testimony that congress should recognize that stirring song to be the national anthem.

The committeemen, inured to long hours of arguments and speech-making, leaned forward in their chairs with evident interest at this refreshing innovation.

A hundred or more men and women intent on having congress approve the 116-year-old song, sat silently and let the singers and the flag speak for themselves. Everybody waited a bit nervously as the singers approached the high notes which have created a controversy as to whether the song is adaptable to the average voice.

However, the voices of the two sopranos, Mrs. Elsie Jorss-Reilley of Washington, and Mrs. Grace Evelyn Boudlin of Baltimore, rang out strong and clear, and rose easily to the highest notes.

Walter Joyce, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, faced the committee, then turned and pointed to the flag while he told of standing on San Juan hill, during the Spanish-American war while bands played the "Star Spangled Banner."

"No matter what congress does, that's our song and always will be," he exclaimed.

For two hours, speeches were made by the heads of 40 patriotic organizations. A petition signed by 5,000,000 and letters and telegrams were piled high upon the table, in support of the proposed legislation.

HYDRAULIC CEMENT STAYS ON FREE LIST

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Another major building material was restored to the tariff free list today by the senate, when it voted 40 to 35 to eliminate from the Hawley-Smoot bill a proposed levy of eight cents a hundred pounds on hydraulic cement.

Reunited after several splits in their respective groups, the democrats and republican independents—who have been generally successful in striking out tariff increases on industrial products—proved too strong for the cement duty advocates. They had adopted an amendment by Senator McMaster, republican independent, South Dakota, to retain the product in its present free category. Both the house and senate finance committee measures proposed a rate of eight cents a hundred pounds.

NEW BRITAIN, Jan. 31—(AP)—The body of a man, who committed suicide in a New York hotel Sunday, was tonight identified as that of Dr. A. M. [illegible] local dentist, missing since last Saturday.

URGES STABILITY OF NEWSPRINT MARKET

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 31—(AP)—Asserting that newsprint prices were too low to allow anything like a satisfactory return to the manufacturers, Percy B. Wilson, chairman of the newsprint section of the Canadian Pulp and Paper association, urged in his annual report made public today that manufacturers and publishers work together for "stability in a market in which they are mutually and vitally interested."

Fundamentally, he said, the industry is sound, and the present year promises to equal 1929 in consumption of newsprint. Canadian production last year amounted to 2,723,327 tons, he added—greater than any previous year and nearly 15 per cent more than 1928. Owing to increased capacity, however, he said, the mills operated at an average of only 83 per cent capacity for the year.

BLAMES LEGGE FOR LATE DECLINE IN COTTON MARKET

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Blame for yesterday's decline in the cotton market was placed on Chairman Legge of the farm board today by Senator Harris, democrat, Georgia, who contended in the senate that the drop of $2.50 a bale had reduced the value of cotton on hand by $50,000,000.

The Georgia senator based his charge first on a newspaper account that Legge had told reporters in an informal conference yesterday that the board was not going to buy any cotton. After being asked by Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, what the chairman actually had said, Harris obtained the facts from Legge himself and repeated a while later:

"I wish to say that the statement was unwise, was uncalled for, and that it cost us millions of dollars even in the way he put it."

CHICAGO TO MAIL TAX BILLS AFTER MAY 1

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Agreement to close Cook county's reassessment books May 1 and begin mailing of tax bills immediately thereafter was reached today at a conference of various city and county officials with Governor Emmerson.

The governor had called the conference to learn how and when the city and county proposed to find a way out of the existing financial maze so the state might receive the $30,000,000 which the governor says is due it in taxes.

The delay of nearly two years in the collection of taxes, caused by re-assessments, has been blamed by city officials for the financial troubles that have drained the treasuries of the city, the school board and Cook county. Many of them have asserted the only permanent relief could come through speeding up the task of re-assessment and subsequent collection of taxes.

CABLE PARAGRAPHS

MANILA, Jan. 31—(AP)—For the first time in many years cock fights will not be held in the vicinity of Manila in order to permit the people to attend "National Humiliation day" service next Sunday to protest against attacks on Filipinos in America.

RIO JANEIRO, Jan. 31. — (AP) — Phyllis Natalie Irwin, daughter of Rear Admiral Noble Irwin who is chief of the American naval mission to Brazil, was married to Lieutenant Commander Charles Andrews Lockwood of the commission at the American embassy.

PARIS, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Several Paris newspapers openly charged today that General Alexander Paul Koutiepoff, leader of the Russian royalists who disappeared mysteriously last Sunday morning, was being held in the soviet embassy here. The papers stated that he had been taken there after being kidnapped on the streets as he was walking the few blocks between his home and the Russian Officers club.

NEW SPANISH GOVT. HAS SETTLED STUDENTS' STRIKE

MADRID, Jan. 31—(AP)—The new Spanish government under General Damaso Berenguer capped its first day's work by settling the strike of university students. It was this strike which gave the first inkling of the crisis which resulted in the downfall of Primo de Rivera.

The Duke of Alba, new minister of education, was given credit for the settlement. He adopted a conciliatory policy and ordered prison authorities to release all student leaders who had been detained by the dictatorship. He also conferred with the university officials and announced that classes would be resumed early next week in the National university of Madrid.

The new government also decided to pardon Antonio Maria Sbert, a student leader who was long the storm center of the differences between Primo and the university men. Sbert led the Madrid student demonstrations against the dictatorship in the spring of 1929. He was barred from all universities in Spain and banished to Mallorca by government decree in April of last year.

The students ever since have been demanding withdrawal of this punishment and the announcement that the new government would pardon Sbert was hailed with satisfaction in student circles.

MISSING GIRL LOCATED; THEN AGAIN DISAPPEARED

BRIDGEPORT, Jan. 31—(AP)—Twenty year old Dorothy Baldwin, missing from her home at 580 Noble avenue since January 2, was located today at the local hotel, but she disappeared again tonight.

While the proprietor of the hotel where Dorothy had been employed since Monday, January 6, was calling Hartford to substantiate the story she told him upon questioning this morning, Dorothy packed the few clothes she had with her, and silently stole away.

A photograph which she forgot to take along with her in her hasty exit yielded her identity.

JUMPED INTO SOUND, AND THEN SWAM BACK TO SHORE

GREENWICH, Jan. 31—(AP)—Benedict Hobi, 34, of New York, jumped into Long Island sound today shortly after getting off a train here and then swam back to shore unaided. He is under observation at the Greenwich hospital.

Hobi told police that someone had been following him and that he had decided to leave the train and jump into the sound to escape his pursuer.

Police believe that Hobi was headed for Worcester, Mass., where his mother, said to be in charge of a sanitarium there, is reported as seriously ill.

TUG SANK IN GULF WITH LOSS OF CREW OF 13 MEN

BEAUMONT, Tex., Jan. 31—(AP)—A radio message tonight from the Standard Oil tanker, Lietbre, bound for Beaumont, said the tugboat Edgar F. Coney, sank in the Gulf of Mexico with a loss of the crew of 13. The message was received by M. T. Ball, president of the Sabine Towing company at Port Arthur, owners of the Edgar F. Coney.

The tug was said to have been on her first trip after having spent three months on the Sabine Towing company docks for general overhauling.

The cause of the sinking was not indicated in the radiogram.

$300,000 ALIENATION CASE READY FOR THE JURY

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31—(AP)—Defense and prosecution rested their cases late today in the $300,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Mrs. Mattie Dean Hutchinson, Chicago society woman against Mrs. Edith P. Taylor. Instructions to the jury will be given at 11 a. m. Monday and arguments will start immediately afterward.

Many of the letters ended "give my little girl a big hug and kiss for her daddy."

The letters sometimes contained drafts and checks to cover rent and expenses for Mrs. Taylor. Instructions were given by Hutchinson in other of the missives as to her writing to him, addressing the mail to the office of a friend.

Hutchinson testified today that he had offered his son, Hobart, $10,000 as a "token of affection" if he could induce his mother, to drop the suit against Mrs. Taylor.

Replying to questioning of the defense, Hutchinson said his purpose in making the offer was solely "to protect Jane."

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31—(AP)—The appellate court today upheld the conviction of Asa Keyes, former Los Angeles county district attorney, who is under sentence to serve one to 14 years in San Quentin prison for accepting bribes while in office.

GIBRALTAR IS BEING SWEPT BY FIERCE GALES

GIBRALTAR, Jan. 31—(AP)—A fierce gale swept this port today. The destroyer Versatile dragged her anchors and went aground near the King's Bastion. The fleet played their searchlights on the stranded vessel tonight while tugs tried to pull her clear.

Dr. William Herbert Perry Faunce Dead

President Emeritus of Brown University Died [redacted]esterday At His Home I dence.

PROVIDENCE, n. 31—(AP)—Dr. William H. , noted educator and mini president-emeritus of Bro rsity, died at his home here t was 71 years old and retire ast June as active head of versity. Death was caused chial pneumonia and a heart w

For ne y half a century Dr. Faunce, a Baptist minister, had taken an active part in the formation of educational and college training plans. His success was so outstanding that almost a dozen colleges conferred honorary degrees upon him.

He was in his 71st year and the end came for the noted educator only a matter of months after his retirement from the active presidency of the university from which he was graduated in 1880 and to which he devoted the greater part of his majority.

His death, caused by heart failure and bronchial pneumonia, brought to a close nearly a half century of work in pastorates of the Baptist ministry and in the cause of higher education, during which he acquired the reputation of a liberal in religious thought, the descendant of a line of liberals whose history is inter-twined with that of early New England and who once offered asylum to Roger Williams, when Salem banished him.

He was known as a man of fearless expression, who did not hesitate to rebuke the established order of things when he felt that such a rebuke was called for. His well nigh perfect command of the English tongue, both in preparation of writings and in extemporaneous speech, was one of his outstanding qualities, and his citations written when Brown university conferred honorary degrees upon masters of various lines of thought were considered gems of construction.

Scores of persons called at the Lloyd avenue home before the end came, but all were refused admission with the exception of Vice President Albert D. Mead, of the university and Mrs. Mead.

Since June, last year, Dr. Faunce had been president emeritus of Brown, the active duties of the presidency having been taken up by Clarence Augustus Barbour, D. D.

SHAKE-UP IN PITTSBURGH POLICE AND FIRE DEPTS.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 31—(AP)—The police and fire departments of Pittsburgh today experienced one of the most drastic shake-ups in their history, 283 men being retired, demoted or promoted.

One hundred and five men, including a number of captains and lieutenants in both departments, were retired.

"It's all politics," charged Captain Daniel Ambrose of the police department. Fire Captain Nicholas Phelan said the retirements were virtually forced.

James M. Clark, director of public safety, said the action was aimed "to establish the police department on a firmer and more efficient basis" and to "supplant the older men for younger blood in the fire department."

"Heretofore," the director said, "mayors didn't have the nerve or courage to supplant older men with younger blood."

The shake-up was ordered by Mayor Charles H. Klipe.

HAMBURG DISTURBED BY COMMUNIST DISORDERS

HAMBURG, Germany, Jan. 31—(AP)—Communist disorders that broke out yesterday and this morning, continued tonight despite the presence of large police forces concentrated in working class centers. The atmosphere in the city was tense.

Large groups of unemployed workers refused to obey orders to disperse, and the police used their weapons in breaking up gatherings. Many persons were injured.

Peaceful citizens of Hamburg frequently were manhandled by the police, who were unable to distinguish them from the demonstrators, in all sections of the city.

Twenty persons were arrested during the day, but the total number of the casualties had not been estimated this evening.

The entire poloce force was ordered to prepare for emergency uty tonight in case the demonstrators caused a riot.

IMPROVEMENT OF THE HOUSATONIC RIVER

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—The house rivers and harbors committee today approved the recommendations of the army board of engineers for improvement of the Housatonic river in Connecticut.

Adoption of the report followed an appearance before the committee of Representative Merritt, republican, Connecticut, who urged that the project be approved.

Seeking Control Of The C. V. Railroad

Delegation From Providence Conferred With President Thornton of the C. N. R.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 31—(AP)—A delegation from the Providence, (R. I.) chamber of commerce conferred today with Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National railways, with a view to purchasing a controlling interest in the Central Vermont railway, now owned by the Canadian company.

The delegation, which is seeking to obtain an option from Sir Henry, was composed of William H. Moss, Joseph H. Gainer, former mayor of Providence and chairman of the port development committee, and C. J. France, director of the industrial department.

They said the property if obtained, would become part of the New England railroad. The Central Vermont would permit direct connections with the mid-western United States and the interior of Canada.

CLASHES OVER MEXICAN IMMIGRATION RESTRICTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Proponents of Mexican immigration restriction opened their fight in support of the Johnson and Box bills today before the house immigration committee, with testimony by Francis I. Jones, director general of the United States Employment service, that there was no need for Mexican farm labor.

The session was marked by almost continuous clashes between the witness and Representative Free, republican, California, who assailed Jones as a "propagandist and theorist" and charged he was "misleading the committee with a statement that is not true."

Jones heatedly contradicted the accusations while Chairman Johnson banged for order. The committee room was almost in an uproar as Jones and Free continued their sharp exchanges.

The employment service head testified there was "considerable unemployment" throughout the country, particularly in New York state, which he said was due to its proximity to the stock market.

EMPTY BALLOT BOX FOUND BY ELECTIONS COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—An empty ballot box was found today by the house elections subcommittee recounting the ballot cast in the Wurzbach-McCloskey election contest for the seat in the house from the Fourteenth District of Texas.

Upon opening the box thought to contain the ballots cast in Precinct 43, the members found two smaller containers inside. One of the latter was empty and the other contained pens and a list of voters together with a few blank return sheets.

The committee set about at once to locate the ballots from the precinct, thinking that they might be in another container.

The count by the committee for Precinct No. 105 gave Wurzbach 430 votes and McCloskey 172. Fourteen ballots were rejected.

The count for Precinct No. 65 by the committee allotted 369 for Wurzbach and 155 for McCloskey, whereas the commissioners court canvass gave McCloskey 164 and his opponent 316.

SEARCHING FOR NEGRO ASSAILANT OF GIRL

OCILLA, Ga., Jan. 31—(AP)—A crowd estimated at "more than 1,500 persons" tonight was searching three south Georgia counties for Jimmy Irvine, believed to have been the Negro who late today attacked and killed the 14 year old daughter of a prominent Irwin county farmer, threw the body into a creek and fled.

Irvine was seen driving a mule and wagon along the road that passes the girl's home, shortly before the slaying Sheriff A. E. Tyler of Irwin county learned, and the officers set out in pursuit.

Irvine was overtaken several miles down the road, but abandoned his wagon and fled into the hills. Fresh blood was found in the wagon, the officers said.

CIGAR SMOKING DECREASES AS CIGARETTE INCREASES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—An increase in cigarette smoking and a decrease in cigar smoking and the use of manufactured tobacco and snuff were shown today in figures issued by the internal revenue bureau for the 1929 calendar year. Tobacco taxes added $449,058,262 to government revenues.

Taxes on cigarettes amounted to $357,205,752, an increase of $39,427,418 over the previous year, although the increase in all tobacco taxes for the twelve months was only $38,042,565 due to the decrease in the other collections. Cigars returned a total of $22,528,139 to the government last year as compared with $22,816,532 the previous year, and the manufactured tobacco and snuff tax in 1929 amounted to $68,002,411 as compared with $69,146,165 the previous year.

A la Mode.

Paris sets the style in women's dress for the world. London is the arbiter in matters of dress for men. But New York and Chicago, Boston and San Francisco and hundreds of smaller cities and towns throughout the United States may know what are the styles even before they are shown in Paris.

A seeming paradox, but true. Merchants maintain representatives in Paris and other style centers who cable the latest news of the modes and ship samples long before they are shown abroad. In America, the news is translated into advertisements and printed by the papers throughout the country.

NEW ARGUMENT IN SUPPORT OF THE PROHIBITION LAW

Representative Fort Declared That the Law Satisfies the American People By Permitting the Brewing of Beer and Making of Light Wines in the Home—Denounced the "Sincere Friends of Temperance" Who Had Injured the Cause of Prohibition By Insisting "That the Use of Alcohol Since the 18th Amendment Has Become Immoral."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Representative Franklin W. Fort declared in the crowded chamber of the house today that economic pressure never would permit repeal of prohibition but that the law itself satisfied the American people by permitting the brewing of beer and making of light wines in the home.

Both the white house and the New Jersey representative said later that President Hoover had not the slightest information as to the contents of the speech made by his close friend. Fort said in a statement that he had spoken only his own convictions.

The New Jersey member, who only recently resigned as secretary of the republican national committee, denounced the "sincere friends of temperance" who, he said, "had done the cause of prohibition its greatest injury by insisting that the use of alcohol since the 18th amendment has become immoral."

Immediately after he had asserted that the benefits of prohibition had outweighed the harms wrought by liquor trafficking by bringing more happiness in the homes, the wets prepared for a rebuttal. Representative Lehlbach, another republican from New Jersey, obtained permission to answer his colleague tomorrow.

In the meantime, the house expenditures committee was recalled to meet tomorrow to reconsider the Williamson bill to transfer the prohibition enforcement unit from the treasury to the justice department, as recommended by President Hoover and his law enforcement commission.

The amendment adopted by the committee to authorize the attorney general to draft regulations under which the secretary of the treasury would issue industrial alcohol permits has met serious opposition among members of the house. A substitute provision has been drafted by Chairman Williamson of the committee. This would make the drafting of the regulations a joint responsibility of the cabinet officers, but would leave the administration of the prohibition bureau entirely under the justice department.

Another development in the prohibition controversy on Capitol hill occurred on the senate side. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, a dry leader, was advised by Prohibition Commissioner James M. Doran that he had ordered John F. J. Herbert, dry administrator for Montana and Idaho, to report here for investigation of charges reported against him. Frank S. Flynn, who is connected with the legal department of the prohibition unit, has supplied Senator Borah with a record alleging irregularities by Herbert.

Although there have been several reports circulated that former Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, has been invited to appear before the house judiciary committee February 12, on measures to repeal and modify the 18th amendment, members of the wet bloc said they had heard of no such move. Chairman Graham of the committee said any person who desired could appear at the hearing.

Much opposition also is developing in the house to the law enforcement commission's recommendations that the powers of the United States commissioners be increased to permit them to try misdemeanor prohibition cases. A house judiciary sub-committee will re-open hearings February 6, with Chairman Wickersham and Roscoe Pound of the commission as principal witnesses.

"To those who want abstinence to follow prohibition," Fort said, in his speech, "may I suggest that they leave enforcement to the officers of the law and return to the kind of educational work so splendidly done for so many years by the Woman's Christian Temperance union and the Father Mathew A. B. S.

"To those who want beer and light wines, I suggest that they forego the wish to buy and be content with what they make but, above and beyond all, that they be good sports. They have made their fight and lost to a combination of two mighty tendencies of the age—the economic and ethical reorganization of the American people."

Fort said that never before had the great and powerful newspapers thrown the whole weight of their influence virtually unanimously on the same side of the question as they had on the prohibition issue. He charged them with showing a bias in the handling of news, saying they saw the evils and overlooked the benefits of the law.

After he said that only 61 members were willing to enroll as members of the wet bloc, Representative Schafer, republican, Wisconsin, rejoined that a roll call would show 125 wets. Fort said he would like to see those names in the congressional record together with the specific recommendations for modification.

"It cannot be too often stated," the New Jersey member said, "that the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act made unlawful the traffic—not its use."

TESTIMONY OF SEEING RUM MONEY COLLECTED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Jan. 31—(AP)—Ruth Morgan May, 22, comely sweetheart of an oil field deputy sheriff, now dead, testified in federal court here today that on numerous occasions she had seen money collected for protection of bootlegging places delivered to Randall Pitman, Pottawatomie county attorney, and Frank Fox, former sheriff of the county.

The woman told the jury that Oscar Motley, the oil field deputy with whom she lived, was in charge of collections from liquor dispensers in Seminole, booming oil town, and the oil fields in its vicinity. Records purporting to show collections and disbursements of protection money, which the witness said she kept in antagonism to the wishes of Fox, were turned over to the government by her and introduced in evidence.

The government charges, in its trial of 22 persons charged with conspiracy against the national prohibition laws, that Fox and Pitman were leaders of a ring that dominated the liquor traffic of the county.

JURY EXONERATES COAST GUARDSMEN FOR KILLING

BUFFALO, N. Y., Jan. 31—(AP)—The January grand jury today returned a no-bill against the three members of the United States coast guard crew who killed Eugene F. Downey, Jr., in the Buffalo harbor Christmas night. The charge on which the jury refused to indict the government men was second degree manslaughter.

The refusal of the jury to indict Rudolph Thompson, Asa Ennis and Orville La Grant, the guardsmen, came as a surprise to District Attorney Guy B. Moore, who previously had declared he had enough evidence to warrant an indictment and was certain one would be returned.

DRY "FANATICS" DISGUST SENATOR NORRIS, DRY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Deploring "fanaticism," Chairman Norris of the senate judiciary committee, who believes in prohibition "from the bottom of my heart," today made it clear that federal law enforcement officers coming before his committee for nomination are not going to have to pass the test of "total abstinence."

Senator Norris spoke up after two members of his sub-committee in questioning federal officers up for nomination today, had touched on the personal habits of the nominees in connection with the dry law. Norris himself asked a nominee for marshal if he drank, but explained later that this nominee had been termed an habitual drunkard.

"I am interested in knowing whether the nominees intend to enforce the law," said Norris. "They must enforce the law, not only the dry law, but all laws. I don't believe federal officers should drink. They can't buy liquor without causing violation of the law. But I am not going to ask about that unless there are charges of drunkenness against them. I believe in prohibition from the bottom of my heart but I am disgusted with fanaticism which if it continues is going to change some against prohibition."

Senator Borah of Idaho, also a member of the judiciary committee, which passes on the nominations of law enforcement officers, expressed similar views today [illegible] a hearing on nominations. He charged that "open saloons are running throughout the country."

TO TAKE EVIDENCE IN MURDER OF POLICEMAN

HARTFORD, Jan. 31—(AP)—Evidence in the killing of Policeman James McNamee of Bristol will be heard by a grand jury next Tuesday. Six men, one of whom has been reported to police to have confessed to the shooting, are under arrest in connection with the crime.

No announcement has been made as to how many indictments the state will ask in connection with the slaying, which took place at 9:15 p. m., Thursday, Jan. 16, at the gasoline station of Oscar Ebb, in Forestville, a suburb of Bristol. McNamee had [illegible] in a car stolen from a New Britain doctor and was about to take them to police headquarters when he was shot in the head.

The alleged slayers were at large only 24 hours. A roundup by police in Bristol, New Britain and Waterbury resulted in the arrest of the following: John Brophy, 19, of Waterbury; Henry Schrager, 23, New Britain; his brother, Bernhard Schrager, 22, also of New Britain; Kenneth Gallagher, of [illegible] of Bristol, and Allen Norton and William Slade, both of New Britain.

The day after his capture, Brophy confessed that it was he who fired the shot that killed McNamee, the police announced. Henry Schrager, who had thrown away another gun near the scene of the slaying, was one of those with him, Brophy is reported to have said. He is held on a charge of homicide and the others on technical charges. All are in Hartford county jail in default of bond.

WALTERS TO APPEAR BEFORE SENATE SUB-COMMITTEE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—Senator Borah, chairman of the sub-committee of the judiciary committee that [illegible], said he had received word from Jacob A. Walters, presidential nominee for U. S. marshal for Connecticut, that he would appear before the committee, as requested, on either Monday or Tuesday next.

Senator Borah added that he thought it was [illegible] nominations that are sent to the judiciary committee for consideration, should be given an opportunity to submit their views and answer questions of important matters, pertaining to carrying out the duties of the office.

Apparently that practice is to hereafter be followed by the committee.

COMMITTEE UPHOLDS RIGHT OF GRUNDY TO SENATE SEAT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—The unanimous report of the senate elections committee upholding the right of Joseph Grundy [illegible] was submitted to the senate today by Chairman Shortridge of the committee. [illegible] it up for early action by the senate.

GRAND LIST INCREASED BY NEARLY $6,000,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 31—An increase of nearly six million dollars has been effected in the grand list of the town of Windham through the revaluation work just completed by the Cleminshaw Municipal Service company of Hartford. Pursuant to a vote of the town the work was done at a cost of $14,600.

The revaluation figures were made public this afternoon, showing the total of the grand list to be $23,770,437. This is a gain of nearly one-third over the 1928 grand list of $17,863,042, an increase of $5,907,045, or 33 per cent.

The only other revaluation made in the town of Windham was in 1912 when the grand list totalled $14,047,189. A gain of 347 over 1928 is shown in the present number of lists which is now 4,051.

General increases are noted in nearly all of the manufacturing plants, the largest being an increase of $428,126 in the value of the American Thread company which was listed for $4,508,418 in 1928. Sizable increases were also made on the valuations of the Rossie Velvet company, Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company and Hillhouse & Taylor. The total increase for manufacturing plants is $1,372,820. Practically all mercantile houses have been increased as to the value of stock on hand.

There have been two decreases from the year previous since 1912 in the town's grand list. In 1919 there was a decrease of $78,000 and in 1927 one of $406,990, both decreases were occasioned by corresponding decreases of stock in manufacturing plants, the increases for other kinds of property not being sufficient to offset these amounts.

Yet to be taken from the assessors' figures are exemptions amounting to nearly $200,000 and possible deductions allowed by the board of relief. The increases show that 94 per cent of them were in the city of Willimantic, or west district, and amounted to $5,471,405. The grand list was compiled by clerks under the supervision of James McNally, a representative of the service company.

SO. WINDHAM TO HAVE ITS MEMORIAL LIBRARY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Jan. 31—A bequest of $25,000 made by the late Guilford Smith to the village of South Windham for the erection of a library is about to be used through the incorporation of a public library. Papers have been prepared and will be submitted to the secretary of state in the near future. The subscribers to the articles of incorporation are, Walter Abbe, Jr., Herbert A. Card, Mrs. Grace Holmes Stiles, Mrs. Alice M. Larkham and John E. Ericson.

The bequest was left in trust held by H. C. Lathrop and W. P. Barstow. Building was deferred owing to the soaring prices of materials. While awaiting the return from Hartford of the articles of incorporation a committee composed of Mrs. Walter Abbe, Mrs. Henry Scribner and Charles H. Backus will investigate available sites and prepare a report on designs for the building and the approximate cost.

A speedy action this afternoon on the part of George L. Shepaum saved his sedan from plunging down an 80-foot embankment. Shepaum, who is connected with the Gilman diner at 888 Main street had parked his car in a short driveway between the diner and the Capitol building. While in the kitchen of the diner he saw his car moving slowly toward the embankment. The front wheels had already gone over the slightly sloping edge when Shepaum jumped on the running board and gave the wheel a sharp turn heading the machine into the concrete wall bordering the Capitol building. The car, which was pushed back to safety by several men who were attracted to the scene, escaped damage.

FUNERAL

Fred R. Robertson

Services for Fred Randolph Robertson were held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at the Avery and VanZandt mortuary parlors, 62 North street. Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock of the Congregational church officiated. Burial was in the Oak Ridge cemetery, Southbridge, Mass.

Fred R. Robertson was a graduate of the Willimantic high school and of a private technical school in Hartford. He was an expert draftsman, winning first prize in a draftsmanship contest at the Philadelphia exposition in 1876. His maternal great grandfather was John Randolph, one of the early owners of colonial land in Connecticut, having come from Virginia. He was the grandson of Billings S. and Mary Edwards Farrington. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Herbert Ladd Walford of Providence, R. I. The deceased had been in failing health for 17 years. The Robertson home, considered years past as one of the finest in the city, is now the Willimantic General hospital on West Main street.

Sessions of the Windham board of relief will begin in the G. A. R. room of the town building Saturday. The hours will be from 9 a. m. to noon and 1:30 to 4:30 p. m. There will be a similar meeting Monday of next week followed by others as deemed necessary until the last business day in February. The board consists of Charles H. Palmer, Frank M. Lincoln and Cyril A. Lamoureux.

With weather conditions holding favorable today, ice harvesting in this vicinity proceeded apace today. Mayor Walter R. King said today that 40 men are engaged in the work at the municipal pond in Mansfield where a fine crop of good ice, 11 inches in thickness, is being harvested. It is expected that the supply of 6,000 tons will be in the sheds by next Monday night or Tuesday morning. Frank Brown has 30 men working at the old Eaton pond in Mansfield, work being pushed through the night by a force of some 20 hands. The tonnage from this pond is estimated by the owner at 16,000 tons. Ice harvesting at Ayer's cove in the Willimantic river will start Saturday.

An investigation by Deputy Game Warden George A. Willis disclosed that one Frank Lee, who was fined $5 and costs for possessing a firearm in the open on Sunday in the Woodstock town court last Sunday was in reality Frank Maynard of Mansfield Depot.

Special Personal Tax Collector Louis C. Vegiard will begin the collection of personal taxes Saturday. During the will be on duty daily, except Sundays, at the collector's office in the town building, from 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock noon and 1 to 5 p. m. Half-day assignments have been made to collect taxes in the Windhams.

The capture of two other birds in this section, answering the description of the grebe leads to the belief that a flock of these birds was probably lost in this region and came down exhausted. The frozen over condition of waters would prevent them from securing their chief diet, which is fish. The grebe caught by Joseph Benoit and Wilfred Chartier of this city, is now on display at the Jordan Hardware show window where it is attracting considerable attention. Stafford Springs

Arthur Comfort, who has been at the town farm in West Stafford, came to Stafford Springs Thursday evening and after taking a few drinks of rub-alcohol proceeded to make things lively. He went to the home of Napoleon Lanagan on High street and drove his fist through the glass door. After going into the house he became noisy and was put out and he then smashed a window. A call was sent to the state police barracks and Officer Griffin found Comfort at the Lanagan place very much under the influence of liquor, his right hand bleeding badly from a severe gash, caused by driving it through the glass door. He was brought to the town hall and a doctor was summoned and treated the injured member. Comfort was in court Friday morning and upon his failure to give a satisfactory explanation of his actions, was sentenced by Deputy Judge Ernest K. Taft to 60 days in Tolland jail.

COLCHESTER

A. N. LEWIS DESCRIBES FLORIDA STRAWBERRY OUTPUT

In a recent letter to Rev. H. Herbert Tompkins, pastor of the local Congregational church, A. N. Lewis, a prominent resident of Colchester, who spends his winters at DeLand, Florida, gives the following interesting facts which makes one long for the balmy weather which would curtail the unusually heavy coal bills this winter:

"Strawberry loadings in a nearby town passed the 100,000 quart mark for a single day for the first time this season today, while at the same time rounding out the first million quarts for the season with 75,000 to spare.

"One hundred and three thousand quarts of berries moved out of this town tonight in nine refrigerator express, one freight and three express cars, the last named carrying 209 pony refrigerators. Growers here realized approximately $32,000 for their offerings today and totaled for the season's gross return $365,000."

FUNERAL

Mrs. Artemus F. Roper

Wednesday morning, Mrs. Phoebe Jones Roper, 86, died at the home of her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Timothy E. Nutter, in Whitinsville, Mass., after several months' illness. Mrs. Roper was a native of the neighboring town of Hebron, but had lived the greater part of her life in Colchester. Her husband, Artemus F. Roper died about two years ago. About a year prior to his death they had observed their sixtieth wedding anniversary at their home on Amston avenue. A short while after her husband's death, Mrs. Roper went to live with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Nutter, in Whitinsville.

She was blessed with a gentle manner and genial disposition which had won for her a wide circle of friends here and in surrounding towns. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Timothy E. Nutter, of Whitinsville; Mrs. Ralph E. Swan, and Mrs. Fred G. Heffion, of East Haddam, Conn., also by four grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Nutter home in Whitinsville, Mass., with a large number of relatives and friends in attendance. The body has been placed in the vault, to be removed to Colchester for burial in the spring.

Friends of Edward L. Brown, well known farmer in the Buckley hill section, are encouraged to learn that he is resting comfortably at Backus hospital, Norwich, where he was taken Tuesday, to undergo treatment for erysipelas.

C. B. Jones and Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Bailey, of Hebron, called on friends here, Friday.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

MODERN WOODMAN OF AMERICA

The last meeting of Ionic camp, M. W. of A. held in A. O. H. hall, had a large attendance. John Fitzgerald, consul, appointed the different committees for the coming year. He praised the past officers for the good work done for the camp and promised that the new officers would do all they could for the good of the camp the coming year. The newly appointed amusement committee announced that a pinochle party would be held at the next meeting of the camp and a large attendance is looked for.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

On Sunday, January 26, the new officers of Hoey assembly of Baltic, Catholic Ladies of Columbus, were installed by Worthy State President Miss Margaret Crane of Hartford, who was assisted by the following staff: Mrs. Margaret Dutton of Norwich, honorary state president; Miss Lucy Murphy, Norwich, state treasurer, and Miss Louise Sweetland, of Hartford, aide.

About 75 sisters of Mercier assembly, Norwich, were present as guests. At this time, with Mrs. Hannah Eirmann as leader, Mercier's degree team conferred upon a large class of candidates the degrees of the order. This was followed by the exemplification of the drill also by Mercier's drill team with Miss Mary O'Neil, as captain. Initiation of new members then followed after which sandwiches, cake, ice cream and coffee were served.

It is anticipated that during the year Mercier's degree and drill teams will be called upon often to perform their duties for sister assemblies throughout the state.

A. O. H. AUXILIARY

Under the auspices of Auxiliary, No. 18, at Buckingham Memorial, an evening of cards was held Tuesday. In whist the prize winners were Mrs. J. O'Brien and Mrs. G. Leonard, T. Fields and Mr. Webber.

Mrs. Nora Fahey and Mrs. Anna Burke were in charge, assisted by a committee consisting of Mrs. Julia Shea, Mrs. Hannah Sullivan, Mrs. Nellie Bissonette, Mrs. Catherine Lord, Mrs. John Dunion and Mrs. Annie Geary.

EASTERN STAR

Connecticut grand chapter of the Eastern Star, in its annual meeting at Hartford this week, had 97 subordinate chapters represented by 352 delegates. In addition there were present 487 permanent representatives, composed of past matrons and patrons. The total attendance was 839.

The secretary's report was read by the grand secretary. She reported the membership had grown to 27,023, a gain for the year of 834. There were 1388 new candidates initiated, 177 affiliated and 20 reinstated. As opposed to this gain there were 278 deaths and 274 who were granted demits.

A resolution to divide the state into inspection districts was defeated on the recommendation of the special committee. The proposition to appoint a permanent board of eight women and four men to act during the intervals between sessions of the grand chapter was held in abeyance until the next annual session.

The following list of appointments has been made by Mrs. Jennie E. Stevens of Greenwich, the new worthy grand matron: Grand chaplain, Mrs. Emma C. Young of Hartford; grand organist, Mrs. Isabelle M. Reynolds of Westville; grand Adah, Mrs. Betty R. Radford of Greenwich; grand Ruth, Mrs. Alma Osborn of Straford; grand Esther, Mrs. Horace M. Whitehead of Simsbury; grand Martha, Miss Fanny B. MOOSEHEART JUNIOR LEGION

Mooseheart Junior Legion, No. 92, held a very interesting meeting Friday evening, in Moose home, with President Mildred Hoelck presiding. Three candidates were initiated and there was an exceptionally large attendance. After the meeting, there was a valentine party for the children. The winners in the games were George Emback and Alexander Fissekas, Geneva Wunderlich and Rita Cohen. Cake, candy and soda, which were donated by Brothers John and William Mehrhols, were served by Governess Ethel Hoelck, Assistant Governess Irene Burns, Past Regent Rose Carter, Mrs. William H. Burns and Mrs. Helen Ericson. The next meeting will be the first Friday in March.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

The degree team of Chapter 124, Women of Mooseheart Legion, met at Moose home Tuesday evening in charge of Captain Teresa Watters. The captain made many changes in the team and formed a special degree team of eight to assist in the floor work, and in seating the officers, at the meetings. She also explained an entirely new method of drilling and the rules governing the degree team which is to meet every week. She also appointed Recorder Nellie Dorr as treasurer for the team. The captain announced a series of dances and entertainments to be given in the next five months for the benefit of the team, in order to make an exceptionally good appearance at the state meeting in June. These will begin with a valentine prize masquerade.

The members of the degree team unanimously consented to do all in their power to make the team one of the best of its kind in the state. All are very much enthused with the new work, and all will work together for it.

VETERANS OF FOREIGN WARS

The quarterly meeting of the Department of Connecticut, Veterans of Foreign Wars, and auxiliaries, was held at Stamford last Sunday afternoon, the veterans meeting in the Memorial room, City hall, and the auxiliary meeting at the Casino. Several prominent national and state officers were present, Captain Alfred Simons, department senior vice-commander, outlined the program for the national encampment, to be held at Baltimore, Md., in September. He urged all to attend as a wonderful encampment is expected, and also because this will be the last one east of the Mississippi for some time, according to present plans. Connecticut is planning a 100 per cent delegation, and preparations are underway.

Department Chief of Staff Stephen Parker of New York brought greetings from his department and spoke at length on "Buddy Poppies." He stated that they are the real veteran flower. The "poppy" sold by the V. F. W. at Memorial day, is not touched by civilian hands from the time it is dyed until it is shipped to the different posts. The veterans' hospital in the Bronx and the Northport, L. I., veterans' hospital turn out large supplies of poppies each year, and are located in Mr. Parker's district of supervision.

The next quarterly meeting of the department will be held at Waterbury on the last Sunday in April. Mrs. Bessie Hanken of Revere, Mass., national president of the ladies' auxiliary to the V. F. W., has signified her intention to be present.

Among those who attended the Stamford meeting were County Commander Leo L. Jacques, department council member; Herbert F. Burdick, department junior vice-commander; Mrs. Rosamond Jacques, department council member; Mrs. Mary Hull, department guard, and Mrs. Lena Maynard, president of R. E. Hourigan auxiliary.

UNION

Edward Cranbury, who is forester here for the Yale corporation and was formerly state forester in Lousiana, is at present making his headquarters in Stafford Springs.

The new system which the Southern New England Telephone company is installing is a great improvement and very satisfactory.

The cold wave which brought the lowest temperature of the season Jan 26, soon faded away and the 28th was a mild day. The lowest temperature reported locally ranged from 1 above zero to 3 below, Sunday morning and night.

The winter birds, chicadies and sparrows have appreciated their daily rations during the icy, cold days. Too bad that more people do not remember these little friends all winter!

The light snows have covered the dangerous coating of ice and helped to fill uncomfortable ruts on dirt roads. It would be fine sleighing, if sleighing were possible now. Cars go very well if chains are used for the hills.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The American Thermos Bottle Company, Norwich, Connecticut.

The idea of a Thermos bottle to keep liquids and foodstuffs hot or cold for a long time has always attracted man's imagination since Sir Walter Raleigh used one of the crude DeWar Flasks, which was the first Thermos bottle, to present some ices to Queen Elizabeth. The result was that the German idea was brought to this country in 1907 by W. B. Walker and the American manufacture of this product was started at that time in a small loft building in Brooklyn, N. Y. The progress of the company was quite rapid and in 1912 they built a factory in Norwich, Conn. From then on the public appreciated the value of these products which were used by Perry in his trip to the North Pole and all other explorers in their efforts to further the boundaries of civilization.

The idea rapidly became popular in this country, and hotels, institutions, sportsmen, motorists, picnickers, workmen in factories and others found the Thermos bottle to be indispensable. It was not long before the company organized subsidiaries in Canada and in England and to this they owe their large and growing export trade. In 1922 the company established a large glass factory in West Virginia.

Naturally in this time competitors have arisen but Thermos (which is a trade-mark owned only by this company the founder of the industry) has always maintained its position of leadership and it is now the largest vacuum bottle manufacturer in the world.

The present officers of the company are: A. E. Payson, president; H. W. Edwards, vice president; J. W. Neil, vice president; M. P. Wetmore, vice president; E. H. Hellman, secretary-treasurer; O. S. Larkby, assistant secretary.

All Kinds Of Boys

The Boy Scouts' handbook presents the thousand and one things which are certain to interest the boy. No boy takes them all. But every boy will find his hobby somewhere between covers.

"Fatty," the other boys call him around the school grounds and on the street. He doesn't like to be called "Fatty," but when he gets to the table he simply can't resist his own appetite. Scouts on their outings have "eats" that just make a boy's mouth water. And the boy's stomach has been made ready for "eats" by his hike and his activity in building the camp-fire. And when he has eaten he has to exercise in spite of himself in order to get back home again.

The boy answers back and he says just what he thinks, too. "Confound his impudence," you think, though if you are wise you do not say it. But you see it doesn't sound like impudent to him. He can't use your ears. He never was a man yet. You have been a boy and there is a possibility of your remembering how a boy feels and answers. But not by any chance can he know how a man feels or listens, or how a boy's tongue sounds to an adult ear.

But that same boy gets in with the scout movement. He is now taught to be courteous. (Refer again to the Scout Law—Article five). "He is polite to all, especially to women, children, old people, and the weak and helpless."

Perhaps you don't realize that a scoutmaster possibly can say things to a boy that his own father can't say.

You have read about boys being injured—perhaps it was an auto accident. Sometimes it may have been the boy's fault. Perhaps such a boy may have had all his thinking done for him, and was never taught to do anything for himself. A scout would not have been in the way at all. The Boy Scout is taught to be prudent. He is taught to think wisely, quickly, and to act sanely.

The boy who is all pep is some boy. He is a "motor-minded kid." He wants to see the wheels go round. He is always in mischief. He seems to be a destructive turn of mind. But it is plain crime to kill the spirit in a boy like that. You can't kill it easily of course, But you shouldn't kill it—all or try to. That spirit of overflowing life should be properly directed. He is just the kind that makes a leader among the scouts. His energy finds its avenue of expression.

DANIELSON

OVER 1,100 SHARES SOLD IN B. AND L. DRIVE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Jan. 31.—Up to late this afternoon subscriptions had been made for 1,150 shares of the Danielson Building and Loan association. The bulk of these shares have been subscribed during the current week. The objective of the campaign is to sell 5,000 shares, and with the cooperation that may be expected from the many in the community that wish to see Danielson grow and meet its housing needs the prospect that it will be attained is good.

As subscriptions have come in up to now, it is indicated that it will be possible to start building of homes just as soon as weather conditions moderate sufficiently to permit of working out of doors with any degree of comfort and satisfaction.

During the coming week subscriptions for shares will continue to be received. Reaching its fixed minimum of 5,000 shares, the series will produce sufficient revenue to undertake an extensive construction program.

A new angle of the racket for getting money for things sent, without authority, to people here through the mails came to light today. These operators are trying to get money under the guise of religion. Their communications now contain requests that payments be made for Christmas seals alleged to have been sent to persons here during the month of December. At least some of the people never received any such seals, and positively never ordered any, never having heard of the supposed religious congregation, supposed to be located in a town in Wisconsin. As with other unordered articles, so with the seals. If they did send out any and if they want them, they may come and get them. They get no money.

A Grebe in Danielson

It rates a peculiar coincidence that a grebe has been seen, and actually picked up, in Brooklyn this week, as was another told about in the Willimantic news in The Bulletin this morning; in fact, that story brought the Brooklyn incident to light. One day this week John T. Ashworth of Brooklyn and in charge of the state's moth work in this area was driving along the Brooklyn-Canterbury road when he encountered a strange appearing bird hopping about in an uncertain manner. Unfamiliar with the species, he was interested, set forth and captured it. The strange bird, beautifully colored and of a greenish hue, was taken into the home of H. G. Beecher nearby, and reference made to a bird book to determine just what it was. The strange feathered thing, entirely unfamiliar to this section, was not interested in eating. The type of its feet, not webbed, but having paddle-like toes, suggested that water might be its natural habitat, so it was taken down to Blackwell's brook, which flows nearby, and released near the stream. Almost immediately and with incredible swiftness, considering its clumsiness on land, it dove into the water and came up with a trout in its beak. The grebe, the first reported in this section within memory, was allowed its liberty. It is regarded as improbable that it was the same one captured in Willimantic.

Mrs. F. J. Gorman, Mrs. Earl Wood and Mrs. Rene Buteau were hostesses yesterday afternoon at a benefit card party in the rooms of the Catholic Welfare council. Mrs. L. A. Woisard, Mrs. L. E. Kennedy and Mrs. William D Brennan won honors at bridge. The consolation award was to Mrs. Frank Mailhot. At whist the winners were Mrs. Louise Savoie, Mrs. Cecilia Lavallee and Mrs. Joseph LaBelle. There were 14 tables in play, and the affair was a success.

Announcement is made that the annual institute of the Quinebaug Valley Fruit Growers' association is to be held Friday of next week in the chapel of the Congregational church at Woodstock, starting at 10:30 a. m. The County Fruit Program will be outlined by County Agent Raymond E. Wing. Other speakers will be Fred H. Cole of Worcester, discussing Insect Control, and Dr. Philip Garman of the New Haven Experiment station, and W. H. Darrow, extension fruit specialist, Storrs.

This morning the death of Theodore Atfles, age four months, occurred at the home on Water street. The child was the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Atfles.

Bleachers have been re-erected in the town hall. They were used for the first time at the boxing bouts this evening, and will serve through the remainder of the season at basketball games, the Armory A. A. team, that has been playing at the state armory, having made plans to use the town hall hereafter.

Work on the ice harvest at Quinebaug lake will be resumed Saturday afternoon. After the warm weather of Wednesday the ice was so thin that further cutting was suspended. The ice is heavier now. The work done during the early part of the week was sufficient to fill the houses to one-third of their capacity.

Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, commanding officer at the Danielson state police barracks, is visiting for two days at his parental home in Seymour. Meanwhile Sergeant G. L. Gardner is in charge.

Through February Danielson's banks are continuing to be open on the schedule of hours in force here for so many years. Beginning March 1, the banks will close at 3 p. m., all week days excepting Saturday, instead of 4 p. m.

Construction of the first of the houses to be built in the L'Homme street section, where a considerable development is expected, is underway.

January has witnessed a considerable improvement in manufacturing lines, as well as some setbacks, some plants running better than they did in December, and some not so well, in this town.

It is indicated that numbers of Danielson people will gladly accept the borough's proposition of sharing equally in the cost with property owners of building sidewalks during the coming spring and summer season. This work was started here last fall and ceased with the coming of cold weather.

PLAINFIELD

Friends were shocked to hear of the sudden death of Theodore Dayon. Mr. Dayon spent most of his life in Plainfield, and was very well known.

Miss Joan Kirby and Mrs. Oscar Dablopp attended a meeting of the industrial nurses in Norwich, Wednesday evening.

The Boy Scouts met in the Congregational vestry Tuesday evening. After the meeting they entertained the scout committee, Cecil Butler, William Hall and Ernest Plassman. Scout Executive John L. Sellman, of Norwich, was unable to be present. Sandwiches, ice cream and cookies were served.

Among students home from college after the mid-year examination are: Vincent Foy and Jame Foy, of Providence college; Ernest Royle, Arnold Smith and Lola Selley, of Connecticut Agricultural college.

Nathan Exley is confined to his home by a sprained right ankle, the result of a fall while working in the woods Monday.

The Camp Fire Girls are planning to meet with Mrs. Clarence Jeffers of Green avenue today, (Saturday).

Friends of Ray W. Greene are pleased to hear of his promotion to general manager of the Ashland mills, Jewett City.

When a meeting of the archdeaconry is held at St. Philip's church, Putnam, Tuesday, February 11th, there will be holy communion at 11 o'clock. Luncheon will be at 12:30, and a business meeting will follow. Rev. George L Downe, rector of St. Paul's church, Plainfield, expects to be present.

PRESTON

The grange held its meeting Tuesday evening, it being the date of the annual installation. Sister Ida Richardson was the installing officer, assisted by Sister Betty Main, marshal; Sister Arlene Bennett, emblem bearer; Sister Louise Woodmansee. The officers installed were: Master, Lynwood Crary; overseer, Frank Crary; lecturer, Marion Hall; assistant steward, George Abrahamson; chaplain, George Clark; secretary, Florence Kennedy; gate keeper, Eugene Ayer; Flora, Florence Pendleton; Pomona, Mildred Slater, lady assistant stewart, Arlene Bennett; members of executive committee, J. K. Hall, Harold Muttart, Nathan Hall. A rising vote of thanks was given Sister Richardson and her assistants for the splendid work that they did. At the close of the meeting a variety supper was served.

The executive committee of the Norwich C. E. union met at the Baptist church Wednesday evening, about seventy-five being present. A fine chicken pie supper was served at 6:30, the tables being attractively decorated in the C. E. colors, red and white. There was orchestral music and solos by Stephen Gorski, of Goshen. The speaker was Rev. Veron Phillips, of Kensington, president of the State C. E. union. His topic was "Youth's Ideal for 1930."

The Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening will be omitted, that local people may attend the union meeting at Norwich Town Congregational church.

Mrs. Lydia Sweetser has closed her home at Jewett City and is spending the winter with her sister, Mrs. Appleton Main.

The annual meeting of the Congregational Ladies' Aid society was held at the church Thursday afternoon, a large number being present. The ladies' room had been freshly painted and furnished with a wicker set, consisting of settee, two rockers and a chair given by Mrs. G. V. Shedd and her Sunday school class and members of the Intermediate, Junior and Primary departments of the Sunday school. Other furnishings were given by members and friends of the church. A delicious luncheon of salads, rolls, pickles, cake, ice cream and coffee was served. The following officers were elected: Council, Mrs. Hattie Crary, Alice Geisthardt, Ethel Krug; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Alice Hall; work committee, Mrs. Marjorie Dawley, Evangeline Barnes, Esther McClimon; supper committee, chairman, Florence Kennedy; solicitor, Mrs. Doris Crary. Reports of the officers and committees showed that much work has been done during the past year.

A new synthetic resin is expected to reduce prices on articles made by a score of industries.

PUTNAM

FOURTH ATTEMPT TO SELL RHEA PLANT FAILS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 31.—A fourth attempt to sell the National Rhea company by auction, failed this afternoon, when a call for bids brought no response whatever from the small group of textile men gathered at the bankrupt company's offices on Canal street. Not one prospective buyer could be interested. The price of $147,500 decreed by the courts of Connecticut and Rhode Island is generally accepted as being too high. No further attempt to dispose of the property in a lot will be made under the present terms, Superintendent Leonard H. Mellor said late this afternoon following a conference with executives and representatives of the stockholders. Neither will the mill resume operations under the management of Lewis A. Waterman, who is receiver of the bankrupt organization.

The only alternative remaining, which if followed, will in all probability result in a quick disposal, is the introduction of another petition of receiver to the courts, asking that a lower sale figure be set on the plant property in order to make the proposition appear more attractive to interested textile men. Superintendent Mellor stated that this method will undoubtedly be resorted to at once.

It is understood that the receivership of the rayon manufacturing corporation is in possession of orders for their products. When asked if he saw any possibility of the plant fulfilling these orders before a new owner is secured, Mr. Mellor said he did not see any immediate possibility of this move.

Superintendent Mellor returned from the conference room and expressed his sincere regrets for the fourth failure encountered since the plant was placed on the auction block. He felt deeply for the large number of employes who have been seriously affected by the loss of work in the mid-winter season.

The fourth failure to sell the plant property today will be received with great regret on the part of more than 150 workers who were thrown out of employment a month ago with the concern's complete suspension of operations. While the decision to revert the matter to the courts again contains the prospect of a quick sale as soon as the formalities are reached, the legal technicalities involved necessitate the passing of several days before a new price will be set, entitling the receiver to proceed with the sale. This, incidentally, means that it will be many days before manufacturing operations are resumed—the most important factor hanging in the balance.

Walter N. King, who is president of the chamber of commerce, has maintained an intense interest in the developments concerning the sale of the National Rhea company, especially since the closing of the plant. After hearing Superintendent Mellor's statements this afternoon Mr. King was optimistic about the affair, expressing hopes for a speedy re-organization of the executive board and resumption of manufacturing activities soon.

In the city court this morning, before Judge M. H. Geissler, an out of town resident, arrested yesterday by State Officer H. Theodore Strand of the Danielson barracks, was found guilty of charges of intoxication and breach of peace and was fined $5.00 and costs of $4.90, total of $9.90.

The Knights of Columbus and the Odd Fellows played to a draw last evening in their weekly indoor sports tournament which was held in the Caseys' rooms on Main street. The final score was 4-all. The summary follows: (Caseys names first), C. Giraca and Bourgeois lost to Campbell and H. Moriarty; A. Giraca and Benoit won from F. Strombelis and C. Shaw; J. Charron and L. Giraca lost to F. Morrarty and G. F. Gifford; Harper and Igoe won from E. Andrews and Tourtellotte; H. Rice and Bissonette won from K. Andrews and Reynolds; Carey and MacCauley lost to Larrow and Dow; Martin and Montville lost to Johnson and Dextraze; T. Hanifan won from Chandler and F. Gifford. Next week's round will be played at the Odd Fellows rooms on Pomfret street on Thursday evening, February 6.

The concluding sessions of the mid-year examinations, which have been in progress at Putnam high school since Tuesday, were held this afternoon at the school. The students celebrated the end of the so-called week of "torture" with a mid-year hop which was held this evening in the school auditorium. The social event was largely attended by the student body.

The hook and ladder and the pumper companies at the Central station in Union square responded to a telephone alarm at 10:31 o'clock Thursday evening for a chimney fire at a tenement block on Bridge street. The blaze was extinguished without incident. Thursday's call, however, broke a no alarm record which had been piling up since Jan. 14.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Leslie Beebe of Whittemore street, were in Worcester Thursday, where they attended the funeral of Mr. Beebe's grandmother, Mrs. Henry E. Beebe. Burial was in Willimantic.

Vincent McEvoy, of Church street, was in Boston today.

Franklin Perry, of Hartford, visited today with his mother, Mrs. Edith Perry, of Grove street.

Augustus M. Wilson, student at Suffield academy, Suffield, Conn., is spending a brief recess at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon T. Wilson of Laurel street.

Dr. L. Hector Lucier, of Church street, who has closed his optical offices in this city, left this morning for New York city where he will begin practice.

Charles A. Ryan, of South Main street, was in Worcester today on business.

CAL. FARM HELP CUT HAY WEARING COATS AND MITTS

In a letter from the Kirkland apartments, San Diego, California, under date of Jan. 25, Mr. Ross writes: It has always surprised me to know where all the celery was used. Thousands of acres, in every valley hundreds and hundreds of farms raising this vegetable. We went over into Lemon valley the other day. I can understand what becomes of the lemons—but celery and lettuce is beyond me!

I think that some of my letters to Jewett City were lost with Graham in the mountains when his airplane crashed.

We heard a good story today about the Mojave desert. It is so hot in the summer in Death Valley that when a coyote is chasing a jack rabbit, they both walk.

We learned today that over in Imperial Valley, near here, the lettuce shipments up to now have exceeded 1,100 cars, and that the daily output is rapidly nearing the 100-car mark. The estimated crop of lettuce in this valley this year is 12,000 cars.

What would some of my Lisbon and Griswold farmer friends think of haying, wearing overcoats and gloves. We heard the story today about the laborers at the ranch of T. B. Shank here this week. They had the unusual experience of making hay while wearing overcoats. Unusually cold weather this week has slowed down the growth of alfalfa, which got a good start during the recent warm spell. It was found that about 300 acres of hay were ready for cutting and Shank ordered the men to proceed.

It was so cold in the mornings when they started that his employes refused to go to work without their overcoats. While the process was under way snow could be observed on mountains between here and San Diego and on San Jacinto off to the north, although the sun was shining brightly all the time.

CANTERBURY GREEN

The members of the Ladies' Aid society were entertained by Mrs. Christian Kerr Tuesday afternoon. Mrs. Henry Lecram, a former member, now of Scituate, R. I., was a guest, driving up for the afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Lecraw were recent visitors in the neighborhood of their former home in Hyde street.

Mrs. Milo Appley spent two days in Hartford this week attending the Eastern Star convention.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wright were Providence visitors Tuesday.

The visiting school nurse, Miss Nason, was at the Green school Tuesday. Within a few weeks eight children of this school have received the toxin inoculation for diphtheria as a preventive measure.

Schools were closed Friday the 24th to enable the teachers to attend a meeting at Scotland.

Mrs. Jennie Wilson has been confined to the house with a severe cold.

James and Milo Appley and Charles Grabb are cutting ice this week.

Mrs. Addie Hyde of Brooklyn recently visited her mother, Mrs. Martha Frink.

Mrs. Walter Pratt and daughter, Beth, of Springfield, have been spending a few days with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Graves.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Little out of the ordinary occurred in Norwich fifty years ago this week. Whooping cough was prevalent in the city, there being a number of cases in the Laurel Hill section. The same week the Rev. A. J. Sullivan assumed the pastorate of the Greeneville Congregational church and the City Guard held an exhibition drill and social in Steiner hall. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of January, 1880, are as follows:

Monday, January 26, 1880—At 8.30 o'clock last evening the fire department was called out by an alarm from box No. 14, at the corner of Thames and Main streets, caused by a fire in the cellar of the residence corner of Mechanic and Spring streets.

The whooping cough which broke out in the northern section of the city last spring has continued ever since. It is now prevailing in the center of the city and is quite prevalent on Laurel Hill among the children. There have been a score of cases where middle aged persons have been afflicted with it, and two cases where the patients were over 70 years old, and, in one instance, a lady over 90 came down with it and whooped her through.

As the Rev. Mr. Blackford was going to the morning service at his church yesterday, he received a telegram from his friends in Eaton, Ohio, announcing the death of his father. The last time he heard from his father, he was in his usual health so that the news of his death was a severe blow. Mr. and Mrs. Blackford started for Ohio on the boat train last evening.

Tuesday, January 27, 1880 — Mrs. Eliza W. Hall, the estimable wife of Amasa C. Hall of this city, died at his residence on Broadway, Monday morning, at the age of 65, after an illness of several years duration. She came to this city with her husband in 1866 and for several years was an active member of Broadway church.

The O. D. One ball for the benefit of the Children's Home, is to be on Friday evening. The arrangements are all perfected.

The Rev. A. J. Sullivan, the new pastor of the Greeneville Congregational church, entered upon his duties Sunday. The church was crowded with auditors and they listened attentively to two able discourses by Mr. Sullivan.

Wednesday, January 28, 1880—The City Guard held an exhibition drill and social in Steiner's hall, last evening, that was well atended, notwithstanding the storm. The hall was tastily trimmed with evergreens and bunting and many floral emblems decorated the walls. The company went through the silent drill and did very creditably in fancy evolutions and bayonet practice. Miller's orchestra played selections from Pinafore and rendered excellently other music.

Fanning's ditch, at the Falls, is the one shallow stream that has afforded considerable skating to the young people of this region this season and the skaters have been rewarded for their ventures frequently with a cold bath. Monday an Academy miss was helped from the water by a chivalrous young gentleman. She was also helped out of a like predicament at the same place on Saturday last; and it is so pleasant to be rescued by a fine young man.

A committee has been appointed to visit the leading Protestants of the place and secure from them, if possible, subscriptions for famine stricken Ireland.

Thursday, January 29, 1880—The O. D. One ambassadors from foreign countries who are expected to arrive tomorrow morning will be escorted through the city sometime during the day. It is their purpose to make an especial visit on the selectmen.

Wednesday the thermometer stood at 64 degrees in the shade in this city. Business was transacted with open doors on the sunnyside of our thoroughfares and many windows were thrown open. It was the warmest mid-winter day in this section since January 1st, 1876, when the thermometer stood at 62 degrees, in the shade, and laborers worked in the open air in their shirt sleeves.

The steamer City of Norwich of the Norwich & New York Transportation company's line, left New York Wednesday morning at nine o'clock, 16 hours late, due to the delay occasioned by the dense fog Tuesday night. She discharged her freight at Allyn's Point last night and returned to New York immediately upon taking on her freight.

Friday, January 30, 1880—Sedgwick Post, No. 1, G. A. R., was represented at the state encampment in New Haven, yesterday, by George S. Smith, senior vice commander, Henry M. Durfey, member of the council of administration, Past Commander John T. Crary, and William T. Cook, James B. Coit, Amos D. Allen and Willis W. Clarke.

Chief Engineer Carrier will strike in several alarms from Greeneville boxes, Saturday afternoon at 4.30 o'clock to test the new gong and method of giving alarms in that section of the city. The firemen should govern themselves accordingly.

The Norwich and Worcester Railroad company put in a new [illegible] bridge at Jewett City last Sunday.

Saturday, January 31, 1880—A large party of guests assembled at the residence of Deacon Henry Mathews of Mohegan, Wednesday evening to witness the union in marriage of Miss Delaine M. Mathews of that place to Mr. Jerome J. Skeesucks of this city. The ceremonies were performed by the Rev. H. Torbush, pastor of the Mohegan church.

Miss Kate Tabor, directress of the juvenile choir of the Lutheran church, was agreeably surprised at her home on Laurel Hill avenue, Thursday evening by her young singers.

The Buckingham Guards give their first annual ball next Tuesday evening in Breed hall.

Who in Your Family Coughs From a Cold?

If they have a cough from a cold that hangs on, they are in constant danger. Many a serious illness follows neglected colds. If a cold is permitted to persist, it can lead and often does lead into dangerous complications.

Don't let them trifle with colds. Suggest fresh air, lots of sleep, a simple diet, clean intestines and—Creomulsion. Colds are infectious. They endanger all of the family. If there's a cough from a chest cold or bronchial irritation in your family, go and get Creomulsion.

Creomulsion taken promptly will help you avoid dangerous diseases and the expense and loss of time when sick in bed. We guarantee relief for coughs from colds, or we'll refund your money. Adv.

FARMER VS. CITY DWELLER

"Because he has good roads on which to travel, a farmer who buys a motor car may get more value out of his investment than does a city dweller who buys a similar car at the same price."

That view comes from a large center of population and is based upon the traffic congestion which is to be encountered in cities and experiences which are had with streets which are not kept in repair. It is the city view, and is a view which seems to imagine that all residents in the country are located upon improved roads.

If the country residents were to be questioned in regard to such a proposition it is highly probable that they would tell a different story. The farmer may be so situated as to get full benefit of the improved road running past his property but he also finds it necessary, along with the many others who do not live on improved roads, to use the country roads, and no one is better aware of the kind of traveling of which he must make the best. There are times during he year when it is next to impossible to use the roads at all and there are many auto owners who are obliged to drive for miles to get to an improved highway. This means rough and unpleasant driving at all times, a condition which is certainly no worse than the delays encountered by traffic jams or poor city streets.

It is the experience of many that the improved highways throughout the country are kept in as fine a condition as could be desired, a condition that is far ahead of streets in certain cities, especially in the outskirts, but these fine country highways are of equally great service to the city dweller with his auto as to the farmer. The improved highways do not, by any means, reach the bulk of the farmers. They are obliged to pay their gas tax for better roads but they cannot get the use of them in too many instances until they have driven miles. While the improved highways are in the pink of condition, there is a woeful contrast with the cross roads and the feeders of that highway.

When the farmer buys an automobile he buys it with the condition of the country road fully in mind. It is no secret that the farmer would get greater value and pleasure out of such an investment if as much attention was given to providing decent gravel roads as is devoted to the construction of expensive highways for cross-state traffic.

DR. W. H. P. FAUNCE

In the taking away of Dr. W. H. P. Faunce, for 30 years president of Brown university, there has passed a man who was not only held in high esteem by graduates of that university and the Baptist denomination in which he was a leader but by all those who had an opportunity to come in contact with him. Dr. Faunce will be recalled as one who had lectured here on a number of occasions, to the great delight of his hearers.

Although he held the pastorates of prominent churches, his outstanding work was done during the three decades that he directed the affairs of Brown. There he wielded a strong and commanding influence, figured conspicuously in the upbuilding of that university and it was with great regret that he found it necessary to give up his duties and become president emeritus last year.

Dr. Faunce was a man of strong convictions, one who first made careful research to support his contentions but once he made up his mind he was fearless in setting forth his views. He had always been known as a liberal, and this applied to the pulpit as well as to educational activities. He was recognized as a leader whose opinions could not be disregarded, one ever interested in good causes, and his influence and guidance as a university head has been nation-wide.

It was with keen appreciation of the loss involved that his resignation was accepted at Brown less than a year ago, but there was the feeling that his advice could be drawn upon for many years to come. Death has, however, stepped in to terminate that service and ended a worthwhile and distinguished career.

BYRD'S DANGER

As the result of the efforts to get the cooperation of the Norwegian and British whaling ships to plow a way through the pack ice for the ships which are seeking to reach Admiral Byrd, the question has been asked: "Is Byrd in extreme danger?"

In making the appeals, the position of Admiral Byrd and his party has been pointed out. Unless it is possible for him to get away from Antarctica this month it can be expected that he will be so frozen in that departure will be impossible until another mild season, a year from now. Having accomplished all that was planned there is no desire to remain in that location and isolation for another year. In fact, the expedition is not in possession of sufficient supplies to remain for such a period. It is not improbable that supplies could be gotten to him, but it is naturally desired that such a contingency should be avoided if possible.

If we can judge by Admiral Byrd's appraisal of his position he is not in extreme danger. He has known of its possibilities all the time and he has taken such precautions as he believes will be adequate.

If we can judge also by the view of the Norwegian whalers, he is not in extreme danger. They believe that the ice pack will break up. It almost always has done so and, even though there isn't much time left in which that can happen, confidence is expressed that it will.

Nevertheless, it is apparent that it would be grossly unwise to wait until the time when the packed ice should break up before making preparations for sending relief to the expedition. In case the barrier did not break up, that would be altogether too late.

Up to the present time the anxiety in regard to Admiral Byrd has extended no farther than ascertaining if help can be relied upon from the powerful whaling ships which are known to be in that region. It has been learned what could be depended on for assistance in a comparatively short time and preparations have been made to meet the worst in the way of conditions if they actually develop. This may not mean that Byrd is in extreme danger, but it does mean that proper measures for meeting the situation have been taken in case they are needd. This is no more than it should be.

WHEN GRIGGS WON

Much attention has been directed to the primary in the second congressional district in Massachusetts this week because of the issue involved. Because Congressman Kaynor was killed in an airplane accident it became necessary to secure a successor. Candidates were numerous, but, aside from the choice of a representative, there arose the question concerning the attitude of the candidates relative to prohibition.

This is a particularly live question in Massachusetts at the present time, with the effort being made to have the state enforcement law repealed, and it was worked to its limit in the second district's contest.

Two years ago, at the congressional election, F. D. Griggs was a candidate for congress. He ran as a dry in the primary but was defeated by Kaynor. He lost no time in announcing his candidacy for the special primary and he took the position that he is still personally dry, but inasmuch as that district has expressed itself in a referendum in regard to prohibition and has voted overwhelmingly wet he declared that if nominated and elected he would support the sentiment of the majority of his constituents. That attitude made a good impression. It didn't eliminate a contest in his own party, for a sopping wet republican ran against him, but Griggs was chosen by a large majority. In a three-sided democratic contest for the nomination only a small vote was cast, Griggs getting more votes than his republican opponent and all the democratic candidates combined.

This is looked upon as insuring his election in a strong republican district. He was able to command the support of the dry forces, he had the backing of the party organization and he must have also gotten the help of many of the wets in view of the weak showing that was made by the sopping wet candidate in a sopping wet district. That ability and fitness for the office played its part in connection with his primary success is not to be overlooked, but there is also the unusual situation of a dry being perfectly satisfactory to both the dry and wet elements of his district. One able to get the nomination under such circumstances should have little difficulty in being elected.

PAROLING PRISONERS

In the matter of parole New York has for a considerable time been experiencing the effects of poor administration. It got so at one time that parole was being handed out to those who were the least deserving, regardless of the effect upon the public, without adequate investigation as to whether those seeking it should receive it.

The need of a better parole system has been getting more study, with the result that the governor has appointed a commission of experts to make a study of the proposition to establish a parole court and refer all applications for parole to such a tribunal for disposition, the expectation being that it would go thoroughly into the case, the conduct of the prisoner and the possible use he would make of parole benefits.

There are unquestionably those who work at cross purposes with the law and get into serious trouble, but once they have tasted a bit of prison life they are determined that they need no more in order to lead a straightforward career henceforth. They deserve to be given a chance to demonstrate what they will do.

There are others who make a business of crime, who understand the provisions of parole and so conduct themselves that they may be released in order that they may return to the same lawlessness that has characterized their past. They know how to get the benefit of leniency that they may the sooner get where they can again prey upon the public. It is because too many of the latter and too few of the former have gotten the advantage of the parole system, to the detriment of law-abiding people, that New York needs a new system where facts and not favoritism will govern. A parole court that would make a study of the respective cases coming up for parole would certainly be better than the present arrangement.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Who will be the first to see the groundhog?

If everyone used the airplanes with the care that John D. Rockefeller did, there would be fewer fatalities and much less flying.

If the whalers are unable to make their way through the pack ice to Byrd, in case it becomes necessary, possibly the whales can be secured to blow a channel.

A California man has been sentenced to be hanged twice for a double murder. Probably that will mean the sob sisters will get twice as busy as usual to effect his pardon.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

In the opinion of the writer the time has fully come when the use of firearms must be put under far more rigid control than at present. If a tithe of the shootings reported in the daily press is correct, it would seem that any person whether seven years old or seventy, whether generally regarded as responsible or irresponsible, could use a revolver at will. That Tom, Dick and Harry can be armed with such dangerous weapons for no plausible excuse whatever, save that of mere curiosity, seems incredible in this so-called intelligent age. As far as the records go it would seem that, as a rule, it is the criminally disposed who are those generally armed. The rank and file of people see no reason for carrying firearms, and if they do not there is absolutely no excuse why the opposite class should.

The learned Mrs. Partington is reported to have said on one occasion that "sometimes her mouth was chuck full of salivation." There are a great many women—and men too, for that matter—who have the same affliction. It is very likely that Mrs. Partington had somewhere run across the word "salivation," and that it was first cousin to "saliva." Now that little letter "l" did not bother the erudite Mrs. Patrington in the least. She had never heard of "salivation," but was quite familiar with "salvation," and they seemed to her uncritical eye as the same. Is it not sometimes painfully true that with a good many people salvation is very little more than a mouth disease; nothing but mere salivation, something that is very thin and watery, usually generated by the mere wagging of the human jaw. With this remark surely Mrs. Partington was saying a "whole mouthful."

The statement recently made in the local press to the effect that certain streets had been set apart by the police for coasting purposes at stated times is to be commended from every point of view. Not only this but attention given that no harm come to the children from traffic during these specified hours. Coasting is something that appeals to growing children, especially boys. It is one of the most helpful of exercises; it is exhilarating sliding down hill and vigorously walking back. Going one way is very largely a mental exercise, but trudging back in the opposite direction is most decidedly physical. Added to this the sport is one that appeals strongly to the vocal organs, and the average youngster is not wanting in this direction. Who ever saw a coasting party of live boys completely mum? That would be a violation of the law of nature. Giving the children this privilege is one that is going to count in later years.

It is difficult for the writer to make any reference to winter without harking back to something that Thoreau has said on the subject. There have been very few men in any age who have caught the spirit of the natural world so completely as Henry D. Thoreau. I will not even except John Ruskin himself. Thoreau is sometimes called "the hermit," but the epithet is hardly just. His sensitive spirit reacted to the faintest touch of the world of nature. The following is what he says of out-door life in his wonderful book "Winter": "We must go out and re-ally ourselves to Nature every day. We must make root, send out some little fibre at least every day in winter. I am sensible that I am imbibing health when I open my mouth to the wind. Staying in the house breeds a sort of insanity always. Every house is in a sense a hospital. A night and a forenoon is as much confinement to those wards as I can stand."

Let us devoutly thank God that modern scientific investigations have smashed into smithereens the old superstitions relative to the cold weather of winter as a menace to general healthfulness. Dear old grandmothers of both sexes only a few generations ago grew pale when anyone mentioned "night air," "cold air," or "being out in the wet," or the fatality of "getting into a draft." How they crowded paper into loose window casings lest the least bit of fresh air should touch little Johnny while sleeping! How men and women swaddled up in winter lest they should catch cold! What dead, stifling air pervaded all the rooms of the home! Look at the way girls, both over and under 20, dress today! Were they ever more healthy in the whole history of mankind than now? See boys now in midwinter without hats or caps. Do they look like candidates for tuberculosis camps? Galileo said in his day that the earth moves, and it moves faster now than it did in the old Gal's day.

Science has done a good bit of work in recent years in correcting former impressions concerning the value of snow. We have given up the old notion that it has fertilizing value to any considerable extent, but it does tend to purify the air of germs that are more or less harmful to the human body. After a long spell of dry weather poisonous matter naturally collects on the ground; high winds pulverize it and bring it into contact with our bodies and the lungs do the rest. Now the falling snowflake collects these germs and deposits them on the ground. As they are now moistened they remain there mingled with the snow. When a thaw comes to any great extent and snow is reduced to water these dangerous germs are carried away into the sea. In this sense the snow is of inestimable value.

The Federal Council of the Churches of Christ of America is an outstanding illustration that the manifold churches of this continent are drawing nearer together in cordial understanding and fellowship. The recent meeting of the council in Chicago gave clear evidence of this. It shows beyond all suspicion of a doubt that the loyal followers of the Master can meet and lay out plans for a common work without organic union. If the Christian spirit is only there important work can be done (and is being done in a remarkable way) when each man is allowed to perform his task in his own way. The main thing is to do the task right, not how, when, or where it is done. If a minister can really preach a sermon, it is a small matter whether he wears a gown or not. The main thing is to deliver the goods so as to make the congregation feel that a mighty power is just behind the speaker.

There is often in this many-sided world of ours much silent suffering of which the general public is largely ignorant. A matter of this sort cannot be easily dismissed by a wave of the hand and saying: "It's a case of false pride!" People of sensitive spirit and mental refinement will suffer long and hard before they will reach forth the hand to the dole of public charity, and many of them would go to the very limit were it not for the little boy and girl who are crying for something to eat. Let us not be guilty of saying that it is bad habits that bring people to this sad state, although in many cases bad habits have much to do with it. Never in the history of Norwich have there been so many in its almshouse, or so many people asking for relief as now. Would it not be well for church commitees to carefully go over their parishes and find if there is any suffering along this line.

Congregationalist Denomination Sells Church Home of Four Civil War Generals

The action of the United Congregational church in selling its community house removes from the denomination a building which has been a Norwich landmark ever since its dedication in 1846. This sale also erases the last physical trace—though nothing can ever erase from Norwich the last spiritual trace—of the old Second (at first the Sixth) communion, the independent career of which began in 1751 and ended in 1918, when it consolidated with the Broadway church to form the present United Congregational church. Shortly after the merger church came into being, the Bulletin of March 14, 1919, said: "Many of the names which brought prominence to Norwich and made it well known for culture and industrial progress and beneficence have been associated with the old Second Congregational church, which though recently closed is now brought again to public attention by a proposal to hold a series of public entertainments there. Governor and Senator William A. Buckingham, Senator Lafayette S. Foster, John F. Slater, H. H. Osgood and others who were strong factors in shaping the affairs of the state and nation were worshippers at this church.

"Many of its pastors, such as the Rev. Drs. Bond and Leonard Woolsey Bacon, had reputations that extended far and away beyond the borders of the town. For 20 years Judge S. T. Holbrook officiated at the organ, leader in the musical as well as the civic affairs of the city.

"From this church in 1842 owing to increased demands for more places of worship a number of members formed the Broadway Congregational church, which is now joined with its mother in the new United church. Again, about 1874, with the development of our city another parish went out from the mother church, forming the very active and strong organization known as the Park Congregational church."

In addition to the names already given, the old Second church included in its membership the Hon. Calvin Goddard, member of congress and judge of the Connecticut superior court; the Hon. James Lanman, United States senator and judge of the state supreme court; Gen. William Williams, whaler; John A. Rockwell, superintendent of the American Missionary association; Donald G. Mitchell, who wrote under the pen name of Ik Marvell; the Rev. Edward W. Gilman, D. D., secretary of the American Bible society; Dr. Daniel Coit Gilman, first president of Johns Hopkins university; and a host of Perkinses, Coltons, Coits, Trumbulls, Johnsons, Hubbards and Huntingtons.

The old Second church was also peculiarly a church of soldiers. Thus, those members who attained a rank above that of captain in the Civil war are: Brig. Gen. Henry W. Birge (by brevet major general); Colonels William G. Ely and Alfred P. Rockwell (both by brevet brigadier-generals); Lieutenant-colonels David Young, Charles Farnsworth and David Torrance, the latter of whom afterward became a judge of the state supreme court; Majors Frank S. Bond and John B. Dennis, the latter by brevet brigadier-general; Adjutants Enoch B. Culver, Stephen B. Meech and Joseph H. Jewett; Acting Assistant Surgeon C. B. Webster.

The captains numbered 15, including Samuel T. C. Merwin, the first man in Norwich to enlist. Of these three by brevet were majors and one by brevet was lieutenant-colonel.

A nutshell history of the Second church was published by the communion as of Sept. 25, 1910. It is substantially as follows:

The Sixth or Chelsea Ecclesiastical society organized November 29, 1751. Hired ministers conducted services, but there was no church building.

The Church of Christ in Chelsea organized July 24, 1760, with six charter members. Used Trapp's Tavern, Shetucket street. Church built in Main street, 1766.

Interest in the Revolutionary war overshadowed local religious matters. Many members, including the minister, enlisted. Large financial contributions to cause of freedom.

A period of general decline. No settled pastors. Young theological students served as pulpit supplies. Few additions to membership. Steadily lessening attendance.

Meetings for prayer and renewal of covenant. Church burned 1793. Episcopal church used. Present site purchased. Second building dedicated, 1795. Began to be known as the Second church.

Divisions over the dismissal of Mr. King healed, and harmony restored by the "Judicious Hooker". Foreign Missionary Society of Norwich formed. Sunday school started, 1815.

Large additions to membership. Second building enlarged and remodelled, 1839. Several members transferred to help organize the church at Norwich Falls (existed, 1827-1842.)

General religious awakening in community; marked increase in church membership. Six members given to the organization of the Greeneville Congregational church, 1833.

Seventy-eight members dismissed to form the Broadway Congregational church, 1842. Second building burned, 1844. Used Central Baptist church. Present building dedicated, 1846.

Breed Beneficent fund, $20,000, established, 1871. One hundred and ten members, including Mr. Dana, the minister, dismissed to form Park Congregational church, 1874.

Notable re-consecration of numerically weakened church. The Y. P. S. C. E. organized. Chinese Sunday school opened. Samuel C. Morgan Beneficent fund, $33,000, established.

An era of brilliant preaching and pastoral friendship.

Steady growth of all church organizations. Complete renovation of the building. Gift of parsonage. Members of church commissioned in home and foreign fields.

A period of fine and permanent spiritual growth, accompanied by renewed kindling of vision and consecration and effort; a worthy building on the great foundations of the past.

The ministers of the Second Congregational church in office during the events noted above are as follows:

Mr. Elijah Lathrop, 1751; Mr. John Curtis, 52-4; Mr. Ebenezer Cleveland, 55; all supplies. The Rev. Nathaniel Whattaker, 1760-1769. Installed, February 1761. Accompanied Samson Occum to England in behalf of Indian education. The Rev. Ephraim Judson, 1771-1778. Installed, October 1771. Served as chaplain in the Revolutionary war. Mr. Nathaniel Niles, Mr. David Austin, Mr. Zebulon Ely, 1778-1787, supplies. The Revs. Walter King, 1787-1811. Installed, May 1787. Dismissed, July 1811. Asahel Hooker, 1812-1813. Installed, January 1812. Died in service, April 1813. Alfred Mitchell, 1814-1831. Installed, October 1814. Died in service, December 1831. James Dickinson, 1833-1834. Installed, April 1833, Dismissed, August 1834, to the foreign field. Alvan Bond, 1836-1864. Installed, May 1836. Dismissed, April 1864. Malcolm McG. Dana, 1864-1874. Installed, December 1864. Dismissed, April 1874. William S. Palmer, 1874-1889. Installed, September 1874. Dismissed, Oct. 1889. Leonard W. Bacon, 1890-1892, supply. Cornelius W. Morrow, 1893-1902. Installed, June 1893. Dismissed September 1902. Lester L. West, 1903-1909. Installed, January 1903. Dismissed, November 1909. Herbert J. Wyckoff, 1910-1918. Entered Y. M. C. A. work as of March, 1918.

Sunday Morning Talk

What Counts

If we make a success in business or in a profession we are apt to feel that our life has been a success. That we have made our life count. But is that true? No, it is not. How many lives have been a sad failure in spite of what the world calls success. At the longest we spend but a few fleeting years here on this earth. Our time here is like a preparatory school for the next life which lasts for all eternity. How paltry earthly success looks when we come to face eternity and realize that we have made no preparation. That we have made no preparation for the unending ages. What an awful place to be in. Why, oh why, are we so fool hardy. Are not like the king who presented his count jester with a cane and told him it was his until he found a bigger fool than himself. Several years later, as the king lay dying, he sent for his jester to bid him farewell. As the jester entered the room the king looked up and said to the jester, "I am going on a long journey never to return." The jester replied. "What preparation has your majesty made for this journey?" "None," answered the king. The jester turned and left the room without saying a word. He soon returned carrying the cane he had received from the king. Stepping up to the king, he said, "here is the cane you requested me to keep until I found a bigger fool than myself. If you have made no preparation for this important journey, the cane is yours." May we not make terrible mistakes. May we put first things first, may the worthwhile things always count first in our lives. May we so live each day that when ever the call comes we may be ready and hear our Saviour's "well done."

YOUR HEALTH

Some Words About Medical Fees

By L. R. Effler, M. D., Toledo

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

The doctor of old was often accused of being a sorry business man. He rendered his service but frequently forgot to render his bill. Or he rendered his bill at the end of a six-month of twelve-month period. It is not to be wondered that the patient waited another six months or twelve months to pay or forgot to pay altogether. The doctor had himself to blame if his accounts ran an unreasonable length of time.

The modern doctor is a better business man. He renders his accounts monthly. He finds it necessary to meet his own current expenses monthly since most other businesses operate on this basis. Peculiarly, people are more ready to be billed monthly and as a rule pay much more promptly. There is only a small proportion of "dead beats" and another small proportion forever "putting off" payment. The average patient is imbued with the theory that the laborer is worth of his hire.

Paying attention to his accounts has forced the doctor to greater efficiency along medical lines. These two factors are moving along together. The cost of medical education, medical equipment, and medical maintenance have advanced so sharply that he must figure closely. He must work harder physically to pay for all these things, often bought on borrowed capital; and mentally to fortify himself for the higher standards of medical service that the public is led to expect.

But there is a legal side to all of this. The old-time doctor considered it sacrilegious to press a claim or sue a patient. The modern doctor adopts the same policies as other ethical business houses. If the patient can pay and will not, the doctor feels justified in turning the account over to his attorney or to a reputable collection bureau. At the same time there seems to be a growing tendency for patients to sue the doctor on slight provocation. He is looked upon as fair game.

The doctor clearly does not wish to neglect or "experiment" on his patients. His first thought is always to treat illness in discharge of the "Oath of Hippocrates." The patient, on the other hand, often expects miracles in medicine and surgery. If they do not occur, he feels he has a grievance. This grievance may be fostered by his friends until finally a lawyer is consulted. The right lawyer will quickly straighten out the tangle. The shyster will make the doctor a defendant in a malpractice suit. Whether guilty or innocent, the doctor loses much in prestige.

But even this cloud has its silver lining. The net result of the "law-suit epidemic" will tend to increase the medical efficiency of which I spoke above, for although the law only holds the doctor to "ordinary diligence and care," he actually puts more than the law requires into his work, and is thereby assisting to re-establish the old attitude of mutual trust between physician and patient which in the old days was so intimate as to preclude suspicion and revenge for real or fancied grievances. And this is as it should be, for the more people depend upon the family doctor to keep them healthy, the less is there basis for high fees, emergency bills unpaid and curative work that cannot be done.

By the time they are grown, almost 90 per cent of individuals have had measles, more than 75 per cent, have had whooping cough, and more than 70 per cent mumps.

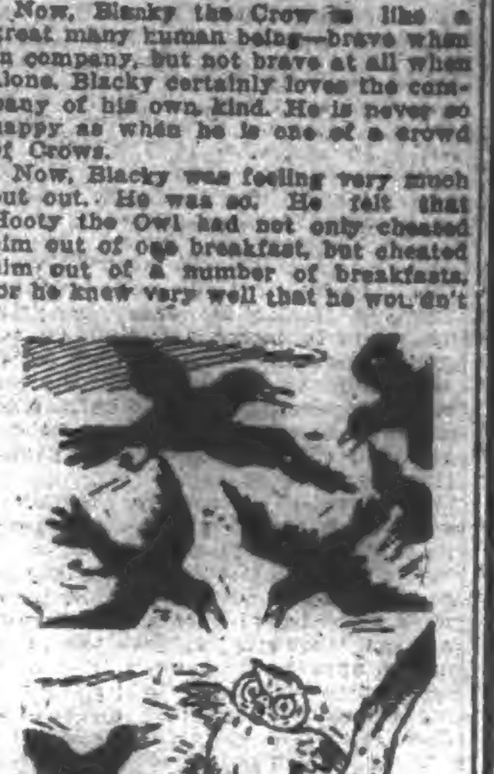
BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Blacky Gets Even With Hooty

Getting even may not pay,
But somehow brightens up a day
—Blacky the Crow.

Now, Blacky the Crow is like a great many human beings—brave when in company, but not brave at all when alone. Blacky certainly loves the company of his own kind. He is never so happy as when he is one of a crowd of Crows.

Now, Blacky was feeling very much put out. He was so. He felt that Hooty the Owl had not only cheated him out of one breakfast, but cheated him out of a number of breakfasts, for he knew very well that he wouldn't dare to go back to Farmer Brown's corncrib for some time. He knew that Hooty, having found him there once, would look for him there again. He would be quite likely to keep a watchful eye on that place early every morning.



Some of the boldest would swoop down and shriek in Hooty's very ears

"I'll get even with him!" said Blacky over and over to himself. "I'll get even with him in some way. I don't know how I'll do it, but I will get even with him."

His chance came that very afternoon. It was chance, too; pure and simple. You see, Blacky just happened to find Hooty the Great Horned Owl taking a nap. Hooty likes to sleep through the day and hunt at night. Blacky opened his mouth to scream at Hooty to wake him up, but closed it again without making a sound. He hurried away as fast as he could. When he was what he considered far enough, he alighted in the top of a tall tree and began to scream as loud as he could. "Caw, Caw, Caw, Caw!" screamed Blacky. Pretty soon there was an answering caw in the distance. Then another and another.

Blacky kept calling and the other Crows kept answering. Those answers kept coming nearer and nearer and from several directions. Pretty soon they were gathered around Blacky and all of them talking at the same time. "What is it?" they demanded. "Why have you called us?"

Blacky's eyes twinkled. "I've found Hooty the Owl asleep," said he.

"Where, where, where?" demanded all the Crows.

"Follow me and I'll show you," replied Blacky, and led the way back to where Hooty was peacefully sleeping.

Hooty didn't sleep peacefully any longer. Such a racket as those Crows made! They flew over and around him and some of them alighted in the very tree he was sitting in, all of them cawing at the top of their lungs. No one could sleep with such a racket going on. Some of the boldest would swoop down and shriek in Hooty's very ears. He glared at them as only Hooty can glare. He snapped his bill and turned his head from side to side so rapidly that it looked as if he turned his head completely around. Of course, he did nothing of the sort, for no bird could do that. Now and then he hissed. He was very, very angry. How those Crows did tease him! Some of them darted in close enough to peck him and pull out a feather or two. He stood it for a while, then he suddenly spread those great wings of his, and when he did this those Crows all fled in a panic. You see, they knew what some human folks seem not to know—which is, that Hooty can see perfectly well in the daytime.

But Hooty didn't chase any of them. He simply flew farther into the Green Forest and perched in a great evergreen tree where it was dark. He knew the Crows would not bother him much there.

Meanwhile, Blacky went his way chuckling, for he felt that now he was even with Hooty the Owl.

A Washington Bystander

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—At some time during his public career, President Hoover may have expressed himself on the eight-hour day.

Probably he favored the idea—but not in practice for the president of the United States.

At least he does not conform to an eight-hour working schedule. Ten to eleven hours at his desk is more like his notion of a good job of presidential work.

The president gets at it around 8.30 every morning—after the medicine ball cabinet session—takes an hour, flat, off for lunch and then sticks it out at the office again until 6.30 or even 7.30 p. m.

This long working day habit is an old one with Mr. Hoover. Folks who were with him in the commerce department and have transferred with him to the white house have little hope of inducing him to ease down—for his own sake of theirs.

Mr. George Akerson, of the secretariat, is wont to shake his head and mutter "you can't teach an old dog new tricks" whenever the subject comes up in conversation with the white house newspaper scouts.

Interviews

And that is very frequently. The Christmas eve fire at the white house which drove Mr. Hoover temporarily over to the vast state-war building for office room did no favor to the news scouts.

They are forced to hang around the corridors if they want to keep in touch with who comes and goes. And that's the way a vast amount of news originates. Buttonholing the president's visitors is an important part of Washington newspaper life.

Nor do the reporters often find such visitors averse to being interviewed; quite the contrary.

Overtime

Over at the burned executive office all business visitors to the president passed through the newspaper outer guard going and coming. There was no other line of approach to his office and the benches and chairs about the entrance lobby afforded a more or less comfortable perch for the reporters.

Transferred to the state-war building, there are no such comforts for them. They just stand about the roped off corridors between times and the present fashion denies them even chairs.

Now even the youngsters of the press association white house squad group feel the strain of it after 10 hours. Hence they would welcome in Mr. Hoover something more like the eight-hour schedule President Coolidge observed for himself.

But they cannot call it a day until "the chief" does. And while there are not so many night sessions of overtime for them as there were with President Wilson perhaps, they miss something thereby.

Mr. Wilson was a great theatergoer, and the white house reporters usually went along. Mr. Hoover does not seem to have the theater complex at all.

No doubt the reporters await eagerly return to the summer schedule of fishing camp weekends. It will break the corridor patrol guard.

AUTO PARTIES IRK FOLK WHERE A KING YIELDED

EGHAM, England—(AP)—Noisy motor parties are parking on the historic meadow of Runnymede, where King John signed the Magna Charta back in 1215.

And often the sounds of merriment are distressing, complains H. Hepworth Thompson, who owns Magna Charta island, across the Thames from Runnymede.

Incidentally, Mr. Thompson avers it was on his land, not on the meadow recently presented the nation by Lady Fairhaven and her sons, that the great charter of English freedom was wrested from the king.

Many students of history agree with him, and they, at least, will learn with regret that Mr. Thompson has threatened to sell the island to bungalow-builders unless the parking parties across the river go somewhere else.

AIRCRAFT BUILDER SEES STABILIZATION THIS YEAR

ST. LOUIS—(AP)—The year 1930, in the opinion of John C. Nulsen, general manager of the Ryan Aircraft corporation, will see the aviation industry finally settled on a stable business basis.

The automobile dealer, Mr. Nulsen predicts, undoubtedly will play an important part in merchandising airplanes during this year.

It is not likely that 1930 will see much consolidation, Mr. Nulsen believes, but he prophesies that many smaller companies eventually will be unable to stand the gaff of competition, which he calls a "healthy influence on the industry."

NEW YORK—(AP)—Bert V. Eutemey is an undertaker in New York's Chinatown. He operates under the name of "The Chinese Cheung Sang Funeral corporation," which, he says, means "The Chinese Wish-You-Long-and-Happy-Life Funeral corporation."

FINDS TAXI DRIVER WITHOUT CRIMINAL LIABILITY

In a finding made public Friday, Coroner Edward G. McKay has exonerated Clarence Gwiazdowski of this city from criminal liability in causing the death of Ralph Alberica, late of No. 76 North Main street. Gwiazdowski, a local taxi driver, struck and fatally injured Mr. Alberica Dec. 21, as the former was driving his taxicab through North Main street. Mr. Alberica, father of ten children, died Jan. 3. Since his death Gwiazdowski has been held on a manslaughter charge and is at liberty on bonds of $1,000. In his finding, Coroner McKay says:

That the said Ralph Alberica died in the town of Norwich, Connecticut, on the 3rd day of January, 1930, from multiple injuries, fractured skull, which injuries were received on North Main street in the town of Norwich on December 21, 1929, when he was struck and knocked to the ground by an automobile owned and operated by Clarence A. Gwiazdowski of Norwich, Connecticut.

The above mentioned collision occurred on North Main street in the city of Norwich, at a point nearly opposite to number 76 on said street. The highway at that point has a concrete surface and through the middle of the street ran two pair of trolley tracks. There are traffic lines on each side of the set of tracks so that north and south bound traffic may pass uninterruptedly. At the point of collision the street is wide enough for two lines of motor traffic and two lines of trolley cars. The street runs generally in a northerly direction and bears around a slight curve to a northeasterly direction. The surface of the highway at that point is in exceptionally good condition having been laid recently.

At about 7:30 p. m. on December 21st, the said Ralph Alberica was standing on the sidewalk on the westerly side of the street and was intending to cross to the easterly side thereof. He had his six-year-old daughter with him and his wife was standing at the door way of the house in which they lived. When the traffic seemed to be clear the father and daughter started to cross the street. At the time that they started there did not appear to them any traffic coming from the south. When they got into the road, however, the above mentioned automobile which was a taxi cab, appeared around the corner from the south going north. The farther and daughter continued to go across the street and the daughter preceded the father. When they reached the middle of the street the daughter ran to go across the street and the father ran to catch her. At this time the taxi cab was approaching the point to which they were going. As the father reached the child he was struck by the automobile and the both of them were knocked down. The automobile was stopped immediately and the injured persons were picked up, put into the cab and rushed to the hospital. The child recovered but the father received injuries which proved to be fatal and he expired about two weeks later.

The operator of the car was on a call to a place in the Greeneville section of the city. Two passengers had engaged the automobile at Franklin square and directed him to their destination. He left the square and proceeded up Main street, turned on to North Main and proceeded towards Greeneville. As he was going along the stretch south of the above mentioned curve he passed another automobile. After he had passed this latter car he reduced his speed and proceeded around the corner. When he saw the situation in front of him with the two pedestrians crossing the street he sounded his horn. When it seemed evident to him that the pedestrians were going to cross in front of him he applied his brakes but could not avoid hitting them. When he stopped the automobile the deceased was then under the right hand side of the body, between the front and rear wheels. The front wheel may have passed over him but the rear wheel had not come up to him.

The evidence in this case does not warrant a finding of criminal negligence. In reaching this decision I have taken into consideration the action of the father and daughter at crossing the street and the position of the injured parties immediately after the collision. The evidence has been somewhat conflicted both in the manner in which the father and daughter were crossing the street and in the speed of the striking car. However, I find that the automobile was not proceeding at such a reckless rate at the time immediately before the collision as to constitute criminal negligence. If it were being operated at an exceedingly fast rate of speed it could not have been stopped as quickly as it apparently was.

I am satisfied and find that the death of Ralph Alberica was not caused by the criminal negligence, omission or carelessness of any other person or persons.

COMMENDS FINE SPIRIT FOR COMMUNITY SYNAGOGUE

Rabbi Philip Lipis, a senior student at the Theological Seminary of America, was the preacher at the service of the Community Synagogue of Norwich, which was held Friday evening at the B'nai B'rith rooms on Shetucket street with a large attendance. Rabbi Lipis, in his very interesting and inspiring sermon, declared that with such a spirit as displayed by the members Thursday evening their movement can not help but be successful.

While we as a people have had our national leaders and heroes various groups and communities within Israel have had their local guides, he said. Your leaders have tried to interpret your desires and your feelings. They have proposed to lay the basis for a proper and more natural development of Jewish life. They turn to you now for support. They ask you to carry through your enthusiasm with them until the work is completed. Retain and maintain your faith in the ideal and in the project which you have now undertaken. A faltering of faith has been productive of much harm in our past. We must learn to have the ideal toward which we are striving play such a vital part in our life as to drive us on to higher and greater things. It will require much sacrifice. But what is the value of the ideal that does not demand a certain amount of sacrifice.

I don't mind telling you that the enthusiasm I saw yesterday displayed by some of you was totally unexpected and most encouraging, he said. It was a sight that I hadn't expected to witness, but I can say this that with such a spirit your movement can not help but be successful. Surrounding communities are watching you to see what you can accomplish. The eyes of all those concerned with Jewish life in this country are concentrated upon the work being done. May you prove yourselves to be the fitting descendants of a nation of idealists that ever refused to be daunted by obstacles and marched along on the road to progress with a clearness of vision, wholesomeness of spirit and unity of action that insured success.

INSTITUTE IS HELD FOR EPWORTH LEAGUE

Young people from Mystic, Stonington, Willimantic, New London, Occum and Baltic gathered Friday evening at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church for the mid-winter meeting of the Norwich district of the Epworth league. At 6:15 o'clock there was a supper, covers being laid for 122, and the menu was as follows:

Escalloped Potatoes

Meat Loaf	Relish
Rolls	Crackers
Pineapple Salad	Apple Pie
Coffee Candy	Favors

Following the supper the young people divided into classes which were in charge of Rev. William A. Newton, whose topic of discussion was International Problems on World Peace, and J. M. Shaw, of Baltic, whose topic was, the First Three Gospels.

Hector Hughes, of New London, president of the Norwich district of the Epworth league, addressed the gathering on The Meaning of God. The remainder of the evening was devoted to games which were in charge of Rev. George Warren Potter.

The committee in charge of the supper comprised Mrs. Christopher G. Allen, Mrs. Charles Browning, Mrs. John Phillips, Mrs. E. J. Jones, Mrs. Herbert Bradford and Miss Dorothy McNeely. The hostesses were: Miss Edith Fellows, Mrs. Carr, Miss Nancy Coldberg, Miss Florence Edwards, Miss Eleanor Fenton, Miss Mary Gray and Miss Mary Phillips. The arrangements for the meeting were in general charge of the Epworth league cabinet, Miss Mary Crowe, president; Miss Evelyn Wheeler, first vice president; Miss Isabelle Rodier, second vice president; Miss Mary Phillips, third vice president; Miss Grace Purvis, treasurer; Miss Ebba Pearson, secretary; Lucille Guile, pianist.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Turner have been guests at the Hotel Roosevelt, New York, this week.

JUDGE AVERY GRANTS DIVORCE TO EX-ACTRESS FROM VOLUNTOWN MAN

Lura Lawrence Heywood, now of New London, formerly an actress, was granted a divorce from Herbert Heywood of Voluntown on grounds of cruelty by Judge C. L. Avery in the superior court at New London Friday morning. The couple were married May 11, 1920, and cruelty was alleged since Jan. 20, 1926. The plaintiff, represented by Attorney Morris Lubchansky, testified that her husband had insane spells of temper and during these spells he kept her in mortal fear of her life by brandishing guns. According to her testimony she paid his membership in the Lambs club of New York. George B. Sheldon, justice of the peace of Voluntown, testified to finding Heywood guilty of breach of the peace on complaint of Mrs. Heywood last summer when she claims he came to her home and threatened to have her carried away in a pine box if she didn't leave voluntarily.

Alimony of $450 in a lump sum was ordered by Judge Avery.

Selden Edgar Wells of this city was granted a divorce from Hazel G. Wells of parts unknown on grounds of a statutory offense. They were married in Feb. 1924.

Although his son is now more than five years old, Adolph E. Sylvia of 3 Roosevelt street, New London, is still ignorant of the child's given name according to his testimony in court, when he was granted a divorce from Agnes Marcoux Sylvia of parts unknown on the grounds of desertion.

Sylvia testified that soon after the child was born his wife took the baby away and he has never learned what she named the boy. They were married Sept. 10, 1923. Custody of the child was given to the mother.

Della Rebillard Halliday, who resides in Starr hill, Groton, but who for the past year has been employed in New York, was given a divorce from John A. Halliday of parts unknown, on grounds of intolerable cruelty. They were married Nov. 23, 1920 and had no children.

The case of Irene Fowler Davis against George H. Davis went off the list, all of these cases being uncontested.

FIND CRIMINAL LIABILITY IN COLCHESTER ACCIDENT

In a finding made on the death of John Shea, 30, a Windham man who died after he was thrown out of an automobile in a collision last December on the Norwich-Colchester turnpike, about one mile east of Colchester, Coroner Edward G. McKay finds that Andrew Link, Jr., of Willimantic was criminally liable for the accident and has so notified the prosecuting officer of Colchester. Link is to be charged with manslaughter.

Link claimed after the accident that Shea was the driver of the car, but the coroner finds that Link was the driver of the machine in which Shea was riding and that Link was intoxicated. This machine was a Pontiac sedan, which Link owned, and which collided with a Ford roadster owned by the Southern New England Telephone Co. and driven by Henry J. Reis-El Bara.

In his finding Coroner McKay says in part:

At about 8:30 p. m., on Dec. 6th, 1929, the said Henry J. Reis-El Bara left Norwich for Hartford. He had been in Norwich on business, had finished the same, and had started for his home in Hartford. He proceeded up the said Norwich-Colchester turnpike and approached the above mentioned scene of the collision. At this time there was no car in front of him and no car in back of him. As he was driving up the hill, he saw the said Pontiac sedan approaching him from the west. As it came into view it was seen to swerve slightly to the right and then swerve again to the left. It was at that time going at a fast rate of speed and the said Reis-El Bara drove his car to the north side of the road, off the traveled portion thereof and close to the north bank. He brought his car to a stop while the other car was approaching him. The latter car, that is the Pontiac sedan, continued in its skidding movement toward the north side of the highway, approaching the Ford roadster in a side-long position, and said Pontiac sedan struck the Ford roadster, the left side of the Pontiac, in the vicinity of the left door, striking the left front of the Ford roadster. The Pontiac caromed off the Ford roadster and turned half way around, and came to a stop about in the middle of the highway, headed in a north-easterly direction, and about 15 feet from the Ford roadster.

When the Pontiac sedan struck the Ford and bounded away, the said John Shea was thrown out of the car and landed on the highway. He was rendered unconscious and remained there a short time before he was picked up and put into the Pontiac again. After the collision, said Reis-El Bara, who was himself injured, got out of his Ford, and went to a house at the top of the hill to get help. The said Andrew Link, Jr., received cuts about the face from flying glass. After the impact he remained at the driver's wheel and was doubtless saved from being thrown out by reason of his hold on the wheel.

As soon as help arived all of the three injured persons were taken to Dr. Pendleton's office in Colchester, where first aid was rendered to them. Reis-El Bara was then taken to Hartford, where he immediately entered the Hartford hospital. Said Shea and Link were taken to Willimantic and each went to his home. After Shea had been home during the night, he was taken to the hospital the next day in a serious condition. He was operated upon but his injuries were of a fatal nature and he died two days later.

In arriving at the responsibility for this collision and for the subsequent injuries to the drivers, and the fatal injuries to the passenger of the Pontiac sedan, I am convinced that this responsibility rests wholly upon Andrew Link, Jr. At the time of the collision he was considerably under the influence of intoxicating liquor and continued to be so for some time thereafter. His actions in the automobile immediately after the collision, his actions and behavior at the physician's office, and his own admision that prior to the collision he had taken of intoxicants, satisfy me that he was intoxicated when the collision occurred.

I am convinced that Andrew Link, Jr. was driving the Pontiac car at the time the collision occurred. He had denied that he was the driver and has asserted that the deceased John Shea was the driver of the car. However, all of the evidence, except the statement of Link, tends to prove that his contention is wrong, and that Shea was the passenger and not the operator.

There is no evidence to show that Shea was the operator of the said car at the time of the accident, nor is there any evidence to show that Shea was under the influence of liquor; in fact all of the evidence tends to prove that Shea was perfectly sober but suffering exceedingly after the accident.

The investigation of this fatality was exceptionally well conducted. Practically all of the evidence, material to the cause, was submitted. The state police department conducted the investigation efficiently and very completely. There was considerable testimony submitted for all persons of the collision and its attending circumstances.

I am satisfied and find that the death of John Shea was caused by the criminal act of Andrew Link, Jr., while operating a motor vehicle upon the highways of this state in an intoxicated condition, and that the said death was caused in consequence of his intoxication and of his gross and wilful misconduct, and I have so notified the prosecuting officer of the town of Colchester.

A musical club composed of Holy Cross students is giving concerts in western Massachusetts and New York state this week. John F. Delaney of Williams street, this city, a sophomore at Holy Cross, is first violin and is accompanying the club on its tour.

SYNAGOGUE CONGREGATION TO HAVE FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN

Announcement was made Friday that Feb. 23 has been set as the tentative date for a victory supper to be held by the Norwich Community synagogue to mark the opening of a campaign to raise $30,000 for the purchase of the Community house on Church street. The synagogue congregation has arranged to buy the building by the first of April from the present owners, the United Congregational church, at the price named.

The tentative date for the opening of the campaign was set at a meeting of the synagogue membership at the B'Nai B'rith rooms Thursday night in the Uncas Bank building. President Abner Schwartz presided and Louis Goldblatt, the secretary, read the minutes of the previous meeting. A report on the membership was made by Barney Rubenstein.

President Schwartz explained the purpose of the meeting, which he said was to organize a campaign to raise the $30,000. Rabbi Lipis of New York was the speaker of the meeting, and his address centered on ways of raising money for the fund. Rabbi Lipis stressed the fact that unity is needed for the success of the project and said that all must work together. He suggested that the matter of raising the money be left in the hands of a committee who could work out the campaign plans.

The visiting rabbi told of raising money by selling things within the synagogue, such as a window, upon which the donor might have his name inscribed. He advocated strongly another plan, that of dividing the synagogue into sections or pews, and allow the members to buy them. By this definite loyalty was given to the synagogue not only by the member himself but his entire family. In closing the speaker wished the local congregation success in their venture.

The following telegram from Nathan Levy, executive director, and Samuel M. Cohen, president of the United Synagogues of America, was read:

"United Synagogue of America expresses its best wishes for success at your meeting tonight. May your organization develop strength necessary to put Judaism in Norwich on a strong foundation."

At the meeting it was brought out that the men instrumental in securing the Community house for the Community synagogue were President Schwartz, Jacob A. Slosberg and Charles Gordon. There has been a $1,000 deposit given by the Community synagogue to United Congregational church, in connection with the purchase agreement.

If necessary, a mortgage is to be furnished by the Norwich Savings society and the following have signified their willingness to sign the mortgage note: Alex Pasnik, Louis Pollock, Abner Schwartz, Charles Gordon, William Israelite, Charles Sentler, Josiah Greenstein, Jacob R. Slosberg, Barney Rubenstein, Jake Savage, Morris Sussman, W. Schectman and Abe Levine.

Among those who spoke at the meeting were Atty. Josiah Greenstein, Louis Goldblatt, Charles Gordon, Louis Pollock, Joseph Lahn, Jacob Rabinovitch, Jacob Slosberg, Barney Rubenstein, Alex Pasnik and Abner Schwartz.

A motion was made by Attorney Greenstein that the board of directors be given a vote of confidence in making plans and carrying out a plan for a drive for funds for the new synagogue, and this was unanimously carried. The tentative date for the supper, which will mark the opening of the campaign, was then set at Feb. 23.

The meeting decided to call in a representative of a bureau in Boston, which conducts campaigns similar to the one planned here. Whether or not outsiders would conduct the campaign was not decided, this being left to the board of directors and an additional committee appointed.

WESTERLY BRIDGE TEAM WINS FROM ARCANUM

The bridge whist team of the Square and Compass club of Westerly scored its first victory in the present series with the Arcanum club in the play Friday at Westerly, where the Westerly men won four out of the six matches by the total score of 13,388 to 12,172, a winning margin of 1,216.

This was the last of the present series and next Friday night the teams will celebrate by having a banquet. The Arcanum men have a very comfortable lead on total score for the series.

BEQUEST OF $7,500 TO BACKUS HOSPITAL

A bequest of $7,500 to endow a bed in the W. W. Backus hospital of this city is contained in the will of Mrs. Lucy E. Peabody of Westerly. This is in memory of her parents, Ira Green Briggs and Lydia Andrews Briggs of Voluntown.

Other bequests are as follows: First Baptist church, Westerly; Voluntown Methodist church, Voluntown Baptist church, $1,500 each.

The income from a $15,000 trust fund is to be divided equally between the First Baptist church, Westerly, the Voluntown Baptist and Methodist church and the Voluntown school committee.

From another trust fund the Backus hospital and the Westerly hospital are each to receive $5,000 upon the death of certain relatives.

GAVE CHILD GUIDANCE ADVICE IN ADOLESCENCE

"Child Guidance" was the topic upon which Dr. E. Van Norman Emery of Yale university spoke Friday evening at Slater hall annex before a well attended meeting of the Norwich Mental Hygiene society. He was introduced by Mrs. Louis H. Walden who announced that the February meeting would be a joint meeting with the League of Women Voters.

Dr. Emery spoke particularly of the adolescent period in child guidance, declaring that the aim always to be held in mind was that the child at maturity should be a free individual to settle his own problems and have his own life to live.

He discussed several problems which confront the adolescent. These included the problem of self-support, which involves emancipation from the family dominance, the problem of the development of the love-life, and the employment of leisure time. It is tremendously important that there shall be constructive education as to the employment of leisure time, he declared.

In general children should be given freedom and responsibility to as great an extent and as early as it can safely be done.

METROPOLITAN FINDS ALCOHOLI DEATH RATE INCREASING

The year 1929 saw a slight increase in deaths from acute and chronic alcoholism among the 19,000,000 industrial policyholders of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The rate for 1929 was 3.4 per 1000,000, which compares with 3.3 in 1928. The actual number of deaths from this cause in 1929 was 3.4 per 100,000, which compares with deaths in 1928.

The alcoholic deathrate for 1929, according to the insurance company's records, is nearly six times that of 1920, the first year of national prohibition, in which the lowest mortality from alcoholism was recorded. The 1929 mortality rate is approximately double that of 1918, the final year of the World war, and nearly two and one-times as high as the figure for 1919, the "wartime prohibition" year.

The insurance company's report on this cause of death says: "The mortality from alcoholism has always been almost negligible in Canada, particularly in the Province of Quebec, where the Metropolitan has nearly 600,000 industrial policyholders, among whom there were only three deaths from this disease in 1929. In the wage-earning populations, at least, the alcoholism deathrate during the past eight years has been six times as high in the United States as in Canada.

MRS. F. A. MARYOTT DIES FOLLOWING HEART ATTACK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Jan. 31.— Mrs. F. A. Maryott, wife of Fred A. Maryott, local manufacturer, died tonight at her home on Seward street, shortly after 6 o'clock, following an acute heart attack. She was in her 68th year. Mrs. Maryott had been active for the past week and her death tonight was a shock to relatives and friends. She is a native of Woodstock, having been born there on May 24, 1862. Mrs. Maryott has resided in this city practically all of her life and is widely known here. She was a member of the First Baptist church and until a week ago was active in church affairs. Besides her husband, Mrs. Maryott is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Louis Wallen of Providence.

NEW EVIDENCE OF U. S. CLAIMS AGAINST GERMANY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31—(AP)—The United States laid before the mixed claims commission today new evidence in the claims this country has lodged against Germany on the contention that German agents destroyed approximately $35,000,000 of war supplies in America during the neutrality period.

The new evidence centers around the activities of Theodore Woznayk, at whose work bench started the fire in the Kingsland assembling plant at Kingsland, New Jersey, on January 11, 1917. Some of the claims arise from the destruction done by that fire.

Robert W. Boynge, the American agent, submitted various statements and documents from several witnesses to substantiate the contention that Woznayk was a German agent. Previous evidence by the German agent was that Woznayk appeared voluntarily after a futile 12 year search for him, protested his innocence, and offered new testimony regarding the disasters on which the claims are based.

Boynge presented files of secret reports of the Russian and British governments made prior to the Kingsland fire in support of his contention.

NEW LONDON FIRE ENGINE DRIVER'S WHOOPEE—WOMAN'S HAT ON SEAT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 31.—Roy C. Hart, 41 Montauk avenue, married and employed by the city as driver of the Nameaug Engine company's fire apparatus, was arrested tonight by State Police Officer James Dygert, of Groton barracks, charged with theft of an automobile and driving while under the influence of liquor. He is being held in bail of $2,500 on the former charge and as he did not obtain a surety on his bond, Hart was locked up. He will explain in the police court tomorrow.

The arrest of Hart was directly the result of his drinking. Olaf E. Hansen, 26 Masonic street, parked his Studebaker coupe near his rooming house this afternoon and when he discovered the car missing, he reported at police headquarters that it had been stolen. The police departments throughout the state as well as the state police were notified of the theft of the car and a watch was being maintained for it. Some time afterwards the state police received information that an auto had been wrecked in Center Groton. Officer Dygert found Hansen's auto against a telephone pole and badly damaged. Hart was with it and displayed unmistakable evidences of having been drinking. He was arrested, brought to New London police headquarters and locked up. Hart said that after leaving New London he drove to the Groton shore and there met a woman, who accompanied him to drinking resorts. When the wrecked car was found and Hart was arrested, the woman was not in or about the automobile, but her hat was found on the seat of the machine.

THREE RAIDS FRIDAY— LIQUOR FOUND IN TWO

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 31.—The police conducted three raids this afternoon. In two they were successful in finding evidence of violation of the liquor law, while in the other not a semblance of liquor was discovered. The first raiding force, Sergeant John Courtney and Patrolman Dennis Murphy and Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin went to a house on Winthrop street and armed with a search warrant. The officers easily gained admission to the house, but their search was not rewarded with success, for no beer or whiskey was found. The officers were convinced that the proprietress of the house observed the officers approaching and threw in a sink the liquor, which had been in a milk bottle. The second raid was at the house of Aroldo Secchiarola, 58 Goshen street. A raiding squad, consisting of Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith, and John Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Edward Skoczylas, Arthur Feeley, Dennis Murphy and William Riordan, provided with a search warrant issued by Judge Daniel M. Cronin, went to the house and when a thorough search was made a quantity of liquor was found. Secchiarola was held in bail of $1000 and will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow. The officers then went to the residence of Joseph Poro, 24 Goshen street. A search warrant for this house had also been issued and the officers, in delving into hiding places, found a small quantity of liquor. Poro was arrested and after furnishing a surety on his bond of $1000 was released. He will be in court tomorrow.

GUARDSMAN DETECTED IN DEGENERATE ACT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 31.— Pearl Bunner, of Cottage street, married and a member of the United States Coast Guard, was arrested tonight by Patrolman Louis Pine, charged with indecent exposure. In default of bail Bunner was locked up and will be in the police court tomorrow. Burner was arrested when the officer detected him exposing himself at the entrance to Williams Memorial park and following numerous complaints having been made to the police that such acts were a matter of frequency as women passed along Broad street.

This week plans for placing a memorial to Prof. Caroline A. Black in the botanical garden at Connecticut college were discussed by members of the Garden club at a meeting held at the house of Miss Emelie Learned in Church street. Prof. Black was an active member of the club and highly regarded by the members. Resolutions of condolence on her death were mailed by the club to Dr. Black's brother in Pittsburgh.

At the meeting, Miss Renee Varicle read a very interesting paper on Iris.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Nelson Smith

The funeral of Mrs. Roxanna O. Smith, widow of Nelson Smith, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from her residence at Lakes Pond, Waterford, the services being conducted by Rev. Charles E. Spaulding, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. Burial was in Lakes Pond cemetery.

Mrs. George White and infant son of 36 Franklin street, Mrs. Walter Moore, 144 Crystal avenue, and Mrs. Elijah Beaudette and infant daughter of Voluntown, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

The building at 15 Atlantic street, owned by Mrs. Edith Reid, New York, condemned several weeks ago, was sold today to John Scziglewski and Jack Lynch, both of Groton. The building, a two-story wooden structure, has been in an advanced stage of decay for a long time. Building Inspector William Gunn ordered the property condemned, which edict was approved by the city council.

Two trade name certificates were filed for record at the office of the city clerk today. One is the S. & S. Wrecking Co. and the other the S. & S. Auto Parts Co., and both are located in Waterford. The owners are Samuel Tanenbaum and Samuel Hodes, both of 81 Summer street.

Dinah Novitch of Waterford has sold to Asher Novitch, also of Waterford, a building on Main street.

The estate of Joseph N. Lapointe has sold to Battista and Erminia Bottinelli, two buildings on Pequot avenue.

Francis J. and Anna E. O'Connor have sold a house and lot on School street to Monica G. Mattison.

William Cole, 24 Clement street, reported to the police this afternoon that an automobile which he had been driving was damaged, but he could not explain how the damage was incurred. Cole, who is employed at a garage, said that he parked the car on State street a quarter of an hour and for a similar period the car was parked on Bank street. It was after Cole drove from Bank street that he discovered the damage. It is believed that the auto was struck by another car and that the driver did not take the trouble to report the accident or inform Cole of the manner by which the latter's machine was damaged.

Sarah Rose has sold her interest in the stock and fixtures in the restaurant, 157 Main street, to George Silvia.

Roderick V. James, 26 Cleveland street, was in the police court today, charged with failing to support his wife, Lila May James. The case was continued till tomorrow and James furnished a surety on his bond of $500.

Peter Mroz, 111 North Bank street, was charged with breach of the peace but the count was nolled. Mroz was arrested Dec. 29, last, upon complaint of his wife.

Police Sergeant Patrick Murphy is the latest member of the department to be stricken by illness. He is confined to his home, threatened with grip. Sergeant Samuel Hick was stricken Wednesday and a slight improvement in his condition was reported today.

MILITARY PHOTOGRAPHER NICHOLAS VON FILITZ DIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 31.—Nicholas Von Filitz, 67, well known military photographer, died this morning at his residence, Pine Grove, Niantic. He is survived by his wife. Mr. Von Filitz was born in Leipsig, Germany, but had resided in Niantic 40 years. He was for many years official photographer of the National guard at the Niantic camp. Mr. Von Filitz suffered a shock about six years ago, causing a partial paralysis of the left arm. About two weeks ago Mr. Von Filitz experienced severe pains of the head, a forerunner of the final termination of his career.

BEAUTY BARBER IS HELD FOR THEFT OF $875 BAR-PIN

Darrell S. McBarkley, 26, beauty barber at the Crocker House, State street, was arrested this morning by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh, charged with theft. He was held in bail of $2,500 for appearance in the police court tomorrow. In default of a surety, McBarkley was held a prisoner.

Although the act of McBarkley, which was the theft of a diamond and platinum bar-pin owned by Mrs. Spencer Brown, Crocker House apartments, and of the value of about $875, was stolen last June and the trinket was recovered by Sergeant Cavanaugh several weeks ago, McBarkley's arrest was deferred today because Mrs. Brown did not desire to cause McBarkley's apprehension, but with all of the facts in the case submitted to Prosecuting Attorney Max Boyer that official issued the warrant for McBarkley's arrest. McBarkley is married and formerly resided in Bristol, Conn.

McBarkley denied all knowledge of the theft of the brooch until recently, but he has now admitted the theft although he has not explained just in what manner he came into possession of the brooch, whether he removed it from Mrs. Brown's dress while he performed scalp and facial work on the barber shop patron or if he found it on the floor where it had dropped as Mrs. Brown prepared to leave the beauty parlor and return to her apartment.

The barber shop is in the same building as the hotel and Mrs. Brown was positive that she had the brooch clasped to her dress when she entered the chair. When Mrs. Brown arrived at her room she discovered the brooch missing and returned to the barber shop, where a search was made of the beauty parlor, but the jewel was not found, for McBarkley already was in possession of it. Later McBarkley went to Deep River where he gave the piece of jewelry to a woman acquaintance, stating that he had found the brooch, and requested his friend to take charge of it until he called again. The woman, realizing that the brooch was valuable, had it placed in a safe owned by a male friend. Sergeant Cavanaugh, several weeks ago, ascertained that McBarkley had taken the brooch to Deep River and when he obtained knowledge of the identity of the woman he went to that village. When the latter was found she readily admitted having taken the brooch from McBarkley. She accompanied the officer to where the jewel was in safe keeping and it was delivered to the officer. When the brooch was returned to Mrs. Brown and she was informed as to the identity of the thief, she refused to press a charge against McBarkley, so he escaped arrest until the information concerning the theft and recovery of the trinket was reported to Prosecuting Attorney Boyer.

FRAUD VICTIMIZES FILLING STATION FOLK

A slick fraudulent check passer is operating in the state and the police of this city, as well as in other cities, are maintaining a lookout for the fellow. A warrant for his arrest has already been issued by the authorities of Hartford. The crook makes a practice of going to gasoline filling stations and purchases a small quantity of gasoline or oil. In payment for the purchase, the crook tenders a check, the face amount of which is greatly in excess of the cost of fuel. The balance is given the crook in cash and a few days later it develops that the check is worthless. The checks are invariably signed by H. E. Hector as the maker and made payable to James R. Bowles.

Young Pawtucket Thieves

Norvelt Kirwin, 17; Joseph Sanford, 14, and Ernest Roach, 16, all of Pawtucket, R. I., were arrested here today by Sergeant John McGrath and Officer John Anderson of the New Haven railroad police. The youths were wanted in Pawtucket on a charge of theft. They were taken back to Pawtucket this afternoon by officers from that city. The boys were arrested at the union station, where a watch was being maintained for the trio.

At a meeting of the Past Pocahontas club, held last evening at the residence of Mrs. Jeanette Keenan, Winthrop street, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Robina Phillips; past president, Mrs. Alice Lockhart; vice-president, Mrs. Rose Minault; recording secretary, Mrs. Annie Burge; financial secretary, Mrs. Alice Dion; treasurer, Mrs. Jeanette Keenan; trustee, Mrs. Mary Burrows.

PITTSBURGH CHAS. WILLIAMS MAY NOT BE MURDERER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Jan. 31.—The murderer of Jacob Waheman, late of 25 Shapley street, may be under arrest in Pittsburgh, Pa. This afternoon the police of that city informed the New London police that Charles Williams, colored, was locked up there as a result of the circular from the New London department, together with a picture of Williams, received there requesting the Negro's arrest on the murder charge. While the prisoner bears the same name as that of the alleged murderer, there is a possibility that he is not the slayer of the New London man, for the Pittsburgh police stated that Williams was in jail the day that the murder was committed. The man now a prisoner at Pittsburgh was fined $25 and costs on a charge of theft, Jan. 15, three days after the slaying of Waheman, according to the police of Pittsburgh. However, the officers who arrested the Pittsburgh thief will look Williams over and if they identify him as their prisoner, Williams will be liberated and the search for the slayer resumed, for it will then be known that there is more than one Negro of the same name.

Williams' picture has been identified by several New Londoners, including two members of the police department, who state that the Negro is the sought-for murderer. Even two of the three colored prisoners now in jail here have identified positively the picture of Williams.

Williams, William Franklin, Linwood Farrell and Ernest Johnson, all colored, were in a Main street restaurant between 12 and 1 o'clock on the morning of Jan. 12. Waheman entered and after making a purchase left and was followed by Williams. On Shapley street, near Main, Williams beat Waheman and left the latter lying in the gutter. He sustained a fractured skull and succumbed to the injury two days later. Farrell claims to have seen Williams strike Waheman several times, for the former declares that he followed Williams as the barge hand trailed the former Shapley street resident.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre.

Once in a while there comes along a show like "Sally," the masterpiece in color now playing at the Palace theater. But only once in a while do we get such a beautiful combination of plot, stars, music, dancing and scenery. The "Gold Diggers" gave us a taste of this type of entertainment, but it did not reach its full flower until Marilyn Miller shook her dainty shoes across the boards and into the hearts of the movie public through the medium of "Sally."

It's a good story besides being a corking fine revue of dancing and singing, all in the finest natural color. The heroine is a waitress who can make and serve flapjacks with the good old touch. She is such a good dancer and she likes to step around so much that eventually she dances herself right out of a job by spilling a trayload of food into a customers lap.

This brings her to another position, not so exalted, but none the less, a job. She sets tables at a fashionable inn, and there meets an exceedingly handsome young man who has a very fine voice and knows lots and lots of good songs. He likes her and she likes him. She falls in love with him when he gets her a chance to do a dance in the inn, and that night while she is supposed to be sweeping up the rubbish, we see her getting in her practice for the next day's steps which, she hopes, are to bring her fame.

She has another friend too, a Duke, only he's an impoverished one, and has to help sweep up the restaurant floor. But he's a good fellow and practices steps with her and encourages her, and inasmuch as his title allows him to move in high society, he stands in the way of giving her a hand in case she ever needs one. She does need one shortly afterwards when she is parading as a famous Continental dancer at a Long Island garden party, and the Duke gallantly says he knows she is all she says she is, even though she is only Sally after all.

It's thoroughly delightful and there's no need of giving away the plot. Just come and see Sally and be convinced that she's the sweetest thing that has yet been put on the screen, not only the sweetest but the liveliest and merriest.

Broadway Theater

There are sisters and sisters, but probably none so famous as the two musical comedy and vaudeville stars, Rosetta and Vivian Duncan, who are featured in their latest all-talking production "It's a Great Life" which opens Greater Entertainment Month at the Broadway today. Playing their typical selves, Vivian is a demure, shy little blonde, lovable and loving, while Rosetta is a typical tomboy, rough and noisy, but loving her "kid sister" with a fierce devotion, almost savage in its intensity. Both are employed in Mandelbaum & Weil's huge department store, in which many side-splitting as well as dramatic scenes are filmed. The weekly "store sings" are a revelation to the younger sister and a pest to the older girl, who clowns her way along, ridiculing everything in life, and especially the sheikish piano-player in "sheet music," with whom she engaged in wordy battles day after day. The annual "store show" gives everyone a chance to show their stuff, with the two sisters walking away with all the honors, while the young pianist, as stage director, nearly has a nervous breakdown with the haps and mishaps of this typical amateur show. Their little act gives the sisters a chance to break into vaudeville, furnishing many highlights and intensely dramatic as well as riotously funny scenes. Lawrence Gray, Benny Rubin and Jed Prouty are prominent in the Duncan Sisters' large cast, heading a long array of stage and screen stars playing the store characters, and furnishing the marvelous chorus numbers, which are filmed entirely in natural colors.

The manager's personal comment after the "rehearsal" or "screening" which must precede the public showing of every talking-picture was "Here's a real sensation for the folks!" On the same bill is shown a sensationally fast revuette of colored life in Harlem's Darktown, "The Low-Down," one of the latest vitaphone releases, with Fred Keating, master magician, in an entertaining bit of foolery, and Dick Henderson in an amusing skit "The Church Festival." The latest Paramount Sound News completes a most interesting program, the first in Manager Fitz's marvelous line-up of knockout programs for Greater Entertainment Month, which starts today.

High Grade Moving Pictures At

At 4 o'clock in the big gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A. on tomorrow (Sunday) afternoon, the attractive and impressive moving picture feature, "Weary River," will be shown in eight reels.

This is a story of regeneration. A tale of a singing convict whose voice over the radio achieves for him a parole, a new life and the love of a friend who stood by him in the hour of direst need.

Outcast from society, a "down-and-outer," weary and worn, but love inspired him to speak his sorrowful soul through the genius of his music to fight for the better things in life, the way he had fought for the bad. A worthwhile cast and a splendid portrayal by Richard Barthelmess.

To this service the adult public sixteen and over is cordially invited, and youth under sixteen down to eleven may attend if accompanied by adults.

A free will offering will be taken.

Palace Theatre

Another high class attraction, in line with the many features that the Palace theatre has arranged for its patrons during the past few months, is being worked up by Manager Hamilton with the co-operation of several of the prominent local merchants.

According to announcement made last night by Manager Hamilton, articles valued at $800 will be distributed among his patrons, from the stage of the Palace, on Monday evening, March 31 the awards to be made without cost to anyone.

The list of articles to be distributed from the Palace gold mine are as follows:

(1) From the salesrooms of the City of Norwich gas and electric department, the latest design Westinghouse electric range, console type, valued at $200.

(2) From the salesrooms of Ferguson's, jewelry and silverware, a Paul Vallette ladies' diamond studded wrist watch, valued at $235.

(3) From the salesrooms of the O'Neil Electric Co., the latest model whirlpool electric washer, complete, valued at $150.

(4) From the salesrooms of the Plaut-Cadden Co., the new improved servel electric refrigerator, valued at $215.

Further particulars regarding this unusual offer may be had at the theatre. This and other big attractions booked for the Palace during the coming few weeks afford the theatregoers the treats promised them by Warner Brothers when they took over the local playhouse last September.

HEARING OF DERRICO GOES OVER FOR ONE WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Jan. 31—The Third District court Friday morning, Judge Oliver H. Williams on the bench, attracted a crowd, as many anticipated that the preliminary hearing would be given James Derrico, charged with the murder of Atwood Gardner on the tracks of the New Haven railroad, Jan. 18. Gardner's death from a pistol shot wound occurred later at the Westerly hospital.

When the Derrico murder case was called Prosecutor John Ferguson asked for a week's continuance. Attorney M. Walter Flynn, counsel for the defendant, stated that he could not voluntarily agree to a week's continuance and the case under the statutes could not be continued two weeks without an agreement, or a definite understanding when the case would be called. Judge Williams marked the case continued for one week.

Other court business was disposed of as follows: Criminal docket—State, Thomas E. Brown, vs. Alexander McColl. Continued one week. State, Oliver P. Crandall, director of public aid, vs. Edward J. Dennehey. Continued one week.

Civil docket—A. M. Gencarelli company vs. Frank Cella. Ready. Colonial Finance corporation vs. Fiore Peter Pignataro. Continued two weeks. Thomas Donovan vs. Traco Finishing Co. Inc. Defaulted and passed for proof of claim. Saxton and Co. vs. Regina Spinning Co. Continued nisi. Crown Prince Spinning Co. vs. Regina Spinning Co. Passed. John A. Mills vs. Harold A. Stockbridge. Defaulted and passed for proof of claim.

Judgment For Plaintiff

Trial docket—Action to recover $135 on supplemental contract was tried, Attorney John Ferguson representing the plaintiff, A. M. Gencarelli Co., and Attorney C. E. Roche for the respondent, Frank Cella. Antonion Gencarelli testified to an uncompleted contract for water-proofing the basement of the Cella block at the junction of West Broad and Mechanic streets in Pawcatuck, in which the basement was to be lowered by excavation for two feet and lally columns filled with cement placed to support the building, at the price agreed upon $485. When work stopped water was found to have worked its way through the walls and Mr. Gencarelli asked for a new arrangement in which he was to retire from the first contract and be paid $135 for his work, although costs had been considerably more. He said that relying on Mr. Cella's promise to get the money he had mailed a receipted bill for the amount but nothing had been received. Mr. Cella denied making a supplimental agreement and claims that the first contract stood. Judge Williams found for the plaintiff to recover in the sum of $146.56.

NEW JERSEY CAR SKIDS STARTING AN ACCIDENT

Patrolman George L. Sidel of Pawcatuck was called to the Moss Hill section of West Broad street shortly after noon Friday. Three automobiles were involved in a mixup. A post bearing direction signs for motor traffic was struck and knocked down by an automobile which ran upon the sidewalk in front of the home of Joseph Purill and turned over on its side. The Paige sedan which caused the smash was owned by Della Argush of No. 11 7th street, Weehawken, N. J., and driven by Isador Argush of 5701 Hudson Boulevard, North Bergen, N. J., who had, as a passenger, Rudolph Beck of 4 East 28th street, New York. It was bound for Washington, R. I., and had come over the top of the hill to proceed down West Broad street when it began to skid and struck the Hudson sedan owned by Rose Broomfield of 83 Harvard avenue, Brookline, Mass., and driven by Paul Broomfield of 170 Summer street, Boston. Other occupants of the car were R. Broomfield, 83 Harvard avenue, Brookline, Mass., and Mrs. Sarah Axelrod, 94 Williston road, Brookline. Mrs. Rose Broomfield and Mrs. Sarah Axelrod were taken from the overturned auto on the sidewalk to the home of Joseph Purtill where it was found the former had suffered from shock, bruises on her back and a sprained arm and the latter from general shock. There was not a pane of glass broken in the car. This motor party was bound to Florida where they proceeded by steam train. The left side of their car was badly damaged and the rear wheel broken and there was a bent frame and smashed mudguards and running board.

Following the Hudson up West Broad street was the Nash coupe owned and driven by Philatus H. Holt of 23 Fenway, Boston, who had a passenger. When he saw the cars collide, ahead of him and one turn over on the sidewalk, he crowded hard against the curbstone on the left side of the highway and came to a stop when the front end of his auto came into contact with an electric light pole. This auto soon proceeded on its way to New York.

Patrolman George L. Sidel of Pawcatuck visited Pawcatuck river bank late Friday afternoon at the end of Coggswell street in response to the complaint that five small boys were playing on ice which had made on the river edge and extended out only eight or ten feet over the channel. The officer made sure that such a dangerous pastime was ended and the boys on their way to their West Side homes before it was too late to prevent their slipping into the river water or the ice crumbling beneath them.

The committee in charge was Mrs. Mary Latham, chairman; Mrs. Bertha Ashcroft, Mrs. Gertrude Tourjee, Mrs. Gladys Brown and Mrs. Elizabeth Hobart.

Mrs. Alice Clark attended the annual session of the grand chapter, O. E. S. in Hartford, Thursday.

BIG-HEARTED CARPENTERS SHOW MERCY TO A GULL

Sea gulls are birds that hang around all winter. Cold weather doesn't bother them. A sea gull doesn't have to go south to get warm. In the worst storms of the winter you can see them flying around, also keeping the harbor clean of dead fish. If you see a gull flying over the land instead of the water, that is a sure sign of a storm the next day; it has never failed in the last 100 years—is better than a weather vane. The law book reads that if a sea gull is shot by a hunter or one not a hunter, there is a fine of $50. For they are birds that help do good work for their country.

When you are on a big steamer, like one coming from France, and all that you see is water for a week or more, and are looking for a tree to tie up to, then out of the sky will come the gulls following the steamer for something to eat flying high and low. Then the passengers on the ship can tell that land is near. For those white and gray birds will follow the ship to the dock, and what a happy crowd are those on deck, to see those birds, sometimes in the midst of a snow storm. The gulls build a nest, and it is not long before a family will be flying around, more sea gulls to keep the river clean.

A few years ago a fishing vessel was coming to the fishing village from Georges Banks. As the crew was having their dinky tea, known to all the salts as a sea bass chowder, and when Capt. Silas Newel was lighting up his pipe in the cabin, in flew a gull after something to eat. The bird was hungry and thin as a soda straw, not afraid, although the ship was over a 100 miles out from land. The poor bird got lost from his pals, so the far-away bird got some feed and stayed on the good ship until almost in sight of land. The crew knew they were getting near land, for soon the gull flew away. Then how happy those old salts were, for it was the first time they saw a sight of land in five weeks. The craft had 275 swordfish on board. Mate Billie Olring claimed that the sea gull would bring them good luck, the best of the year.

So the gull is a useful bird, tells the weather, also follows the ships to the dock and brings luck to the fishing men. Thursday, at Groton Long Point, one of the leading summer places from here to California, where $40,000 and $50,000 houses are building, on one of the best beaches in the United States, the wind was blowing around 45 miles an hour, and a gull was trying to fly with his pals, but it was no use. Down in the water the little year-round bird would go and try hard to rise. Seeming to be in pain, again he would try to bend his wings to the January air. The gull made the shore, but fell right over, then got up and was walking up Shore avenue, trying to find a place to rest. Some Springfield carpenters were working on a big house, but the weather was so windy they could not work outside. One of them looked out the window and saw a parade, but only one in it, coming up Shore avenue, like a traffic cop doing his stuff. Once in a while it would fall in pain. One of the carpenters went out and picked up the poor bird, took him into the house and found it had a broken wing. That bird was some glad to have a place to rest, getting some crackers and a dish of milk, the crippled bird was fed and was glad to put that under his belt. It was the largest gull ever seen around these parts. Its beak was six inches long and the wing-spread about 39 inches from tip to tip. Sea gulls have no doctor to tie up their injured wings, so Mike McMahon, who knows about birds from the first page of a bird book to the last, gently put some salve on the wing and put a bandage on it. All day the crippled bird soldier seemed to have a little ease from the pain, he was not afraid of the working men.

To see a gull's wings go along so nice with the wind, you think, "If an airplane could sail its wings like them it would be come safe to travel! No accidents would be on the front page of the papers!"

Many people don't know how much hardship a sea gull goes through trying to get something to eat with the harbor frozen over and ships tied up at the docks, one has to feel sorry for these poor birds. Sparrows have bird houses to go into when the snow is on the ground with a few crumbs of bread in sight for them, but when the darkness comes on the seven seas the sea gulls have no place to hang their hat to call a home—only the wave to rest their head on, or the top of a spile. They don't know where their next lunch is coming from.

As the carpenters were putting away their tools for the day the unlucky bird was there, nice and warm. So the man who is up in all the bird tricks cut off the cloth and saw the hurt wing was in good shape. He said, "Well, old timer, that call will cost you $2." The gull looked at him enough to say, "You will have to charge it until my wife comes from her shopping trip with the money!"

The lonely gull was put outside to see if he could fly, and it was not long before he was in the air again, shaking his tail at the kind carpenters, who went home feeling happy for their good deed.

MYSTIC

The fourth quarterly conference was held with a very good attendance at the local Methodist parsonage Monday evening by Rev. Myron E. Genter of Norwich, district superintendent. The various departments of the church gave their reports, and plans were made for the coming year. By a unanimous rising vote, Rev. and Mrs. William M. Newton were requested to be allowed to return for another year. Both are very well liked by all and are ready and willing workers. Mr. and Mrs. Newton thanked those present for the request. Whether they stay or not will be decided later and by the appointing powers. The annual conference will be held in New Lodon April 2. The trustees of property, elected formerly, were reported thus: Ira F. Noyes, George W. Wallace, C. C. Potter, James W. Jackson, Arthur H. Board, Harry B. MacKenzie, A. M. Taylor, John Tedford and Samuel DeMooy. The board of stewards elected for the coming year comprises I. F. Noyes, disbursing steward; J. W. Jackson, connectional steward; A. M. Taylor, recording steward; H. B. MacKenzie, district steward; Mrs. Ellery Burdick, communion steward; Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Wallace, J. W. Jackson, William Stott, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Gremley, Harry Board, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Neff, Mrs. J. O. Payne, C. E. Gremley, Mrs. Ira Decker, Mrs. Leonard Allyn, Mrs. Arthur Board, Mrs. Charles L. Crouch, Mrs. W. H. Croucher, Samuel DeMooy, Herrell Brown, Mrs. A. M. Taylor, Mrs. Robert Adamson, Mrs. Ruth A. McDougall and Miss Gladys Barber. Superintendent of Sunday school, George W. Wallace; president of Epworth league, Chester Gremley; president of Ladies' Aid society, Mrs. Ellery Burdick; president of Home Missionary society, Mrs. G. W. Wallace; exhorter, Samuel DeMooy. The following committees were elected: Membership, I. F. Noyes, C. C. Potter, Mrs. G. W. Wallace and Mrs. J. O. Payne. Music, Mrs. Ruth McDougal, Mrs. Mabel LaFerrier and Miss Elizabeth Gremley. Religious education, G. W. Wallace, Mrs. A. H. Board, Miss Gladys Barber and Miss Gertrude Denman. Finance, C. C. Potter, I. F. Noyes, G. W. Wallace, Mrs. Ellery Burdick, Mrs. I. C. Decker and H. R. Auditing accounts, G. W. Wallace and Mrs. I. C. Decker. Church records, H. B. MacKenzie, A. H. Board and Mrs. W. H. Croucher. Parsonage and furniture, officers of the Ladies' Aid society, I. F. Noyes and H. B. MacKenzie. Pastoral relations, I. F. Noyes, C. C. Potter, G. W. Wallace, Mrs. I. C. Decker and Mrs. A. C. Taylor. Nominations, A. M. Taylor, A. H. Board, Mrs. J. O. Payne and Mrs. C. L. Crouch. Trier of appeals, C. C. Potter. The pastor is a member of the above committees. At the close of the meeting Mrs. W. M. Newton served cake and cocoa.

Mrs. Charles H. Hoxie returned Thursday to her home in Arlington, Mass., after visiting her mother, Mrs. Frank Foote, and her sister, Miss Bertha W. Foote.

Friends here have received cards from Miss Clara Whipple who is spending the winter in Sarasota, Fla.

Miss Anna Larkin, who has been confined to her home for many weeks, is somewhat improved and is able to be about the house a bit.

James E. Oliver, who has been head repairman at the Groton and Stonington bus terminal, Water street, Mystic, has been transferred to Saybrook, Conn., and has moved his family there. Earl D. Finney has been advanced to head repairman in the local company.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ravenelle are entertaining Miss Rieta Morin of Philadelphia.

To Wed Taftville Man

A surprise party was given Miss Elizabeth Hermine Eckstein last Saturday evening by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Eckstein, at their home on Pearl street. A salad supper was served and during this time, Mr. Eckstein announced the engagement of his daughter, Elizabeth, to W. J. O'Brien, of Taftville. The wedding will take place in June. Mrs. Eckstein was assisted in serving by her daughter, Miss Catherine Eckstein. Guests were present from Westerly, Norwich, Taftville and Mystic.

Groton Taxpayers Mad

Groton taxpayers are very indignant, many of them having just received their lists of re-assessed property. One taxpayer having bought a small building lot in the rear of his home about five years ago, for a certain amount has been taxed over 7 times that amount this year. Even the foundation that the house is built on is listed as taxed, also any cement that may be around the house. It is to be feared that the board of relief will have a hot time of it, when they meet. The taxpayers are mad. It isn't that they are not willing to pay a little higher tax, but it is the idea that their taxes have been raised, in some instances, almost three times as much as they were last year, small buildings going in at exorbitant prices.

At the mid-week prayer meeting of Old Mystic Methodist Episcopal church next Wednesday evening, the Woman's Home Missionary society is to be in charge. The president, Mrs. Bessie Medbury, will present the last chapter of the book "Crowded Ways," which they have been studying.

John H. Carville, of Mystic, was elected one of the assistants to the grand sentinel at the annual banquet and dance of the Grand chapter, O. E. S. held in the Hotel Bond in Hartford, Wednesday. John Paton and J. Harold Thorpe, of Mystic, attended the meeting.

The Harmony Sewing society has been formed in the village. The club will meet every two weeks at the homes of the various members. The first meeting was held Wednesday, with Mrs. Harriet Brainard.

The O. N. T. club of West Mystic met Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Walter Swan at Willow Point, West Mystic. An enjoyable afternoon was spent by those present and an Oriental supper was served by the hostess. Those present were: Mrs. Daniel Henderson, Mrs. Webster Prentice, Mrs. Charles Welles, Mrs. George Foley and Mrs. Swan.

STONINGTON

The board of assessors of the town of Stonington, R. L. Burtch, I. F. Noyes and F. Rogers, has completed the assessing of the 1928 list and has filed the abstract with the town clerk, Elias B. Hinckley, showing an increase over last year of $2,467,478. This is due to the re-valuation of property done last spring by a committee of eight. Following are the grand totals of the five districts: Net assessors value, $11,794,555; exemptions of blind and etc., $203,698; gross assessors value, $11,998,253; 2409 houses, $4,500,109; 1669 barns, $446,470; 3628 house lots, $1,470,575; 218 buildings of commerce, $623,500; 61 mills, $2,159,800; 20,080 acres, $622,035; quarries, $1,400; 33 1-2 acres, shell fish, $120; 180 horses, $9,855; 1,070 neat cattle, $83,100; sheep, $5,077; carriages, $1,400; 2354 autos, $677,460; watches, $250; furniture, $74,160; farm implements, $4,205; goods of manufacturers, $810,770; cables, $125,605; fisheries, $300; boats, $46,895; excess credit, $1,314; tangible property, $4,900; ten per cent additions for failure to file lists, $79,062.

The vital statistics for the town of Stonington for 1929 show: Births, 115; marriage, 104; deaths, 110.

Capt. Isaac Gavitt returned Thursday from a visit with his son in Dexter, N. Y.

Capt. C. E. Peckham, of the Fishers Island coast station, was here Thursday.

Congressman R. P. Freeman, republican, of Connecticut, has proposed a bill to the house, asking that the United States government relinquish the small tract of land known as Stonington Point to the borough. It is the plan of the borough and several local organizations to establish a plaza on the point in commemoration of the defense during a three-day bombardment by the British fleet in August, 1814. Less than 100 feet away is the former lighthouse now owned by the Stonington Historical society, a number of relics of the famous battle are kept. Hundreds of summer tourists visit here each year. An excellent view of Fishers Island, and little Narragansett Bay is obtained from this point.

Eighty two reservations are administered by the bureau of biological survey in an effort to afford nesting, feeding, or resting grounds for water birds, and breeding grounds for birds and wild animals threatened with extinction.

Fresh New Merchandise Arrives
For the First Saturday In February

With the arrival of February comes renewed interest in the Spring Fashions. Quite evidently, it is to be a season of bright and varied colors. PRINTS are showing up strong in the new spring dresses, although plain shades share in the popular preference.

VARYING DRESS LENGTHS FOR VARIOUS OCCASIONS

Instead of one dress length for all occasions, as in preceding years, this season provides a discriminating length for each occasion. For Sports wear FOUR inches below the knee. For daytime SIX inches below the knee. ANKLE length for dining and dancing.

IMPORTANT FASHION DETAILS IN CHOOSING YOUR COSTUME

Sportswear is a dominating fashion theme. Suit ensembles are highly regarded by many style experts. Cape treatments and cap sleeves will be favored. Other trends are toward gored skirts, low placed pleats, peplums and soft necklines.

Experiment Station Record

A record of the Connecticut Agricultural station's work for almost its entire existence has just been published by the station. It is the Fifty Years' Index, 1877-1927, bulletin 308 compiled by Dr. E. H. Jenkins, director emeritus.

Methods which revolutionized the breeding of corn, America's most valuable plant, were developed at the station by Dr. Donald F. Jones and the growing of shade tobacco in Connecticut, now a large agricultural industry, was first a station project.

Spraying as a means of control for plant pests, which originated in France, was introduced into the United States by the experiment station.

The following is the summary of the work of the assessors just concluded:

The Famous McAllister China

By ELSA BRANDEN

WHEN FATE, IN THE GUISE OF A THREE CENTURY OLD TRADITION JOINS HANDS WITH CUPID, WHAT CAN MERE MORTALS DO?

EXACTLY one month had passed since Jane Rogers, parlormaid, had been installed in the magnificent McAllister home on 5th avenue. In deep contentment she sprawled on her bed and counted and recounted her first month's wages.

She experienced an indescribable thrill at the touch of these bills—the very first she had ever earned. But the next moment she threw them down beside her on the bed and laughed a trifle ironically as she realized that there was once a time when she had thought nothing of spending in one afternoon, this amount, which represented an entire month's reward for her labors.

Well, she supposed that was life—one moment being way up, the next way down. And, after all, things went rather smoothly with her here and she had no reason for complaint. She was housed and fed and treated courteously by all those around her. She was allowed two hours to herself each afternoon, in which to do just as she pleased, and all her evenings were her own.

Taking everything into consideration, it had really turned out much better than she had expected. There was Mrs. Fields, for instance, that somewhat formidable, but nevertheless kindly soul who was employed as housekeeper in this interesting menage, and who had proved to be a real friend in need to whom she could turn at any time. Goodness knows, without her help she would never have obtained her position in this household—and then where would she be, with her inexperience?

Yes, things ran smoothly enough—except, perhaps, for that decidedly annoying person Wiggins, the butler. There was something slimy about Wiggins, she felt. She imagined him to be the sort of person who would save his own skin at all costs in any emergency. It was often rather difficult for her to resist a desire to slap him for his manner toward her was most certainly too familiar. He had hinted several times that she spend the evening with him at some motion-picture place or dance hall, and each time she had politely but firmly refused the invitation. He would return in a few days and make new overtures. Really she couldn't go out with a person like that, even though she realized that her continued refusals might cost her her place here. 'Oh, well,' she murmured half aloud, 'he's really not worth thinking so much about!'

Thus Jane airily dismissed the troublesome Wiggins from her mind and turned her thoughts to the unquestionably more attractive person of Hugh McAllister, her employer.

He was so tall and broad-shouldered and had such forceful impressive manners. Jane thought he had the warmest, most winning smile and the most charming speaking voice of any man she had ever encountered. Why, that man had everything in his favor. Not only was he fortunate enough to be young and good-looking, but he had the added advantage of having sprung from one of the oldest and finest American families and possessed heaps and heaps of money. No wonder he was so much sought after by every one of social importance, no wonder he was virtually bombarded with invitations and besieged on all sides by well-meaning mammas who gazed upon him fondly and longingly as a most desirable son-in-law. Somehow he had managed to elude their wily grasp and, at 32, still retained his single state.

Jane was glad about that, though it wasn't very obvious to her as to how she might expect to benefit from the fact that Hugh McAllister was a bachelor. The man never even noticed her about the place. In all probability he did not so much as know her name, she reflected ruefully. But that did not alter the fact that she admired him intensely and that long before she had come to work in his household she had looked upon him as the ideal of any young girl's romantic dreams. She had always hoped to meet him some day but could not know then that a time would come when she would be his parlormaid. Jane sighed.

"This world certainly is a topsy-turvy sort of place."

HER thoughts were abruptly interrupted by the sound of a gong that reverberated through the house, warning her of the fact that her two hours' respite was up and that she must hurry downstairs to her duties. Springing up from her bed, Jane seized a freshly laundered apron, which she hastily donned, and ran down the back stairs to take her orders from Wiggins.

Wiggins' features brightened perceptibly as Jane entered the spacious butler's pantry. He liked this pretty little girl and meant to have her like him, too, despite those funny little airs of hers and that "touch-me-not" manner. Did she think she was better than he?

As for the other servants in the McAllister household, they didn't quite know how to take this newcomer. They liked her well enough, but resented her aloof attitude. At first they had questioned her in a good-natured way but had been unable to gather much information about her. As a matter of fact, she had volunteered nothing outside of the simple statement that her name was Jane Rogers, she had no family and that it was through Mrs. Fields that she had been installed as parlormaid in the McAllister home.

Jane went about her work cheerfully and in a surprisingly efficient manner. Under Mrs. Fields' tutelage she had learned in an incredibly short time, to perform her duties with irreproachable accuracy. Usually she was through with her work before any of the others and offered her assistance in another quarter.

Each day Jane went through her routine in the McAllister household. With dustcloth in hand, she made her way through the dining room, the sitting room, the music room and the library, carefully dusting off each rare and precious bit of bric-a-brac, each magnificent and costly objet d'art intrusted to her care.

The greater part of the day Jane spent in the McAllister library since that was the room that the master regarded with the most pride, and it was required of her to keep things in perfect order there.

She was not at all averse to this arrangement, for, along with the dust she acquired information on many intriguing subjects. Then, too, she admitted to herself, since this was his favorite haunt when he was in town, there was the exciting possibility of obtaining an occasional glimpse of him.

Hugh McAllister had been away from his New York residence for several weeks now and no one had missed him, she supposed, except herself. She had read in the Sunday papers that he was being entertained, together with other socially prominent people, on the yacht of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Chase and their daughter Pauline. She couldn't help feeling a jealous twinge at the time.

THE days passed peacefully and uneventfully for Jane Rogers, parlormaid, until one fateful day when a bomb, figuratively speaking, burst before her startled eyes.

Jane entered the pantry and found the servants in a veritable uproar over some piece of news.

"What is it?" she asked Nora the cook, her voice quivering with apprehension. "Tell me," she repeated a trifle sharply, "what is it, Nora?"

"Mr. McAllister's secretary just got word that the master's comin' home two weeks from today and that we should all get ready for him," Nora told her.

"Oh, is that all?" Jane breathed in relief.

"No, it's not all by a long shot," Nora retorted. "Just hold your horses and I'll tell you the rest. The master," she continued with exasperating slowness, "if you please, is engaged to be married to Miss Pauline Chase and there's to be a big dinner at which there will be a formal announcement made. Now what I want to know—"

But Jane heard no more. She was gasping for breath. Hugh McAllister engaged to be married. Oh, no, it couldn't be. But Nora had just said there was to be a formal dinner.

Jane interrupted Nora's flow of words. "When—when is the dinner?" she asked faintly, making an effort to pull herself together lest Nora's suspicions be aroused.

"The secretary says it's to take place the first of next month. Meanwhile, we've got to give the house a thorough overhaulin'. The decorator and the florist have their orders and I've got to get up a swell feed. Just you wait and see the kind of dinner I'll have for them," Nora boasted. "And what's more, it's to be served on the famous McAllister china—the same as was used at the engagement dinner of Mr. McAllister's great-grand-parents. It's got to be unpacked and washed—and heaven help the one who puts a nick into one of them plates! That china there is a heirloom, y'know."

"Yes, yes," Jane replied rather impatiently. "I know about the famous McAllister china."

Who indeed didn't know the story connected with the famous McAllister china? Time and again art dealers had endeavored to buy this magnificent old set, but no amount of money could tempt the owners to part with it.

The famous McAllister china first came into possession of Hugh's great-grandparents when it was presented to them as an engagement present from the Princess Royal of England. It was a distinctive pattern that was made for the use of royalty. But as Hugh's great-grandmother had been the Princess' favorite lady-in-waiting, she had received, at the time of her engagement to Ward McAllister, the exquisite china which had remained intact to this day. To add to the romantic flavor of it all, it was said that the breaking of one of the pieces in this famous set of china would mean the breaking of some tie, establishing a crisis in the life of any living McAllister.

Originally there had been three of these sets in the whole world. One of them remained in Buckingham Palace, the greater part of the set having unfortunately been broken in the course of years.

Another set belonged to the McAllister family, and it was the most famous of the three, inasmuch as it had been kept intact for four generations.

The third set could no longer be traced since it had changed hands a number of times. It had been on display in a private collection for a while, then a dealer had bought it. After that several wealthy American and English families had owned it in turn, and finally it had completely vanished and no one knew what became of it. It was thought that, piece by piece, it had been eventually broken.

The very day that the servants learned of their master's engagement, the famous McAllister china was unpacked and cleaned under Mrs. Fields' supervision. No rite could be performed with more care and ceremony. Great relief was experienced in the servants' quarters when this task was accomplished and the china rested in all its resplendency in a handsome old cabinet in the dining room.

Wiggins proposed that they all go out and celebrate the occasion, to which they readily agreed. That is, every one but Jane agreed, since Jane never went with them on their little sprees.

Wiggins gazed at the little parlormaid inquiringly. "How about you, Jane? Coming along?"

"Why, no, I think not," she hurriedly told him in a low voice, taking care to avoid his eyes. "I—I've something to attend to tonight."

"Oh, very well, Miss High-and-Mighty, I guess we can get along without you!" was his sarcastic rejoinder.

HER cheeks flushed, Jane turned and left him. Well, no use to be silly and make a fuss over it. She'd just go up to her room and read a while.

But Jane did no reading that night. She did, however, shed many tears and indulge in much self-pity. For an hour or so Jane twisted and turned everything around in her mind, growing increasingly bitter over her own lot. And then, all at once, along with her heartache, she felt a tremendous void in the region of her stomach.

A quick survey of the icebox revealed grapefruit, lamb chops, salad and strawberry shortcake. Well, that wasn't so bad, she reflected, her low spirits rising in spite of herself at the prospect of an appetizing meal.

But thinking of the simple and solitary dinner which she was about to prepare for herself also brought to mind that other dinner scheduled for the near future, when Hugh McAllister, with his fiancee, Pauline Chase, beside him would eat off those marvelous old dishes now resting in state in the dining room in honor of their engagement.

As she visualized this picture a wave of rebellion surged up in Jane's soul and she asked herself rather naively: "Why should she have everything and I nothing? Why is she entitled to sit in that dining room with him and eat off those beautiful dishes while I must be content with a bite in the servants' hall? It isn't fair; it isn't fair! I want nice things too! I'm starved for them! What's more, I simply won't eat my dinner in this old room tonight!"

So it came about that Jane Rogers, parlormaid—a quiet, demure little thing as a rule—did a very rash thing. Bubbling over with her own bravado, she tiptoed into the dining room and, despite the stern glances leveled at her by numerous McAllister likenesses which adorned the walls she threw a lace scarf over the long, massive table, upon which she placed a gorgeous antique candelabrum. Next she opened the cabinet in which reposed the famous McAllister china.

Jane stared. Surely she had seen these dishes before. In some excitement she took out the huge meat platter together with a few other dishes. These she examined closely, wonderingly.

She was not a little thrilled at her own daring as she placed her two lone chops in the center of the big ivory-tinted platter, with its colorful, unique border. She stood still for a moment and gazed in fascination upon this platter which was wont to hold, in years gone by, enormous roasts or quails, or wild duck, or perhaps rosy sucklings.

"I suppose," she whispered, fright momentarily seizing her, "I'd lose my place here if this were found out! But, then, who need ever know? The servants are out and I'm all alone in the house. Besides, there's surely no harm in it!" Reasoning thus, Jane threw all precaution to the winds. Seizing the enormous impressive-looking platter, upon which reposed her tiny chops, she carried it in triumph through the kitchen door.

As she entered the dining room Jane's eye caught another pair glaring down at her. They were the eyes of Ward McAllister, Hugh's great-grandfather, whose picture hung in an antique frame on the dining-room wall. The candlelight gave them a peculiar, live glint that caused Jane to tremble instinctively.

The next moment a tremendous crash echoed through the room as Jane stared in pained bewilderment at the countless fragments scattered over the rug. She gave a low cry and dropped to her knees, her eyes glued in horror upon the debris.

JUST then a door opened and Wiggins stood beside her. "Jane," he asked sharply, "what have you done? Why, that's the famous McAllister china you've broken!"

Jane wrung her hands. "Yes, yes," she sobbed. "I've broken it! Oh, tell me, Wiggins," she implored him frantically, "what shall I do about it? I simply can't face Mr. McAllister!"

Wiggins thought for a moment and then advised her. "Don't say anything and it will never be missed. Well just clean this mess up now, before the others get back. We'll keep it a secret between the two of us!"

"But," Jane reminded him anxiously, "there's the dinner. It will surely be missed then. Besides, I'd feel so terribly guilty if I kept this to myself."

"Now you listen to me, my girl, and don't do anything foolish. When the time comes when it's missed, you know nothing about it. See?"

"But that would be wrong," Jane protested, rather weakly.

"Tut, tut! Never you mind about that. You've got too much conscience, that's what. Come, now, and sweep this up or we'll be caught."

With much misgiving and remorse Jane obeyed him. Then she retreated to her room, a drooping woebegone figure, to spend a sleepless night, brooding over the dreadful accident.

From then on Jane knew little peace, for when she entered the dining room with her dustcloth each day it seemed to her that many eyes were bent upon her accusingly. At night her little room was haunted by the spirits of dead McAllisters, whose presence there was a reproach, keeping her guilt ever fresh in her mind.

She resolved to go to Mrs. Fields, the housekeeper, and confess everything to her, but somehow she could never summon together enough courage.

To make matters worse, Wiggins, her fellow conspirator, was daily becoming more objectionable. She would look up suddenly to find him grinning and winking an eye at her, or else he would edge up to her and pat her shoulder and whisper into her ear. And there was nothing she could do about it! It was all dreadful! She felt bound hand and foot for she could not openly show and resentment toward Wiggins, considering what had happened.

Then the day came when Hugh McAllister arrived. Jane was busy setting things to rights in the library. For the first time in days she felt happy and hummed a popular little tune as she dusted off the familiar volumes. She was in the midst of her task when her employer entered and saluted her with a pleasant smile.

Jane's heart pounded unmercifully and the color rushed to her face. She experienced an insane desire to throw herself at his feet and tell him everything that had occurred. He couldn't be angry about it—not with those eyes of his. But, somehow, she was rooted to the spot and her lips remained sealed. On other occasions when she encountered him about the house she was on the point of making a confession but never actually came to it.

ONE morning, soon after McAllister's arrival, Jane was busy at work in one of the rooms when Wiggins entered. That he had come because he knew she was there was evident to Jane.

Without a moment's hesitation, Wiggins walked up to her and said in a queer, choked sort of voice: "See here, girlie, you haven't been treating me right. You're always refusing to go out with me. Say, what's the big idea of high-hatting me, anyway? Why can't you be a little nice, huh?"

"Oh, please, Wiggins, don't," Jane begged him.

Ignoring her appeal, he moved closer to her. "Can't you see I'm crazy about you? Haven't I always treated you right? Be a good sport, Jane, and slip us a kiss."

"No, no!" Jane cried, in genuine alarm, for she had never seen Wiggins quite like this before.

Her refusal appeared to infuriate him. Seizing her in his arms, he attempted to draw her to him. But Jane was not the weak little thing he supposed. Fighting him off with every atom of her strength, she managed to free herself and made a dash for the door. To her surprise it opened, and in walked Hugh McAllister.

"Just a moment," he said. "What's up here?" His eyes traveled from Jane's white face to the disheveled figure of Wiggins, cursing softly to himself.

"He—he insulted me!" Jane succeeded in blurting out.

McAllister looked at his butler gravely. "Wiggins, what have you to say for yourself?"

"It's a lie, sir!" the man denied hotly. "I—I was just scolding her for what she done. She's gone and broke the set, sir—the big platter belonging to the famous McAllister china."

Gravity gave way to surprise at this statement and, turning toward Jane, McAllister asked: "Is it true what he says? Have you really done this?"

For answer Jane broke into a torrent of tears.

"Wiggins," McAllister said quietly, "you may go for the present. I will attend to you later. But I wish you," he addressed his wretched parlormaid "to remain and explain matters."

She began by asking McAllister, seated in a chair opposite her, to forgive her. "I don't know what got into me that night," she told him in faltering tones, "to make me do such a perfectly crazy thing. I—I just wanted to eat off that china. It seemed to hold an irresistible attraction for me. It was an awful thing for me to do, Mr. McAllister, I know, but won't you please forgive me? I've been so miserable about it and I've really meant to tell you."

His silence drove Jane to go on. "There's the engagement dinner," she reminded him, striving to speak of it lightly. "The set can't be used now since it's incomplete—"

"The dinner has been called off," McAllister informed her shortly.

She echoed his words faintly. "Called off?"

"Yes, my engagement to Miss Chase has been broken by mutual consent," he explained. "We decided we were unsuited to one another, though I really can't see," he added dryly, "what that has to do with this matter."

"Oh, I'm so glad," escaped from Jane involuntarily.

Hugh McAllister looked a bit startled. "What did you say?" he demanded.

"Nothing, nothing!" stammered Jane.

"Oh, yes, you did," he contradicted. "I heard you perfectly. You said you were glad. May I ask why?"

Jane was enveloped in utter confusion. She looked away and her voice quivered. "I—I happen to know Miss Chase—and—well, I never liked her very much—"

"Hm—that's very interesting. But about this china platter, just when did you break it?"

The date was irrevocably burned in Jane's memory. "Last Tuesday evening," she told him.

"Why, by Jove," he exclaimed in some excitement, "that's queer. That was the very night Pauline and I broke off our engagement. It looks as though there's something to that legend, after all!"

They stared at each other in puzzled amazement. Then Jane found her voice and broke the spell. "Mr. McAllister," she said, "I happen to know where I can lay my hands on a meat platter which is the exact duplicate of yours. Will you allow me to replace the platter I was careless enough to break with this other one?"

Hugh McAllister appeared amused. "Good heavens, child!" he ejaculated, "where on earth could you find a replica of the famous McAllister china, unless you've been reckless enough to break into Buckingham Palace and carry it off? You haven't done that, I hope?"

"Oh, it's true," said Jane. "I have a platter like yours and I do wish you'd take it."

Hugh McAllister looked at his parlormaid curiously. "If what you are telling me is the truth," he said, now perfectly serious, "how did you come to be in possession of such a rare and costly set?"

JANE squirmed uncomfortably under her employer's gaze. She hesitated for a moment, then explained, one word tumbling over the other in her rush. "It's a long story. You see, I'm not Jane Rogers, as you suppose, nor am I an honest-to-goodness parlormaid. I've been deceiving you and all the others here, except Mrs. Fields, but I don't feel that I can go on with it any longer, considering all that has happened. My real name is Janet Rutledge."

"Rutledge. Not the daughter of Carlton Rutledge, the cotton broker who kil—who recently died?"

She nodded. "The papers were full of my father's death. He thought it was the only way out for him when he discovered that he had nothing left."

"But what ever prompted you to come here as a parlormaid?"

"When father left me so suddenly," she told him, "I found myself sadly in need of money and I didn't know where to turn. Of course I have lots of relations and friends who offered to help me, but simply couldn't bear their condescending patronage or bring myself to accept any favors from them. I knew they meant well, but I was dreadfully sensitive about it all. I determined to go to work. Then the problem confronted me as to what I could do, for I was never trained for a job, you know. But horseback-riding, tennis and swimming had made me pretty strong and I wasn't afraid of physical work."

Jane paused, took a deep breath and then went on. "One day," she said, "I accidentally met Mrs. Fields, who used to be our housekeeper, and learned that a parlormaid was needed here. I begged her to try me out. At first she wouldn't hear of it, but later she agreed and took me to Wiggins under the name of Jane Rogers."

"What a story!" McAllister murmured, rising from his chair and pacing up and down the room.

"Of course, I didn't tell a soul," Jane continued, ignoring his remark, "for fear I would have a horde of angry relatives on my neck. I hinted to them all, saying I was going out of town for a complete change. It has been a complete change, you know! And I do hope," she added anxiously, "you won't give me away now to any one?"

"No, no, I shan't tell. You needn't worry about that," he assured her. "As for the china," he went on, "I'll tell you a secret. I've always hated it ever since I was a boy. You see I was forever warned not to go near it lest I knock something over. I guess that gave me a complex, for all these years, wherever I've seen it, I've had the urge to smash the old set. Since you've done that for me, I am, indeed, most grateful!"

"You're just being nice about it," Jane laughed. "But won't you please accept the meat platter I offered you? You see, I still have a few things left from my home that I keep in storage, and it would make me so happy if you'd let me give you this platter which fits in with your set. Father acquired odd pieces of it, but I never knew that they were replicas of the famous McAllister china until the night I first saw your set and was foolish enough to use it. I should have replaced the broken platter then, without letting on to any one. But, you see, Wiggins was there at the time and I knew I couldn't replace it without a lot of questions being asked and my true identity being discovered."

There was a moment's silence, then Jane said: "I've told you everything now! And you'll promise to take the platter?"

"Miss Rutledge," Hugh McAllister began with horrible formality, then paused. "Jane," he resumed, his deep blue eyes smiling into her light brown ones, "I'll eat off that platter of yours if you'll sit beside me at dinner. Somehow, I think an evening dress would be ever so much more becoming to you than that maid's outfit you have on."

A BOOK PRINTED IN 1687
DR. PENNIMAN'S GIFT TO YALE

Yale University Library Gazette records the receipt of a rare volume for the Penniman Memorial Library of Education, gift to Yale from a former Norwich Academy student, Dr. James Hosmer Penniman, of Philadelphia. This unusual gift is a small book entitled: "Autodidactics. A Plain & Pleasant Rode for the Latin Scholar, Part I. London. Printed by J. Rawlins, for H. Bonwicke, at the Red Lion, in St. Paul's Churchyard, 1687."

A note in the copy in the Bodleian library ascribes it to John Goad (1616-1689). He took the B.A. and M.A. degree at Oxford and then entered the church, receiving his B.D. in 1647. In 1661, Goad opened a private school which he continued until shortly before his death. It was during this period that he wrote the book described above and published it for the use of his pupils.

In his preface he explains his purpose—to make the English people more "nimble professors of the Latine Tongue."

The Yale librarian comments: Besides being a delightful example of early textbooks, illustrating a great teacher's peculiar method, after considerable bibliographical searching it seems to be a rare little book, and a note by a former owner to the effect that he had never seen nor heard of another copy would seem in a measure to be justified.

INDUSTRIAL, RAILROAD AND UTILITY STOCKS AT HIGH PRICES FOR THE YEAR

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—One of the most comprehensive buying movements since the post-panic rally was checked last December took place in today's stock market, with total sales and the railroad, industrial and public utility indices all setting new high records for the year. While week-end profit taking sales were rather heavy, they were easily absorbed, net gains in the active issues ranging from 1 to 11 points.

Meanwhile, the commodity markets, which had encountered a storm of liquidation all week, steadied perceptibly but not until after an opening break of 2 cents a bushel in wheat futures had carried them to new low levels for the season. Wheat, corn and cotton all closed with small net gains.

The call money renewal rate was fixed at 4 per cent, the lowest since January 1926, but it was marked up to 4 1-2 per cent again in the afternoon when the heavy demand for funds in connection with month-end payments brought about a temporary scarcity in the supply. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady but bankers' acceptances were reduced 1-8 of 1 per cent. The Chicago Federal Reserve bank made no change in its 4 1-2 per cent rediscount rate.

Dun's and Bradstreet's weekly reviews continued to find irregularities in the general business situation but both emphasized the progress that has been made since the middle of December. Dun's states that "conditions at the month end disclose the expected lack of uniformity and also various unsatisfactory features, yet gains in activity and in sentiment have become more distinct." Branstreet's points out that trade and industry, partaking of the irregularity of weather in January, are still to be classed as "spotty," but explains that "taking the month as a whole, industry has shown definite expansion, and there is no question but what employment has likewise expanded from the low levels of December while, on the other hand, operations are not so active nor is buying so well balanced as a year ago."

Sears Roebuck, making public its first sales report under the 13 month calendar adopted by the company, made a favorable comparison with last year. The annual dividend on Burroughs Adding Machine was raised from 80 cents to $1, but Studebaker omitted the usual quarterly stock dividend of 1 per cent declared at this time.

Postponement of the federal trade commission hearings on the financial operations of public utilities probably stimulated the demand for those issues. American & Foreign Power, Brooklyn Union Gas, Columbia Gas, Consolidated Gas, Laclede Gas & Stone & Webster all closed 3 to 5 points higher, heavy covering by short interests stimulating the advance.

Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck were turned over in large volume but there appeared to be plenty of stock for sale on the way up, and the net gains were held to fractions. R. H. Macy ran up 10 3-4 points and Spiegel May Stern 4 3-4.

New York & Harlem gave one of its periodic pyrotechnic demonstrations, soaring 47 points to 265. American Machine & Foundry ran up 11 points to 228. National Biscuit (old stock), Westinghouse Electric, Worthington Pump, Eastman Kodak, Dupont, Allied Chemical and Columbian Carbon showed net gains of 4 to nearly 8 points. Simmons ran into further selling on the announcement of new financing.

The foreign exchange market was quiet, with leading rates easier. Sterling cables were quoted a shade lower around $4.85 1-2 and Spanish pesetas dropped nearly 10 points to 13.16 cents.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—Listed bonds showed encouraging resistance in the face of a large volume of new issues today. Compared with the market's heaviness on occasions of some of the recent financing, the course of trading was generally steady although closing prices represented an irregular mixture of small gains and losses in bonds of the best grade.

The $80,000,000 in new flotations was mostly of the utility description. International Telephone's $50,000,000 loan in 25-year debenture 5s was oversubscribed and the obligations, admitted to dealings on a when issued basis, advanced an eighth above the offering price of 96 1-2. With this sale out of the way, the stock improved and therefore the convertible 4 1-2s were able to move up, closing 2 5-8 higher. The outstanding debenture 4 1-2s gained about half a point.

Call money showed a sudden reversal of form, renewing at 4 per cent for the first time since January 27, 1928, and then going to 4 1-2 as the month-end demand for funds quickened. Time accommodations were unchanged, ranging from 4 1-2 to 4 3-4, but bankers' acceptances were cut an eighth. United States government securities showed small price increases.

Foreign bonds continued to reflect buying. This was especially true of government loans, the French and Belgian listings, as well as the Australians, Japanese and the Italy and German 7s, received support.

Convertibles were affected only slightly by the strength of the stock market. American Telephone 4 1-2s had a net rise of 7-8, Missouri Pacific 5 1-2s moved up 1-2, but New Haven 6s were stationary and Atchison 4 1-2s lost 3-4, American I. G. Chemical 5 1-2s recovered from their recent depression, finishing at 101, up 3-8.

Mixed price changes marked the rails. Baltimore & Ohio Gold 4s, Rock Island General 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s, St. Louis & San Francisco prior lien 4s and New York Central debenture 4s of 1934 were firm. New Haven 3 1-2s sagged a point, while Hudson & Manhattan Refunding 5s advanced to the same extent and New Orleans, Texas & Mexico 5s, Series C, rallied 1 1-2.

Utilities were quiet, although there was some buying of Columbia Gas & Electric 5s and Postal Telegraph 5s.

The dullness of the industrials was accompanied by easier quotations on Goodyear Tire 5s, Inland Steel 4 1-2s, International Match 5s, U. S. Rubber 5s and Wilson Co. first 6s, which lost small fractions.

New bond offerings of the week rose to $122,041,000 from last week's total of $79,394,000. A year ago the volume was $137,574,250.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—A decided drop in the number of business failures in the United States occurred this week, a total of 545 being reported to R. G. Dun & Co., compared with 644 last week, a reduction of practically 100, and with 541 insolvencies for the corresponding week last year. All geographical sections of the country reported fewer failures this week than last week.

John A. Brown, of Los Angeles, president of the General Petroleum Corp., and L. L. Marcell, formerly chairman of the White Eagle Oil & Refining Co., of Wichita, Kansas, have been elected directors of the Standard Oil Co. of New York. Mr. Brown also was elected a vice president. The General Petroleum Corp. is a subsidiary and the White Eagle company is a recent acquisition of the Standard of New York.

The net operating income of the Union Pacific railroad for December amounted to $2,828,815, compared with $3,367,636 in December, 1928. The aggregate for the full year was $45,226,568, as against $43,818,905 in the preceding year.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—A broad revival of bullish activity, featuring a brisk demand for the public utilities, today lifted the volume of sales on the New York Curb exchange above 1,050,000 shares for the first time this year. Net gains in the active issues ranged from 1 to nearly 8 points, with larger advances in a few ordinarily inactive specialties. A few soft spots were scattered throughout the list.

Electric Bond & Share was the leader of the public utility group, rising 7 3-4 points to 93 7-8 and closing at the top. Wall street heard that the stock would be transferred to the "big board" in the near future. Southeastern Power & Light warrants jumped 14 5-8 points, and American & Foreign Power warrants, Allied Power & Light, American Superpower and Central States Electric were among the many issues to advance 1 1-2 to 4 points. Merger reports, rumors of an overcrowded short interest and the postponement of the public utility hearings by the federal trade commission were all mentioned as factors in the advance of the power and light stocks.

Oils also attracted a good following despite recent unfavorable trade developments. Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania ran up more than 7 points, Indian Territorial 3 1-2 and Illinois and Indiana Pipe Lines, Lion Oil and Solar Refining advanced a point or two.

The buying of the investment trust, trading and holding corporation shares was influenced by reports of a sharp appreciation in the market value of securities holdings in the last fortnight. Tri-Continental advanced 2 3-4 points to 16 3-8, the highest price since the recent merger became effective, while Goldman Sachs, Lehman corporation, Interstate Equities convertible preferred and several others moved up a point or more.

Aviation stocks also rallied although the outlook for that group is not generally regarded as very encouraging. Aviation Corporation of the Americas and Fokker each advanced about 2 points.

Deere & Co. which recorded a spectacular advance earlier in the week, fluctuated over a range of 20 points, closing at 645 for a net loss of 4 points after having approached within a fraction of last year's record high of 660. Aluminum Co. of America advanced 5 points and Aluminum Limited 10. Huylers of Delaware jumped 30 points and Duke Power $2 1-4. Butler Bros. General Baking preferred and Super Maid dropped to new lows, the last-named falling 9 points.

HOLY CROSS RUNNERS TO FEATURE N. F. A. INDOOR TRACK MEET TONIGHT

A gala program of events, on which several of the Holy Cross college track stars will vie with an Academy-Stonington dual meet, will be staged tonight at the state armory in the second of the Wildcat indoor track meets, which starts at 7.30.

Two Champs to Appear

The two boys who will draw the most attention tonight will be Bernie McCafferty, 600 yard intercollegiate champion and Jimmy Daley, 70 yard intercollegiate champ. Both of these boys are in great demand on the tracks in all of the big eastern cities this winter.

The Worcester institution is sending down a strong list of representatives, including the crack Crusader relay team that last Saturday trimmed Harvard in the Boston Garden and also Bill Madden for the mile run, Bill Delaney, Morin and Gordon Winslow for the sprints, 20, 40 and 80 yards. The relay team will consist of Holland, Chanis, Perry and Klumback.

The Academy and Stonington will be continuing a rivalry indoors that has resulted in many closely contested meets on the cinders in past years. The teams rate about even for this evening's meet. Up to 1928 Stonington had been able to lord it over the Red and White at every track meeting but last spring saw the Wildcats with their best representative in history and the Academy finished the campaign as Eastern Connecticut champions.

N. F. A. Relies on Berkman

Sam Berkman, who was the leading scorer of N. F. A.'s first meet and who is captain of the team, Agnew, who won the 440 yard race in convincing fashion against Suffield prep, Johnny Lyons, Georgie Lambert, Mahoney, Sera, Baronsky and Rootes will form the backbone of the local squad. The Stonington list has not been announced.

The conditions for the runners at the armory have been improved since the first meet and, although that meet was run off hardly without a flaw Coach Murphy of the Academy intends to have everything even better for tonight.

Local Amateurs Listed

Several local runners will show their wares, including Johnny Sullivan, of the Dowell A. A., Eddie Lyons and Moses Harvey, the last two members of the champion 1929 outdoor squad.

The Academy's band, which was announced to appear, will not be present at this meet. The attendance at the first meet was figured at around 500 but the armory will accommodate many more than that and it is expected to be taxed to its capacity this evening for it is not often that Norwich gets an attraction of this calibre. Jim Sheridan will be the official announcer for the evening.

N. Y. SOLONS DISAPPROVE CAMPOLO-RISKO BOUT

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—For the second time in a week, the New York boxing solons today turned thumbs down on the proposal that Victorio Campolo be matched with Johnny Risko, Cleveland's giant killer, at Madison Square Garden February 7. The Garden asked approval for the Campolo-Risko fight last Tuesday but was refused with the statement that the Cleveland baker boy was not a suitable opponent for the giant Argentine.

Armed with Risko's impressive past record over the leaders of the ring, William F. Carey, president of the Garden, and Tom McArdle, matchmaker, appeared before the commission in an unsuccessful attempt to have the decision reversed.

"We have no statement to make, other than that the commission disapproves of the match," said Chairman James J. Farley. "Understand, we are not casting any reflection on either fighter but we do not consider the fight logical."

The commission proposed that the Garden match Risko with some other heavyweight for February 7, but McArdle said it was too late to get a satisfactory opponent.

In order to avoid future embarrassment, the Garden agreed to a proposal that all matches be presented two weeks in advance for the commission's approval or disapproval. Accordingly the state governing body sanctioned the Ace Hudkins-Maxie Rosenbloom fight for February 14 at the Garden.

The "Panama" Al Brown-Johnny Erickson match on February 8 at the Olympia club received approval as a title bout. Brown is recognized by the New York board as the bantamweight champion.

SEVENTY START QUEST TODAY FOR INDOOR TENNIS TITLE

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—Seventy contestants will begin play tomorrow on the hardwood courts of the Seventh Regiment armory in quest of the national indoor men's singles tennis championship.

Matches are scheduled for morning and afternoon with a view to cutting the field in half before nightfall.

First of the seeded stars to take the court will be J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., former Canadian indoor champion, who is favored to dispute the final with Francis T. Hunter, seeded number one. Hall number two in the chosen list of eight, encounters Lawrence C. Chaffee, of Providence, R. I., at 11 a. m. in a preliminary round and if he wins will be called upon to play again in the afternoon.

Hunter makes his bow at 2 p. m. against E. W. Black, of New York. Two other seeded players are on the program for the same hour. Harris Coggeshall, of Des Moines, Iowa, and Harvard, meeting Clarence S. Rose, Jacksonville, Fla., and Pebrine Rockafellow, New York, encountering Carver S. Kahnes, New York.

Eugene McCauliff, Jr., former Fordham player, takes on William Clines, Louisville, Ky., at noon. At 1 p. m. Herbert L. Bowman, New York veteran, crosses strokes with S. B. Bruins, New York and Merritt Cutler, New York, faces Jerome Paulstein, University of Pennsylvania.

Julius Seligson, former intercollegiate champion, arranged with Jack Blaustein, of New York university, his first opponent, to postpone play until Monday when he will be better able to leave his studies at Lehigh.

The national championship doubles will begin Tuesday with finals in both classes scheduled for February 8.

LOCAL Y LOSES TORRID GAME TO TORRINGTON

(Special to The Bulletin)

TORRINGTON, Jan. 31.—The Y Seniors of Norwich bowed to the local Y five here tonight, 50 to 42, in a hard-fought and free-scoring affair and the Rose City team fell down another peg in its state title fight.

The three forwards used by Torrington piled up a total of 37 points between them, which practically clinched the contest. Aubrey Brown, Seniors left forward, was high scorer for the losers with 12 points. The half time score was 25 to 20.

Next Saturday night, Feb. 8, Norwich hopes to get back into the running for the championship when it meets Greenwich high at Norwich. The Seniors have now lost two state league games in succession, having lost to Middletown last Saturday.

SINGER GETS VERDICT OVER SO. AMERICAN BOY

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Clever young Al Singer, the Bronx beauty, punched a few more holes in Stanislaus Loayza, tough old war horse of the lightweight division in a sensational free-for-all battle that drew 18,000 of the faithful to the battle pit tonight.

Loayza, strong, awkward but full of courage, nearly passed abruptly from the picture in the third session. Singer, boxing prettily, stabbed the Chilean to the ropes and then blasted his chin with a right-hand smash that rocked Loayza from his feet. Stan managed to arise at the count of nine and weathered a fearful bombardment until the bell.

Another wild flurry in the sixth left Loayza with rubbery legs, all but out from right-hand punches that drummed on his chin, but Singer could not put the game South American down. Loayza rallied in the final session, landing a half dozen solid left hooks and right crosses to the chin, but Singer easily rode out the storm.

Singer weighed 134 1-2, Loayza 136 1-2.

Doc Conrad, husky young middleweight from Newark, N. J., gave Harry Ebbets, blonde New Yorker, a surprising trouncing in a ten-round semi-final staged after the main event, winning the decision in easy fashion.

Conrad, who recently gained a decision over Rene Devos, one of the leading middleweight title challengers, knocked Ebbets down for the counts of nine in both the fourth and fifth rounds with straight rights to the chin. Ebbets fought cautiously at close quarters thereafter but several times was badly hurt by Conrad's husky right hand. Conrad weighed 168, Ebbets 162 1-2.

PAULIN TAKES FLYWEIGHT CROWN FROM HARMON

BRIDGEPORT, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Georgie Paulin, 112, Bridgeport, won the state flyweight championship from Jackie Harmon, 110 1-2, of Waterbury, when he was awarded the referee's decision after a fast ten-round feature bout on the Puritan A. A. boxing card presented at Red Men's hall tonight.

Other results:

Tony DePalma, 133, New Haven, knocked out Johnny Lawson, 131, New York, in the third round of the six-round semi-final.

Harry Goldberg, 146, New Haven, outpointed Willie Hussey, 144, Bridgeport, in a six-round bout.

Nick Florentino, 114, New Haven, earned the referee's decision over Joey King, 115, Ansonia, in a four-round bout.

Billy Flynn, 174, New Haven, outpointed James J. Howard, 182, of New York, in the four-round opener.

Three Davis Cup Challenges Received

PARIS, Jan. 31—(AP)—Poland, Austria and India got in just under the wire today with challenges for the Davis cup, bringing the total number of nations entered in the European zone to 24 when the entries closed at six p. m.

The United States, Cuba, Canada and Mexico have challenged in the American zone, making 28 countries which will seek the international tennis trophy held by the French. The draw is scheduled for Monday.

Hudkins Batters Flynn

BOSTON, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska wildcat, battered Arthur Flynn, of Lawrence, to the canvas for the full count here tonight in the third round of the Boston Garden's feature contest. Hudkins weighed 161 pounds and Flynn 169.

Y CLASHES WITH SUB BASE TONIGHT

Probable Lineups

Norwich	Sub Base
Brown, lf	lf, Poquette
Normandin, rf	rf, Reeves
Harris, c	c, Dittmer
Eccleston, lg	lg, Hambach
Pingree, rg	rg, Smith

Tonight at the local "Y" court the Sub Base basketball five will attempt to sink the Demarest-coached clan.

The Sub Base is represented this season by one of the fastest outfits on the Atlantic coast and are in first place in the New London City league. Dittmer, giant center, needs no introduction to fans of Eastern Conn., for he has appeared here numerous times during the past few years. He is one of the few players who can pick up a basketball with one hand. In Reeves and Poquette, they have two exceedingly fast forwards and the local backcourt men will have plenty of trouble keeping them from scoring. Reeves is the heavy scorer of the team and is of the same type as Wilcox, of the Middletown town, always scoring spectacular baskets. Hambach and Smith, the two guards, need no introduction as their ability is known.

Coach Demarest will without doubt start Brown and Normandin at forwards, Harris at center, with Eccleston and Pingree doing guard duty. It is rumored around that Demarest himself may play one of the guard positions and try to hold Reeves to as few baskets as possible.

A fast preliminary is scheduled for 8 p. m. with the big attraction commencing at 9 p. m. Joe Belair will officiate.

Highly polished floors are very nice to look at but they have caused the downfall of many a good woman.

Many is the housewife who has been wrecked mentally and physically by a polished floor that shines like a sheet of ice and is just as dangerous to fool with.

There are several safe ways of negotiating a polished floor. You can either wear creepers or rubber-soled shoes but the safest way of all is to get down on your hands and knees and crawl across them.

There is one woman in Norwich who can bear out these contentions of mine, about highly polished floors. And what she thinks about floors is her own business and nobody's else.

It seems that heretofore this good housewife had taken particular pride in her highly polished floors. Every room in the house would reflect a perfect image they shone so brilliantly.

Even the bedroom floors were spotless, glassy and treacherous. A fly would break a leg trying to navigate them but the good housewife was a marvel at getting over them. I fact she was so clever she grew careless.

And he who gets familiar or careless with polished floors is simply flirting with the great beyond. Sooner or later those polished floors get you and when they do it's just too bad. So it was with the good housewife.

It seems that one night the good housewife was in a hurry to get something upstairs in her bedroom. Upstairs she runs and heads for her room. Her mind on something else she never gives the floors a thought.

There is where she made her mistake. That bedroom floor had waited long for such a moment. Into the room the good housewife dashes. Her feet hit the rug in front of the door. That's all they do—hit it once.

Mrs. Housewife has a feeling like she'd stepped off a cliff. She makes a grab for something but all she gets is a handful of air. There is a bump that shakes the house to it's foundations as Mrs. Housewife smacks down on the floor.

That was bad enough but when she didn't stop, that is she stopped going down but not ahead. She lands on the rug and like Ty Cobb sliding into second she lights out in the direction of the bed.

Her momentum is great and under the bed she goes. In fact she's so far under she can't get out without assistance. Pinned beneath the downy couch she reclines able to move neither one way nor the other. There's no help for it she must have assistance.

Assistance is near at hand for from downstairs comes friend husband. He rushes into the room but wife is nowhere to be seen. A faint voice from the depths says "Help me out of here, can't you?"

Like all good husbands do he did. But between you and me I'll say that he nearly burst a blood-vessel trying to hold his face straight. But such is the diplomacy of a good husband.

And believe me, if he had laughed—well use your own judgment.

JOE CANTILLON DIES AFTER WEEK'S ILLNESS

HICKMAN, Ky., Jan. 31—(AP)—"Pongo Joe" Cantillon, "grand old man of baseball," died at his home here today.

High on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi river that he loved, "Pongo Joe for days had been waging a valiant fight against paralysis—a fight full of the spirit and the courage he had displayed on the diamond for 52 years.

Cantillon's passing removed one of the most picturesque figures in the baseball world. Since he started his career as bat boy for the Janesville, Wis., club in 1893, "Pongo Joe" had served as manager, umpire, player and scout in a dozen leagues, had discovered some of the outstanding players of the game and was known from coast to coast as one of the "canniest heads" the game ever had produced.

Joe started as a player with Green Bay, of the old Wisconsin league, He served as a player for several years, when his keen judgment and quick decisions attracted the attention of club owners. Then he became a manager.

Cantillon was supervisor of umpires in the American association at his death.

During his illness, scores of telegrams and letters poured into the Cantillon home from men Joe had "discovered," worked with, and worked for. Among others, he was credited with developing Walter Johnson and Rube Waddell.

Cantillon was born in Janesville, Wis., August 19, 1861. Until 20 years ago he had made his home wherever he happened to be. Then one day while on a boat trip down the Mississippi river, Joe noticed a house at Hickman, Ky., perched high on a bluff overlooking the Mississippi river.

"That's where I am going to live," said Joe, making one of his famous quick decisions. He bought the house and had spent most of his spare time there ever since.

BARBUTI TO RUN IN ONLY TWO BIG EVENTS

NEW YORK, Jan. 31—(AP)—Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400 meter running champion, said today that he plans to compete in only two indoor track events this season, and will run unattached.

The first, he said, will be a 60 yard dash in the Newark A. C. games, Newark, N. J., Wednesday night. The other is the annual New York school boy meet late in February, sponsored by Syracuse university in which Barbuti expects to oppose Chet Bowman, a fellow Syracuse alumnus, and possibly Jimmy Quinn, former Holy Cross flyer, in an exhibition dash.

SHUTE AND ESPINOSA LEAD IN TEXAS OPEN; MILLER IN SIXTH POSITION

By GAYLE TALBOT, Jr.

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

BRACKENRIDGE PARK, San Antonio, Tex., Jan. 31—(AP)—Densmore Shute, young Columbus, O., professional, and Al Espinosa, Chicago a veteran golf pro, blazed a par-breaking trail over this deceitful municipal course today to lead a field of almost 150 golfers in the opening round of the ninth annual Texas open golf tournament. Each shot the par 71 layout in 68 strokes to gain a leg on the $1,500 first prize.

Shute, who had his first taste of important victory in the recent Los Angeles open, apparently found it pleasant. He posted his 68 early in the day and let the field shoot at it. Late in the afternoon, after scores of crack shots had fallen by the wayside, Espinosa came through to equal the mark. But for two three-putt greens coming in the Chicago star would have led the field at the quartermark.

Starting early and neglected by the gallery, Shute turned in a remarkable round. His card showed 15 pars and three birdies. Espinosa covered the first nine with a 32, four under par, but went one over perfect figures on the way back.

Shute's cards:

4 2 5 4 4 4 4 3 5 — 35
3 4 4 5 3 4 3 4 3 — 33—68

Espinosa's card:

3 3 4 3 4 3 4 3 5 — 32
3 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 5 — 36—68

While this pair was cracking par wide open, dozens of other starters found the going tough. Among those who threw in the sponge was George Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., stylist, a former Texas open champion. He had a ragged 38 going out and finally gave it up after he had smacked two out of bounds and taken an eight on the par four twelfth. Other equally illustrious stars found par almost as elusive.

A hole-in-one enlivened the day's festivities. Jack Forrester, New Jersey professional champion, plunked his tee shot in one the 190-yard tenth to round out a 73 score.

Two strokes behind the leaders were two young Elmsford, N. Y., par breakers, Tony Manero and Mike Turnesa, each with a 70. The younger Turnesa brother took a 37 on the outward trip, one over par, but clipped two strokes from perfect figures coming in. Manero was even par out and one under on the back nine.

One stroke farther back, but still well in the running, were Johnnie Golden, Paterson, N. J.; O. P. Hart, Wheeling, W. Va.; and Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles, each with a standard 71.

Seventy-two was a popular figure for the day, eleven turning in that score. Included in the bracket were such favorites as Horton Smith, unattached; Bill Mehlhorn, unattached, defending champion; Frank Walsh, Chicago; Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y.; Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del.; and Harry Cooper, unattached.

Others in that slot were George Aulbach, Waco, Tex.; Tom Creavy, New York; Julius Ackerbloom, Little Rock; Herman Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., and Tucker Bowles, San Antonio.

Horton Smith, the favorite of the gallery, appeared on the verge of passing out of the picture early when he had a wobbly 38 on the first nine, but he rallied to produce a 34 coming in. At that, luck was with him. On one hole he sliced deep into the woods, but the ball cracked a spectator in the neck and bounced back onto the fairway.

Among those who recorded 73's was Tom Rakietis, Youngstown, O., winning professional in yesterday's amateur-professional best ball event. He was bracketed with eight others including Al Watrous, Detroit; Billie Burke, Greenwich, Conn.; and Jack Forrester, Hackensack, N. J.

John Dawson, Chicago, ran true to form in leading the amateur parade with a 75. He had distinguished professional company at that figure in John Rogers, Denver, and Leonard Schmutte, Lima, Ohio.

All players who turned in scores today will participate in tomorrow's 18-hole round, after which the field will be reduced to the 64 low and ties for the final 36 holes on Sunday.

The leaders:

Densmore Shute, Columbus, O., 35-33—68.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, 32-36—68.

Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., 35-35—70.

Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., 37-33—70.

Johnnie Golden, Patterson, N. J., 35-36—71.

O. P. Hart, Wheeling, W. Va., 36-35—71.

Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles, 34-37—71.

Horton Smith, Joplin, Mo., 38-34—72.

Bill Melhorn, unattached, 36-36—72.

Frank Walsh, Chicago, 37-35—72.

Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y. 35-37—72.

Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., 35-37—72.

Harry Cooper, unattached, 40-32—72.

George Aulbach Waco, Aex., 38-34—72.

Tom Creavy, New York, 35-37—72.

Julius Ackerbloom, Little Rock, 37-35—72.

Hermon Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., 37-35—72.

Tucker Bowles, San Antonio, 36-36—72.

Tom Rakietis, Youngstown, O., 37-36—73.

Al Watrous, Detroit, 35-38—73.

Billie Burke, Greenwich, Conn., 38-35—73.

Jack Forrester, Hackensack, N. J., 38-35—73.

Jimmy Vincent, San Antonio, 36-37—73.

Jim Heaney, Bellville, N. J., 36-37—73.

Neil McIntyre, Indianapolis, 37-36—73.

Massie B. Miller, Norwich, Conn., 36-38—74.

C. E. Clark, Tulsa, Okla., 37-37—74.

Jack Burke, Houston, 39-35—74.

Joe Lally, El Paso, Tex., 39-35—74.

Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, 35-39—74.

Willie McGuire, Houston, 38-36—74.

W. A. Stackhouse, Hillsboro, Tex., 38-36—74.

Ted Luther, Quarry, Pa., 37-37—74.

Miller In Tie For 6th

Massie B. Miller, local professional, is in sixth scoring position but with 27 ahead of him in the money. Miller shot par golf on the out-going nine holes with a 36 but took a 38 on the homeward trip giving him a 74, three over perfect figures.

ENGLISH PLAYERS WILL TAKE RACQUETS CROWN

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31—(AP)—Having returned from abroad last year after a stay of a year, the U. S. national racquets doubles title, will again go to England as a result of the semifinal play in the championship tournament here today.

C. C. Pell and Stanley G. Mortimer, of New York, eight times national champions in the fast indoor game, today fell before the superior work of Peter Kemp-Welch and Duncan Cambridge, of England.

In the other semi-final match, Lord Aberdare, who is known in the racquets records as the Hon. C. N. Bruce, and Dr. H. W. Leatham, of England, defeated E. M. "Ted" Edwards and J. R. Rowland, of Philadelphia, finally eliminating the U. S. from the tournament.

Tomorrow the two English teams will fight it out for the American championship.

Pell and Mortimer put up a hard battle to retain their title, but were worn down by the fine teamwork of Kemp-Welch and Cambridge. Their match went to five sets, the scores being 15-9, 16-15, 15-18, 8-15, 15-5.

Lord Aberdare and Dr. Leatham had little trouble in disposing of the Philadelphia pair in straight sets. The scores were 15-13, 15-9, 15-4.

BIALAS SUFFERS INJURY TO HIS LEFT ANKLE

UTICA, N. Y., Jan. 31—(AP)—Fate struck another blow this week at Valentine Bialas, captain of the last Olympic skating team. As was the case when he was seriously burned four years ago, it appeared for a time his days of competition were over.

Word of an accident in which he cut the main artery on his left ankle was withheld until today. Dr. John C. Bialas, his brother, said that the skater would begin practice Monday at Lake Placid to determine whether the cut will affect his skating.

While Bialas was at work in the General Mill Work corporation here, a piece of glass dropped into his trouser cuff. When Bialas kicked his foot against a bench, the glass went into his leg about two inches. He still hopes to be able to skate in the Canadian nationals next week at Ottawa and the North American championships at Lake Placid and Saranac Lake the following week.

MRS. JESSUP TO OPPOSE MISS PALFREY IN FINALS

BROOKLINE, Mass., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Mrs. John B. Jessup, of Wilmington, Del., today advanced into the finals of the women's national indoor singles tennis tournament by defeating Miss Margaret Blake, of Lenox, the defending champion in an extra set match, 2-6, 6-3, 7-5, on the Longwood indoor courts.

The Wilmington player will oppose 18-year-old Mianne Palfrey, of Brookline, in tomorrow's championship round.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Primo Carnera, knocked out Elzear Rioux in the first round of their scheduled ten round fight in the Chicago stadium tonight, flooring him five times. The match was witnessed by a crowd in excess of 15,000.

Internationals Challenge

The Internationals, eastern Connecticut intermediate champions, challenge any team in the state. Having won all games to date, they are desirous of conquering better teams. They would especially like road games with Westerly, Hartford, New London and other surrounding cities. If challenge is accepted please answer through this paper, or call 3335-J. If that is not convenient please write A. Golembieski, 1 Hamilton avenue, Norwich, Conn.

Miss Collett Wins Bahama Crown.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Glenna Collett, national women's golf champion, braved a brisk offshore wind today to score an easy 6 and 5 victory over Rosamund Sherwood in the finals of the annual women's golf championship of the Bahamas.

The finalists, seeking titular honors since the postponed tourney opened Monday, played the first six of their 18 hole contest all even.

Haigh Wins Miami Finals.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Arthur Haigh, White Plains, N. Y., stroked his way to a 2 and 1 victory over H. S. Matzinger, Great Neck, L. I., today in the finals of the seventh annual Miami Beach amateur golf tournament over the La Gorce course here.

Tunney Leaves Hospital.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Virtually recovered from a kidney operation, Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, left the Presbyterian hospital today. Tunney was accompanied by his wife, the former Polly Lauder. They declined to state their destination.

Bulkeley Has Basketball Team.

Bulkeley's first basketball team since 1924, will play its opening game against an Alumni team in New London, Feb. 7. The team will be picked from the inter-class team which recently closed its schedule.

Lamprecht-Westland In Finals.

EDGEWATER PARK, Miss., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Fred Lamprecht, of New Orleans, and Jack Westland, of Chicago, today won their way into the finals of the Pan-American golf tournament to be played off tomorrow.

KOZIOL KAYOES LEDOUX IN THIRD ROUND; BROUILLARD BEATS REID

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Jan. 31.—Dynamite Lou Brouillard, Danielson middleweight, won a technical knockout over Iron Man Reid, of Syracuse, in the star bout scheduled to go eight rounds at the boxing show in the town hall tonight, when the referee stopped it in the midst of the seventh round after Reid had absorbed a beating, ordinarily sufficient to put half a dozen men in slumber-land. It was a tearing, slashing go from the outset to the end and had the crowd yelping with excitement. Reid is as tough as they make them, and he can fight, but Brouillard was too strong for him. Three times Reid was out of the ring, landing once in the laps of the newspapermen. He was down for two counts and apparently completely out in the sixth, but came back in amazing manner and fought like a wildcat.

Brouillard hit him with everything but the ring posts and yet he came back slugging and looking for more. He is as game a boy as ever stepped into a Danielson ring. Brouillard might have had the decision in the fourth on a technicality. Reid, lashing away, had hit him after he slipped to his knees, but Brouillard, with the courage that is typical of him, waved the referee away, took the minute rest allotted to him and went back at Reid like an unleashed fury. It was one great scrap, and, even as a loser, Reid was enthusiastically applauded for his great showing. Brouillard weighed in at 147½, Reid at 150.

Koziol Flattens Ledoux.

Al Koziol, of Norwich, kayoed Leo Ledoux, of Worcester, after one minute and fourteen seconds of battling in the third round of a scheduled six round bout. In winning, Koziol got a second decision over Ledoux, who holds one over him. This was another whirlwind, slam bang affair while it lasted, and the end was forecast to come quickly when the boys stood toe to toe and traded jabs, swings and hooks until it was apparent that one of them was due to pass out of the picture in short order, and did. One uppercut that Ledoux landed on Koziol's jaw, actually lifted the Norwich boy off the floor, but Koziol squared back by knocking Ledoux cold. Koziol came into the ring at 118, Ledoux at 138 ½, and they certainly did plenty of fighting during the short time they were in the ring.

Peloquin Wins In Second.

Another fast affair was that between Rene Peloquin, of Danielson, 122½, against Buck Dempsey, of Woonsocket, 120. This was another flashy, fast bout packed with action, scheduled to go for six rounds, but Peloquin landed a hard swing after two minutes and three seconds of the second round and sent Dempsey rolling over and over on the canvas. He didn't get up.

Gauvin Wins In First.

In the preliminaries Honey Boy Gauvin, of Norwich, beat Al Rodman, of New York, after two minutes and nine seconds in the first round. It was short, but fast and furious. The referee stopped the bout to save Rodman from further punishment.

Rodman weighed 131, Gauvin 122.

Ferra Loses To Preston

Joe Preston, of Worcester, 168, beat Patsy Ferra, of Norwich, 161, in a very good bout. This also was a hard-fought affair in which Ferra took a seven count in the third round, but came back and fought well, though apparently dazed at the bell. The fourth round was fairly even. It was Ferra's first start in the professional ranks.

The bouts, as a whole, were the best seen here in years, every pair being very evenly matched, and all the boxers being more than anxious to give their opponents a beating or take one. It was a card jammed full of action and was put on before a capacity house, fans coming from New London, Norwich, Worcester and Providence, as well as many other places for miles around.

Charles Pillington of New Haven was the referee with Lucien Lambert, of Danielson, as timekeeper, and Sidney P. Marland as announcer.

SONNENBERG THROWS GANSON IN STRAIGHT FALLS

NEW LONDON, Jan. 31—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg, defeated Jack Ganson, of San Francisco in two straight falls here tonight in a wrestling match. Sonnenberg used his flying tackle to pin Ganson for both falls.

The first fall came at the end of 51 minutes of wrestling, during which Sonnenberg continually butted his opponent around the mat. He pinned Ganson to the mat for the second fall in 11 minutes.

Steve Passas, of Atlanta, Ga., threw Jack Morro, of Italy with a reversed head scissors in 37 minutes. The match between Billy Collins, of Central Village and Bruno, of Hartford, was declared a draw after they had wrestled 30 minutes.

FRANKLIN

Installation of officers of Franklin Grange, No. 184, was held Friday evening the 24th at the town hall. The officers are: Master Ray Beckwith; overseer, Stanley Armstrong; lecturer, Julia Rodman; steward, Arnold Manning; chap., Jason Kingsley; treasurer Raymond Manning; Ceres, Ruth Robinson; Pomona, Barbara Rogers; Flora, Frances Ward. At the conclusion of the meeting a lunch of salad sandwiches, cake and coffee was served.

At a recent meeting of the newly organized sewing club for the younger girls, led by Misses Edna and Frances Lamb, the name Moses Six was chosen. This name is in honor of Mr. Moses of Springfield, Mass., who is a prominent 4-H club worker.

The Worthy Cooking club of Franklin met last Saturday evening at the home of the leader, Mrs. Mabel E. Capshaw. Rye biscuits were made. During the business meeting several plays were discussed and other numbers for an entertainment were suggested. Mary Idzkowski was appointed captain of the club. Fudge was provided by the Misses Mary Carboni and Mary Idzkowski.

Saturday afternoon, last, the Franklin Thimble Wearers met with their leader, Miss Florence Rockwood. Moccasins were made by the girls under direction of their leader. It was decided to give a Valentine social in February, inviting all local club members, their friends and local leaders to be present. A prize is to be offered to the club having the most members present. Each person has been asked to bring a Valentine. A program of novelty plays, songs and recitations will be given by the Franklin Thimble Wearers and the Worthy Cooking club. Games and dancing will also be enjoyed. At the conclusion of the business meeting Miss Rockwood served cakes and hot chocolate.

Local C. E. members were in charge of the Sunday evening service at Lebanon Congregational church, Ray Beckwith leading the meeting. There was a vocal solo. The recessional was by Mrs. Marjorie B. Ayer, accompanied at the piano by Ruth Robinson.

In the absence of Rev. J. D. Waldron, Sunday morning, Mrs. J. D. Waldron and Miss Miriam Waldron of Middletown, conducted the Sunday morning worship at Franklin Congregational church. Miss Waldron, who teaches at Long Lane Farm in Middletown, gave an interesting talk of a girl's life at Long Lane Farm, showing all the advantages and opportunities that a girl is given there for her betterment.

BOND MARKET

CHICAGO, Jan. 31—(AP)—Wheat scored abrupt price gains today but not until the market here had dropped widely to about 53c a bushel below the season's best level. Gyrations of the Winnipeg wheat market, especially a brisk late advance at Winnipeg, had much to do with the action of values here. Export business in North American wheat today appeared to be at a standstill, but in some quarters late Argentine and Australian advices were taken to indicate that importing countries have practically no alternative but recourse to North America for supplies.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were nervous at the same as yesterday's finish to 3-8c higher. Corn closed 1-4c to 1-2 a 5-8c advanced, oats unchanged to 1-8c up, and provisions varying from 7c decline to a gain of a shade.

Giving additional momentum to the late upward trend of the Chicago wheat market were reports of frost damage to the domestic winter wheat crop southwest, Oklahoma and Texas in particular, with uneasiness also about the condition of the crop in the western part of Kansas. Meanwhile, regarding chances for Europe continuing to draw wheat imports from the southern hemisphere, dispatches at hand here showed that Argentine and Australian shipments this week were both smaller than for the week previous. Under such circumstances, speculators who had been active on the selling side of the market turned rather unanimously to an opposite direction, and purchased on a large scale in order to collect profits as the day drew to an end.

Until about mid-day, however, the general course of wheat values here was rapidly downgrade, with attention of the trade focused on persistent breaks in the Winnipeg and Liverpool markets, and with prices here outdoing the season's lowest record established only 24 hours before. Waves of selling orders overwhelmed the Chicago wheat pit at times, many of the orders executed being a result of distress instructions to stop owners' losses at various set limits. On the consequent downward swing of prices, Chicago mills were reported as having declined offers of 800,000 bu. of No. 2 hard winter wheat in store here at $1.13 a bushel, just 3c below what the Farmer's National Grain corporation was bidding here for the same grade from rural sources but not obtaining any.

Corn and oats sympathized somewhat with wheat weakness, but declines brought in good buying from commission houses.

Provisions were mostly firm, responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

Facts About NEW and USED CARS and the Eastern Connecticut Motor Sales Co., Inc.

IN 1919 this agency opened its doors in Norwich for the purpose of giving the people better service on new car sales and better values on used cars.

RECENTLY we have taken over the agency for the Oldsmobile and Viking because after ten years of experience in selling other makes we know that these two cars not only cover fully the class of cars the people want to drive, but they give better value and better service for the money than any other product.

With this policy in mind we only ask the people of Norwich for the privilege of showing our wares before they definitely decide on a new or used automobile.

We have just received the first shipment of 1930 Oldsmobiles, and they are now on display at our salesroom.

Our Used Car Department is just crammed full of bargains. It will pay you to investigate.

Live Oak

The way of an oak is wondrous
Since first a flaming sword
Kept it fair in Eden
Before the fact of the Lord.

There is no tree that blossoms
But prays that it may be
As fair, as strong a sapling
As the Garden of Eden tree.

The birch tree prays in beauty,
The willow in humble tears,
The fruit trees pray in service,
The pine in growth of years.

The cedar prays in fragrance,
The elm in grace and height,
The maple prays in shelter
For beast and bird's delight.

But a live oak weathers winter—
Storm and struggle and strife—
The way of an oak is foursquare,
The way of the Tree of Life.

Bury the Past.

Bury the past with all that is dreary,
Cover the errors of yesterday o'er;
Do not revive it, sad heart, thou art weary
Of days that are never to visit us more.

Bury the past! forget all the sorrow,
Tears of regret and passionate pain;
Here is the present with thoughts of tomorrow,
It is enough for the world-weary brain.
Bury it with the hasty words spoken,
The anger, for which we cannot atone,
The shadows, the crosses, the bonds that are broken,
Cover them over and leave them alone.

Be Careful What You Say.

In speaking of a person's faults,
Pray don't forget your own;
Remember those with homes of glass
Should seldom throw a stone;
If we have nothing else to do
But talk of those that sin,
'Tis better we commence at home
And from that point begin.

We have no right to judge a man
Until he is fairly tried;
Should we not like his company,
We know the world is wide;
Some may have faults—and who has not?
Perhaps we may, for aught we know,
Have fifty to their one.

I'll tell you of a better plan,
You'll find it works full well;
To try our own defects to cure
Before of others tell.
And though I sometimes hope to be
No more than some I know,
My own short comings bid me let
The faults of others go

Then let us all when we commence
To slander friend or foe;
Think of the harm one world would do
To those we little know;
Remember, curses sometimes, like
Our chickens "roost at home;"
Don't speak of others' faults until
We have none of our own.

A Winter Garden.

Can this be the old garden that I loved?
The naked trees, the old dead stocks and vines;
Will they again blossom and put forth leaves
And shed out fragrants with the scented pines?

Will the east wind keep on blowing, blowing?
Making the trees toss their arms and blow low?
Acknowledging a mighty force superior
Forever, or will it cease to blow?

O Nature! Am I the only thing that dies?
As recklessly I pass upon my way;
In all the havoc in the years gone by
Can I not grow more lovely day by day?

Mother's Apple Pie

When appetites begin to lag
And Jane and Susan wish
For more new fangled recipes
To make some heathen dish
And Annette talks of diet and they argify, and pass
Opinions on the healthfulness
Of meat and garden sass,
I tell 'em there ain't no sort of relish I can try
To tone up my digestion
Like a good, green aple pie.
Our son, he's been to college,
That's his college there you see,
He's just put out a shingle
With J. Arthur Jones, M. D.
He says that pastry'll stay the race
And talks about the lay
And the workin' of yer liver
In a dreadful knowin' way.
But I've noticed that he gently slips
Down the cellar on the sly,
And there's several doughnuts missing
And a half an apple pie.
There's science in the baking
And there's high art in the crust,
And when they've baked a little brown
Amanda'll gently dust
The top all round with sugar,
And I believe I've heard her say
She sometimes puts in butter
And a pinch of caraway.
Them gals! With all their finny
Finny notions, mind yer eye,
Don't have no trouble managing
Their mother's apple pie.

ANSWERS AND INQUIRIES

STEBELIA: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

CATCHING UP ON THE CORNER

Dear Social Corner: Again I have been away visiting a son, a daughter and some friends in Yonkers, N. Y., West Chester, Pa., and Bayonne, N. J. So have just read the Corner letters since Dec. 14. I was very much interested in the letters about trundle beds. We had one for our young son, and many things happened around that trundle bed with two babies near together, one in the bed with us, as babies did not sleep by themself at that time. Grandmother sent the trundle for boy. The letters brought back memories of a little chap who every afternoon had a nap and was put upstairs where it was quiet and left to sleep.

We had a setting of eggs from Massachusetts at the big price of one dollar for 13. They were put upstairs for safety. Boy, as usual, was put to bed as it began to get late. I wondered why he slept so long, and went to see. He was nowhere to be found, but half the eggs were broken. Shells, yolks, mixed in such a mess. I thought I'll give him a good spanking. he knew better than meddle with things put away. I called and called and no boy. His father came. It was almost dark. We were almost frantic. The neighbors were rushing around, every one trying to thing of some awful thing that had happened to him. One lady was sure he was such a dear child some one had kidnapped him. They even tried to take up the wooden pump in the yard to look in the well.

I went into one room and a sharp little voice cried, "Mamma," and how they all rushed and said, "There he is, where is he?" We soon pulled him out, trundle bed and all. Think he was frightened at the egg mess and so came to his bed and pushed himself and bed out of sight and went to sleep. Face, dress, hands and bed covered with egg. I forgot to spank him, though the lady said he ought to be whipped. I asked him if he remembers it and he says the eggs he does and that Mr. Bouly gave him a bag of candy and I let him eat it all.

Another time he pulled little sister by her dress from our bed into his. And when we heard the thump he said, "she wanted to sleep with him!" His father said "why are you in our bed then?" I have many many memories of that trundle bed, as we used it until boy was too big. Sister used it. We did not push it under the bed except in the day time. It was corded, we had straw mattress and featherbed top of that. It was easy to get into, and hard to keep in in the morning. A few summers ago I was at Longfellows Wayside Inn at South Sudbury, Mass, and saw three trundle beds. They were larger and did not look a bit comfortable.

I was glad to see a paper full of letters, and one from B Natural. We were all so aroused about her when she was so sick. I tried Mrs. G. J.'s gingerbread. It's very nice, shall try "Censi's" muster gingerbread. I remember my mother telling once that my father who was captain of 200 men who drilled on a lot at Old Mystic, gave them a treat of muster gingerbread and milk also beer. I thought it a slim treat. That was in 1841 or 42. So I want to try it.

Where is Whippoorwill and Brownie. It's a long time since they have written. Sumac's letters are fine. She is such a busy lady. I hope to be able to go to a meeting of Club 6. Something seems to prevent me every time. We all love the Corner but some of us forget it must have letters from us all to make it interesting. I do not know many writers but would like to meet them all.

JUST A LITTLE TARDY.

Dear Social Corner Friends: I must make haste or I will be tardy with my letter for the new year. As it is it will not appear until February, but nevertheless it is being written in January. The Corner page has been full and then some. How nice it would be if we as writers would keep to our resolutions and not fail when the hot days come with so much to take our time and attract us to other things and places. However we will do the best we can. I have thought the letters exceptionall fine the past month. I must write of two sisters who have departed from our midst—Savilla, known in life as Mrs. Ida Brown, also Betsy, known in life as Mrs. Jennie Harvey. We shall miss their smiles and cheery greetings. I have known them both since childhood.

Sumac: So glad you enjoyed the dinner, will send recipe in next letter.

Effie M.: Just O. Kay. Thanks.

The Old Year passes; the New Year comes
With its measures of joy and care;
We know not which, we only know
We shall be in Our Father's care.

CLUB NO. 5 MEETS IN NORWICH

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: How nice it is to see so many letters on our page. We certainly have been having some real winter weather. Hope that the sick ones are decidedly better. My heartfelt sympathy to those who have lost their dear mothers in the past month, may God comfort them. We will surely miss them at our Corner meetings. Those that are fond of corn cake please try this:

Delicious Golden Corn Cake: One cup corn meal, 3-4 cup of flour, 1-2 cup sugar, 4 teaspoons Rumford baking powder, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups of milk, 1 egg and 1 tablespoon of melted butter. Mix and sift dry ingredients, add milk, egg well beaten and butter, bake in shallow buttered pan in very hot oven twenty minutes. This is very nice for breakfast with bacon and eggs.

Now please all remember that Club No. 5 meets in the Buckingham Memorial, Wednesday, Feb. 5th. Come all that possibly can, and bring something good to eat. Leah is to be hostess so we will have a fine dinner. I believe we are to have a demonstrator at that meeting. Best wishes to all.

PINKEY'S DATE PUDDING.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Was glad to see so many letters last week. The Social Corner is the first thing I look for in Saturday's paper. I am going to try some bran muffins this week. I am very fond of them.

Eclipse: Thanks for both messages you need not have bothered about the enclosed. Hope to be able to help more later.

I am sending in my recipe for

Date Pudding: 1 cup of dates, ¼ cup of sugar, 1 cup of chopped nuts, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 2 eggs (beaten), 2 tablespoons of flour, mixed in a little water pinch, of salt. Bake 20 minutes in slow oven. Serve with whipped cream.

Ma of Green Gables: How is the weather up on the hill? It must be good sliding. Have you and Rural Aunty tried it yet? I would if I lived up there. Could you give me an idea how old the "baby carriages" are that are upstairs in your house? They looked quite antique to me. Will close with best wishes to all members and friends.

CANNING MILK

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I wonder if any of you have ever thought about canning milk?

The motto "Eat what you can, and can what you can't eat," applies to milk as well as all the other foods.

Often milk is left over. Instead of letting it sour, or wondering what to do with it, why not try canning it? Then sometime when you are in the midst of cooking and are confronted with a shortage of milk, you will not have to stop and go out for some, or wonder what to use for a substitute You will have it right at hand. And it is all so simple to do.

Put the milk in a preserve jar. Adjust rubber, put on cap, and partly seal. Then place jar in a pot into which a false bottom has been put. A few strips of wood, or a heavy cloth will do. The idea is to keep the jar from coming in direct contact with the bottom of the pot, and to prevent breakage. Fill the pot with tepid water half way up the jar. Let water come to a boil and boil moderately for half an hour. Remove jar, seal at once and store. If properly sealed, it will keep perfectly for a year or more.

Anyone having a cow has experienced that when she is fresh, there is more milk than one knows what to do with, and during her dry period there is nothing wherewith to do. So one is forced to buy milk. Canning the surplus during the time of plenty solves the problem. Only in this case I should suggest skimming the milk, putting milk in one jar and the cream in another. The canned cream whips fairly well, and the scalded taste can be overcome by adding a little flavoring.

The cost is almost nothing. Most housekeepers have jars for preserving on hand. The only outlay would be for rubbers.
IRVA LYNN.

BUSY WITH CROCHET HOOK.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I know you will be surprised to find this letter. I have never thought I could ever write anything interesting, but as every one is trying to start the new year right I will try and do my part. If I am not too late I wish every one a happy New Year. I will be glad when it is spring and the days are more cheerful.

Did any of the Corner Sisters ever make the centerpiece in the November, 1924, Needlecraft on page ten at the top? I have just finished it and I think it is lovely. I also finished the chair back in the January issue on page 18. It is also pretty. Perhaps you remember the crochet piece, "The Spirit of St. Louis," Lindy's airplane. Well I have also made that. My Needlecraft comes in very handy. I love to make these big pieces as I think they are more useful and make lovely gifts. I like to make new patterns and I get awfully interested in seeing what I can make. Yesterday I started the Arletta lace in the November 1928 issue of Needlecraft. It is also pretty. I am making it in pink. If I can be of any help to anyone in crocheting I am willing to do my bit.

A lady phoned the other day and wanted to know if I could tell her how to make a "sample." She said you make so many pretty things I thought perhaps you could help me. I was very sorry I couldn't help her on that. I have never tried to make one. Perhaps some of you have.

Well, I will sign off for this time as I think I have done my duty. I like to read about the trundle beds as those were before my day. I would like to see Olga in one now.

PRAIRIE CHICKEN'S INVENTION.

Dear Social Corner Members: Haven't we done ourselves proud the past two weeks? And aren't we glad we did our bit to fill the page and part of another page? Now I know more will take courage and contribute each week. The recipes are exceptionally choice because they are used by our own members. The kitchen helps are worth saving, the smiles are good to sandwich in and make a variety.

We appreciated the nice, interesting letter of our sister B. Natural, who has been ill these many months.

These are lovely winter days. I go somewhere nearly every day and yesterday morning as I drove past an orchard I saw four bird nests securely fastened to the branches, and in each the snow was heaped so that they looked like cup cakes with white frosting. As a child I was always imaginative, I had to play alone a great deal so I wandered and dreamed in The Land of Imagination. I loved (and do now) to watch the cluods, always forming new shapes. Sometimes I saw magnificent castles; then great oceans, other times an endless white path. I often wondered where it led—when all too soon my picture book would turn and there I saw beautiful colorings. I wished I could have a dress of some of those gorgeous hues and so on and on my cloud pictures would forever change. Now as I drive along I do not take my home cares with me; just forget them for the time, and observe nature and all her wonderful works. Those warm days a while back, the brave little pussy willow must have thought spring was on the way for I noticed a little "pussies" starting.

Yesterday I was looking out of my window and I smiled to see my sparrow (I call it mine for it always flies down to eat with the hens) hop into the tub of water from which the hens drink and took his daily bath. He was having the best kind of a time splashing water and the thermometer registered around zero, too. Then he flew to the rose bush to preen his feathers.

Thanks, Brown Eyes, for the card. I truly appreciate the thought.

A friend in Pennsylvania sent me a motto calendar for Christmas. The calendar itself was not what one can call pretty but the mottos, quotations, and verses I read on each month are truly beautiful. If we only could live up to those thoughts of Emerson, Whittier, Wordsworth, Tennyson and many others, I believe we would find more happiness.

I wish you of the Corner could read the calendar but as that is impossible.

I thought of you the day you met in Westerly. By the reports you must have had a dandy time. Oh, by the way, before I forget it I want to say I believe I've invented something. Now I'm lying awake nights planning how I will invest my money I may get when I sell the patent. I've named it a "safety-pin cork-puller." You see it happened this way: I wanted to open an ammonia bottle and the cork was in the bottle nearly level with the mouth of it. I could not start the cork with my fingers but I happened to have a good sized safety pin in my apron and the bright idea came to push the pin tsaright through the cork (but keep the thumb out of the way) and when the pin is through far enough clasp it and grasp it and pull steadily and that tantalizing little velvet cork came out. This idea may prove valuable to someone who is saving kitchen pinks. Will close this long letter with a verse and quotation from my calendar.

Not for one single day
Can I discern the way;
But this I know—
Who gives the day
Will show the way,
So I securely go.
—John Oxenham.

E. L. M. WRITES A CHATTY LETTER

Dear Social Corner Members: What a nice lot of letters to read in last Saturday's Bulletin. Prairie Chicken's last letter was fine. We had a nice time at our last meeting of which Sumac gave an account. We missed several of our regulars but the unpleasant weather and sickness was responsible for many not being there.

May Bug and Little Rhody: I hear you have been sporting. That's fine. I have been having an enjoyable (?) time making lard, sausage, head cheese, etc., and, oh, so many greasy dishes to wash. I was so sorry to learn of the death of Savilla. I always enjoyed meeting her and was hoping to meet her at the anniversary meeting if I attended. She always seemed to have such a good time.

Chaffeur: You have my sympathy in your trouble.

Devona: I imagine you knew Derona meant Devona in my recent letter. I see by the paper that the patient has been discharged from the hospital. That is good.

B Natural: Was glad you felt able to write to the corner once again.

Bumble Bee: Well you sure did put your foot in it, too bad. I can realize how hard it will be for you to be laid up, aside from the suffering.

Tish and Just-a-Nut: We certainly miss you. American Girl and Sumac have to work overtime, nearly every one is willing to help either with the dinner or program but, so few are willing to take charge.

Here is a recipe for cooking cranberries that is good. Put 1 quart of cranberries through the food chopper, place in a saucepan with 1 cupful of water. When it begins to boil keep boiling six minutes then add two cups of granulated sugar and bring to the boiling point and boil three minutes. This makes a nice jellied sauce. I sometimes make it the same way and use the cranberries without putting through the chopper.

GREETINGS FROM CRIMSON RAMBLER.

Dear Corner Folks: Just a few lines today to say how-dy. How very sorry I was to hear of the death of Savilla, as I received a letter from her only a few days before and she never said she was sick. I have known her for a long time, as she was one of my very best neighbors for a long time. How I shall miss her.

Joan: I can't say whether I received your letter in February or not, but have often wondered why I didn't hear from you. I have had many a change since then, but will send you a letter very soon, I hope.

Elm Tree Bobby: You are a dandy, why did you hurry so Saturday? I was upstairs and before I could come to the door you had flown. I did want to say hello. Have you any idea how long those halls here are? Next time please wait a minute. I'll forget how you look if you don't.

L. T. H.: How are you? I am wondering if our friend ever shows up, you know who I mean?

For the Love of Mike: Did you get your silk dress?

Dearie: I mean to write you a letter, have intended to for a long time.

I wish to thank a Corner Member for a pretty little calendar I received in due time. Best wishes to all.
CRIMSON RAMBLER.

LOVE AT FIRST SIGHT

Social Corner Members: Your letter, Aries, was very interesting. I am glad to be a member of this Social Corner, and hope I will make many new friends. I am very fond of poems and I will send in one today which I hope you will like, about a Winter Garden.

I do hope I will receive a copy of the paper from some friend, as they are hard to get in my home town.

Maybe this bit of gossip would interest some of the readers. A few years ago I met a lady and fell in love with her at sight. Her home was in Norwich and I visited her. The next summer she visited me, and I introduced her to a friend of mine and it was love at first sight. They were both over 40 years of age, and later married. They have lived happily ever after, so far.
JANE OF R. I.

ANOTHER TRUNDLE BED FAN

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: I am not so very young or awful old but as I read about trundle beds it came to my mind I had slept in one and instead of the bed having a white valance I think it was a colored one. The trundle bed was pulled out far enough to let us get in.

E. L. M.: Have thought of what you told about.

Sumac: Some bang we got.

Lucile Drew: Thank you. We all seemed to have a good time at Club No. 6 Social Corner even if the party was not large. Seems as if about all we have had is rain or snow all winter.

Necia: I too, planned to go to Hartford to the Grange but did not get there as it stormed.

Olga: Haven't seen you in a long time, come for the March meeting.

Best wishes to all.
COSMOS.

WRITING ONCE A WEEK

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: January of 1930 is fast going and if I write a letter today that makes me one a month this year. We have had all kinds of weather so far and perhaps that accounts for so much sickness around. To those that are sick I send sympathy and hope for a speedy recomern.

Sweet William: Am sorry to hear of your sickness. trust you will soon be better again.

Bumble Bee: I send my sympathy to you. I am very sorry.

Rose of New England: Hope the second son is all right by now.

Arbutus: Am glad Junior is better.

Aunty No. 1: I hope to see you some time again.

I wish to thank the Social Corner Member for pretty calendar received. I have saved all received and have quite a few.

With best wishes to all, I remain as ever.
SISTER READY.

CATALOGUES AND SEEDS

Social Corner Editor: Donald G. Mitchell in Dream Life" says, "I love to trace the break of spring step by step. I love even those long rain storms that sap the icy fortresses of the lingering winter that melt the snows up on the hills and swell the mountain brooks; that make the pools heave up their glassy cerements of ice."

With the coming of February our thoughts turn to gardens and seed catalogues even though we realize that many more days of snow and sleet may be our portion before spring arrives. One wonders if the shrubs set out last year are surviving and we consult our catalogs with a view of purchasing one or two new plants for there is always such fun in watching them grow and seeing what the blossoms will be like.

This reminds me, have any of the members some way of insuring blooms from their jonquils? Every year ours send up dozens of buds but only three or four blossoms will come to maturity. We have tried them in wet places and in dry places, have left some in same place for several years and reset others, all to no avail? What can be the trouble?

In a recent magazine I noted an article about hyacinths that grow in the house which fail to develop stems. Two years ago nearly all of mine did this and it discouraged me from getting more for they had been kept in a cool dark place while developing roots according to instructions given. Possibly the bulbs were inferior. However, this piece says that if you note any flower stems inclined to be lazy put tall salmon cans with both ends cut out and the stems and leaves will draw up to the light and develop normally. I think I shall have to try this scheme next winter.

One of the members mentions reading and enjoying Gene Stratton Porter's books. I wonder if she has read the most interesting biography written by her daughter. It makes one realize what a lot of research she undertook in order to make her descriptions of birds, bees, flowers and butterflies ring true. I do not care for all her books but spent a number of happy hours with "The Girl of the Limberlost" and incidentally became quite interested in butterflies the year I read it.

The sister who enjoys hiking perhaps heard the talk over the radio the other afternoon about the bird friends one might meet on a winter's walk through the country. The lecturer spoke of the juncos and tree sparrows with which most of us are familiar, but I was surprised to learn that song sparrows are included among our winter birds. In early February we frequently hear the phoebe song of the chickadee and sometimes mistake it for our flycatcher friend itself. But once learned you will never mistake it for the chickadees "phoebe" song is clear and high and does not have the wheezy note characteristic of phoebe, the flycatcher.

Eveline Burr: I too enjoyed the "Americanization of Edward Bok," and think it one of the finest books of its kind.

Social Corner member: Many thanks for the little calendar, 'tis pleasant to be remembered.

I am glad to learn that others enjoy keeping diaries. Mine was revived primarily to supplement the "Brownie" record of our little daughter but find it has quite outgrown its original purpose.
BO PEEP.

RECALLS OTHER DAYS

Dear Social Corner Members: I have been negligent lately. It has been quite a while since I had a letter in the Corner page. It was pleasing to see so many letters last week. I want to thank the one that sent me the dainty calendar.

Biddy: You certainly did some canning with all that pork. You can't remember about the trundle bed but I can, when you were a baby. Polly Wintergreen and I slept in one and it was along side of our parents, not half way under the bed as some had them. In the day time it was pushed under the bed out of the way and a long white valence around the bed to hide it I suppose. Those good old days are way back in the past. In reading Dad Shaw's letter in The Bulletin this morning it took me way back a good many years, when we used to coast down the hill in the pasture and see who could go the deepest into a big hole made by removing a boulder some time in the past. We would get our clothes wet, go in and change and try it over again. Many other thoughts I might mention.

Hopeful: How about the straw rides in Tolland?

Savilla's daughter has my sympathy and all others in similar trouble.

I want to thank all who sent me cards for the season's greetings.

Meadow Lark and Lowthorpe: I can return the compliment.

Doctor: I haven't forgotten my promise but duties and housework keep me quite busy. Shall hold you to your offer some day.

Ready: I still miss you around the house.

I wish you all a happy and prosperous New Year. Hope to meet with you next week.

As ever.
AUNTY NO. 1

"THE YEARS TURNED BACK"

Dear Social Corner Editor and Readers. Last Saturday afternoon as I was writing at my desk, the doorbell rang; upon opening the door, I saw the genial face of C. H. "Dad" Shaw. Before he le hold his grip of my hand he said, "I have three with me, and one whom you know would like to see you. They are now in the car on the street above." I said, they are all welcome; it will be a pleasure to meet them. Coming in I recognized one as one of the young ladies who called on me last summer. I was introduced to a well-known member of our Social Corner. "Black Eyed Susan," and Mr. Shaw, brother of "Dad." The one I met last summer said, "I am one who has demonstrated the efficiency of Meilen's food, you know babies thrive on that food, and I am a baby." I thought what a splendid baby to hold in your lap

"Black Eyed Susan": with a twinkle in her eyes, suggested that they also were corn fed. As I looked into the young ladies ruddy wholesome faces, I would wager and win, that the corn on which they fed was sweet corn.

For an hour or more we exchanged pleasantries. I may have been the first to tell a story, but as "Dad" was brimming full of jokes, experiences and stories, I concluded that the first one to tell a story, stood no show with the next one, so the floor was given to "Dad" Shaw, who kept the room melodious with laughter All of us enjoyed the sallies of wit and story telling. No music over the radio was more enjoyable than the melody of laughter that for an hour filled the room.

As the time came for them to go, I remarked that my age had been renewed ten years, by their very pleasant visit. "Dad" replied that they would stay longer next time, and so set back the hands of time 20 years.

There is a saying, "Laugh and Grow Fat." I will paraphrase and say, "Laugh and Grow Young."

A pretty and novel book mark was given me by "Black Eyed Susan" with words of New Year's greeting, interspersed with a wreath of dainty flowers. On the reverse side, hidden beneath the ribbon were these words: Quid Nunc from "Black Eyed Susan." A box of delicious homemade candy, made by Miss, the other young lady, was presented. sampled, and pronounced superior to any other of the candy makers' art.

As good byes were said, they were urged to come again, and bring their bundle of good cheer with them. The latch string will be hanging outside.
QUID NUNC.

CANS MUCH MEAT

Social Corner Editor: I am quite interested in reading the Social Corner every Saturday and this time I was especially interested in Biddy's letter on Using and Keeping Fresh Pork, and how she canned some of the pork. For my part I think canned fresh roast pork is delicious, and would also say that I have canned pork, beef, lamb and veal, and have never lost any. I would like to join the Social Corner and will take for my pen name
STEBELIA

OLD RUBBER BOTTLES AND INNER TUBES

Kind Editor and Corner Members: I was glad to see the page full and more of the nice letters. I do enjoy reading them, all so interesting. Glad to see letters from so many old writers.

Joan: Glad to read letter from you. Suppose your plants are beauties now. You and Aunt Jerusha certainly know how to have nice plants. I guess because you both are shut-ins. God gives you beautiful flowers and plants. I love to see them.

Aunt Jerusha: Was glad to see your letter in Corner page. I guess if you took some of your lovely bread and baked beans to a club meeting all would say you had the real old fashioned bake and flavor just right. Cooks today cannot get it. Wish there were more cooks like you. You sure have the handsome calendar, so cheery.

Cretia: Your letter was fine. Would like to have you, Aunt Jerusha and Mr. Jerusha together and hear you talk old times in Hampton. I do so enjoy your letters and then to hear others tell about things you write of and many more.

Blue Bell: His brother and two sisters were born in Hampton. Have heard his father tell of many people and places you speak of.

Aries: Poem was nice. Hope you are much better in health and that good luck smiles on you.

Green Hollow: Glad to see your letter. Was afraid I scared you, guessing who is who. How is the mother? Does she live near you?

Violet: Your letter received. Glad to hear from you and that the little ones are feeling better. It was so cold I did not look at the thermometer. It makes me feel colder. Arm is coming along good but slow. Called on Aunt Jerusha and had pleasant call. First time I have been out calling.

Nonesopretty: Keep up good courage, I am going to write you a letter. Am not at the woods chopping now, so must see you, Aries, Joan and Kochia as you pass. Two friends brought home all my wood for me in that snow. I am so happy to have it home so I can have a warm fire. God is good to me, to give me two such good friends in time of trouble and may God bless them for their great kindness to me and to others.

I will send in uses for leaky hot water bottles. Cut one side across top and two sides, turn down, put hot poultice in and put over sore place. If there is a sore hand or wrist, cut neck off big enough to put hand and bandages inside, pin to coat sleeve and it keeps cold air or rain off and keeps hand warm. Fill with hot bran, put in cork and use as hot water bottle. Ice can be used in it if not too big a leak. Filled with hot ashes it relieves neuralgia and rheumatic pains.

Uses for old inner tubes to auto tires. Cut narrow for holding sleeves up, or stockings. Fill up a piece with hot bran or poultice for pain. For ice packs for eye, face or anywhere, fill with crushed ice and fasten ends. For pain in back fill with hot bran, fasten ends and it can be turned to fit where pain is and relieve it in short time.

Tafts: My mother's prayer is nice. If that is not the one the sister asked for, perhaps this is:

I never can forget the day
I heard my mother kindly say,
"You're leaving now my tender care;
Remember, child, your mother's prayer."
Tho I pray the Lord for saving grace
With me up yonder face to face,
A home above for ever there
In answer to my mother's prayer.

Jane of R. I.: Glad to see a letter from you. I know R. I. pretty well. Will try and guess who is who after you write a few letters. Rhode Island is a small state but holds lots of people, so I may not be guessing right.

C. "Dad" Shaw: Was glad to see your letter in Corner page.

Sorry to hear a Corner sister has broken her ankle. Have forgotten her pen name. Hope you are soon better. Do you remember little Bessie, from Nebraska? Think now you will know. Met you last time at picnic.

Extend sympathy to all sick and shut-ins, also those that have parted with dear ones. Best wishes to all.
L. T. H. (Club 2)

A NEW YEAR'S PURPOSE.

Dear Social Corner: What does religion teach? That in the beginning God created all things man and woman last. He surrounded them with all the beauties of nature. Then He commanded that a certain thing should not be done.

He gave them no experience in the sin of disobedience to show them the power of His wrath but set before them deliberately a temptation that He knew they could not resist. They yielded and for that sin of one man and woman the whole millions of people that were supposed to descend from them were condemned to eternal punishment. Then after thousands of years elapsed, God sent down His son to die. Think of the suffering He sent upon that Son uselessly when a single breath of forgiveness might have changed it all.

If the Saviour died to save us from the sin of Adam and we die to atone for individual sin, where is the need of a future place of punishment?

To the Social Corner member I send a thank you for your kindness in sending the dainty calendar.

My new year's purpose: To be less quick to criticise, more ready to forgive to use such talents as I have happiness may grow to take the bitter with the sweet, assured 'tis better so to be quite free from self intent whatever the task I do to help the world's faith stronger grow in all that's good and true

CENZI SENDS RECIPES

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I hope I am not too late to get this in this week end and I am going to try to write once a month this year. I want to say to I. J. B. that my mother is her cousin and it was my sister she met in Jewett City last summer but I hope to be able to be there at the reunion next year to meet the folks. My sister is a Corner writer and her name is Auto. I have been to your father's and mother's home when I was a little girl when they lived in Mashentuck and knew your sister A. real well. We had many good times with her, she was so full of fun. D. visited her too when she lived in S. district. And I also had the pleasure of riding out one Sunday with your nephews and B. and a friend of theirs while your sister Mary was visiting with your father's family, and your cousin Laura and father are well known to me. So hope I can meet you some time. Pippin was here yesterday and I let her have your letter of last week.

Nely Grey, Edge Lady, Harry E., Johnny on the Spot, Caro, Laila: Write some to the Corner so we can all hear from you. As February is at hand will send in some Washington and Lincoln receipes.

General Washington Cake: Work to a cream 3-4 lb. each butter and sugar. Add one by one, beating between 5 eggs, nutmeg and cinnamon, to taste, 1 lb. twice-sifted flour, 1 gill cider or orange juice (Colonial ladies used wine) 1-2 teaspoon soda dissolved in 1 gill cream, 1 lb. well-picked over currants or seeded raisins. Mix thoroughly and bake in a loaf in a moderate oven for an hour or more.

Martha Washington Cake: Sift together three times, 2 rounded cups flour, pinch of soda and two teaspoons cream tartar. Mix thoroughly, then add 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1 cup milk, 3 tablespoons melted butter and a little grated nutmeg. Beat and stir until very light and smooth. Bake in three layers. When cold put together with the following: Heat in double boiler, 1 cup milk, mix together 1 egg, 5 tablespoons sugar, 1 teaspoon corn starch, 1 tablespoon flour. Pour slowly into the hot milk and cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Season with nutmeg, let cool then spread between and on top of cake, eat the same day it is made.

Mount Vernon Cake: (Much used in General Washington's family); 1 1-2 lbs. sugar, 1-2 lb. butter, 1 3-4 lbs. flour, 6 eggs, 1 pint sour cream, 1 teaspoon soda, 1-2 lb. citron, 2 lemons (rind of 2, juice of 1), 1 nutmeg and some mace, 1 lb. raisins, 1 lb. currants. Cream butter and sugar, add the egg yolks well beaten then the cream and flour with spices alternately, then the well beaten egg whites, last of all the well floured fruit. Bake about 3 hours. Cover top first hour with buttered paper. This was probably baked in a brick over at Mount Vernon.

Abraham Lincoln Marble Cake: Light part: 1 cup white sugar, 1-2 cup butter, 1-2 cup sweet milk 2 cups flour, whites of 3 eggs, 1 1-2 teaspoons baking powder, teaspoon vanilla. Dark part: 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1-4 cup molasses, 1-4 cup butter, 1-4 cup sweet milk, 1-2 teaspoon nutmeg, 1-2 teaspoon allspice, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 1-3 teaspoon baking powder, 3 egg yolks, 2 cups flour. Butter a deep cake pan and turn in alternately the light and dark batter in ribbons, or put it in by tablespoonfuls. Bake from 40 to 60 minutes in a moderate oven.

Current Events in Cakes will send more next time.

PHOTOS BRING FOND MEMORIES

Dear Editor and Friends: In the homes are found many interesting books, one of which is the photograph album. I have three, one used exclusively for family portraits, but to me a book of memories. My first memories of life were of a mother's watchful care and a face wreathed with motherly tenderness which no tongue, or pen can express the depth of a mother's love. And in this memory there mingles a grandmother's face, scenery on a farm where I spent some of my happiest hours roaming and slept many a night in a trundle bed. Placing the first faces in the book of pictures with brothers, sisters and many others makes the book very dear to me. I was one of a large family. Once the circle was complete but now broken links mark the trail; and so a pictured face is the key that locks the past to the present with memories of home ties and scanning each familiar face reading the history of life on the placid brow and wish for the touch of a vanished hand, the leaves turn to scenes in younger days as I recall many amusing incidents; many quarrels and have not forgotten the tingling sparks. When we, the children dwelled together in the home we loved so well and played where robin red-breast sang among the trees and some of us sang hymns of praise at the twilight hour.

In the course of time the home seemed too small for the large group and like the birds nestling that takes the final flight, we left the home roof to live amid other scenes. Closing the book that contains the portraits of four generations and wish for the sound of voices that are still.

LETERS WHICH DELIGHT.

Dear Editor and Social Corner Folks: What a delight to read letters from Theoda, Aunt Jerusha, Hope Cobweb, Wiltwyck Jennie, Joan, Rosalind and Roberts, those of Club 1 I feel especially acquainted with. Haven't forgotten Rosalind's birthday celebration at E. K., and Last Rose of Summer's letter recently brought to mind when we, "the Girls and the dear Sage," had such pleasant visits in our own back yard.

Let's see more Club No. 1 letters I've wondered for a long time why we didn't see more.

Did you say you've wondered where I was? Well, right on top of the hill, at the same works.

Hope some time to be able to attend another meeting but it sure won't be until good old summer time.

To the Social Corner Members—thanks for the dainty calendar, which is ever a pleasure to receive.

To the lady in Taftville, who will read this, am wondering if you've been over this way. Understand Auntie Vail went south? Kenneth is having an interesting experience, isn't he?

Aries: I am going to use "great events" in a few words.

Double Fuschia: Some day you'll hear a knock and I'll surprise you.

Best wishes.
NEIGHBOR EVEREADY.

FINDS DIARIES INTERESTING

Dear Social Corner Editor and Members: I always mean to start the year right by writing a letter to the Social Corner in January and as January is flying away fast, I will have to get started. It has been quite a while since I have written. But don't think I have lost my interest. I read all the letters every week and am always glad when I see one from any of my friends.

Twice Twenty and 1493 are more faithful about writing than I am and their letters are always good too I always enjoyed the meetings when I belonged to Club No. 4. The one we had at the old Church on the Hill stands out as one of the best.

I think all the Social Corner letters are interesting and one gains an insight into the personality of the writers from reading them.

I laughed over Olga's trundle bed experience and could just imagine she let them know she was there in no uncertain tones. Then what a time Nonesopretty had getting home from the picnics.

I enjoyed the accounts the different sisters gave of their trips to interesting places last summer and fall.

By the way Soma we haven't heard a word from you since you gave us such a fine account of your trip. Hope we see another letter before long. Also this is the right season of the year for winter robin to chirp.

I think Club No. 6 is pretty well represented on the page each week. E. L. M. has always been a faithful standby. Hope we get that call from you some day E. L. M.

I am interested in the letters that mention the books the sisters have read as I like to read. I have read the one Evelyn Burr mentioned, "A Lantern in Her Hand," and thought it was exceptionally good, a little sad though.

Another book that relates pioneering days in "Grandmother Brown's One Hundred Years." One gets a good idea of the settling of Ohio and Iowa.

Several of the sisters have spoken about diaries. Well, I want to tell those who are interested in diaries to read "Samuel Sewell's Diary." It is certainly interesting and enlightening. He came to Boston about 16 and kept this diary steadily un into 1700. It speaks of some even we are all familiar with in history a makes them seem so real. It al makes us realize how differently w think from what they thought.

As one reads these stories of re people and the events of their live one can but realize that truth stranger than fiction," also more i teresting.

Well, Sumac, you said if the o writers didn't write pretty soon th would be forgotten. Well, I ha written so rope you won't forget m Best wishes to all and sympathy t the sick ones.

LOOKS FOR LETTERS ON FLOWERS

Dear Social Corner: There are many good letters in the Corner no Cold weather has not frozen the ink wells so far it seems.

Have just been out hanging out clothes, not one of my favorite occupations this time of the year Thankful, though, to be able to do it. This weather does keep us busy feeding the fires, Ma of G. G., but anyway we don't have to worry at present about thunder showers. You must get some hard ones up on that hill.

Cretia: I always look for your letters. Have always wondered what a hoop snake looked like. Will you tell us how they are colored, and marked, so we may be sure to recognize them in time to avoid accident. Any left in Hampton? Think the berry lov there won't tempt me. Reminds m of the story of the bear on M Greylock. One always appeared blueberry time.

Thanks, Jane of R. I., it is nice to b appreciated. Writers are alway wanted in the Corner, so do your b by sending in letters, and you'l as much one of us as though you a tended every meeting.

Iola: Enjoyed your letter. I re member the valances. Not all we white, though some were of the glaze chintz and I used to think them s pretty. What wonderful play room for rainy summer days those old gar rets made.

Eveline Burr: My memory is leav ing me, but I find no joy in forget ting. Inconvenient, I'll say. I coul place so few of those quotations now Though all had a familiar sound. Als do you remember the discussion o short skirts not so long ago? Thin so far you are the only one to eve mention the new (?) long one Haven't heard many hurrahs or halle lujahs over their return, have you You can be sure of one thing, thoug it will be worn, if it is the style.

Fourscore: Can't you tell us abou other interesting places or exper iences of yours? The letter about th boulders was fine. Was one of the the Cochegan Rock?

Theoda: I wrote to four of thos flower exchangers. Only one an swered, a Kentucky woman, but w have arranged to exchange a numbe of varieties.

Wiltwyck: Have cut out your re cipe for sauerkraut to try next fa if cabbages grow for us.

It is time now for the flower fan to take stock of seeds saved last yea and prepare to order more if needed Several of the sisters, last year, sai they intended to try something ne each year. Wish each one would re port on what she tried, as to whethe it was liked or not. had cleome, o spider plant last year. From a shor distance it looks like perennial phlox It began blossoming early and kep on until killed by frost. They ar pink and grow quite tall. Also ha Chinese forget-me-not, a lovely blue good also for cutting. Both of these are said to seed themselves freely I so, will have plenty of seedlings nex spring that I'll be glad to give away Also, unless they winter-kill, wi have seedlings of columbine, if any one would like them. Let's hear from the other garden hobby-riders.

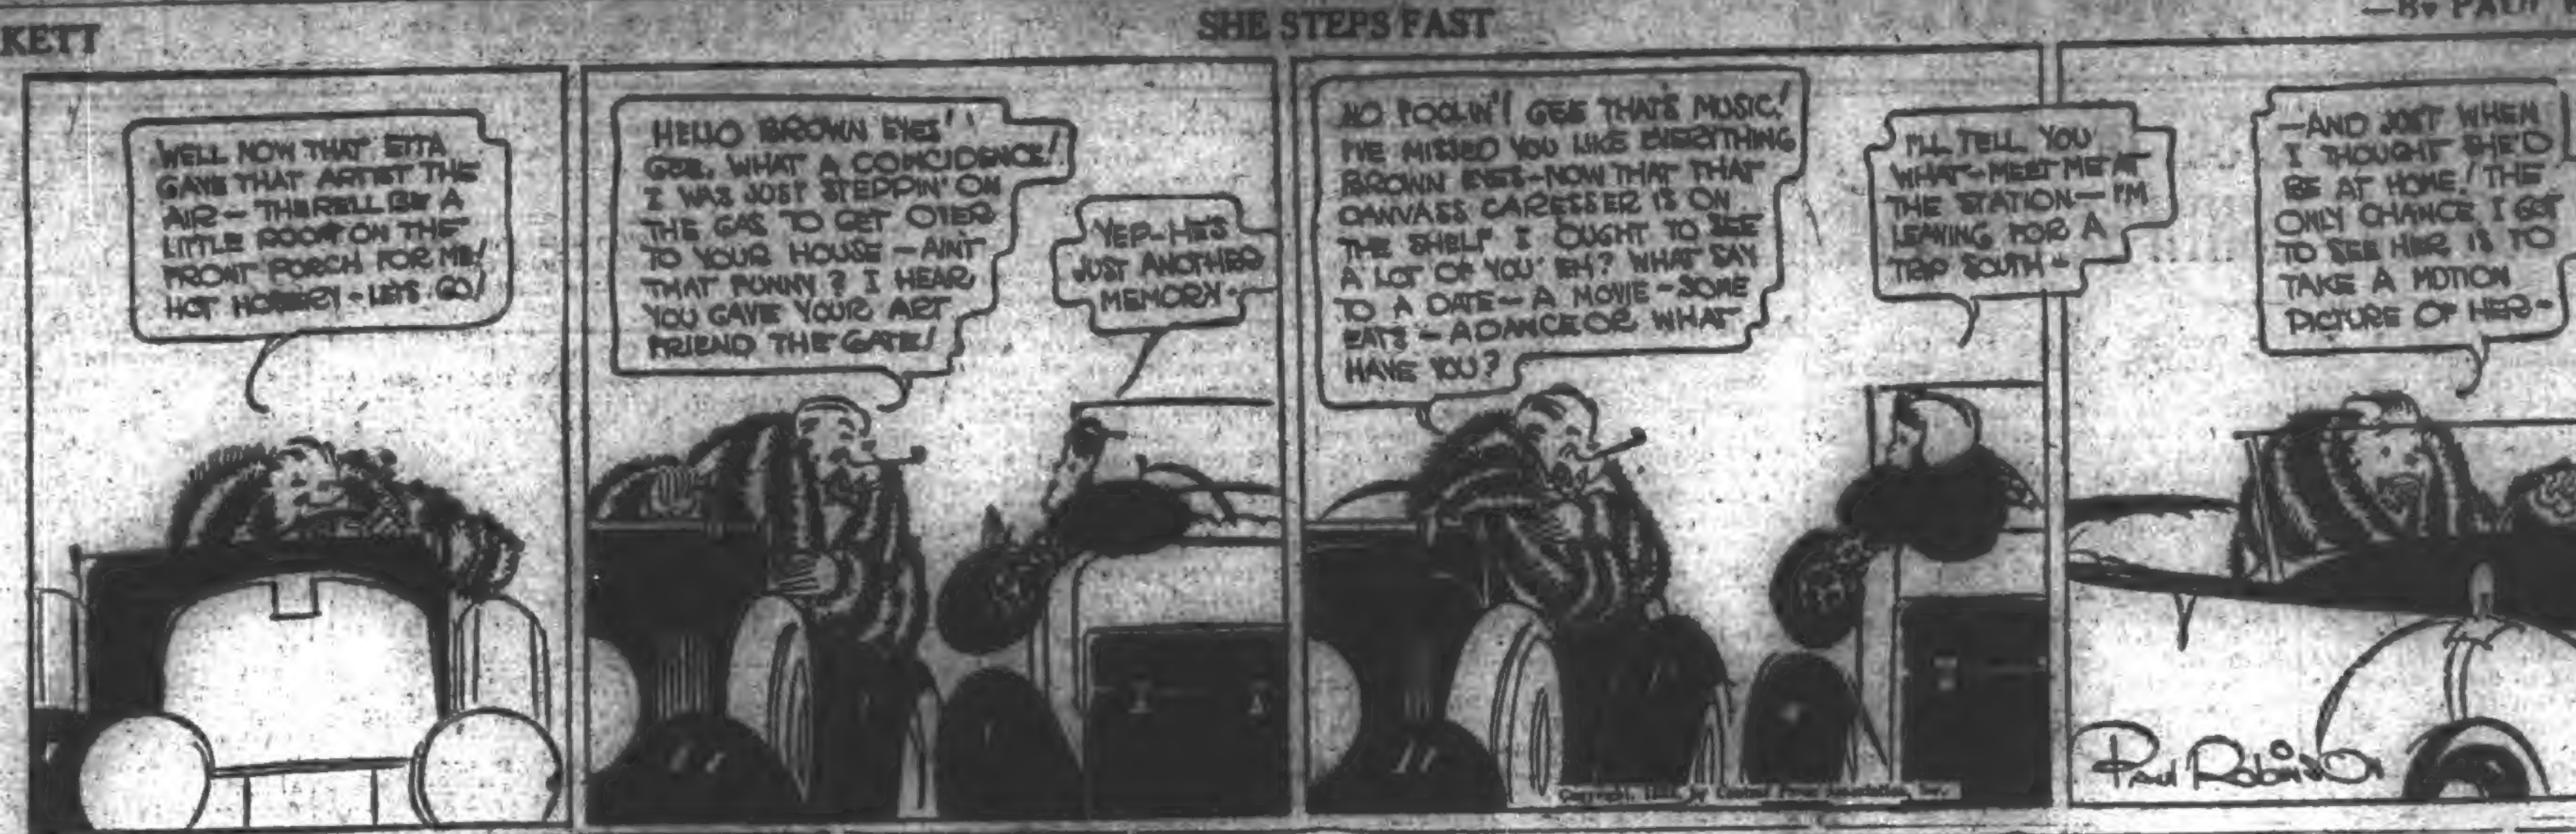
—By PAUL ROBINSON



WELL NOW THAT ETTA GAVE THAT ARTIST THE AIR — THERE'LL BE A LITTLE ROOM ON THE FRONT PORCH FOR ME! HOT HOSSKEY - LETS GO!
HELLO BROWN EYES! GEE, WHAT A COINCIDENCE! I WAS JUST STEPPIN' ON THE GAS TO GET OVER TO YOUR HOUSE — AIN'T THAT FUNNY? I HEAR YOU GAVE YOUR ART FRIEND THE GATE!
YEP-HE'S JUST ANOTHER MEMORY-
NO FOOLIN'! GEE THAT'S MUSIC! I'VE MISSED YOU LIKE EVERYTHING BROWN EYES—NOW THAT THAT CANVASS CARESSER IS ON THE SHELF I OUGHT TO SEE A LOT OF YOU' EH? WHAT SAY TO A DATE — A MOVIE - SOME EATS — A DANCE OR WHAT HAVE YOU?
I'LL TELL YOU WHAT—MEET ME AT THE STATION—I'M LEAVING FOR A TRIP SOUTH—
—AND JUST WHEN I THOUGHT SHE'D BE AT HOME! THE ONLY CHANCE I GET TO SEE HER IS TO TAKE A MOTION PICTURE OF HER—

NOTICE

By virtue of a warrant dated the 4th day of April, 1927, signed by C. E. Chapman, a Justice of the Peace for New London County, State of Connecticut, also by virtue of a warrant dated the 2nd day of April, 1928, also a warrant dated the 9th day of April, 1929, both warrants signed by Lewis J. LaBounty, Jr., a Justice of the Peace for New London County, State of Connecticut, and all directed to me for the collection of Town Taxes against John H. Fielding of Montville and LeRoy Fielding of Cherry Valley, Massachusetts, and standing on the lists of the Town of Montville, in said County, and State for Levy 1926 for the sum of $23.04 also on list for Levy 1927 for the sum of $12.70, also on the list for Levy 1928 for the sum of $14.96. Total $50.70.

I have this day levied this warrant upon 2 certain tracts of land situated at Mohegan, in said Town of Montville, bounded and described as follows:

First Tract:

Beginning at the northwest corner of said premises, by land now or formerly across said road 18½ rods by Henry G. Baker to a clump of chestnut trees; thence S 8 degrees, E 11 rods by said Baker and land of Hannah Dolbeare to a stake and heap of stones; thence west by land of Moses Fielding 35½ rods to said Storey land at a stake and stones by a wall; thence north by said Storey land 11 rods to other Storey land, thence E thence north by said Storey land to place of beginning, containing 3 acres and 65 rods more or less.

The second tract lies in Mohegan and is designated on the Mohegan map as No.26 and is bounded as follows: Viz. North by land set to Delania Miller, East by the Atwell farm, so-called, South by land set to Emma T. Baker, and West by land set to Mary Storey and containing about 2 acres.

I will sell the same or so much thereof at Public Auction to the highest bidder on the above described premises, in said Montville on the 31st day of March, 1930, at 2 p. m. as will pay and satisfy the amount of said taxes and interest with legal charges of said sale.

SUSIE M. WOOD,
Collector

HANOVER

The annual meeting of the Hanover Cemetery association (postponed from last November) was held in the Parish house Monday evening. A number of matters came before the meeting in view of the important improvements recently made upon the new portion of the property. After the regular reports had been read and duly accepted, the president, Mrs. Ella Bennett, was re-elected, and all of the other officers were continued in office for another year. A vote of appreciation was adopted for the very faithful and efficient services of the late Edwin Tinkham, and copies of the resolution were ordered sent to his two nieces, Mrs. Cahoon and Mrs. Potter, of Providence.

A number from Hanover attended, Tuesday afternoon, the exhibit of lace work on display at Slater museum.

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The Atlantic coast disturbance has continued to move northeastward over the ocean, being central tonight southeast of Newfoundland. A disturbance of wide extent and considerable intensity is centered over the Gulf of Alaska, and another disturbance apparently is developing over the far southwest.

An extensive area of high pressure is moving eastward with center over the east gulf states.

Fair weather will prevail in the Washington forecast district Saturday, but the eastward advance of the southwestern disturbance will be attended by much cloudiness Sunday and rain is probable as far east as the Appalachian mountains Sunday.

The temperature will rise gradually during the next two days almost generally in the eastern states.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Moderate to fresh westerly winds and fair weather Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate west and northwest winds becoming gentle variable and fair weather Saturday.

Forecast

For northern and southern New England: Fair Saturday; Sunday increasing cloudiness with slowly rising temperature.

Observations

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Friday:

GREENEVILLE

The Girls Friendly society of St. Andrew's church held a very successful card party in the Guild rooms this week. Twelve tables of whist and pinochle were in play. The proceeds will be added to the Girls' Friendly local fund.

The committee of St. Andrew's Dramatic club announce that they are busily engaged on a very fun-provoking play to be given this month.

N. M. SEWING CIRCLE MET WITH MRS. ALVIN BARROWS

The members of the Greeneville N. M. Sewing circle were entertained Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Alvin Barrows on Tyler avenue, with a large class present. The first period of the evening was devoted to sewing of fancy articles after which a social hour was enjoyed with piano and vocal solos being rendered, and refreshments of assorted sandwiches, cakes, cookies, fruit, candies, ice cream, wafers and hot chocolate served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Thomas Harrington and Mrs. William Day. The circle will hold the next meeting Friday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Richmond on Boswell avenue.

Miss Jane Suplicki, a student at the Willimantic state normal school is spending the week end recess with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Suplicki of Golden street.

At Danielson Fights

Many of the local fight fans, including Terry Shahan, Andrew Boyd, William Delaney, James Gay, Robert Swanton, Wilfred Fournier, Richard Seed, John Mullin, James Quinn, Joseph [illegible], William Carey and Merrill [illegible] attended the fights at Danielson Friday evening, to root for their idol, Al Koziol, the Rose City's pro, featherweight boxer.

The regular meeting of the Bright Jewels circle of King's Daughters was held in the church parlors of the Greeneville Congregational church Wednesday evening of this week. The officers who were elected at a previous meeting were present. Natalie Service, the leader, presided. The vice leader, Jane West, read the report of the secretary, in the absence of this officer, Margaret West. The treasurer's report was read by Isabella Hague. After a short business meeting the members rehearsed one of the plays for their entertainment, under the direction of Mrs. Leonard C. Prentice and Mrs. James P. Service.

TAFTVILLE

At the last meeting of the members of the Lisbon Community club, Walter F. Drew, John Ely, George W. Weller, Jr., and Edward Thoma were appointed as the entertainment committee for the next meeting. They are arranging a minstrel show, a rehearsal of which was held Friday evening at the community hall.

There was an unusually large attendance at the Rocknook Well Childs' conference held Friday afternoon in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building under the auspices of the United Workers of Norwich. Dr. George M. Thompson was the examining physician, and the nurses of the public health service and the welfare department of Ponemah mills were present to weigh and measure each child present at the clinic.

Alexander Boileau, of South B street, who for the past 40 years has been in the employ of the carding department of the local mills, gave up his house Friday and is moving to Fall River, Mass., where he is to reside in the future. About a week ago, Mr. Boileau was married to a Fall River woman, and when he returned to town he was kept busy receiving the congratulations of his many friends, who also expressed their regret at his leaving town. Mr. Boileau is connected with a number of local societies, including the St. Jean Baptiste society and the St. Louis society and has promised to return often to visit the little village where he has spent the greater part of his life.

On Thursday evening, the regular meeting of the members of the Basketry club was held at the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

The members of the local chapter,

FIFTH STREET SLIDERS SET OFF R. R. RED LIGHTS AT EIGHTH ST. CROSSING

The new red light signals at the Eighth street crossing of the New Haven railroad, which are operated by electricity, gave a scare Friday night to a number of automobile drivers as they were flashing the danger sign when no train was approaching. The hill down to the tracks from North Main street was slippery with snow and ice and when the drivers slapped on brakes, the machines skidded dangerously, a few of them coming to a stop a short distance from the stone wall which is on the right side of the hill. One big bread truck was reported to have been close to tipping over when the driver saw the red lights and tried to stop, while there were other near-accidents.

No one could tell why the red lights were flashing and the bell ringing at the crossing without any train in sight until two young men returning from the Preston side of the river, after seeing several machines come close to smash-ups, glanced down the track and noticed that there were boys sliding at Fifth street, from North Main, at the entrance to the United States Finishing company yard.

Officer John Dunion was notified and when he investigated he found that the boys were using a piece of tin about ten feet long for a sled, about eight boys sliding at once, and whenever the piece of tin would cross the railroad track, stretching from rail to rail, it would make a contact that flashed on the lights and rang the bell at the Eighth street crossing.

GYPSY SMITH, DIVORCED, HAS MARRIED AGAIN

It has become known that Captain Gypsy Pat Smith, evangelist, and Miss Dorothy E. Waters of New Canaan, Conn., were married at South Salem, N. Y., at the week end. Rev. Ernest G. Wood, pastor of the Presbyterian church, officiated.

They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Waters, brother and sister-in-law, respectively of the bride. Mrs. Smith's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Waters, and Mrs. Albert Crane, were the other witnesses.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served at the Waters home in New Canaan. There will be no honeymoon and the couple will reside at Smith's home in Darien.

He was divorced in 1928 from his first wife, Karina Tjader, daughter of the late Richard Shorne Tjader, millionaire sportsman of New York state.

Miss Tjader and her mother, a wealthy widow, were very liberal in their gifts for denominational work. The marriage of Gypsy Smith and Miss Tjader was an elaborate event, attended by a large number of guests. Among these was Capt. Charles T. Potter, of Norwich, in whose evangelical labors Mrs. Tjader always was deeply interested.

A son of Gypsy Smith, Rev. Albany Smith, also an evangelist, a few years ago purchased the fine residence of the late Henry W. Ranger, artist, on the Noank shore, where he resides with his family the year round. At present he is in the south, conducting revivals.

DISCUSSING PLANS FOR FASHION AND FABRIC SHOW

At a meeting Thursday afternoon at the rooms of the Norwich chamber of commerce plans for a fashion and fabric show late in March were discussed by a committee from Norwich Retail Merchants bureau and by Miss Ruth Russell, home demonstrator of the New London County Farm bureau, and Miss Ellen Van Cleef, clothing specialist at the Connecticut Agricultural college. Miss Margery Brewster of Jewett City, Mrs. H. R. Whitman of Waterford, Mrs. Eugene Woods of Wequetequock were also present.

The show is to be conducted by the extension department of the New London County Farm bureau, the merchants bureau and the chamber of commerce. It is planned to use live models in the show.

FARM BUREAU MEETING WITH FRANKLIN WOMEN

A very interesting Farm and Home bureau meeting was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. Maude Kahn, Franklin, with Miss Gladys E. Stratten leader. Kitchen equipment was the project. Pictures were shown, giving the wrong and right way of doing things and how to brighten the kitchen, ways to lighten the work. Samples of cheerful oilcloths and linoleums were shown, also flooring. Eight were present. Mrs. Donald Bullard, leader of Montville group, with her children, Nancy and Grace, was also present. An appetizing lunch of chop suey, corn custard, scalloped potatoes, cheese sticks, cake, pudding, sandwiches and coffee was served at noon.

PROGRAMME FOR OBSERVANCE OF YOUNG PEOPLE'S WEEK

The annual observance of Young People's week, under the auspices of the Young People's Christian union, will be observed from Sunday, Feb. 2, to Sunday, Feb. 9, inclusive, at the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist).

The programme for the week is to be as follows: Sunday evening, consecration service at 6:30; Monday evening, "Hike," 6:30, followed by supper at 16 Fowler avenue; Tuesday evening, at Sheltering Arms at 6:30; Thursday evening, banquet at the church at 8:30. Miss Signe M. Seaberg, guest speaker; Sunday morning, worship at 10:45 at church, "Beliefs Worth While," Mrs. A. N. Foster.

Church Family Night

Family night will be observed at the Central Baptist church Sunday evening. A special effort will be made to have as many families as possible represented and by as many individuals as can attend. An award will be given to the family having the largest representation, regardless of church affiliation.

The entire service is being planned with the family in mind. Special music will be rendered by the choir and the pastor will speak on "Is Religion Failing in the Home?" The entire service will be confined to an hour because of the children.

At the morning service the Lord's supper will be observed. There will be a brief message by the pastor on "The Meaning of the Ordinance."

Eastern Connecticut Mills association, met Friday evening in the office of the Prentice company on South C street. At the close of business an oyster stew was served by the refreshment committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Hormidas J. Garry, of Dion street, have been entertaining Mr. Garry's father from Canada, who is now visiting relatives in Easthampton and Springfield, Mass.

Thomas Perkins Sears, of North Fifth avenue, is a patient at the William W. Backus hospital, suffering from blood poisoning in the arm.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Larkin and family, of Norwich avenue, have been recent visitors in Providence, R. I.

Sections of the state roads about town were "down to the dirt" Friday, under the day's warm sun, but the country roads were still pretty well snow-bound and milk men and farmers reported difficulty in traveling because of the layer of ice under the snow.

ROAD CONDITIONS IN EASTERN CONNECTICUT

Road conditions and detours in this part of the state made necessary by highway construction and repairs, announced by the Connecticut highway department as of Jan. 29, are as follows:

FORECLOSURE FOR $2,675 IN NEW LONDON SUIT

Judgment for $2,675 in the foreclosure suit of the Mariners Savings bank of New London against Augustine Lake and Bradford Lake of New London, was granted by Judge Christopher L. Avery at a short calendar session of the superior court held in that city Friday morning. April 7 and 8 were fixed as the time for redemption.

The case of Amber Williard Benoit against Edward A. Benoit was restored to the docket on motion of attorney for the plaintiff.

A motion for the reopening of judgment was granted the Jewett City Savings bank against Thomas J. Dodd, et al.

Motions on the list in five cases were continued as follows:

Parliament against Perrone, motion for permission to place on jury docket.

Thoren versus Brugger, alias——, et al, motions for acceptance of report of committee and approval of deed, compensation of committee and appraisers and supplemental judgment.

Wellington, administrator, against LeClari, et al, motion for argument of demurrer of defendants Cote and Bouchard.

Tymcheck against Salamucha, motions for default for non-appearance and disclosure of defense and if no defense foreclosure and limitation of time.

State Finance Corporation against Clark, et al, motions for disclosure of defense or judgment and foreclosure and limitation of time.

Motions in four cases went off the list as follows:

Greenblatt against Moriarty, motions for default for failure to plead and hearing damages.

Patterson against Hart, motion for bond for prosecution.

Patterson against Hart, et al, motion for bond for prosecution.

Chelsea Savings bank against Besade, et al, motions for default, judgment of foreclosure and limitation.

DIVORCE WITH CUSTODY OF CHILD IS GRANTED

In a decision handed down Friday by Judge Christopher L. Avery at a New London session of the superior court, Viola Edgcomb Chapman of Groton is granted a divorce from Elias N. Chapman, also of Groton, and is given custody of their youngest child. The divorce action which was contested, was tried in the superior court last week, with Attorney G. Curtis Morgan appearing for the plaintiff and Perry J. Hollandersky for the defendant.

The divorce was sought by Mrs. Chapman on the grounds of intolerable cruelty, alleged from Jan. 1, 1920. The couple was married Feb. 4, 1912.

GAVE INTERESTING STORY OF MISSIONARY TOUR

Nearly 100 women, representing Congregational churches in Norwich and vicinity were present at a meeting of the mission department of the United Church Guild, Friday afternoon, at the Community house. Miss Helen B. Calder of Boston, secretary of the American Board of Commissions of Foreign Missions, was the speaker. Miss Calder recently returned from a tour of missionary stations in the Near East, of which she gave a vivid description that deeply interested her audience.

Mrs. Edward Adams presided at the business session and reports were read by the secretary, Mrs. Robert Montgomery and the treasurer, Mrs. Herbert B. Cary. Mrs. Alexander H. Abbott offered the prayer.

At the conclusion of the meeting tea was served by a committee comprising Mrs. Walter F. Lester and Mrs. James C. Fitzpatrick.

STUNT NIGHT UNDER GIRLS' WORKERS' COUNCIL

The girls from over a dozen churches of the city are to meet on Tuesday, March 4, in their annual stunt night under the auspices of the Norwich Council of Girls' Workers. Three guests from out of town are to be the judges for stunt night on which the first prize is a silver loving cup, the decision being on the point system as to presentation, time (10 minutes) and age (9 1-2 to 21 years).

The order of competition is to be as follows: First Baptist, Trinity M. E., Christ Episcopal, Taftville Congregational, Trinity Episcopal, A. M. E. Zion, Grace Baptist and Mt. Calvary, to compete together; United Congregational, Central Baptist, Park Congregational, Greeneville Congregational and Universalist.

The annual birthday party is to be held at the February meeting, which is on the 25th of the month.

Recuperating After Illness

Miss Dorothy Malcolm, a student nurse of the W. W. Backus hospital, who has been a patient at the New Haven hospital for 14 weeks is at her home, 10 McKinley avenue, recuperating before returning on duty.

The reedy salt marsh mosquito, big brother of the malarial insect, carried no disease, but his size and numbers make him such a pest that a new organization, the Gulf and South Atlantic Anti-Mosquito Congress, will attack him in a correlated campaign all along the south Atlantic and gulf coasts. Airplanes and land machines will be used to spread larval poisons over the marshes.

NIAGARA ASSOCIATES MADE GIFT TO A. W. TUBBS

A. W. Tubbs, who was formerly a fireman here on the Norwich and Worcester branch of the New Haven railroad, was honored in Niagara Falls, N. Y. this month as he was retiring from active service with the American Cynanamid plant.

He was the guest at a dinner given by his associates at which he was presented an electric percolator set. In making the presentation address, A. O. Williams, general superintendent, briefly outlined the career of Mr. Tubbs as an engineer, showing that he had climbed to a leading place by his energy and hard work, that he has more than one engineering invention to his credit and that his reputation as a "start to finish" engineer had resulted in his being sent to Mexico, India, and other parts of the world in charge of engineering operations.

Mr. and Mrs. Tubbs are to continue to reside in Niagara Falls. He is a brother of Elmer E. Tubbs, who is hoisting engineer at Allyn's Point for the New Haven railroad.

DUWELLS AND THERMOS TO PLAY OFF MONDAY

The Duwells and the Thermos teams in the City Pinochle league are to play off their tie for first place by meeting Monday evening at the Duwell club rooms.

The tie is to be settled by the best two out of three games and the Duwells will have a slight edge on the ultimate decision when the teams meet Monday night for they have already won one game in the play-off series. The Thermos team needs to win both games Monday night to take first prize in the league, but if the Duwells win one game the Thermos players will be pushed into second place.

DEATHS CAUSED BY RARE FORM OF PNEUMONIA

BRISTOL, Va., Jan. 31—(AP)—Almost simultaneously with the announcement that doctors had learned that a rare form of pneumonia accompanied by blood poisoning had caused four deaths in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Rector, at Clinchburg, Va., came the word tonight that a fifth victim, two-year old Bertha McAllister, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan McAllister of Saltville, Va., had been claimed by the disease.

Dr. R. D. Campbell of Saltville said "there is no doubt in my mind that the McAllister child died from the same disease that killed the three Rector children at Clinchburg and Miss Bessie Patrick, their aunt. The symptoms were precisely the same, except that the McAllister child lived 21 hours and the Clinchburg victims lived approximately 12 hours after the onset of the illness."

Bacillus mucosus capsulatus septicemia, or a rare form of pneumonia, accompanied by blood poisoning, caused the four deaths at Clinchburg, according to a statement issued late today by Dr. J. B. McKee, D. L. Kingsolving, M. Lee Hawley, F. H. Smith and R. A. Morrison, who had been conducting laboratory tests on parts of internal organs taken from the bodies of the last two victims at an autopsy last Saturday.

LOST $6,000 BY ANCIENT RACE TRACK SWINDLE

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 31—(AP)—Leaving their life savings of $6,000 in hands of two confidence men who worked on them an ancient race track swindle, John Mortensen, 60, and his nephew, Carl Taask,o 42, boarded a train here tonight to return to their home in Boston.

The money was to have provided for a winter of rest for Mortensen, who is in ill health.

The men told police they loaned the money to two new acquaintances who claimed to have won $30,000 on a horse race but who had to show an equal amount to "show good faith" in their wager. Mortensen and Taaske understood they were to get back $11,000.

NORWICH TOWN

The Congregational Young People's C. E. society held a special service Thursday evening in the chapel in recognition of Christian Endeavor week. The president, Miss Eleanor Smith, conducted the meeting, which took the place of the regular mid-week service of conference and prayer. The subject was, "Crusading With Christ." Miss Smith gave a brief history of the Crusaders of old, while the pastor, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, told of the Crusaders of the present day. Miss Rose Durr accompanied at the piano for the singing and several other members spoke briefly on the topic.

Rev. Wynn Fairfield, with the American board, who recently returned from China and who is to be the speaker at the special service in observance of Christian Endeavor week, Sunday evening, at the Norwich Town Congregational church, while in town, is to be entertained at the home of the Misses Hyde and George F. Hyde, on Washington street.

Rehearsals are being held each week by members of the Girls' Friendly society of Grace Episcopal church, Yantic, in preparation for the three-act comedy, "Dry Weather," by Helen Bagg, which is to be presented at Samuel Huntington school this month. Mrs. Howard Bishop is coaching the members, also some of the men of the parish, who are included in the cast.

At the winter institute of Norwich District Epworth league, Friday evening at Trinity M. E. church, Rev. George Warren Potter, pastor of Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, following the supper, spoke on two subjects: "Hikes and Other Good Times Out of Doors" and "Holiday and Special Programmes." At the close, Rev. Mr. Potter led the institute in the programme of games.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Hawkins and daughters, Evelyn and Lillian Hawkins, of Oneco, were in Norwich Town Thursday evening, to attend the wedding of Mrs. Hawkins' sister, Alice May Bowa, and Earl Vincent Pike, at the Methodist parsonage.

VOTE ON REPEAL OF DRY LAW BY CONGRESS NOW ASSURED

Drys, Confident of Their Strength, are Calling For a Showdown On the 18th Amendment—Oratory in Both Branches Might Delay Roll Call Until the End of February—W. C. T. U. Calls For Support Against the "Anarchistic Suggestions" in the Wet Campaign.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Ready to say it with votes, congressional drys are moving to direct prohibition discussion to legislation.

The first of the bills proposed by the law enforcement commission—transfer of prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department—will be brought up this week in the house probably Thursday.

While both wets and drys are supporting this proposal, debate on the bill promises another round of prohibition oratory.

Aroused by the constant talking, the confident drys now are calling for votes, and roll calls are in prospect before the end of the month in both branches on proposals for repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Meanwhile, the prohibition storm at the capitol today brought into action the Woman's Christian Temperance union, Mrs. Ella A. Boole, national president, sent out a message to state presidents acclaiming "greater strength in the prohibition movement than ever before" and calling for support against the "anarchistic suggestions" in the wet campaign.

While ready to rush through the administration bill transferring prohibition enforcement from Secretary Mellon to Attorney General Mitchell, congressional leaders see little prospect of action on any of the other recommendations for bolstering the dry law. Menacing opposition is arising in dry ranks to the recommendation to give United States commissioners authority to try petty offenders.

However, a clear road is ahead for the prohibition transfer bill. Chairman Williamson of the house expenditures committee, who drafted the measure, will go before a special meeting of the rules committee tomorrow to ask for a place on the house calendar on Thursday for consideration of the legislation. He wants four hours general debate.

There is some controversy over the committee's proposal to extend joint authority to the secretary of the treasury and the attorney general over administration of industrial alcohol permits, but otherwise the bill is expected to receive quick approval.

Senate wet and dry champions are girding themselves for a showdown test on the prohibition issue in the senate as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way. The transfer bill will probably be the vehicle for this debate.

The senate judiciary committee, meanwhile is giving close scrutiny to the nominations of federal law enforcement officers.

A sub-committee headed by Senator Borah, of Idaho, will give further attention tomorrow to the nomination of Sawyer Smith, district attorney for eastern Kentucky. He testified to a zealous record for law enforcement, and his confirmation is believed in prospect although new reports on him are being given study.

Senator Borah also heads a subcommittee which will examine Jacob Walter this week on his renomination to be marshal for Connecticut. Walter voted against ratification of the eighteenth amendment as a member of the Connecticut legislature.

However, Borah says he does not consider this as barring him. He has served eight years as marshal.

CHICAGO FLOUNDERING IN FINANCIAL MUDDLE

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(AP)—With the city's financial condition growing worse daily and with other relief plans crumbling one by one, the city council today began to look more favorably on the citizen's committee offer to tide the local governments over until taxes start coming in.

Alderman John S. Clark, chairman of the city council finance committee, announced his intention of asking that body to name a committee Tuesday to meet with Silas Strawn, head of the relief organization.

Hopes that the 40,000 city and county employes, most of them unpaid since January 1, and some even longer, could receive their salaries in tax anticipation warrants were buoyed up yesterday with the ruling by the city's corporation counsel that such a procedure would be legal.

This bubble was immediately punctured by the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association's notice to its 160 member banks advising against cashing such warrants or accepting them as collateral. Directors of the bankers' association said paying county and city employes in flat money would only make local conditions more complex.

PRINCE HUMBERT AND BRIDE RETURN FROM HONEYMOON

TURIN, Italy, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Crown Prince Humbert of Italy and his bride, former Princess Marie Jose of Belgium, after a two weeks' honeymoon among the snows of Val D'Aosta, triumphantly entered Turin this afternoon to make their permanent home here until the day that they are called to occupy the royal thrones of Italy.

The royal bridal couple received a tremendous welcome from Turin's population of more than half a million. Their progress in open carriages from the station to the prince's palace was a continuous thunder of cheers.

A crowd estimated at 150,000 packed the big square in front of the palace and would not go away until Humbert and Marie Jose had appeared several times on the central balcony to acknowledge the homage.

GROUND HOG SEES SHADOW SIX MORE WEEKS OF WINTER

CANOE RIDGE WEATHER WORKS, PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Feb. 2.—(AP)—B'er Groundhog, ancient prognosticator of the weather, issued from his den this morning a little after 7 o'clock, took a hasty glance around and stated there would be six more weeks of winter conditions.

Further, the seer of seers gave out a more important announcement as he glimpsed his shadow on a snow bank.

The announcement was given to the world by the renowned prophet that henceforth he would not get up in the middle of his winter sleep to give out the same old line of dope about six more weeks of winter. He said that in the future the first of April would be the day he would emerge from winter quarters and make a forecast.

THREE PERSONS KILLED BY GAS FUMES IN BALTIMORE

BALTIMORE, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Three persons were killed and 10 overcome here today by gas fumes escaping from a four inch gas main in the northwestern part of the city, broken by frost leaving the ground. The dead were all members of one family. Six of those overcome lived in adjoining houses and four were firemen who responded with resuscitating appartus.

The dead are: Henry Witzler, 66; his wife, Mary, 69, and their son, Patrick. Their bodies were discovered by firemen.

Gas officials said the fracture in the main was caused by the street settling as frost was leaving the ground.

MAN'S BODY STREWN ALONG RAILROAD TRACKS

NEW LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Fragments of a man's body were found strewn along the Shore Line railroad tracks for half a mile in Old Saybrook tonight.

State police at the Groton barracks said they believed the dead man was Walter Chapel, who lived in a shack near the tracks at Chalker beach.

LARGEST SEAPLANE IN THE U. S. PASSES TEST

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Announcement was made today for the Ford Motor company that the largest seaplane in the United States has successfully passed tests at the Philadelphia navy yard.

Primarily a passenger transport plane, the ship can carry 14 passengers, baggage and mail, and can be converted into a bomber or torpedo ship, a 20 passenger troop transport or a hospital air ambulance.

It has a capacity for two torpedoes weighing 1300 pounds each. As a bomber with landing wheels substituted for floats, it has a useful load of 6,000 pounds, equivalent to a cargo including a pilot, radio operator, bomber, gunner, three machine guns, two 1,100 pound bombs, 800 pounds of smaller demolition bombs and fuel for five or six hours of flight.

The new plane is known as the 5AT tri-motored seaplane. It is adapted for water landing and a take-off by substitution of two metal floats about 22 feet long for the wheels. It can be readily converted from water to land use.

Tests it was announced, showed that with full load the plane has a high speed of 127 miles an hour, a cruising speed of 102 miles, a stalling speed of 65 miles and can take off in 17 seconds.

AN INCREASE IN EXPORTS FROM THE UNITED STATES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Increase in exports from the United States to the highest peak since 1920 was shown in complete returns for 1929 issued today by the department of commerce.

Only in 1919 and 1920, during the war and post-war conditions, have exports been higher than the $5,248,000,000 total reached last year. This was 2.3 per cent. more than sales abroad during 1928 and was nearly two and one-half times larger than the average value exports for the period 1910-1914. It also was 19 per cent. greater than exports for the period 1921-1925.

Sales of finished manufactures, which gained 12 per cent. in the year, were responsible for the aggregate gain, exports of cotton, grain and tobacco having shown a decrease.

Practically the entire increase in total export was confined to the first four months, with May, October, November and December exports declining. Shipment of finished manufacturers were larger, however, in all except three months—May, November and December.

HAS ISSUED ILLEGAL MARRIAGE LICENSES

MARION, Ark., Feb. 2.—(AP)—County Clerk A. B. Carter revealed today that warnings issued from his office to hundreds of couples married here in the last 11 months under alleged worthless licenses have resulted in remarriages which legalized the status of most, if not all, of the couples.

He said the warnings had been issued as the licenses were sent to the office for recording, and that marriage had followed in every case of which he knew.

A report of State Comptroller Howard Reed filed here yesterday alleged that Justice A. L. Newman, sometimes called the "Marrying Squire" in this town which serves as a Gretna Green for Tennessee couples seeking to avoid the five day notice law of that state, had been issuing licenses under authority for a county clerk who went out of office 11 months ago. Most of the ceremonies also were said to have been performed by the justice.

KILLED WHEN HIS AUTO RAN INTO HIGHWAY FENCE

ANDOVER, Feb. 2. — (AP)—William Cunningham, 40, of this place, was killed last night near the Columbia-Andover line, when his automobile ran off the road into a highway fence, one of the rails piercing his body.

Alvin Willard, a brother-in-law, was uninjured. He said that Cunningham had been driving slowly but was blinded by the headlights of another car rounding a bend in the highway.

An inquest will be held here Tuesday.

FRUITLESS HUNT FOR WOLVES IN NEW YORK STATE

OLEAN, N. Y., Feb. 2.— (AP) —The hunt for wolves in Steam Valley today was fruitless. Harold Parker of the Torrey farm was out with guns and dogs all day Sunday, but failed to find even tracks of the pack that is reported to have come down from the hills to the border of the city.

Parker returned home tonight weary, but still firm in the belief that the wolf stories have basis in fact. He talked with several farmers, he said, who claimed to have seen the supposed wolves in packs of three to six and fired at them with rifles.

The beasts are described as about the size of a police dog, but somewhat lighter in color.

The farmers along the Steam Valley road, Parker reported, are housing their smaller livestock more carefully than usual at night.

ELOPEMENT WAS DUE TO DISLIKE FOR BIG WEDDING

NORFOLK, Va., Feb. 2.—(AP)—It was not the fear of parental disapproval that caused Miss Margaret Couzens, 21, heiress to the millions amassed by her father, Senator James Couzens, of Detroit, to elope with William Jeffries Chewning, Washington bank official—it was her aversion to "big" weddings.

The wedding took place quietly in Baltimore, Saturday afternoon, in the rectory of the Shrine of the Sacred Heart Roman Catholic church with only a few intimate friends in attendance.

"I think big weddings are messy," Mrs. Chewning told a reporter this afternoon in the couple's room at a local hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Chewning arrived in Norfolk this morning by steamer from Baltimore.

TWO STUDENTS INJURED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 2.—(AP)—William Hogan, 23, of Hartford, Conn., and Raymond Oliva, 23, of Newark, N. J., students at the University of Maryland Dental college, were seriously injured when an automobile in which they were riding, crashed into a freight car here today.

Police say the car was stolen.

Hogan may lose the sight of one eye, and Oliva has a possible fracture of the skull.

Police notified the parents of both. Dr. W. A. Hogan arrived here this afternoon.

Authorities say the pair will be charged with unauthorized use of an automobile when they leave the hospital.

CHARGED WITH USING U. S. MAILS TO DEFRAUD

CAPE GIRARDEAU, Mo., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Paul Davis, Charleston, Mo., filling station proprietor, Robert Finley, of Charleston, and J. R. Pierce, Heber Springs, Ark., were bound over to federal court at Little Rock, Ark., here yesterday on charges of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud. Postal inspectors described the scheme, which they estimated to have netted the operators $100,000 in two years, as the practice of purchasing cheap hound dogs and reselling them as trained hunters.

EIGHTY YEAR OLD MAN FATALLY BURNED IN BED

TROY, N. Y., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Unable to move from his bed when it caught fire tonight, presumably from his pipe, Evander Wood, 80 summoned by telephone police and firemen who did not arrive in time to prevent his being burned fatally.

Wood, a paralytic, screamed "Help!" in the transmitter, then let the telephone fall. A switchboard operator traced the call and sent aid. Firemen risked serious injury in the rescue attempt. Wood was dead when they forced the door to his room.

SILVER TIPPED BLACK FOXES SLAIN BY THIEVES

SHARON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Eleven silver tipped black foxes, valued by their owner at more than $500 each, were slaughtered before daybreak this morning by thieves who broke into their quarters and left a bloody trail from the fox ranch to a nearby highway.

The robbery today was the second serious setback that Arnold Frandisen, former New York state trooper has had since starting the fox business a few years ago, five animals having been either lost or stolen last November.

Recommendations For Prison Improvements

Development of Guards [illegible] Wardens Has Not Kept [illegible] With Other Reforms.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Urgent need of improvement in the personnel of prisons and jails of the country is stressed in the report to the national crime commission by the sub-committee on pardons, parole, probation, penal laws and institutional correction, made public today by the chairman, Frank O. Lowden, former governor of Illinois.

The report on penal administration as related to job analysis, personnel and civil service, carries a foreword by Mr. Lowden in which the former governor says that "the solution of the crime problem depends upon many factors, not least of which, we believe, is the problem of personnel."

The report asserts that development of an efficient force of guards and wardens has not kept pace with other modern prison reforms and that the public has not been aroused to the necessity of building up staffs adequate to cope with existing situations found in the various penal institutions.

Officials have reached the point where they know what is needed to improve penal administration, the committee says, but they "are held up by the lack of personnel able to carry out the program which already has been inscribed on our statute books."

With few exceptions, the salaries paid wardens and prison guards are too low to attract capable men, the report states, calling attention to the $600 a year salary paid prison guards in New Mexico, with an additional $10 monthly allowance for food; the New Hampshire guards' pay of $780 a year with no board or room provided; Rhode Island, $900 to $1,140 with no quarters or maintenance, and Wyoming, $840 to $1,080 with no quarters and maintenance provided.

Low salaries attract only men of low calibre, the committee says, adding that the guards are ill-chosen and inadequately trained in that "the majority of prison guards and wardens have been given their positions in return for some political service they have rendered."

"Wasted money, prison outbreaks and an enormous amount of recidivism are but signs that point to the need of improvement in the personnel of penal administration," the report concludes.

The committee recommends that an efficient and business-like method of collecting fines be inaugurated on the basis of small loan bureaus to allow the payment of fines in installments, thus "relieving the unjust burden on the poor and also relieving the local authorities from supporting hordes of idle people in the jails who cannot pay their fines in a lump sum."

The report embodies the results of a year's study of the qualifications and character of prison guards throughout the country by Prof. Louis N. Robinson, of Swarthmore college, an authority on penal administration.

END OF RECEIVERSHIP FOR THE C. V. RAILROAD

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Control of the Central Vermont Railway company, in the possession of George A. Gaston and Judge J. W. Redmond, receivers, since 1927, yesterday reverted to the Central Vermont Railway, Inc., with the expiration of the receivership. George A. Gaston is vice president of the new company and in active charge of the road's affairs.

Gaston and Redmond assumed the duties of receivers following the disastrous Vermont flood, in December, 1927. At that time the Central Vermont Railway in this state was for the greater part, as the company reported it, "a mass of twisted steel and destroyed bridges." Today the company officials report it to be "in better physical condition than ever before in the road's history."

Vice President Gaston announced that Judge Redmond, who is general counsel for the new company, will be assigned special duties in connection with operation of the road.

AUTO MANUFACTURERS HAVE APPEALED TO PRES. HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—A statement that 18 automobile manufacturers of Detroit had appealed to President Hoover to protest to the French and German governments against any reprisals on American-made automobiles and parts for "prohibitive" tariffs carried in the Hawley-Smoot bill was made today by Senator Walsh, of Montana, acting democratic leader in the senate.

Issued through the democratic national committee, the statement said the auto-makers were "apprehensively awaiting" an answer from Mr. Hoover.

Exports to France alone amounted to 15,000 automobiles and 70 0trucks, worth $32,000,000 last year, Walsh said, adding that under "the proposed French retaliatory tariff" this number would "shrink to an inconsequential number."

Incom[illegible]ax Returns [illegible]ect Prosperity

[illegible]ation of 206 New Millionaires is Attributed to Rising Stock Market.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Prosperity of the nation in 1928 attributed b ytreasury officials to a rising stock market created .06 new millionaires during the 12 months when the country's total net income of individuals aggregated $24,635,488,176, an increase of $2,062,170,268 over the previous year.

Statistics compiled from the 4,050,959 income tax returns filed for 1928, showed that of the 2,484,440 persons who paid tax 469 had net incomes of $1,000,000 or more, while 24 had incomes of $5,000,000 or more. The millionaire class had a total net income of $1,073,706,225 and paid $178,525,926 in taxes.

Their incomes were divided as follows:

241 persons in the $1,000,000 to $1,500,000 class had a net income of $290,196,100.

105 in the $1,500,000 to $2,000,000 class had $181,575,771.

89 in the $2,000,000 to $3,000,000 class, $214,718,173.

20 in the $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 class, $69,502,210.

17 in the $4,000,000 to $5,000,000 class, $76,477,270.

24 in the $5,000,000 or over class, $242,236,796.

The number of returns filed for the year decreased in comparison to 1927 by 50,588, but the tax collected showed an increase over the previous year of $316,014,283, while the average amount of income reached $6,037.93 and the average tax liability was $281.97.

The number of persons having net income of more than $3,000 but under $5,000 more than doubled during the year, a total of 2,114,489 making returns in that bracket, while in the previous year 1,209,345 returns were received from that class. The $5,000, to $10,000 bracket showed a decrease of 6,500, only 561,114 of such returns being received. The $10,000 to $25,000 bracket increased 13,000, to a total of 265,435 persons.

The huge increase in the aggregate income of all reporting income tax payers since 1913 was shown in tables compiled by the bureau. This showed that in 1913 a total of 357,589 persons reported net income of $3,000,000, while in 1917 3,482,390 reported net income $13,700,000,000.

In 1914 only 60 persons reported income of $1,000,000 or more, this class reached a peak of 206 in 1916, just before war and declined to 21 in 1921 after which there was a gradual increase to 207 in 1925 and 281 in 1926.

The total income tax collected from individuals for 1928 was $1,142,359,780. Corporations paid tax of $1,062,303,096, an increase of $81,330,332 over the previous year. For the year, 472,353 corporations made returns and of these 257,521 had net income amounting to $9,587,988,148 and gross incomes of $112,128,180,962.

The bureau's statistics showed that of the total individual income: $13,263,317,251 was from wages and salaries, $3,286,962,184 from business, $1,940,374,561 from partnerships; $2,942,173,181 from profit from sale of real estate, stocks, bonds, etc.; $1,843,339,590 from capital net gain from assets held more than two years; $2,061,471,008 from interest and investment, and $4,403,153,965 from dividends on stock of domestic corporations.

MISSING GIRL FOUND WORKING AS SERVANT

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2.— (AP) —Identified by pictures in Philadelphia newspapers, Miss Helen Buxton, 20-year old student who disappeared from Langhorne, Pa., last Thursday, today was re-united with her parents here.

The girl was working as a domestic servant and was surprised when shown a reproduction of her photograph.

"Please don't call my mother," she was quoted as saying, "for she will send me back to school.

"I was tired of school. I wanted to work for my living. I never had done anything like that but I was determined to try it. Of course I wasn't used to work but it wasn't so bad."

FIRE IN THE COLORADO STATE PENITENTIARY

CANON CITY, Colo., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Monotonous prison rountine today displaced the confusion which prevailed within the walls of the state penitentiary here yesterday when fire broke out in the prison tailor shop and burned for more than three hours, recalling the bloody convict mutiny last October which resulted in the death of 13 men.

National Guardsmen and prison guards manned guns on the penitentiary walls to prevent a possible break for liberty while firemen yesterday conquered the flames.

Investigation today placed the estimated damage of yesterday's fire at between $10,000 and $15,000, the warden said.

NEGRO WAS BITTEN BY WHITE PET RAT

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Albert Madden, 52, a Negro, residing on State street, appeared at police headquarters tonight bleeding from a wound on the chin. He told the desk sergeant that he owns two pet white rats. While he was asleep, he said, one of the pets crawled upon the bed and bit him. A doctor was called, the wound cauterized and tetanus serum injected and Madden, before departing, stated:

"I'm gwine right home, and get even. No white rat with a cravin' for dark meat kin live with me."

Plans made some months ago by President Hoover for a trip to Mexico City, Cuba and other islands in the Caribbean have not been changed, but it was said at the white house, that the time still remains to be definitely fixed.

Improved service, increased operating revenue, reduced rates and plans for an unprecedented construction program are set forth in the 47th annual report of the directors of the New England Telephone and Telegraph company.

The necessity of looking after the physical and mental welfare of flyers to avoid airplane accidents caused by human element, has resulted in the establishment of a division of aviation medicine in the office of the chief of the Army Air corps.

Adoption of a ten year program of forest land acquisition, with a view to bringing additional lands within the national forests, especially in the east, was urged in a speech prepared for delivery in the house by Representative Leavitt, republican, Montana.

Mrs. Agnes Amelia Church, divorced wife of Francois Louis Church, admitted that she had given up hope of a re-union with her former husband, member of a wealthy baking soda family. She said she would take a $150,000 settlement made her and tour the world.

FRENCH NAVAL PROPOSAL TO BE CONSIDERED THIS WEEK

Limiting of Naval Tonnage Will Be the First Concrete Problem to Come Up For Consideration—Three Important Pieces of Conference Work Have Been Disposed of in Two Weeks—Delegates are Confident That a True Course Has Been Charted Toward the Goal of Naval Disarmament.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(AP)— The London conference enters the third week of its deliberations tomorrow, secure in the knowledge of having charted a true course during the early stages of its voyage toward the goal of naval disarmament.

As Senator Robinson broadcast to the United States tonight "formalities are ended. Enjoyment of social functions has been marred only by our consciousness that the sooner general felicitations were concluded, the earlier we might hope to reach the real path."

This was the state of mind of all the delegations today as the dark rainy London Sunday wore away without the sun's succeeding in breaking through layers of mist and low-hanging clouds over the Thames valley.

Secretary Stimson spent most of the day hard at work at Stanmore. In the early morning he sent for his confidential stenographer, Mrs. Pearl Demaret and has been preparing for the important session of the conference which starts Tuesday. Definite arrangements have not been announced but informal discussions will continue tomorrow.

The task which will occupy the conference all the coming week, and longer unless altogether unexpected progress is made, is consideration of the French plan for limiting naval tonnage. It will be the first concrete naval problem to come up for consideration, but at least three important pieces of conference work have been handled during the first two weeks of meetings. The first conference organization has been built no small task in itself. The decision to keep the delegates in close touch with all important subjects, instead of setting up numerous technical committees, was received with particular favor by the Americans.

The second large subject encountered was the Franco-Italian problem. It took nearly a week to deal with the far-reaching issues regarding the differences between the Latin neighbors, but acting with soundness Italy realized that her claim for parity with France rested on a political basis and decided to defer the question until a later date.

The third important subject which has been dealt with is the matter of dominion representation at the conference. This question, British circles realize, causes some misgiving, particularly in the United States. It also causes a great deal of hard thinking for government authorities of the United Kingdom. The dominions stand firmly on their rights in the conduct of foreign affairs as decided by the last imperial conference. Finding a method permitting them proper representation and participation in conference proceedings formed a knotty problem until Premier MacDonald and his dominion delegates on Friday decided upon an elastic system of interchangeable delegates which satisfied everybody and disposed of the subject. The problem had carried a threat of more serious difficulty.

The elasticity of representation applied to other delegations as well as the British.

With the conference tackling the French tonnage plan Tuesday, one of the questions being discussed is whether undivided attention of the delegations will be given to this problem until it is finally and completely solved, which may be a matter of several weeks. The opinion of the American delegation is that so much hinges upon the final working out of details of the French proposal—such as total naval tonnages for each nation and the amount of tonnage to be assigned each class of warship in each navy—that little other progress can be expected until the French theory is either accepted, refused or amended.

FOURTH GANG SLAYING IN CHICAGO IN FOUR DAYS

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.— (AP) —Joseph Cada rode to moderate fame in an automobile a few years back, as "Motor Joe," professional dirt track racer; he rode to death early today in another automobile, as "Joe the Dude," gangland fashion plate.

At the wheel of his own expensive sedan, accompanied by two men whom he evidently deemed his friends, Cada was shot four times through the head and left to die beneath an elevated railway structure in the heart of the Uptown night life district where he was a tireless playboy.

His slaying was the fourth laid to gangdom in four days, in addition to the shooting of Johnny Genaro, another hoodlum, whose life is still in danger. Like the others, it left police with a dozen motives but no definite clue.

Cada had been known as an associate in the Terry Druggan-Frankie Lake beer syndicate and authorities were considering the possibility that a feud among the beer and liquor gangs might have been responsible.

"The Dude" was dressed characteristically when he was slain. He wore black patent leather shoes, pearl gray spats and pearl gray fedora hat. His expensive overcoat covered an obviously high-priced tailored suit and he wore a costly wrist watch and a ring with three diamonds. He was known as a reckless spender, frequenting the races, night clubs and gambling places.

His killing is considered important because, coming after three others, police fear it may be indicative of a new outburst of gang warfare.

AMERICAN YACHTS WIN IN CUBAN REGATTA

HAVANA, Cuba, Feb. 2. — (AP) — Yachts from the United States continued their sweeping victories in Cuba's fifth annual mid-winter international star class regattas today.

Two races were sailed today, one in the series for the Bacardi trophy and one in the Cuba trophy series.

The Catherine of the Western Long Island Sound fleet, won the Bacardi trophy race. Commodore Teves and M. Teves sailed the Catherine around the 15-mile course in 1:14:55.

The Joy, of the Solent fleet, sole British entry, was second, with the Cuban boat, Mambi, third.

The Cuba trophy race today went to the Jessica of the Peconic Gardner Bay fleet with F. Robinson and Alster David as pilots.

The Sunbeam of Great South Bay, with David Atwater and Russell Lake as crew, was second and the Catherine third.

One race will be sailed tomorrow. The regattas will close on Friday.

TEN OF FAMILY OVERCOME BY CARBON MONOXIDE FUMES

NEW BRITAIN, Feb. 2.—(AP)—Seeing Peter Silveri stagger from his home and collapse in his backyard here today, neighbors rushed into his house and found his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Silveri, his six brothers and sisters, and a boarder, Daniel Colango, lying unconscious all through the house.

Carbon monoxide fumes had filled the house when Mrs. Silveri lighted a hot water heater that had no chimney connection.

Pulmotors and artificial respiration soon restored the ten persons to consciousness. They will all recover, police say.

DANISH FREIGHTER SANK; FATE OF CREW UNKNOWN

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Feb 2.—(AP)—The Danish freighter Nelly was wrecked and went to the bottom during a heavy storm in the Finnish gulf near Helsingfors. The storm, which continued violent, hindered attempts to rescue the crew, whose fate is not known.

BODY OF YOUTH, HANDS TIED, FOUND HANGING FROM TREE

WESTBROOK, Feb. 2.—(AP) — The frozen body of a blonde youth, hands tied in front, was found hanging from a limb of a tree here today by Charles Graf, farmer in the Horsehill section.

Coroner Lowndes A. Smith, of Middletown, stated he was not certain that the young man was a suicide and ordered an autopsy tomorrow morning.

Coroner Smith said tonight that examinations had revealed every tag and label cut or torn out of the garments. All pockets were entirely empty.

The coroner stated that three stones were found on the ground, one resting against a foot. The hands had been folded over the chest with a knotted loop of handkerchief loosely confining the wrists

The victim, described as evidently a person of refinement, had never been seen in this section, as far as the coroner could learn.

HUMILIATION DAY WAS OBSERVED IN MANILA

MANILA, P. I., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Today was observed as "National Humiliation day" by about 10,000 Filipinos who gathered here for services protesting against the recent anti-Filipino demonstrations at Watsonville San Francisco and San Jose, Calif. The disturbances at Watsonville resulted in the death of a Filipino.

The meeting was orderly as the crowd, wearing for the most part black mourning bands, gathered at the foot of the monument to Jose Rizal Filipino patriot. Speeches in English, Spanish and Tagalog caused many to weep.

Veterans of the Filipino revolution in annual convention here, adopted a resolution calling on President Hoover to protect Filipinos in America against aggressions such as those at Watsonville Anotner resolution endorsed the King Philippines independence bill.

CASHIER OF CLOSED BANK COMMITTED SUICIDE

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 2.—(AP)—L. B. Ward, assistant cashier of the Texas National Bank of Fort Worth, which closed its doors Friday upon recommendation of the Fort Worth Clearing House association, shot and killed himself this afternoon.

Representatives of the Clearing House banks of Fort Worth reported today that it would be impracticable for the Clearing House association to take over the Texas National bank which failed to open Saturday and pay the depositors.

An examination of the bank's affairs, made by a committee comprising the heads of other banks here, reported that the losses of the bank were found to be such that no feasible plan for taking it over and paying the depositors could be worked out.

FIVE YOUTHS KILLED WHEN AUTO PLUNGED INTO RAVINE

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(AP)— Five Los Angeles youths were killed and one other was probably fatally injured when their automobile, getting out of control descending the Mt. Baldy road in San Antonio canyon, plunged over the rim of the ravine today.

The dead: Melvin Leiter, 17; Howard White, 18; Arthur Hubbard, 18, and William Brown, 17, and James Hubbard, 17-year-old brother of Arthur. Charles Caldwell was injured critically.

Deputy Sheriff H. W. Stephens stated that examination showed the brakes of the small car had been burned away in the effort of its driver to check its wild rush around the mountain curves.

WM. CUNNINGHAM KILLED WHEN CAR HITS FENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 2.—William Cunningham, 39, Andover automobile mechanic, met with instantaneous death about 10 o'clock Saturday night when his Buick touring car skidded with force into a state highway fence some 600 feet west of the Diana Fuel filling station in the town of Andover. The machine, driven by Cunningham, plunged to the left of the road where it skidded sideways, mowing down two massive state fence posts and splintering two of the railings. Cunningham died behind the wheel, his body crushed in several places by the heavy timbers that pierced the left front door of the car. He suffered internal injuries when struck a blow in the abdomen, just below the chest. The left side of the pelvis bone was crushed and the splintered end of a post, protruding into the machine, fractured the left leg, twisting it grotesquely over the right leg. He was also cut by glass from the broken windshield.

Riding in the car with Cunningham was his brother-in-law, Alvin Williams, also of Andover. Willis escaped with a painful, but not serious cut on the forehead. Willis stated that they were returning from this city where Cunningham had attended a theatre performance. In explanation of the cause of the accident he said that they had just rounded the curve near the filling station when another car, coming in the opposite direction, turned a spotlight directly into the vision of Cunningham. He said that Cunningham cried out, "I can't see anything," and almost immediately he felt the machine skid and there was a crash on the left side of the car. Willis said that he rubbed snow on the man's forehead but when he failed to revive he went to the filling station to summon aid. A preliminary investigation was conducted by Deputy Sheriff Harvey S. Collins, of Columbia, and Constable Allison L. Frink, of Andover, who later turned the case over to State Policemen Sylvia and O'Toole of the Hartford barracks. Medical Examiner Dr. W. L. Higgins, who was in Springfield, Mass., for the evening, was summoned. After viewing the remains he allowed permission for their removal to the Avery and VanZandt undertaking parlors here. Dr. Higgins is to file a report with Coroner John Yeomans of Andover and it was understood this afternoon that an inquest is to be conducted shortly.

William Loren Cunningham was born in West Stafford, February 3, 1890, a son of Sylvester and Hattie Ladd Cunningham. He had resided in Andover for a number of years. He is survived by his wife; two daughters, Martha and Margaret Cunningham, of Andover; three sisters, Mrs. Alice LaVallee and Mrs. Elanor Willis of Andover, and Mrs. Elizabeth Rickard of Hartford; and two brothers, Everett Cunningham of Ellington and Edward Cunningham of Danielson. His father, who resides in Andover, also survives.

SHORT CALENDAR SESSION OF COURT HERE TUESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 2.—A short calendar and assignment of cases session of the Windham county superior court is scheduled to be held here Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Judge John Rufus Booth on the bench. The short calendar includes seven cases and three uncontested divorce actions. The cases are: Danielson Garage, Inc. vs. Eugene St. Germaine, D. A., affirmation of judgment of town court of Killingly: James F. Morse & Co. vs. Reliable Grain Co., default for failure to plead, judgment; Edwin H. Perry vs. Asa D. Cheney et al, default for failure to plead; Paul Locrasto vs. Jennie M. Farnum, Admr., default for failure to plead; Everett A. Beckwith vs. Joseph P. Collins, permission to withdraw as attorney; Benjamin Prague vs. Herman Prag, et al., motion to open default, hearing on submission of judgment to be rendered, judgment; Anna L. Morse vs. George Morse, motion for reference to committee. The divorce suits: Phebe Maloney vs. Joseph Maloney; Margaret Russo vs. Joseph Russo; Rosanna Bibeault vs. Albert Bibeault.

There are 14 court cases and five jury cases on the trial list for assignment.

Manager John C. Frazier of the Willimantic exchange of the Southern New England Telephone company made public a report Saturday showing that over 17,000 telephone calls pass through the local switchboards daily. This established a high peak in the volume of telephone traffic locally, the average number for a business day being 17,425 calls. Of the total 16,575 are local calls within the exchange, while 850 are to points outside, indicating a wide use of the toll system.

In order to meet this rapidly growing business the company has plans on hand for the construction of additional telephone facilities in the city during the year. The number of outside calls, 850, does not include incoming calls, it is pointed out by Manager Frazier, the latter being of about equal number. During 1929 the Willimantic exchange enjoyed an increase of 204 telephones, giving the district a total of 4,410 at the beginning of 1930.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. John L. Leonard.

John Little Leonard, 76, died early Saturday morning at his home, 160 North street, after an illness of some two months. Entering the drug business here at the age of 13 years, Mr. Leonard was dean of druggists in the city. He was born in Hampton, January 31, 1854, a son of Alvah and Lemira Little Leonard. The family removed to this city when he was but six years of age.

Upon his entrance into business he was associated with L. J. Fuller. Mr. Leonard and Frank M. Wilson purchased the business some time later and the former subsequently disposed of his interests to Mr. Wilson. Mr. Leonard then conducted a drug business in East Hampton for four years, returning here as owner of the drug store conducted by John T. Baker. He went into partial retirement upon the sale of this establishment to Gustave C. Cartier, the business being now operated by Wilson's Windham Pharmacy.

Mr. Leonard was a direct descendant of Richard Warren, who signed the pact in the Mayflower, and was a member of the Royal Arcanum. He was married to Fanny C. Babcock on June 5, 1884. Besides his wife, he is survived by a son, Maurice S. Leonard, of this city, a daughter, Mrs. Frances Johnson of Norwich, and two grandchildren, Leonard Babcock Johnson and Frances Colt Johnson, of Norwich.

Throughout his active life, Mr. Leonard maintained a sincere interest in the growth of the city as well as in the welfare of its people. His ability as a historian of the community was recognized widely. A few years ago he exhibited a pencil sketch, drawn entirely from memory, of Main street, as it looked half a century ago. His life was enriched by kindness of word and deed and wholesome appreciation of nature's gifts.

Benjamin F. Carpenter.

Impaired in health for the past three years, Benjamin F. Carpenter, 86, a resident of Lebanon for many years, died of heart trouble in St. Joseph's hospital, Friday night. He is survived by four sons, Mary A. Carpenter, secretary of the First National bank of Hartford; former Alderman Daniel Carpenter, of Hartford; Williette L. Carpenter, of Piermont, N. H., and Stephen W. Carpenter, of Meriden; a daughter, Miss Leora Carpenter, of Lebanon and a brother, Albert Carpenter, also of Lebanon. He also leaves three grandsons, children of Mark A., Daniel L., and Stephen W. Carpenter. The deceased was born in Columbia and was a farmer by occupation.

Funeral services were held at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the Lebanon Baptist church with Rev. Mr. Littlefield officiating. The body was placed in the receiving vault at the Willimantic cemetery for interment in the Lebanon cemetery later. Arrangements were in charge of Avery and VanZandt.

A Buick coupe driven by David Dickson, of 16 Whitney avenue, Hamden, and a Hudson sedan, operated by Hurley Keon, of 311 Pleasant street, collided at the junction of North and Main streets at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Dickson was coming westerly on Main as Keon came out of the side street. In an attempt to stop Dickson's car skidded into the local machine damaging the bumper and receiving a dented fender. The slippery condition of the street was given as the cause of the mishap. Dickson agreed to settle.

While Patrolman Albert Montie was investigating the Dickson-Keon accident the street junction was the scene of a second mishap of the same nature and due to the same cause. The machines involved in the second collision were an Oldsmobile sedan driven by George Sistrand of 156 Narragansett street, Edgewood, R. I., and a Dodge truck owned by the Laramee company and driven by P. J. Roy, Jr., of 411 Valley street, this city. As in the first case the stranger was coming westerly on the main thoroughfare and his car skidded into the local machine as it emerged out of North street. There was no damage to the truck but Sistrand's car sustained a damaged left front fender, for which the owner assumed responsibility.

A temporary adjustment of the nonsupport case of Samuel Borodach, local cobbler, was reached in police court Saturday morning when the accused posted a bond of $200 to insure weekly payments of five dollars for the support of his three-months' old son, Jerome Borodach. Borodach pleaded not guilty to the charge, which alleged that he had failed to furnish support to his wife and child. He said that he was willing to support his wife provided she would consent to live with him. The woman told Judge Frank H. Foss that this could never be done successfully, as she and her husband were always at odds, principally on the subject of money.

Upon hearing her refusal to attempt a reconciliation, the court announced that the case devolved solely upon the question of support of the child. The posting of the bond or an alternative of six months in jail was then ordered by the court. Mrs. Borodach had sought $15 a week for the support of the child.

FUNERALS.

Robert L. Brittan.

The funeral of Robert Lewis Brittan was held at the home, 146 Union street, Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones of Mansfield Center, officiated, assisted by Rev. Mrs. Florence Jones. Burial was in Storrs cemetery. The bearers were Clarence Lyon, Harry M. Pickins, Louis A. Tenney and Eugene Lyon. The J. C. Lincoln company had charge of the arrangements.

S. Noble Loomis.

Funeral services for S. Noble Loomis were held at the North Coventry Congregational church this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, Rev. J. N. Atwood officiated. Burial was in the Center cemetery at North Coventry. Avery and VanZandt had charge of the arrangements.

Dr. A. M. Nielson, of New York university, lectured on Social Studies at a meeting of rural school teachers in this district held in the Model school auditorium Saturday forenoon. Another talk on Kinderland was given by Mrs. D. Drysdale, of Cambridge, Mass. The meeting which was in charge of Supervisor Levi T. Garrison and Martin B. Robertson, was attended by teachers from the towns of Andover, Ashford, Bolton, Hampton, Coventry, Chaplin, Columbia, Mansfield, Willington, Bozrah, Colchester, Franklin, Lebanon, Hebron, Sprague and Marlborough, with several local teachers as guests.

Many property owners appeared before the board of relief at its first session Saturday to hear appeals from the doings of the assessors and adjustment of assessed values noted on the grand list of 1929. There was a steady stream of information-seekers and complaints from 9 a. m. to 4.30 p. m. James J. Lee, secretary of the board, assisted in the work.

There was a collision of automobiles driven by Henry Morier of 272 Mill street, Waterbury, and by Antonio Cote of 80 Windham street, this city, just below Lincoln square on Main street at 9.30 o'clock Saturday evening. Cote was pulling away from the curb as Morier approached easterly on the street. The Waterbury car struck the Cote machine causing damages estimated at $15. Morier was arrested for failure to give the right of way by Officer Ralph Burchnall and notified to appear in police court Monday.

Saturday, the first day for the payment of personal taxes, brought a substantial response at the office of Collector Louis C. Vegiard. William Foote, of Jackson street, and Miss Olivine Vegiard, of Mansfield avenue, were the first man and woman respectively to pay the tax.

Mrs. Charles F. Neeley is now at her home, 208 Pleasant street, having been discharged from the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam where she had been a patient since earlier in the week, following an automobile accident at Abington Four Corners. She sustained a concussion of the brain.

William Kelley, 18, of South Coventry, is a patient at St. Joseph's hospital, suffering from lacerations of the scalp sustained about 5.30 o'clock Saturday afternoon in South Coventry, when he was struck and knocked down by a car driven by Richard E. Dodge, of Storrs. The machine skidded on the ice road, the rear fender swinging around and striking the young man. Dr. E. J. Ottenheimer, attending physician, said that the youth would be discharged in a few days.

Word is received from Mr. and Mrs. Austin D. Boss, Mrs. Frederick C. Cummings and daughter, Miss Carolyn Cummings, that they left Celon, China, Tuesday, with Egypt as the next destination of their world tour.

Mrs. Amelia Adams of Haverhill, Mass., lectured at the meeting of the Spiritualist society today.

Miss Lillie Bell of New Rochelle, N. Y., is spending several days in town as guest of friends.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Harry Branch had as week end guest, William O. Chase, of Binghampton, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Mills have returned from attending the funeral of his brother, Calvin E. Mills in Swampscott, Mass.

The Misses Janet Scripture and Sarah Abbe attended the Trinity week end junior prom in Hartford.

Four young men who served as altar boys under Rev. Francis A. Duch during the four years of his stay at St. Cyril and Methodius church, Hartford, served under him today at the 8.15 and 10.30 masses in St. Joseph's church. One of the youths is in his third year at St. Thomas' seminary, Hartford, while the remaining three are high school students. Their general appearance and excellent attendance upon the officiating priest made a most favorable impression on the congregation.

This week's meeting of the Willimantic Rotary club will be held Monday evening with a dinner at the Nathan Hale hotel and a program designated as a musical night in charge of Ralph H. Gibson, chairman of the music committee.

COLCHESTER

LINK HEARING GOES OVER TO SATURDAY OF THIS WEEK

As noted in Saturday's Bulletin, Coroner Edward G. McKay of Norwich last week completed his inquest into the death of John E. Shea of Willimantic, thrown out of an automobile in a collision December 8 on the John Wade hill on the Colchester-Norwich turnpike. In completing his inquest, Coroner McKay finds Andrew Link Jr., criminally liable for the accident and notified Prosecutor M. R. Abel of the local court accordingly. The accused was scheduled to be brought before Justice of the Peace Charles F. Brown and Prosecutor Abel in a session of the local court Saturday afternoon, but as the state was not quite ready with its evidence the hearing has been adjourned to Saturday afternoon, February 8, at 2 o'clock. It is understood that Attorney Henry L. McGuire of New London is acting as counsel for Link.

J. Yuskas was brought before Justice of the Peace Charles F. Brown and Grand Juror Myron R. Abel in a session of court held Saturday afternoon charged with driving while under the influence of liquor and evading responsibility. Thursday evening he is said to have driven his car into a car owned by C. G. Markham of Westchester center causing damage to both machines. The accident happened about four miles above Colchester on the Hartford turnpike. Officer O'Toole of the Hartford barracks made the arrest. Judge Brown imposed a fine of $100 and costs on the charge of driving under the influence of liquor and ten days in jail on the charge of evading responsibility. Arrangement was made for payment of the fine, but the jail sentence was suspended.

STAFFORDVILLE

The funeral of Frederick M. Sengter was very largely attended Thursday, Jan. 30th, at the Congregational church of which he was a member. He was treasurer of the church, also treasurer of the local cemetery association. He had a wide circle of circle of friends and will be greatly missed. Burial was in the local cemetery. The floral tributes were beautiful.

Police of Tokio arrested three college students who had danced every night for three months in the Florida, a public dance hall there, with counterfeit tickets. The youths admitted they had obtained $250 worth of dancing each on the false tickets which they copied from a single paper slip honestly bought.

Stafford Springs

BUSINESS IS SO POOR PROPERTY BOOST COMES HARD

The board of relief, Francis L. Upham, Herbert A. Glazier and Victor J. Bissonette had a very busy as well as stormy session at its first meeting in Warren Memorial building Saturday. Long before the hour scheduled for the meeting of the board property owners were on hand to make an appeal for a reduction in the valuation of their property as fixed by the board of assessors. The board of assessors has made a revaluation of all property in town during the past year and has just completed the list and there has been a boosting of values all along the line. Business conditions in Stafford, especially in Stafford Springs are very poor, at the present time. Many of the mills are running on short time and the raise in values came at a most inopportune time. It is claimed, however, that if the values as fixed by the assessors are not reduced, the tax rate may be reduced and property owners will not be obliged to pay much more in taxes than they have in previous years.

Rev. M. E. Osborne, pastor of Rockville Methodist church occupied the pulpit of the Methodist church at Stafford Springs Sunday, in exchange with Rev. T. Arthur Mosley, who preached in Rockville.

Franklin Learned has returned to his studies at New York university after spending a few days at home.

The auxiliary to the American Legion held a whist party in the American Legion room in Warren Memorial hall Friday evening. About 16 tables of whist were played. Prizes were won by Mrs. Charles Jacobsen and Albert Lanagan, Amos Bolieu and Miss Mildred Labreche. The following committee was in charge: Mrs. Ephraim Mirza, chairman; Mrs. Daniel Greeh, Mrs. A. Grenier and Mrs. John Christensen. Following the whist party old fashioned and modern dances were enjoyed. Music was furnished by Attilio Tisiani, accordianist and Firpo Sartori, banjo player.

Anson Wiseman of Wales, Mass., is a patient at Johnson Memorial hospital.

Francis S. Brick, supt. of schools, spent the week end at the home of his daughter Mrs. Ernest Swedburg in Walpole, Mass.

Miss Janette Foster, daughter of William Foster has been ill for a few days.

Leon Wasserman, student at Boston university, has returned to his studies after a brief recess with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wasserman.

Edward Hotkowski has returned to his studies at Clark university, Worcester, Mass., after spending a few days at his home on High street.

Raymond Lyman cut his foot badly Wednesday while in the woods chopping. Five stitches were required to close the wound. Mr. Lyman will be unable to step on his foot for some time. Donald Woodward, the substitute rural carrier, is taking care of the route.

Ice houses in various sections of the town are being filled with ice of a good quality ranging from 8 to 12 inches.

GURLEYVILLE

Rev. Howard Bushnell chose for his text Sunday morning, "For Straight is the Way and Narrow the Gate That Leadeth Into Life." Matt. 7-14. Preceding the sermon he gave a short talk for the boys and girls. A trio, Mary Kostorvich, Alice Faulkner and Stephan Koraki sang, "My Deliverer," by McClelland with Mr. Bushnell as accompanist. The C. E. meeting was omitted, as many of the members accompanied the pastor to a service at Uncasville, where Stephen Goraki sang two solos and the choir two selections and Rev. Mr. Bushnell had a part in the service. Stephen Goraki also sang at the C. E. council meeting in Preston City, Wednesday evening, and Jared Hinckley was present at that meeting. Among those attending the meeting at Uncasville besides those mentioned were Edith Jones, Alice and Ruby Faulkner, Eleanor Thomas, Annie Goraki, Mary and Helen Kostowich, Mary Varnish, Mrs. Eunice Thomas, Jared Hinckley and Bradford Jones who used his car in transporting part of the members.

Mrs. E. W. Jones gave a family party last Thursday evening for her daughter, Miss Edith Jones on her sixteenth birthday.

Mrs. Charles Hinckley spent Thursday with her mother, Mrs. Ralph Clark, in Willimantic and attended the Sewing club meeting.

Irwin Jones and Bradford Jones have been helping icemen in Lebanon.

Farmers have been rushing the ice harvest the past week; ice is of fine quality, a foot or more in thickness.

Thursday, an airplane was heard traveling westward, it was a highflyer for it was above the clouds and could not be seen. On a recent clear evening another plane was seen traveling in the same direction with bright lights of green and red showing under the wings.

Sunday, Feb. 2nd, Candlemas day, there was interest to see if ground hog saw his shadow, to determine the next six weeks of winter, as goes the old saying.

FASHIONS in dress may change in a day, but Chesterfield "comes into fashion," and stays there, for its unfailing good taste.

Mild... not strong or harsh... and yet they "satisfy." A cigarette with character... not insipid or tasteless, but rich, spicy, fragrant.

It is no fad, this swing to Chesterfield, but a sound and growing appreciation of good tobaccos, good blending... in short, good taste—

"TASTE above everything"

DANIELSON

BURNED WHEN HE TOUCHED HIGH TENSION WIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 2. — Burton Brown, an employe of the Connecticut Light & Power Co., was injured shortly after 11 o'clock this morning while working at the sub-station west of Mechanic street. Mr. Brown was standing on some framework, making a change in a switch on a 2,200-volt line, it is understood, when he was severely shocked in some manner and rendered unconscious. He was given attention by Dr. Cecil R. Garcin and afterwards removed in the Day Kimball ambulance to the hospital in Putnam. An examination revealed that he was burned on the left hand and right leg. However, it was later established that his injuries are not of a serious nature, and that he will be able to leave the hospital within a few days.

Child Struck by Car

Just after 2 o'clock this afternoon George Leoanna, age 9, of Lewis boulevard, was run down on Main street, near the home of Mr. and Mrs. V. H. Wetherell, by a car operated by Leo Billodeau of Stearns street. The child was picked up apparently unconscious and taken to the office of Dr. Robert F. Souther, where after a time he was so far improved as to allow of removal to his home. It was not indicated that his injuries are serious, though he has some cuts on the head and some abrasions. State Officer John Murphy, who investigated the accident, ordered Billodeau to appear in court, to answer to a charge of operating a car with defective brakes.

During the present week, Major E. L. Darbie, commanding the special troops of the 43rd division, will be busy with inspections of various units under his command. Monday evening Major Darbie will be in Hartford to inspect the state staff, division staff and division headquarters detachment. Tuesday evening he will inspect the 43rd military police company at Hartford, the 43rd tank company at Branford on Thursday evening and the headquarters detachment at the Danielson state armory Friday evening. Next week Monday evening he will inspect the headquarters company at Putnam. Next Wednesday evening the 85th Infantry brigade headquarters company at New London will be inspected by Capt. Harold E. Greene of Danielson, acting for Major Darbie, who will, as a grand officer, be in attendance at the meeting of the Masonic Grand chapter of Connecticut.

It is forecast this early in the year that Danielson will go back on daylight saving time the latter part of April. Because of the fact that Boston and New York will again be on fast time through the spring and summer seasons, there is little choice left for Danielson except to follow suit, because the manufacturing, commercial and banking interests are so tied in with concerns in the two cities mentioned that all sorts of inconveniences arise if the time standard here is different than theirs. Last year, daylight saving time was effective in a large area along the Quinebaug valley.

An effort will be made during the current week to boost the subscriptions of the current series of shares of the Danielson Building and Loan association to between 1,500 and 2,000. The goal set is 5,000 shares, and it is believed it can be reached with the expected cooperation.

A seven-ton truck owned by the Keough Storage Co. of Fall River and operated by Hilarie Bergeron of that city was in collision Saturday forenoon at Main and Academy streets with a Ford roadster owned by the Connecticut Light & Power Co. and operated by Michael Cotter of Pomfret. The roadster was being driven into Academy from Main as the truck was coming out of Academy. Slippery conditions were partly responsible for the accident, which was investigated by State Officer H. Theodore Strand. The Ford was slightly damaged. There were no personal injuries.

It would appear from the attendance and the enthusiasm that boxing fans hereabouts were hungry for some of the sport, and expressed themselves as very much pleased with the show put on in the town hall Friday evening. It was said at the week end that it is probable that another show will be staged here at a later date.

At a session of the town court Saturday morning, Judge W. Fenner Woodward sentenced John Lavender, who came into this territory from Rhode Island, to serve 30 days in jail for having been intoxicated and 30 days more for breach of the peace. Nelson Demers, a resident of Killingly, also was given a jail sentence of 30 days for having been intoxicated. The men were taken to the jail in Brooklyn by Chief John McFarland.

There are continued, but unverified, rumors that the S. N. E. Telephone Co. has plans for the construction of a new central office building in Danielson, but whether this is true is not vouched for by any representative of the company. Neither is it known, if the company is to build, whether it will be this year or next.

Mrs. Jennie Corey, 63, wife of Joseph Corey, died about 1 o'clock Saturday morning at the home in the Valley district of the town. Mrs. Corey was stricken with a heart attack about 10 o'clock Friday morning. She was a native of Vermont, and prior to her marriage was Miss Jennie Ryder.

Beginning Saturday morning, automobile owners who purchased gas at local filling stations began paying for it in an odd way. The price here is 18.3 cents per gallon for regular gasoline and 21.3 for the high test or ethyl gasolines. Also with the first of the month owners of commercal vehicles getting what is known as the commercial rate paid one cent a gallon under the straight retail price, whereas, under the old price schedule, they received two cents a gallon off. However, as the new prices are lower than the old retail prices, there is no penalty for the buyer on account of the change.

This year the town of Killingly will pay a county tax of $4,619.11, the third largest of the 15 towns of Windham county. This is approximately half of last year's county tax, when an extra large amount of money was needed to write off a deficit of about $35,000. The fixed expenses of the county are about $30,000 a year.

In official circles it is being suggested that motorists not delay in filing their applications for operators' licenses. The current ones expire at midnight the last day of this month. In view of the fact that there are so many scores of thousands of renewals to be made, it is not unlikely that there will be such a rush for them during the latter part of the month that delays in issuing will occur. Driving without a new license on and after March 1, will be a violation of the motor vehicle law.

Miss Geraldine A. Miour of Fall River returned to her home today after visiting here for several days with relatives and friends.

Don't forget to deposit in our savings department. Money received as late as Feb. 5th receives interest from the 1st at 5 per cent. The Windham County National Bank, Danielson, Conn.—adv.

Mrs. Mary Taylor of Webster spent the week end visiting with relatives in Danielson.

Ice harvesting crews were busy today housing ice that will supply the borough's needs for the remainder of the year. In addition to what it has cut here, the Quinebaug Lake Ice Co. has cut and stored ice in Hampton.

This being, for the most part, such a day as to cast shadows, the assumption is that the groundhog saw his, and that there are six more weeks of winter ahead.

Capt. and Mrs. Hugh Mason, whose home is in Brooklyn, have been traveling in Spain, and will visit several other European countries before returning to the United States in the spring.

Friday evening of this week, the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist Episcopal church is to give a complimentary supper to the members of the choir.

When telephone subscribers in the Danielson division get their new directories, and distribution is to begin Monday, they will find that the directories have a little tab opening the book at the Danielson listings.

Rowland R. James, though improved, continues to feel the effects of falling down stairs at his home on Oak street at the holiday season.

Charles F. Charon will address the members of the chamber of commerce at the February meeting of the organization next Tuesday evening. He will discuss finance in town government.

About fifteen young men attended a surprise party given by Mrs. Lillian Bradley Monday night in celebration of her son, Raymond's, birthday. Refreshments were served, games and singing were enjoyed.

PUTNAM

BERNIER ARRESTED BY NORTHBRIDGE POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 2.—After serving a sentence of 30 days in the county jail at Brooklyn, to which he was sentenced from the city court of Putnam when found guilty of a charge of theft, Frederick Bernier of the north end was taken into custody Friday afternoon by Chief of Police Merrill R. Keith of Northbridge, immediately upon his (Bernier's) release from the county jail and taken to Northbridge, where he is being held on a charge of committing a serious statutory offense. A warrant, sworn out after Miss Irene Boiselle of Northbridge complained that Bernier was involved in the predicament in which she finds herself, was on file at the jail. It was served on Bernier upon the completion of his sentence. He waived extradition and was taken to Northbridge, where the Boiselle girl resides.

Saturday morning he was arraigned in district court there, charged with committing a statutory offense. Through his attorney, Joseph Bartholomie of Webster, Bernier entered a plea of not guilty. The court found probable cause and ordered that Bernier be bound over to the May term of criminal court. He is being held in jail there in default of bonds of $1,500.

Bernier is facing the same charges on which Theodore Raymond, also of this city, is being held in jail there, awaiting the May session of court. Raymond was taken into custody by Northbridge police early last week, upon a complaint of the Boiselle girl. It was learned Saturday from reliable sources that the second arrest in the case will not be the last. Investigation is continuing in view of gathering further evidence against other Putnam men—against whom the Northbridge girl has furnished police with information.

Bernier was arrested in this city more than a month ago by former Sergeant George H. Liard, then acting head of the police department. Charges of theft of automobile accessories from various garages were proven against him and his partner in crime, Tony Raymond. Both youths were committed to the jail. Tony Raymond is a brother of Theodore, now under arrest in Massachusetts.

The offenses charged against the two Putnam men by the Northbridge miss are alleged to have been committed during wild parties which were staged at a certain residence on Park street. The girl, in her complaint to the police, has bared all the facts in the case—which statement is given for the immediate action of the Northbridge authorities. Local police assisted Chief Keith in the investigation.

FUNERAL

S. Howard Peckham

The funeral of S. Howard Peckham, well known resident of East Woodstock, who died suddenly Thursday in Hartford while attending a conference of state agriculturists, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Congregational church in East Woodstock. Rev. Henry D. Baker, pastor of the church, officiated at the service, which was conducted according to the rites of the Masonic fraternal order, of which the deceased was a member. Members of the Putnam lodge, A. F. and A. M., conducted the ceremonies. The service was attended by many relatives and friends and by representative delegations from the various fraternal and agricultural societies with which Mr. Peckham was affiliated. Burial was in the Woodstock cemetery. Committal services at the grave were in charge of Rev. Mr. Baker.

Aside from being a day on which weather prognosticators carefully watch the manœuvers of the sun, Feb. 2 was observed in all the churches of the city as the feast of candlemas. Following the celebration of the high mass at St. Mary's church this morning, the pastor, Rev. U. O. Bellerose, imparted his blessing upon the candles which were later distributed among the parishioners. Special services in commemoration of the day were also held at the Protestant churches.

A local banker is in possession of a profile study of Abraham Lincoln which was made in the treasury building at Washington. An interesting feature of the minute art piece is the fact that "$2,000" in American currency was given to the making of the model although, strange as it may seem, a humble silver half dollar would purchase the object, so far as value is concerned. The "two thousand" dollar Lincoln is modeled from aged and worn bills which were exchanged by the Federal Reserve banks of the country at the treasury building for new money. The dilapidated tender was put through a special governmental process whereby all seals and printed matter was eradicated from the face of the notes. Treasury officials then authorized the moulding of the saturated paper into likenesses of great Americans. According to the informative paragraph appearing beneath the art piece, approximately $2,000 worth of old money is required to fashion the subject.

"Facts About Connecticut," is the title of a publication issued by the Hartford chamber of commerce to educational institutions around the state. A quantity of the texts have been received by the school department here. The book containing about 200 pages of printed matter serves as an invaluable aid to any student desiring information concerning his native state. All subjects are covered thoroughly. A part of the book is devoted to the geographic nature of the state, while Connecticut's history from the colonial days to the present time is told in full; in addition to the state's place in the field of art, education and industry being vividly depicted.

Superintendent Leonard H. Mellor of the National Rhea Co., local rayon manufacturing plant which is closed because of the bankrupt predicament of the board of ownership, returned today from a business trip to Philadelphia. Mr. Mellor departed for the Pennsylvania city Friday evening, following the failure of the fourth attempt to dispose of the mill property at an auction sale. Rumors spread quickly to the effect that the Rhea plant is to open soon under the management of Lewis A. Waterman, receiver for the corporation. As far as could be learned this afternoon the stories were unfounded and no steps to resume operations under conditions contained in the widely circulated rumors are being contemplated.

Miss Gertrude Marion of Hartford, a former resident of this city, was the week-end guest of Misses Madeline and Doris McCoy of Grove street.

Nancy Jean, infant daughter of Mrs. John T. Ryan of School street, is a patient at the Memorial hospital in Worcester, where she is suffering from mastoiditis.

Gordon Winslow, student at Holy Cross college, Worcester, is spending the mid-year recess at the residence of Mrs. Catherine E. Murphy, Sunnyside Heights.

Kenneth Rawley of Suffield academy, Suffield, Conn., is visiting with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George A. Rawley of Pleasant street, during the mid-year recess.

Hayden B. Franklin of Northeastern university, Boston, spent the week end at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Franklin, of Chapman street.

A mid-year hop held in the auditorium of Putnam high school Friday evening was rated a financial success. Proceeds derived from the affair will be added to the school bleacher fund.

Local followers of the fistic sport journeyed to Danielson Friday evening to witness a fight card staged by a Danielson athletic club. Police Captain A. J. Dubreuil, a follower of the squared ring activities, was among the Putnam group of fans present.

William E. Sault, assistant superintendent of the New Haven division of the New Haven railroad, whose headquarters are in this city, has been called to his home in New Haven because of illness of Mrs. Sault.

F. Gordon Caffery of Pomfret street has accepted a position in the accounting department of the offices of the United Electric Street Railway Co. in Providence.

Mrs. Johanna M. Andersen, wife of John A. Anderson, of North Grosvenordale and for more than a quarter of a century resident of that village, died at her home there Saturday evening. She was 78 years of age.

Scene 2, The Field of Honor.

The costuming were suited to the period, and the play was one of the best. Music was furnished for the evening by Plainfield High School orchestra. The play was coached by Miss A. Genevieve Violette. Miss Violette was presented $25 in gold and a basket of roses.

Mrs. Jerry M. Sullivan was in Princfield during the week.

Charles E. Dwellery of Franklin, Maine, is visiting his daughter, Mrs. Cecil Butler.

WAUREGAN

Mrs. Arthur Mott attended the meeting of the Grand Chapter of Connecticut O. E. S., as official delegates from the Moosup chapter.

Rev. Fr. John H. Quinn, pastor of Sacred Heart church is spending a vacation in Florida. Mission Fathers from Springfield, Mass., have charge of the parish during his absence.

Walter Robinson, home on a vacation from Storrs college, expects to return today (Monday).

A very large delegation attended the Senior High school play at the Community house, Plainfield, Friday evening. All expressed pleasure at the splendid acting of the cast, and appreciation of the efforts of Miss Violette, head of the English department, who coached the players.

The Men's class of the Congregational church will hold its February meeting Thursday evening, when the Rev. C. C. Rollinson of Brooklyn, will be the speaker.

The Earnest Workers are to meet with Mrs. E. R. Every this (Monday) afternoon.

MOOSUP

Miss Charlotte V. Kitchin and Miss Dorothy Barber left Saturday for a week in South Freeport, Maine, with Mrs. J. S. Nelson.

Mrs. Adeline Williams has been ill at her home on High street.

The Franco-American club of Moosup, held a smoker in their rooms during the week. There were five boxing bouts of three rounds, as follows: Richmond Burke, Moosup, vs. Arthur Couture, Moosup, 120 lbs. Robert Howard, Moosup, vs. Red Bertrand, Moosup, 124 lbs. Larry Wakely, Central Village, vs. Jack Whitely, Moosup, 130 lbs. Joseph Smith, Moosup, vs. Eddie Rice, Moosup, 112 lbs. Raymond Shaw, Moosup, vs. Joe Paradise, Central Village, 130 lbs.

A wrist-pulling contest between Edias Lemery of Danielson and Felix Bodo of Moosup, was won by the latter. At another smoker sponsored by the Franco-American club, Felix Bodo is to meet Joseph Harton, champion wrist-puller of Moosup and vicinity with his silver cup, which Harton won last year in a wrist-pulling tournament.

A hand-to-hand balancing act given by Joseph and Victor Desmarais was well-performed and elicited hearty applause. A strength act was given by Viateur Desmarais, with the help of Amos Lussier. It consisted of juggling a human being in various positions. Mr. Desmarais is welterweight weight-lifting champion of Connecticut and weighs 145 lbs. Both teams of "Harton, two Desmarais, Viateur and Victor and Lussier have played in the Odeon theatre, Arctic, R. I., Shyma club, Taftville, and various other places.

A battle royal furnished much excitement. Eight contestants fought at the same time with stuffed clubs. The last one standing, Wilfred Jette, of Moosup, was the winner.

A tug-of-war between the Franco-American club and Cranska Thread mill was won by the former.

The captain of the team is Oliver Cote of Moosup.

No hunting of elk, antelope or mountain sheep has been permitted in California for more than twenty years.

JEWETT CITY

TWO INJURED BADLY WHEN CAR BUMPS INTO BUS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 2—Louis and Diana Heroux of 81 Tirrel avenue, Taftville, were so severely injured here shortly after 6 o'clock Saturday morning, in an automobile accident, that after being cared for at the office of Dr. F. E. Rainville, they were taken in the ambulance to the W. W. Backus hospital in Norwich. The young man showed evidence of injuries in the chest, and the woman probably had a fractured shoulder.

The first Connecticut bus for Putnam, in charge of Stephen J. Wood of 714 Boswell avenue, Norwich, had arrived and was standing near the curb opposite B. H. Gardner's news depot. Up over the top of railroad hill came an Oldsmobile coupe, driven by Alman Heroux of 25 Clement avenue, Central Falls, R. I. Riding in the Rhode Island car, as passengers, were Emilane Heroux of Stillwater, R. I., and the two other members of the family, who were hurried to the hospital. The Oldsmobile in attempting to slow down and pass, crashed into the rear of the standing bus, with the result that the big rear window was smashed, and the heavy steel body badly stove. The light car was badly wrecked on one side.

Steve Faber of Jewett City was sitting on the rear seat of the passenger coach, and was somewhat bruised and cut. None of the other bus passengers reported injuries. Heroux told Officers Henry Vegiard, who checked up on the wreck, that he would have been able to clear the bus, only that Fortuna Cry, in his car, also northbound was passing too close on his left. Upon being questioned by the officer, Cyr, declared that he did not pass, until after the other machines had come together. Evidently the patrolman did not fully credit all the statements that were made, as he made no arrests for reckless driving. Again the value of the alert and efficient service from the Backus hospital was demonstrated. Twenty minutes after receiving the call, the ambulance was here and its accompanying surgeon attending to the needs of the injured.

The Dollar day sale at Zegeer's store will continue all this week. Buy and save.—Adv.

The beautiful carnations at the Baptist church Sunday morning, were from Mrs. William Johnston of Willimantic, in memory of her husband, a member of the church, who died eight years ago.

At a meeting of the executive committee of Jewett City chapter American Red Cross, Miss M. A. Burdick was re-elected chairman, Daniel L. Phillips, vice chairman, Mrs. J. H. Tracy, executive secretary, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, recording secretary and Miss Margaret Driscoll, treasurer. The executive board has appointed chairmen of committees as follows: Home service chairman, Dr. G. H. Jennings and secretary, Miss Katherine Barnett; nursing, Mrs. W. A. Broadfoot, R. N.; publicity, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox; first aid, Miss Margery Leydon, R. N.; life saving, P. W. Chase, R. N.; disaster relief, Mrs. W. A. Richardson, R. N.; travelers' aid, Miss Katherine Barnett; production committee, Mrs. F. I. Raymond, Mrs. Alice Anthony; first aid instructor, Dr. Jennings, chairman; Junior Red Cross, Mrs. Edith Soule; auditors, W. T. Crumb and Thomas Barnett.

Miss May Driscoll is chairman of the executive committee and Miss Burdick of the entire board. The treasurer reported $894.76 in the treasury. It was voted to contribute two hundred dollars to the town nursing committee, also voted to reimburse the home service chairman for twenty-five dollars spent in assisting an ex-service man's family.

At the meeting of Pachaug Community club, Frank Morgan was elected president, Charles Campbell, vice president, Rev. H. T. Arnold, secretary, M. H. Bartlett, treasurer. The program for the evening was in charge of Everett Thornton, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Park, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Bartlett, W. C. Terry and George Frink.

Mrs. Stanton Brown played for the community singing, Mary Lewis played harmonica solos, Flossie Lewis and Adam Medick Jr., sang a solo accompanied by Everett Thornton. Supt. E. B. Floyd of Norwich showed reels of an instructive subject, also a three-reel comedy. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served. Dancing followed which the fifty persons who were present enjoyed. The next meeting is to be in charge of the executive committee, and one feature will be an address on Good Citizenship by State Attorney Arthur M. Brown.

Mrs. Arthur M. Brown entertained the Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church Friday afternoon. During the business meeting Mrs. G. H. Prior, Mrs. E. E. Gilbert, Mrs. Thomas Brown and Mrs. John Barry were appointed to take charge of the dinner to be served next Monday at the ministers' meeting of the Stonington Union association. Mrs. Brown was assisted by Mrs. Leonard McBrown, Mrs. Thomas Brown, Mrs. S. F. Brown and Mrs. Irene Ford.

VENETIAN BALL FOR MIAMI SEASON'S CLIMAX

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2—(AP)—Delights of Venice will cast a sixteenth century spell over the second annual subscription ball here Feb. 14.

The ball will climax formal social affairs of Miami's winter season.

Elaborate and costly costumes, specially built scenery and the warm caress of the Gulf stream breeze will mark the mid-winter affair.

The committee of one hundred, made up of the nation's socially elect who winter in the Miami area, has announced through Clayton Sedgwick Cooper, its president, that the ball will outdo in brilliance all other functions of the season, and will rival the famous Beaux Arts ball of New York.

The guest list, aside from names of members, will not be made public until shortly before the ball is held at the Nautilus hotel.

Costume designers have established a branch office here for the several hundred couples—from 400 to 1,000—whose names will be on the guest list. Sponsors have been rigid in their study of social history in selecting guests, and have ruled that costumes must be worn to conform with the general theme of the ball.

A five-passenger airplane will be used by the African hunting expedition of Baron Louis de Rothschild to conduct the party quickly from Alexandria to Nairobi.

CONNECTICUT'S HIGHWAY MENACE

Where the danger of the Connecticut highways lies is to a large extent revealed by the statement of the department of motor vehicles which shows that the right to drive of 11,097 operators of autos was suspended last year, and that those suspensions were larger by 171 than the year previous.

Because Connecticut lies between larger states and is so close to New York its highways are filled with many cars from other states. About one-fifth of the suspensions represented drivers from other states, but it is impossible to overlook the fact that, while the suspensions of Connecticut drivers were being increased 957 from 7,969 in 1928 to 8,926 in 1929, the out-of-state suspension list actually showed a decrease from the 1928 list of 786. Thus, it was because of Connecticut drivers that the suspension total was pushed up to a new record during the past year.

It is a bit uncertain as to whether the suspensions were for an insufficient period to impress other drivers with the seriousness of such offenses as reckless driving, failing to report accidents, operating without a license, drunken driving or participating in fatal accidents, or whether the impression was held in too many cases that they could afford to take chances.

When the department shows that there were increased suspensions for all these offenses in the past year, it discloses a wrong attitude on the part of too many automobile drivers. They are not concerned with the safety of the highway or respect for motor vehicle regulations.

There is cause for satisfaction in the report when it is disclosed that Norwich was one of the four large communities in the state which showed a decrease in the number of suspensions. The 124 suspensions here in 1929 seem altogether too large, though a welcome improvement over the 134 of the previous year, and yet, when it is compared with the record in some of the other cities, it is a decidedly creditable showing. If the rate of Norwich suspensions had prevailed throughout the state the total for Connecticut could have been cut in half and such a reduction would have contributed greatly to increased safety in the highways of Connecticut.

HOW WE ADVANCE

Distance is being eliminated, barriers are being surmounted and obstacles are being removed by present-day achievements. We have opportunities for noting it in the use of the radio, the flying machine, the telephone.

With the radio it is possible to sit in your home and listen to King George and others in London. Weekly are the communications with Admiral Byrd, close to the south pole, while it is possible to telephone most anywhere in Europe and only recently it was demonstrated that it was possible to call up and talk with those aboard ocean liners 300 miles off shore.

Great strides have been made in communications with and without wires. But we cannot overlook the things which are being done by the airplanes and their skillful pilots. We have recently read the thrilling experience of those with Admiral Byrd who circled the south pole from the base in Antartica and there have also been those excursions to and across the north pole. Even now, attention is centered upon the efforts that are being made to find the bodies of two aviators who crashed while engaged in relief work in the frozen north. It was possible to send out air searchers this year where only a few years ago nothing of the kind was available.

Aviators have also been engaged in carrying supplies to families who have been shut off from other means of getting food by floods. They have also carried food to those who have been snowed in by severe storms.

If it is a situation which requires speed, the flying machine is at once thought of. It may be a race with death, the speeding of important mail, the catching of a boat or a train, the obtaining of medical supplies for emergency cases, the forwarding of a patient to a distant hospital or the despatching of divers to rescue one trapped beneath the woodwork of a new dam under construction in Canada. Successful results do not always follow, but speed is furnished by air transportation which could not otherwise be obtained.

All these advantages bring to mind the changes which have taken place through the scientific developments in the course of the last 25 years, previous to which much of them were considered impossible.

PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE

Within a few days the senate may find time to give expression to its views in regard to measures dealing with the Philippines.

There are those who are favorably inclined to cutting loose the islands and letting them drift where they please. Others have recently come to take that view because they are anxious to shut off that competition which the islands furnish with American beet sugar growers. Their product comes in free as long as they remain a part of the United States. Set them free and they become foreign territory and the duty which applies to the sugar produced in other countries applies to the Philippines' output.

There is still another class that thinks the islands should be given their freedom when they have demonstrated their ability to guide their own ship of state. Some would fix this at a definite time in the future. Others would put the Filipinos on a sort of probation to see what they could do and how their politicians would operate over a term of years. On the other hand, there are those who are totally opposed to the granting of independence to the islands, and from a different angle there are those who maintain that congress has nothing to do with the casting loose of the islands and raise a constitutional question in connection therewith.

Thus it is a complicated situation which is faced by the advocates of Philippine independence. They can hardly welcome the support that they will receive from those who want to get rid of the islands for economic reasons. They cannot applaud the support they are getting from those who are making racial demonstrations in California at the present time and they cannot anticipate with pleasure the efforts back of those who are playing the part of wolves in sheepskins.

The Philippines were never so well off as they are today. This is due to the help they have received from the United States, and those who are advocating a radical change are now getting a chance to reflect upon the difference they can expect if independence is granted.

THE WALTERS CASE

This is the week when United States Marshal Walters goes to Washington to be questioned by a sub-committee of the judiciary committee relative to his fitness for reappointment.

Endorsed by the Connecticut delegation and with his record of service in his favor, there is nothing standing in the way of his reappointment except the fact that some nine years ago the prohibition head at that time was told by a clergyman that Mr. Walters had voted against the ratification of the 18th amendment in the Connecticut legislature. That, mind you, was before he was a United States marshal and not until now has the question been raised against his fitness on such a ground.

The United States marshal for Connecticut is not an official engaged in the enforcement of the dry law. He is an official of the federal court and has certain fixed duties in connection therewith, all of which have been faithfully performed and will continue to be, even if the dry law is in any way involved.

It is usually a man's record and ability that is called into question under such circumstances and not what he believed, or the fact that he acted upon his belief, nine years ago, and it gives the impression that it is a pretty flimsy excuse upon which to call any endorsed nominee to Washington for questioning.

Nevertheless, it is believed that the marshal will be able to take care of himself before the committee and make it evident, if he is given a fair kind of a deal, that he has established a record during his terms in office which pushes far into the background that one nine-year-old complaint because he exercised his own judgment when he had a perfect right to do so.

STRENGTHENING RELATIONS

In the naming of members of the diplomatic corps President Hoover has continued the excellent policy of his predecessor. He is making selections because of fitness rather than in the payment of political debts and the result is not only going to be a stronger American diplomatic corps but better satisfied countries in which they are located.

President Hoover made a tour of South and Central America before he took office that he might get in closer touch with the various countries and their governments. It was an epoch-making trip and ever since, when opportunity presented, there have been important changes made in our representatives to those countries.

It cannot fail to be appreciated by these countries that such changes give recognition to the desire for a strengthening of the relationship with the nations of the western hemisphere. There can be no question but what Mexico has been well impressed by the ambassadorship of D. W. Morrow. Only recently the sending of F. M. Dearing from Portugal to Peru cannot fail to have its good effects in that quarter, while there are numerous instances where the completion of service in Latin-American countries has been followed by significant demonstrations which displayed the sincere regret over the necessity for a change.

This makes it apparent that, while this country is endeavoring to name men of ability and fitness and men who can speak the language of the countries to which they go, it is also naming men who will help to strengthen the relationship and be more than temporary carriers of good will. Such will do much to break down the feeling that has grown up in a contrary direction.

EDITORIAL NOTES

It is impossible to please the icemen by promises of warm waves, rain or even snow.

The man on the corner says: It all depends on what time of day Mr. Groundhog came out, about that shadow.

It must have been terribly upsetting to the communists in New York to have their demonstration led by the police commissioner's car.

Your guess is as good as the next one concerning the anticipated influence of the groundhog upon the weather for the next 40 days.

The Massachusetts senate promptly accepted the adverse report on bills to abolish capital punishment. It was the expected and correct treatment.

The indictment in Florida of the three escaped convicts from Connecticut for first degree murder must make them realize that it is needless and additional trouble which they brought upon themselves.

THE PARMALEE SUNBURST

"No," Laurel insisted warmly. "No, and no and no."

"Yes," opposed Great-Aunt Cornelia sternly.

"Yes," echoed Great-Aunt Olivia more gently.

"No," Laurel persisted stubbornly.

"Really, dear, you're being almost rude," interposed her mother softly.

"I'm sorry, aunties," Laurel apologized. "But I simply will not have a big wedding. Carl and I have waited three years and we're going to have the kind of wedding we've always planned."

"Which, if I understand correctly," snorted Great-Aunt Cornelia, "is to be a heathenish affair—at sunrise—in the woods!"

"When you might have your own grandmother's veil and a beautiful house wedding and a really elegant reception dear," quavered Great-Aunt Olivia.

"But I don't want a veil and a big wedding," Laurel pointed out. "I'm going to be married in the woods, beside the river, and wearing a plain green dress. And drive away with Carl in Rosamond—"

"Rosamond?" puzzled Great-Aunt Olivia.

"And who, pray, is Rosamond?" demanded Great-Aunt Cornelia.

"Rosamond is Carl's third-hand car," Laurel chuckled. "Young architects can't command limousines just at first."

"Bah," dismissed Great-Aunt Cornelia. "Come to your senses. Think of the family pride. We are quite ready to finance a proper wedding journey and a proper wedding in the Parmalee mansion."

"And I don't want either," Laurel sighed.

"This is no joking matter," Great-Aunt Cornelia said coldly. "We had intended to present you with the Parmalee sunburst for a wedding present. However, if you still cling to this—humph!—heathenish notion, it shall be left in our wills to some distant cousin instead."

"I shouldn't have had gowns to wear with it for years anyway," Laurel said humbly. "But it was sweet of you. I'm sorry."

"I am sure there is nothing more to be said," summed up Great-Aunt Cornelia. "Come, sister."

Laurel watched the erect old figures settle themselves in the ancient, purring electric and go trundling down the hill to the gloomy Parmalee mansion.

"Mother," asked Laurel in distress, "what would you have done."

"Just as you have done, probably, my dear," her mother answered. "One's wedding is one's own. The romance in their withered old hearts will bring them around. Don't you worry."

The dew glittered, the leaves stirred, the river rippled by. Violins behind the trees began playing softly. The sun pushed up a ribbon of flame. A clear golden soprano voice thrilled out to the music of a new song:

"When the dawn is in the sky
"I love you—"

Laurel came drifting out from a clump of white birches, a green-clad dryad, arms heaped with wild flowers. Carl met her halfway, took her hand, and they stood before the minister, saying the old words solemnly.

There was a little sobbing, choked noise heard once that might have been the river rippling by. The sun flamed higher, the dew was dazzling, the air fresh and fragrant.

"Carl," they were driving along a leafy road, Laurel's bright head against Carl's shoulder, "I thought I heard some one crying at our wedding."

"I heard it too," said Carl slowly. "I went over and had a look after the ceremony while they were all fluttering around you."

"Then you know who it was?" Laurel asked. "Carl, who was it?"

"Great-Aunt Cornelia and Great-Aunt Olivia." Carl told her, "crying into little wisps of handkerchiefs, like ladies."

"The darlings," Laurel choked huskily. "They must have slipped up unnoticed. Mother said there was romance tucked away in their old hearts."

"They mumbled something about family pride and handed me a package before they left." Carl fumbled in his pocket. "They said it was appropriate."

Laurel opened the plush jewel case. It held the Parmalee sunburst.—Chicago News.

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

A Washington Bystander

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—Sandwiched in among house speeches on prohibition and, now and then, other subjects, the Bystander stumbled on a few remarks by Representative Kopp of Iowa that attracted attention.

As a byproduct of his decade or so of house service, the Iowan had prepared a review of the history of pensioning of war veterans going back to the continental congress in 1776.

And when he brought it down to date with the World war, Mr. Kopp made this prediction:

"After every American war, down to and including the war with Spain, a service pension law was enacted for the benefit of soldiers of these different wars. A policy so emphatically approved by congress, the president and the American people as a whole will never be abandoned.

"A service pension law will follow the World war. That fact may as well be understood and accepted now as at any other time."

A Prediction

Going back to calculate the time elapsing after a war before a general service pension act went through to supplement previous enactments caring for soldiers disabled as a result of service, Kopp found it took 22 years in connection with the war with Spain.

"Half of that time has now elapsed since the World war," he went on. "Before another 11 years congress will have passed and the president will have signed a service pension bill for the World war veterans."

And Mr. Kopp is an accepted authority in the house on the subject of pensions.

It was intended to abolish the pension system with passage of the war risk insurance act for the World war, the Iowan said. He quoted this statement from house debates at that time:

"We expect when the people who are on the pension roll have either died or ceased to draw money under the law, we will not have any pension system."

"Fortunately, no congress can bind any future congress," Kopp said. "What the American people gave to the veterans of the revolution, of the war of 1812, of the Mexican war, the Civil war and the Spanish war, they will not deny to veterans of the World war."

The house greeted that with applause.

Same Activity

The question of service pensions for World war men is not definitely up in the seventy-first congress. It has before it, however, very definitely, increase of pensions for Civil and Spanish war veterans. Not a day passes that does not see petitions by the dozen from all over the country for passage of such legislation noted in proceedings of both senate and house.

And on the day Kopp delivered his address, although no aspect of the pension matter was up, four or five other house members also talked pensions or improved service to World war veterans.

Clearly, house members are feeling the pressure.

YOUR INCOME TAX

By joint resolution, adopted upon recommendation of the president and secretary of the treasury, congress has reduced by 1 per cent the normal tax on individual incomes for the calendar year 1929. The reduced rates are one-half of 1 per cent on the first $4,000 of net income above the personal exemption and other credits, 2 per cent on the next $4,000, and 4 per cent on the remainder, instead of 1 1-2 per cent, 3 per cent, and 5 per cent. The surtax rates on income in excess of $10,000 are unchanged. The tax rate on the income of corporations and life insurance companies is reduced from 12 per cent to 11 per cent.

No change is made in the provision relating to the filing of returns. Returns are required of every single person whose net income for the taxable year was $1,500 or more, every married person living with husband or wife whose net income was $3,500 or more, and every person single or married whose gross income was $5,000 or more regardless of net income. Husband and wife living together may each make a separate return, of the income of each, or their income may be included in a single joint return, in which case the tax is computed on the aggregate net income.

Under the heading of single individuals are included divorces and persons separated by mutual consent. A single person, who is the head of a family and whose net income for 1929 was $1,500 or more must file a return, even though, by reason of the personal exemption and credit for dependents, his income is not taxable.

More than 4,000,000 individual income-tax returns were filed last year. Many contained errors which knowledge of the fundamental provisions of the revenue act would have avoided. As an aid in the preparation of correct returns for the year 1929, the Bureau of Internal Revenue has prepared a series of newspaper statements, of which this is the first. Taxpayers also are advised to read carefully the instructions on the forms, copies of which have been sent to persons who filed returns for 1928.

CHILD TRAINING

"There Is, However, A Limit—"

(Pauline Herr Thomas)

Billy is the neighborhood bully. He bullies boys and girls alike, provided they are younger and weaker than he.

This time, however, he calculated wrongly, and Jackie, despite his lack of years, has proved perfectly able to defend himself. He has retaliated by giving Billy a badly gashed lip, which the latter carries, much swollen and shamefully prominent, the remainder of a humiliating day.

It would appear that no further discipline is necessary for Billy. His mother thinks differently, however. Having witnessed the whole affair, she gives him a round of lecturing, sends him to his room for an hour, and even thinks it necessary to set his case before Daddy when the latter arrives at night.—Let it be said for Daddy that he confines himself merely to "speaking" to the boy, realizing that Billy, probably, has had discipline enough for one day.

"Joan," said mother, "if you don't pick up your pretty 'Miss Amandy' when you are through playing with her, someone will step upon her some day! How would you like that?"

"Nobody would step on my dear 'Miss Amandy', mother!" cried Joan, snatching Dolly to her heart.

"Well, I'm warning you not to let her lie on the floor," replied mother.

Of course, Joan does let Dolly lie on the floor again, and quite naturally, Joan, herself, steps upon her, to her own horror and "Miss Amandy's" complete ruin.

Poor little Joan! One would think her heart-breaking sobs spoke loudly enough of punishment. Perhaps mother has forgotten the day that her own "Raggedy Ann," whom she had left out-of-doors, was dismembered by Fido, for she is adding discipline to Joan's grief. Joan is not allowed to have any playthings, and must sit sobbing in a chair until mother feels she is sufficiently punished.

Judith is about to graduate from high school. She has led her class since she left the grades. But she has had many interests to call her from Latin and geometry these latter days of her senior year.

"Judith, what are you doing tonight? Now you know you must brush up your Latin, or you will lose first place."

"Yes, mother, but I must go to this meeting. I'll try to be back in an hour, really, mother."

After the meeting there is dancing, and Judith is not home in an hour, or even two. Latin suffers and graduation day dawns with Judith trailing the honor students, instead of leading.

What visions she has had of capturing the scholarship, and receiving the plaudits of all, mother and daddy most especially! As she bursts into ears when breaking the news at home, one feels her humiliation is sufficient. Mother and daddy decide, however, that she is underserving of the gift trip they have planned. She shall have a short trip, but not to the beach, where her heart and her classmates will be.

These actual examples of superfluous discipline are, perhaps, not so extreme, at least they are not so amusing, as the one my father used to tell of a neighbor farmer who, upon being told that his son had received a thrashing from the schoolmaster that day, replied, "That so, is it? Well, there'll be a harder one waitin' for him when he comes home." But it really is very easy to over-discipline. It comes chiefly from a lack of sympathetic understanding, but it is often urged on by a desire to satisfy one's own feelings.

YOUR HEALTH

How Long Shall We Live?

Constant efforts are being systematically made upon a large scale by National, state and city governments to protect the life and health of their inhabitants. Water for domestic use is purified, sewers are built, contagious diseases are isolated and other scientific methods followed to prevent their spread, hospitals are maintained and other agencies are making many other efforts all tending toward this same objective.

Among those most active are the corporations operating utilities, mines and industrial plants. The very nature and extent of their operations make it necessary for them to take proper measures for the protection of their patrons and employes, even if they are not legally compelled to do so. Thus safeguards must be provided against injury from mechanical and electrical appliances, poisonous or irritating fumes and dust, extremes of temperature, darkness and light, and the surroundings in general must be made as hygienic as circumstances will permit.

All the foregoing measures are universally accepted as being perfectly right and proper, but when steps are taken to guard against failures of the human element the wisdom or necessity for such action is not so readily understood. Yet who would care to ride on a train the engineer of which was known to have defective vision? Or who would care to work near a man with a bad heart in a shop where he had control of mechanical appliances, the failure of which meant probable death or injury to those nearby? Or who would care to have someone with a contagious disease brought into a crowded shop or office where they were working?

There is but one safe way to find out a man's physical fitness and that is to have employees who are likely to endanger themselves or others examined at the time of employment, and periodically thereafter, by a competent physician.

Such examinations have been customary for years in military service, schools, business and other institutions, and there is a marked tendency to their extension. In time they will be universal. In the meantime it behooves the individual to protect himself against the experience of applying for a position only to be informed that he is not physically qualified. The way to guard against such an experience is to have himself examined periodically and endeavor voluntarily to fit his employment to his physical abilities.

Self preservation is said to be the first law of nature and generally speaking this is correct. We know that men do not risk the immediate loss of life or health unless under strong provocation, yet they will neglect the proper care of themselves when they know that by so doing they are injuring their health and shortening their lives.

Our lives may be lengthened by the care we take of our human engines.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Blacky Makes a Startling Discovery

Ease it is that makes the shirk,
Need develops joy in work.
—Blacky the Crow.

Winter is not an easy time for Blacky the Crow. Then he really has to work for a living. Of course, that doesn't do him any harm. It never hurts any one to work for a living. Blacky has to work for his living at all times, but in summer there is so much to eat, and such a variety of it, that getting all the food necessary is almost play. In winter it is very different. Sometimes Blacky has to fly many weary miles in order to find enough to keep warmth in his body and give him energy to fly.

So it is that in the winter Blacky doesn't do much of anything except hunt for food. Once in a while curiosity leads him to go peering here and peering there just to see what is going on. It wasn't exactly curiosity that took Blacky over by his nest of last spring, but rather chance. He just happened to be flying over that way and thought of the nest.

"I'll go have a look at it," thought Blacky

"I'll go have a look at it," thought Blacky. "That was a good nest. That was one of the best nests Mrs. Blacky and I ever had. I think it would be worth fixing up for this coming spring. I'll have to suggest that to Mrs. Blacky. It would be a lot easier to fix up that old nest than to build a new one. It would be a lot less work."

So Blacky changed his direction of flight and headed toward the old nest. That nest was in a tall, thick hemlock tree. It was a fine place for a nest. That was one reason Blacky liked this particular nest so well. The nest was well hidden. It was not easy to see it up there among the evergreen boughs. When Blacky came in sight of the tree he headed straight for it. For once he was not using those sharp eyes of his in the way he was in the habit of using them. He was careless. He flapped along lazily right straight for the branch where he had been in the habit of alighting when visiting the nest. It did occur to him that the nest looked a little larger than usual, but he didn't give the matter any real thought. He alighted and then, and only then, did he realize that things were not at all as he had expected to find them. In fact, Blacky the Crow was as speechless with fright as ever he had been in all his life. He was so frightened that he almost lost his voice. And when Blacky the Crow loses his voice, you may be sure that he is a very frightened crow indeed.

There was a sudden hiss from the very edge of the nest and it was followed by a snapping noise. There was another hiss off at one side and more of that snapping sound there. Blacky all but fell over backwards. He caught himself, however, and then he began to beat those black wings of his desperately. Never had he wanted to get away from a place quite as suddenly as he wanted to get away from that old nest of his. That first hiss had come from Mrs. Hooty the Great Horned Owl, who had been sitting on the edge of the nest. The second hiss had come from Hooty himself, perched off to one side. The snapping sound had been made by their bills. If there is any one in all the Great World that Blacky would just as soon not meet, it is Hooty, the Great Horned Owl, and Mrs. Hooty. Not until he was well away from there, and sure that he was not being followed, did Blacky find his voice. Then he began to caw at the top of his lungs.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Acme Wire Company
Hamden, Connecticut

In June, 1904, a quarter of a century ago, The Acme Wire company was incorporated by Victor M. Tyler and Edgar L. Hartpence for the manufacture of cotton and silk insulated copper wire, technically known as magnet wire. After a few months in small quarters on State street, New Haven, the company leased the old Whitney Arms factory under the Lake Whitney dam on Whitney avenue, and set up active operations there. As the electrical industry grew, wire insulated with enamel, was added to the company's production and Acme became one of the pioneer and largest manufacturers of enameled wire. The winding of coils, largely for telephone work was also undertaken. The business expanded rapidly as the automobile came into prominence with its demand for ignition coils.

When the first practical automobile starter was developed The Acme Wire company supplied the field coils for the generators. The recent development of the radio industry and general activities in the whole electrical industry have created a big demand for all products manufactured by the Acme Wire company.

Outgrowing its rented quarters, the company purchased a considerable tract of land on Dixwell avenue, near the corner of Putnam avenue, in Hamden, in what was then practically a farming section. In 1912 the company built and occupied a modern plant of brick and concrete construction, containing 150,000 square feet of floor space.

The company employs between 1100 and 1200 people. New products have been added to its lines of manufacture, so that today it supplies the electrical industry with magnet wire insulated with cotton, silk and enamel, or combinations of them, field coils, solenoids and coil windings of many types for electrical apparatus. It also manufactures cambric silk and paper varnished insulations and "Parvolt" static paper condensers for radio and power circuits.

The plant is well equipped with modern machinery, much of which was developed by Acme engineers. Copper rod is drawn to the finest sizes of wire. Varnishes and enamels are made from formulas developed in its own laboratories, so that Acme may be considered one of the most self-contained plants in the industry.

The present officers are: Thomas G. Nee, president; Edgar L. Hartpence, vice president and general manager; B. Hewitt, treasurer; James E. Wheeler, secretary.

Planting Time?

Alice had been helping her mother plant flower seeds in the yard, mother explaining they would grow flowers. After a while her mother missed Alice's rings. Asking her where they were Alice replied:

"I 'panted' 'em. Think my dolly don't need wings?" She later showed her mother where she had "panted 'em" and they were recovered.

George W. Coulson, 106 N. Fulton Street, Auburn, N. Y., says: "I think it was the heavy lifting at work that affected my kidneys. Backaches bothered me so that I felt miserable and every time I bent over, there were pains in the small of my back. The kidney secretions passed entirely too freely. These troubles were over after I used Doan's Pills."

11,097 MOTOR DRIVERS SUSPENDED IN YEAR

The right to drive of 11,097 operators were suspended for varying periods during 1929 because of offenses against Connecticut laws and regulations by the suspension section of the state motor vehicle department. A majority were drivers licensed by this state, but about one-fifth of the suspension business for the year was with operators from other states.

A total of 8,920 licenses of Connecticut operators, an increase of 957 over the previous year, were suspended. Out-of-state operators on the list numbered 2,177, a decrease from 1928 of 786. The grand total of suspensions increased 171 for the year.

Reckless driving, as in other years, was the reason for more suspensions than any other offense. Next in order were "failure to report accidents," "operating without licenses," "drunken driving," and "participation in fatal accidents." The number of suspensions for each of these reasons increased during the year, except in the case of failure to report accidents.

There were 2,683 suspensions for reckless driving, an increase of 337; 1,939 for failure to report, a decrease of 299; 1,836 for operating without licenses, an increase of 302; 1,772 for operating under the influence of intoxicating liquor, an increase of 103; and 477 because of fatal accidents, an increase of 34. There was a large decrease, from 1,106 to 238 in the number suspended for failure to file financial responsibility upon the order of the department.

New York operators were the most numerous among the offenders from other states, 1,172 having had licenses suspended. There were 492 from Massachusetts, 168 from New Jersey, 146 from Rhode Island, and 43 from Pennsylvania. Twenty-eight other states were represented, offenders numbering from one to 16. There were also six suspensions of licenses of operators from Canada.

In the towns where 100 or more operators were suspended there were increases for Bridgeport, from 714 to 816; Bristol, from 115 to 176; Danbury, 125 to 154; East Hartford, 99 to 107; Greenwich, 136 to 247; Hartford, 896 to 1,069; Middletown, 108 to 114; New Britain, 383 to 403; New London, 196 to 271; Norwalk, 204 to 262; Stamford, 247 to 469; Stratford, 74 to 105; Torrington, 83 to 132; Waterbury, 293 to 432; West Haven, 149 to 181.

Among the towns with a large number suspended which show decreases were Manchester, 104 to 84; Meriden, 152 to 120; Norwich, 184 to 124; New Haven, 1,171 to 1,125.

Besides the causes already mentioned the department suspended the following number for the reasons assigned: Evading responsibility, 268; improper person, 61; taking car without owner's permission, 151; operating unregistered car, 242; improper use of markers, 650; failure to answer summons, 125; overloading, 427; physical infirmity, 7; allowing minor to operate, 40; loaning license, 14; failure to pay fine, 19; tampering with motor vehicle, 31.

Operating without public service license, 28; loaning markers, 19; theft of motor vehicle, 89; unable to locate, 20; complaint, 29; operating while suspended, 23; perjury, 7; false statement, 6; bad record, 2. There were other suspensions for miscellaneous offenses.

FUNERALS

Sister Mary Renee

The funeral of Sister Mary Renee was held Saturday morning at 8:30 o'clock at the Academy of the Holy Family, Baltic, with many relatives and friends attending. At 9 o'clock there was a solemn requiem mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, Rev. A. A. Jalbert, celebrant, Rev. Hormidas Belec, of Willimantic, deacon, and Rev. Donat Jette of Taftville, sub-deacon. Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault of Taftville was the master of ceremonies and seated in the sanctuary were Rev. Ludovic Paradis, of Occum, Rev. John J. McCabe of Jewett City, Rev. John J. Reilly of Norwich, and Rev. William T. O'Brien of Baltic.

The boys' choir from St. Mary's school, Baltic, in charge of Sister Patricia, sang the mass, and Miss Nellie Milliner presided at the organ. At the offertory Pie Jesu was sung and at the recessional the hymn was De Profundis. The burial was in the sisters' plot in St. Mary's cemetery, Baltic, and Rev Fr. O'Brien assisted by Fathers Jalbert, Jette and Belec conducted the committal service. The bearers were Frank Nolan, Alfred Caron, Zoel Gauchier, John Conway, E. Brenzieum and Louis Stefon. Nuns from the Sacred Heart parish, Taftville, St. Mary's parish, Willimantic and other surrounding parishes were present at the funeral. The bearers were Alfred Walker, Kenneth Walker, Frank E. Waters, Frank G. Waters, Harry G. Waters and Chester Appley. Undertaker G. G. Grant had charge of the funeral arrangements.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Hubbard D. Avery

After an illness of about a week, Mrs. Mary L. (Hill) Avery, about 70, widow of Hubbard D. Avery, of No. 13 McKinley avenue, died late Sunday afternoon at the W. W. Backus hospital. Mrs. Avery was born in this city and had always made her home here. Mr. Avery who conducted a grocery store on Franklin street for many years, died about seven years ago. Mrs. Avery was an attendant at Trinity Methodist Episcopal church. She is survived by a cousin, Frank Lippitt, in Washington, D. C., and a cousin, Mrs. Ezra May, of East Woodstock.

Herbert Richardson

Herbert Richardson passed away suddenly Saturday at his home in Preston when he was seized with a heart attack as he was reading the paper after dinner.

Mr. Richardson was born in Hardscrabble, in the town of Griswold, June 12, 1856, the son of William R. and Lucy A. (Dawley) Richardson. He received his education in the public schools. On May 4, 1879, he married Minnie J. Lamb of Griswold. She died in March 1885. Mr. Richardson married Sadie E. Main of Ledyard on July 1, 1891.

He had always been vitally interested in church and school affairs, and also in politics. At the age of 18 he joined the Methodist church, called Quail Trap, which is located near Hardscrabble and is now known as Bethel. For many years he was superintendent of the Sunday school. Mr. Richardson taught school 22 years in the towns of Griswold, North Stonington, Preston, Ledyard and Voluntown. After teaching he took up farming in the town of North Stonington, buying the farm known as the Andrew Avery farm.

While farming, Mr. Richardson served his town as school visitor, assessor, and the justice of peace. In 1907 he was elected to the state legislature and was an active and influential member of the house. His speech in favor of the bill amending the charter of the Norwich Compressed Air Co. ranked among the effective ones of the season.

From time to time throughout his life, Mr. Richardson found time to express his thoughts in poetry and in 1928, a book of these poems was published.

He is survived by his wife and six children: Herbert L. Richardson of this city, Mrs. Effie M. Edmond of Cheshire, Mrs. Minnie D. Richmond of West Palm Beach, Fla., Mrs. Fern L. Savage of this city, Calvin M. Richardson of Waterbury, and Mrs. Hazel H. Murray of Montville. He is also survived by 16 grandchildren and one great-grandchild. There are two brothers, Charles Richardson of Royal Oak, Mich., and John F. Richardson of Preston, and two sisters, Mrs. Appleton Main of Preston and Mrs. Lydia Sweetser of Lisbon.

Miss Nellie O'Connor

Miss Nellie O'Connor died at her home, 342 George street, New Haven, early Saturday morning. She was the daughter of the late Patrick J. O'Connor of Norwich. Miss O'Connor was a native of this city, where the family resided in the West Side section, but in recent years made her residence in New Haven.

Automobile On Fire

At 7:30 o'clock, Saturday evening, Engine No. 2 was called out on an oral alarm for a fire in an automobile owned and driven by Louis Zeiglemayer. The automobile caught fire from a short circuit at the corner of Broad street and McKinley avenue. The damage was slight.

Made Disturbance At Theatre

A local young man who created a disturbance at a theatre Sunday night was arrested by Officer Ladone and booked at police headquarters on a breach of the peace charge. He will be presented in the city court this (Monday) morning.

MISSIONARY FROM CHINA SPEAKS AT C. E. UNION ANNIVERSARY MEETING

With an attendance of about 225 the close of Christian Endeavor week, celebrating the 49th anniversary of C. E., was observed Sunday evening by the Norwich Christian Endeavor union with a missionary mass meeting at the Norwich Town Congregational church, at which the address was given by Rev. Wynn C. Fairfield, D.D., recently of Taiku, Shansi, China, but now an acting foreign secretary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions, Boston. He has had missionary service in North China since 1910.

The service at the church began with an organ voluntary by the organist, Herbert L. Yerrington, accompanied by Theodore Sterry on the violin. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, pastor of the church, extended a word of greeting, followed by the hymn, Ye Servants of God. After prayer by Rev. Mr. Bailey, an anthem, Praise the Lord, O Jerusalem, by the choir, the scripture lesson and a hymn, Where Cross the Crowded Ways of Life, the offering was taken to go towards China relief work.

After the solo, This Is My Task, by Oscar Heinrich, and the hymn, Fling Out the Banner, the president of the Norwich union, Howard Bushnell, introduced the speaker of the evening.

"Christian America has more money and man-power than any similar group of Christians has ever had," said Dr. Fairfield, in opening his address. "To the deep Christian urge to go and share our best is now added the call of our Chinese fellow Christians to go and help them in their task, and most of all, we need to make American life so Christian that it will be a convincing witness of God's power in Christ.

"China is trying to do three very difficult things at once," Dr. Fairfield continued. "To replace a personal military despotism, a system of 4,000 years' standing, by a genuine democracy; to throw off the handicaps brought about by the incompetence of the last hundred years of foreign rule by the Manchus; and to overtake in a decade or two the western nations which have been becoming 'modern' for a century and a half.

"The first involves replacing a system of direct, personal loyalty and responsibility with patriotic loyalty to 400,000,000 fellow citizens; the replacing of personal administration of public finances, where a good manager pleased the powers above, kept the people below quiet, and cleared a good rake-off, with a system of strict budgeting and fixed salaries; the replacing of personal administration of justice with a system of law codes and fixed procedure; the replacing of selfish use of power with a sense of trusteeship to the people; and the replacing of the feudal warlord system with an effective civil government.

"The second means that they have to throw off the handicaps of foreign diplomatic domination, customs limitation, military inefficiency and naval nonentity, extra-territoriality and foreign residence concessions which they inherited from the Manchus.

"The third means that they have to improve antiquated methods in agriculture and forestry, with their attendant famines and floods; to create new and modern systems of transportation in addition to the 7,000 miles of railway that they now have, terribly crippled by the internal fighting of recent years; to create modern manufactures and find markets in the face of the fierce world competition for markets; to educate approximately 95 per cent of their population; to develop modern hospitals and public health services; to work out a social and economic philosophy for the new day; and to find a new basis for the relations of the sexes. All three of these major tasks must be done at once, if China is to come into her own.

"Americans have already been called to aid China. Friendly personalities like Dewey, Kilpatrick, Monroe and McCall in education; John Earl Baker in railroading; Murphy in architecture, and scores of others have been and are being called into the service of China as advisors. They are asking for the aid of American finance where it is given in ways not inconsistent with their ideas of self-respect. They look to us for our experience in modern life in which we seem to have succeeded above others in attaining to material comfort. But their largest problem, as it is everywhere, is in securing among themselves enough men of intelligent, honest, active good will to bear the burdens of the new order.

"They have called into their leading government circles a large group of Christians such as K'ung of Shansi, minister of industry, labor and commerce. Of the bluest blood in the world, tracing his ancestry back 75 generations to Confucius himself (as if one of us could trace his ancestry clearly back to Socrates), he came as a motherless boy of ten into a school of the American Board Mission in Taiku, Shansi province. Ten years later he was prevented only by physical force from sharing the death the Boxers inflicted on his missionary friends. Brought to America and educated in Oberlin and Yale, he chose to go back to start a Christian school in memory of his martyred friends rather than accept the government position that was open to him. Drawn increasingly into governmental responsibilities by the pressure of his friends and his country's real need, he is now in a position to count greatly for the best things in China, and to mediate between warring factions.

"The Chinese church is still unable to swing the whole task of producing adequate Christian leadership for China," he said in conclusion. "After a growth of 1,600,000 pc. in the last hundred years, the Protestant section still includes only one-tenth of one per cent of the whole population, and all Christians together come to but one-half of one per cent of the population. In the last 30 years, the Protestant church has increased from 90,000 to about 450,000, which means that 80 per cent of the church membership today is either first generation Christians or immature younger Christians of later generations. On an average income, per Christian family of five, of $45 a year, the giving ability is inadequate to swing the expense of Christian education and hospitals and even the entire expense of maintaining an educated, spiritual ministry."

The meeting closed with the Mizpah benediction after the congregation had sung "Work, For the Night Is Coming."

R. I. REDS AND LEGHORNS LEADING AT STORRS

Stern winter weather for the past week has held the hens at Storrs in check in the egg laying contest. The drop of seven eggs in production was too slight to be significant; it amounted to only one-tenth of one per cent. The management, however, had been bullish, and still, for that matter, in spite of temporary recessions. Longer days with more sunshine will shortly push production into higher ground.

During the 13th week the total lay for all pens was 4380 eggs or a yield of 62.6 per cent. As already indicated this is an almost imperceptible drop as compared with the previous week, but it's 139 eggs better than the last week in January a year ago.

The top pens for the period now being reported consist of five entries of Reds and two of Leghorns. The top pens that were first and second last week again occupy the same positions but in the reverse order. Toivonen Leghorn Farm from Girard, Pa., heads the list with a score of 65 eggs. Harold G. Colt's pen of Rhode Island Reds from West Hartford, is in second place with a total of 63 eggs. Another pen of Reds entered by Globus Poultry Farm at Attleboro, Mass., placed third for the week with a production of 60 eggs.

There was a scramble for fourth place involving one pen of Leghorns and three pens of Reds. They include Steelman Poultry Farms of Lansdale, Pa., and three pens of Reds—Burdean Acres at Newton Center, Mass., W. Otis Day of Westford, Mass., and Edward N. Larrabee from Peterboro, N. H.

The leading pens to date in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes—The Locusts, West Cornwall, 711, Fisher P. Farm, Ayton, On., Canada, 651.

Barred Rocks—R. Walter Bishop, Guilford, 658, R. C. Cobb, Littleton, Mass., 633, Spring Brook P. Farm, So. Wethersfield, 619.

White Rocks—E. H. Rucker, Ottumwa, Iowa, 691, Kalerok Farm, Westford, Mass., 567, E. A. Hirt, So. Weymouth, Mass., 567.

Rhode Island Reds—Harold G. Colt, West Hartford, 907, F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass. 733, Homer R. Dowell, Groveland, Mass., 731, Edw. N. Larrabee, Peterboro, N. H., 730.

White Leghorns—Toivonen Leghorn Farm, Girard, Pa., 787, Steelman Poultry Farms, Lansdale, Pa., 737, Hanson's Leghorn Farm, Corvallis, Ore., 724, Meadowedge Farm, Sterling Junction, Mass., 717, Geo. Lowry P. Farm, Inc., W. Willington, 709.

A. O. H. CAMPAIGN BEGINS FOR MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

It was announced from the pulpit at St. Patrick's church at the four masses Sunday that the A. O. H. drive for new members has been launched. Originally, members were required to be men of Irish birth, but this is no longer a requisite. The priests of the parish endorsed the drive, commending the organization for its long years of a high cultural program, Catholic university scholarships, history prizes for school pupils, promoting the monument to memorialize the heroic nuns of the battlefields, et al. Besides, the organization has always been loyal to the church.

Plans For Valentine Party

Plans for a valentine party at a future meeting of the club were made when the Girls' City club, under the auspices of Woman's City club, held its meeting Friday night. Miss Irene Combies, the president, presided at the business session, two new members were received and in the period of recreation which closed the evening there were games, dancing and refreshments.

CORNBORER INSPECTOR SUES FOR $25,000

For injuries which he sustained while he was in the employ of the state of Connecticut as a cornborer inspector in the quarantine against the cornborer last summer, Harold P. Smith of Stonington, a student at Harvard, has brought suit in the superior court against Ralph M. Harris of Roxbury, Mass. The suit is brought in the superior court in this county, the papers having been filed with Court Clerk John H. Walker.

Smith was on duty in Madison on Aug. 29, last, making inspection of automobiles on the Boston Post road, when he was run into by the Hudson sedan operated by the Roxbury man. Smith was carried against the white guard fence by the side of the road, when the automobile hit him, was knocked unconscious and received lacerations on the forehead, as well as other lacerations, abrasions and contusions.

Smith was removed to a hospital where he remained in a dangerous and disabled condition for several weeks, suffering great pain and anguish, and he was unable to perform his regular duties as a cornborer officer and also as a student at Harvard college.

Patients Dismissed at Hospital

The following were the patients discharged at the W. W. Backus hospital over the week end: Mrs. Anthony Choanatsky and infant son, Mohegan road; Mrs. Raymond Brittin and infant daughter, Boswell avenue; Alfred Bicknell, 20 Belvidere avenue, Taftville; Mrs. Wilfred Goderre and infant son, R. F. D. No. 2; Edward Evelyn, 34 Oak street; Walter Hodick, 33 Rogers avenue; John Williams, Jewett City; Miss Laura Pierce, 351 West Town street, Norwich Town; Walter Gray, Jewett City, and Mrs. John Jones and infant son, 69 Elizabeth street.

CHARLES POLSTEN HAD ADVENTURES IN VENEZUELA

Adventures in the U. S. navy, from which he was discharged last April after serving ten years, made a prelude for a thrilling experience for Charles Polsten, a former Norwich boy, when he joined the exploring expedition in Venezuela headed by Dr. H. S. Dickey, F. R. G. S.

Polsten was radio-operator-photographer with the expedition which sailed from New York, April 25th last, reached Ciudad Bolivar, 250 miles up the river, where they waited for the launch which the Venezuela government promised to provide. The time was spent in setting up the radio and attempting to get in touch with U. S. low-wave stations. Radio reception did not prove at its best shortly after arrival because of the heavy static.

From Ciudad Bolivar the party pushed 200 miles farther up the river to Caicara, using a hired motor boat, furnished by the Venezuelan government, and equipped with an outboard motor.

After reaching the headwaters of the river near Maipures rapids, the expedition was forced to return to the mouth of the river because of difficulties with the outboard motor.

Polsten, who was born in this city when his parents, Charles and Fanny Tracy Polsten, were living on Laurel Hill avenue, is now employed as photographic-engineer with the Curtiss-Wright company of New York and has been supervising the work of mapping the city of Boston on the smallest scale known—500 feet to one inch.

He is a nephew of Mrs. Edward D. Tarbox, of Lisbon and of Mrs. John A. Hagberg of Trading Cove.

CONNECTICUT WOODLAND FOR YALE FORESTRY SCHOOL

Announcement has just been made at Yale of the gift to the university of 8,000 acres of forest land in Windham and Tolland counties. The land is a tract in the towns of Union, Ashford, Eastford and Woodstock, and is the gift of Mr. Myers, Yale '98, and a member of the first class to be graduated from Yale school of forestry in 1902. He gave his forest land at Keene, N. H., to Yale 17 years ago. N. D. Canterbury has been appointed director of the new forest. Prior to his appointment at Yale, Mr. Canterbury was state forester of Louisiana.

Dean Henry S. Graves in commenting on the gifts said:

"The new gifts will enable the school of forestry to extend its field activities both in training students and in providing demonstrations for practical forest management.

"The forest tract will be utilized both for the training of students and experimental work, in addition to providing a place for owners of forest estates to see practical results of forestry."

WITHDRAWAL OF SUIT BROUGHT FOR FORECLOSURE

Withdrawal without costs from the docket of the superior court has been filed with Clerk John H. Walker in the foreclosure action brought by the Norwich Building and Loan association of this city against Irene M. LaPre of Montville. The suit, returnable to the first Tuesday in February, was filed last week. The building and loan association sued to foreclose on 14 certain parcels of land, with buildings thereon, in Montville, they claiming to hold a mortgage note of $3,600. Arrangements for paying off the mortgage note have been made, it was said, with the result that the suit has been withdrawn. Joseph Connor & Sons, Inc., of this city, who claimed to have a mortgage of $469.05, and Jacob R. Slosberg of this city, who claimed to have a mortgage of $30 on the premises, were named party defendants in this action.

RECALLS HEAVY SNOWFALL HERE 44 YEARS AGO

Sunday was the 44th anniversary of a heavy snowfall which completely tied up railroad traffic in this section. John Flynn of Boswell avenue was among those who were stalled at Plainfield on a train bound for Norwich. Mr. Flynn had been in Boston and was on the way home when the train became stalled because of the high drifts. The storm started about 5 o'clock in the morning and continued until around midnight. Mr. Flynn also recalls that it was 44 years ago this month that Franklin square was flooded, necessitating the use of row boats in the square.

Turkey Dinner For Contact Club

The Contact club will enjoy a turkey dinner this (Monday) evening at the Wauregan hotel, instead of holding its regular Monday noon business meeting. The supper is to be provided by the losing membership team, the Reds, captained by John P. Lyston. They lost the membership contest to the Blues, Francis T. Diggins, captain.

The speakers of the evening will be Nelson J. Ayling, judge of the local probate court, with a short address on current events, while the principal address will be given by the Rev. William A. Keefe, rector of St. Mary's Memorial church.

BOARD OF RELIEF HEARING TAX COMPLAINTS

The board of relief went into session Saturday at the assessors' room at the court house to hear complaints by taxpayers over the figures that had been put on their property in the grand list by the assessors.

There was a waiting list of aggrieved taxpayers when the board opened its office hours at 10 o'clock in the morning and they were kept busy until the closing hour of 4 o'clock in the afternoon in listening to the presentation of arguments why the figures set by the assessors should be cut down.

The board of relief, whose members are Francis Belque, Edward Kirby and Edwin V. Ross, will be in session daily between these hours up to and including Feb. 20. The result of their action will be shown when they make their report at the end of the month.

NEW YORK RACKETEER WAS FATALLY SHOT

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(AP)—His lips sealed to the last, Gabriel Mucci, described by police as a veteran Greenwich Village racketeer, died today of two gunshot wounds he received last night, while standing in a lower West Side street.

The two shots were heard by a detective and a patrolman, who rushed to the scene, but the assailant had fled. Mucci steadfastly refused to talk when questioned at St. Vincent's hospital.

Berlin Plans Huge School.

BERLIN, Feb. 2—(AP)—What is said will be the world's largest and most modern vocational school will be built here shortly at a cost of nearly $2,000,000. Facilities for the instruction of more than 8,000 students in 237 classrooms and workshops will be provided.

When the owner of a delicatessen store in Philadelphia received a barrel of pickles he could find only one place in his little shop to set up the bulky thing, directly in front of a counter. Some time later a woman was handing him some change. As she did several of the coins fell into the barrel. "Now don't worry, madam," said the gracious storekeeper, "Just write your name, address and the amount on that list. When the pickles are gone you'll get your money." The woman picked up the piece of cardboard tied with a string to the barrel. There were more than twenty names on it already, although the pickles were not half gone, and the losses ranged from a baby's rattle to a silver bracelet.

Health Means Clear Skin

"For nine years I was troubled with acne. I tried everything I could think of and everything people told me but it didn't do any good. Last winter a nurse where I was working told me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to build up my system from the inside, so I did. When I had taken three bottles my face was 95% better. I kept on and now I haven't a single pimple on my face, chest or back."—Mary L. Heinitz, Carrington, North Dakota.

GUNMEN ROB NEW LONDON MARKETMAN—LOCK HIM AND HIS CLERK IN ICE-BOX

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 2.—A holdup was enacted here Saturday night, carried out successfully and with extreme boldness and dispatch. Two gunmen entered the grocery store and meat market of Joseph Bashara, 138 Jefferson avenue, and after robbing the proprietor at the point of a revolver, locked him and his employe, Michael Shasha, in the ice box. The thieves made a get-away in an automobile, which, it is believed, was a Buick coupe which carried New York state registration.

Bashara had counted the receipts of the day, $427.77, of which amount about $90 was in checks. He had taken the currency from the cash register, placing it in a wallet, which was deposited in his clothing, when the pair of gunmen entered the market. One of them requested two pounds of round steak and as Bashara emerged from the ice box with the meat, one of the gunmen yelled, "Stick them up, boys!" Bashara and Shasha raised their eyes to peer into the muzzles of revolvers. Both Bashara and Shasha were ordered to a point in the rear of the store, near the ice box, where both were searched. After taking the wallet containing the day's receipts, $4 which had been taken from Shasha was returned to him. Bashara and Shasha were then ordered into the ice box, where they remained but a few minutes when Mrs. Willis Maynard of 171 Garfield avenue entered the store. She was attracted by the yelling of the two men and at the request of one of them opened the ice box, freeing the proprietor and employe. A telephone message was sent to police headquarters and a squad of officers toured the outskirts of the city in search of the gunmen. One is described as being about 25, five feet seven inches in height, wore dark gray overcoat, a black suit and cap. The other gunman is described as being about 35, five feet in height, wearing a black suit, dark overcoat and cap.

Mrs. Maynard said that she was talking with an acquaintance but about 75 feet from the store, when she observed two men leave the market and cross the street, where they entered the automobile and then speeded away, heading toward the Hartford turnpike. She said that it was not longer than five minutes after the car drove away that she entered the store, for she remembered that the practice is to close the store at 10 o'clock and she realized that the closing hour was near.

FARRELL HAS CONFESSED FATALLY BEATING WSHEMAN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 2.—The police late Saturday solved the mystery of the murder of Jacob Wsheman, of 25 Shapley street, for Linwood Farrell, 17, colored, residing on Main street, one of three Negroes who have been held as material witnesses since the death of the Lithuanian, following his receiving a beating which resulted in a fractured skull, broke down and confessed. Farrell admits administering a beating to Wsheman but a short distance from the home of the dead man. Since the death of Wsheman, Farrell, familiarly known as "Peanuts," had claimed that Charles Williams, another Negro, a barge employe, had administered the beating to Wsheman.

The cases of Farrell, William P. Franklin and Ernest Johnson, also colored, charged with being material witnesses, came up in the police court Saturday and at the request of Detective Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith the cases were continued to Thursday next. Instead of being taken back to jail, the youth and the two men were detained at police headquarters for further grilling. Farrell had been detected in several falsehoods in connection with his acts on the morning of the murder and for that reason he was given a long grilling. Farrell had claimed that Williams beat Wsheman, and when the latter was unconscious in the gutter, had rifled the Lithuanian's pockets. Farrell also said that Williams gave him 50 cents to keep the youth from talking. But little credence was given Farrell's story and when he was grilled for three hours yesterday he broke down and in tears confessed having beaten Wsheman, leaving him unconscious in the gutter.

Because of the allegation of Farrell that Williams beat Wsheman, the police sent out a general alarm for the Negro. Several days ago a Negro by the same name and answering the description of the man sought, was arrested by the Pittsburgh police, but because of Williams having been in jail in that city at the time of the murder he has been released. The police then renewed their efforts to solve the crime and accomplished it with obtaining Farrell's confession. All of the Negroes had been in a Main street restaurant the morning of the murder. Wsheman entered and had been drinking. When he displayed money to pay for his purchase and then left, Wsheman was followed by Farrell to Shapley street and there beaten. Two days afterward, Wsheman died from a fractured skull. Whether the blow delivered by Farrell caused the fracture or Wshman's head striking the curb or gutter produced the fatal injury, is not known.

BEAUTY PARLOR EXPERT COMMITTED TO JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 2.—Darrell S. MacBarkley, 28, married, was in the police court Saturday morning charged with theft of a diamond brooch owned by Mrs. Spencer Brown of the Crocker House apartments. He entered a demurrer to the complaint, which was overruled by Judge Daniel M. Cronin and MacBarkley was held in bail of $2,500 for trial at the next criminal term of the superior court. In default of a surety on his bond, MacBarkley was committed to jail to await trial.

Mrs. Brown wore the brooch, which is valued at $375, to the Crocker House beauty shop last June where she obtained scalp and facial treatments. MacBarkley was her attendant and after Mrs. Brown returned to her apartment she discovered the brooch missing. She returned to the beauty shop and search for the brooch was made but it was not found. Neither would any of the employes admit having seen it. When the services of the police were obtained in an endeavor to recover the brooch, clues eventually pointed to MacBarkley as the thief. He was taken into custody at his work last Friday.

Fines In Liquor Cases

Two men and a woman were charged with violation of the liquor law and as all pleaded guilty a fine of $200 and costs was imposed on each of two counts in each case. Those penalized were Aroldo Secchiaroli, 53 Goshen street; Joseph Poro, 24 Goshen street, and Mrs. Mary Greenfield, 160 Shaw street. Secchiaroli and Poro were arrested Friday when a raiding squad in charge of Detective Sergeants John Cavanaugh and Nelson Smith went to the Goshen street houses after having obtained evidence of the sale of liquor there. Two frequenters in the Secchiaroli house, William Duggan and Charles Wright, were arrested, but their cases were nolled. Mrs. Greenfield's residence was raided Friday midnight by Automobile Patrol Officer Thomas Cavanaugh and Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Louis Tooker.

The continued case of Roderick V. James, 36 Cleveland street, charged with non-support, was again continued, this time to Wednesday next. He furnished a surety on his bond of $500.

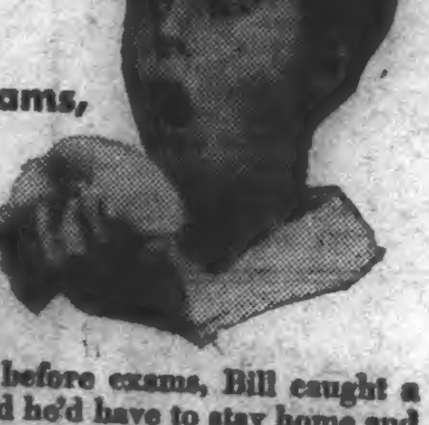
Pearl Brenner, U. S. coast guard, married and residing on Cottage street, was charged with indecent exposure and was fined $10 and costs, but execution of the sentence was suspended.

Three cases of intoxication were presented. One man was fined $10 and costs, another was fined $5 and costs and the third was given suspension of judgment.

HART FORFEITS $2,500 BOND—HAS A FRACTURED JAW

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 2.—Roy Hart, married and residing at 41 Montauk avenue, was charged in the police court Saturday with theft of an automobile. He failed to appear for trial and his bond of $2,500 was declared forfeited; but in view of the fact that Hart sustained a fractured jaw as a result of the auto being wrecked, the case will be reopened when Hart's condition will permit his court attendance and the bond will be put into force and effect. Hart, who is driver of the Nameaug Engine company's fire apparatus, stole a Studebaker coupe owned by Olaf Hanson, 26 Masonic street, from that highway late Friday afternoon and while Hanson absented himself a brief time. Hart drove to Center Groton where he was accompanied by a woman. A whoopee party resulted, for Hart became intoxicated. While driving on one of the country highways, Hart lost control of the steering wheel, causing the auto to crash against a telephone pole and be wrecked. Hart remained with the car, but the woman fled, leaving her hat on the auto seat. State Police Officer James Dygert, Groton barracks, investigated the accident and arrested Hart. After Hart had been arrested, Hanson, who had reported at police headquarters the theft of the auto, attempted to withdraw the charge by saying that he had given permission to Hart to use the auto, but the owner was not allowed to do as he desired and will be compelled to be a witness against the fire apparatus driver.



Coughs Go!

Bill passed his exams, thanks to SMITH BROTHERS'!

"ON a Friday, just before exams, Bill caught a cold. I was afraid he'd have to stay home and miss school—just at the most important time. I kept him in the house during Saturday and Sunday and let him take Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. I could see Bill improve by the hour—his coughing stopped, his cold cleared away. On Monday he was back in school—well again!" Mrs. E. Strasen.

RELEASE OF ATTACHMENT AGAINST ALEXANDER

A certificate was filed for record at the office of the city clerk Saturday by Sol Ockooneff, State street jeweler, releasing the attachment levied against Hibbard N. Alexander, former tax collector, in connection with the suit for $10,000 damages brought against the former tax collector by the merchant as a result of injuries he sustained in a fight with Alexander and Charles White, a former supernumerary police officer. Ockooneff was given a judgment of $1,500 several weeks ago in the superior court. The fight occurred at the municipal building when the jeweler argued with Alexander and White regarding the payment of Ockooneff's tax. When an attempt was made to eject Ockooneff from the tax collector's office, the jeweler was thrown to the tile floor and injured.

MUOIO SELLING HALF PINTS TO SAILORS ARRESTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Feb. 3—Luigi Muoio, 9 Elizabeth street, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolmen Frank Linehan and Louis Tooker charged with violation of the liquor law and in default of bail of $1,000, he was locked up and will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow. Muoio was at the union station, where it is claimed he negotiated with a sailor for the sale of a bottle of liquor. The price was agreed upon and Muoio detailed a youth to go to the former's home in a taxicab and return with two half pints. When the boy returned to the union station and delivered the bottles of liquor to Muoio, the latter sold them to the sailor. When the exchange of liquor and money was made, Muoio was arrested.

Norwich Man Accused

The arrest of Muoio also brought about the arrest of Robert B. Scott, colored, of 110 High street, Norwich, charged with theft for Muoio declared that the Negro stole his watch. Muoio said that he intended to go to Westerly and that Scott agreed to advance him transportation money on condition that Muoio give his timepiece as security. When Muoio did not make the trip, he said, Scott refused to return the watch. Scott claimed he did return the watch, but when both were searched at police headquarters neither had the watch. Scott, also will be in court Monday.

The meeting and banquet of St. John's Literary association is to be held at the Mohican hotel Wednesday night. President Julian D. Moran will preside. The association, which in former years was active in debating circles, now numbers about 40 members. Years ago its membership was well over 100.

Patrolman George Laboue was unable to perform duty tonight, being confined to his home by illness.

Four members of the coast guard were arrested Saturday night and Sunday morning charged with intoxication. The bluejackets were sent back to the state pier for military discipline.

Harry M. Darling, 191 Montauk avenue, ill with pneumonia at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, was reported tonight as being very slightly improved, but his condition is still critical.

Patrolman Edward Skoczylas, in making his rounds early today, slipped and fell on the ice in the rear of a Bank street store. The officer sustained an injury to his wrist and will be incapacitated for several days.

Archie Beattie and Oscar Carlson were arrested at the rooming house, 97 Green street, Saturday, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. Beattie and Carlson engaged in a fight and were arrested by Patrolman Frank Linehan. Both will be in court Monday.

Malcolm R. Gillis, 62 Lewis street, and Henry Thompson, U. S. coast guard, were arrested at Ye London Grill, State and Main streets, at 3:30 o'clock this morning by Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin and Patrolman Edward Skoczylas, charged with breach of the peace and intoxication. The men, who engaged in a fight, will explain in the police court tomorrow morning.

Harold Knapp, Woodhaven, N. Y., was arrested Saturday, charged with evasion of responsibility, and will be given a hearing Monday. Knapp, it is claimed, was driving on Bank street several days ago and his auto crowded the car driven by George Nichols, Waterford, compelling Nichols to drive against the curb to avoid a crash. Nichols' auto was damaged and he requested the arrest of the offending driver.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

A picture the like of which you will not see until No, No Nanette reaches this town is now playing at the Palace theater. This film, which is an all-talking, singing and dancing masterpiece in color, is "Sally," the latest of the Vitaphone triumphs. "Sally" is not a revue; it is a story, but it is more than that, it is a story garnished with song and dance and color much as the "Gold Diggers" was, and you remember how smart and happy these Gold Diggers were!

"Sally" has everything, literally all that goes to make a show great and good. First of course, it has Marilyn Miller, the slim-ankled, shimmering good-looking girl who can rattle the boards in marvelous style, the lovely maid who was the original and unforgettable "Sally" of the stage, and now appears once more in her most triumphant role, set like a jewel in the midst of an all-star cast.

Those who have seen "Sally" on the stage no doubt remember it as a very elaborate production, but if some of the people who saw it on the boards will drop for a moment into the Palace, they will scarcely believe their eyes. They will discover that what they thought was lavishness was merely a drop in the bucket to the sumptuous surroundings which Vitaphone has given to the screen version. The stage, after all, is limited, but the screen is boundless, and consequently the action in "Sally" is enhanced with a wealth and variety of atmosphere impossible to give on the stage.

Playing opposite Miss Miller is Alexander Gray, whose voice is splendid. Other members of the cast are the inimitable Joe E. Brown, who plays the part of a penniless duke, Pert Kelton, who looks just like her name, T. Roy Barnes, Jack Duffy and Maude Turner Gordon.

Broadway Theatre

Something brand-new in screen entertainment greeted Broadway patrons at the crowded Saturday and Sunday performances, when the famous Duncan Sisters, Rosetta and Vivian, presented their first talking picture, "It's a Great Life." And a great life it turned out to be for the delighted audiences! Fast hilarious comedy, staged in a busy department store, a side-splitting amateur show with everything focussed from the start, a human thing hooussed from the start a human little love affair, a taste of success on the small time, visions of Broadway and fame, and dominating the whole story, the fierce, consuming jealous love of the older sister for the "kid"—here's a story of life as you and I understand it—not a trumped up bit of fiction—but a compelling story of everyday folks with their worries and joys, their happiness and their heartbreak, with comedy of the most side-splitting variety, neatly sandwiched with deep, gripping pathos. The surrounding program is equally brilliant, featuring "Low Down," a fast and very jazzy picture of life in Harlem's Darktown, Fred Keating, a master of magic in an unique specialty "Illusions," Dick Henderson in "The Church Festival," and the latest Paramount Sound News. The Broadway is co-operating with the Boy Scouts in their February drive for funds, and is showing an interesting film presentation of Boy Scouts activities. This program is the opening gun in the Broadway's campaign for Greater Entertainment Month, with cash awards to Broadway patrons for the best "fan" letters, with Manager Fitz and his staff striving to break attendance records as his answer to the challenge of his brother managers of the Philip Smith Theatrical Enterprises.

HENRY BREAKS JAIL, KEEPS DATE, RETURNS

ANDERSON, S. C.—(AP)—Henry Freeman left the Anderson county jail suddenly and unceremoniously.

Two days later he walked back, grinning, and announced:

"Well, I'm back. Lock me up."

"Sure," said the jailor, "where have you been?"

"Oh, I had a date with a girl," replied Freeman, "and I didn't want to break it."

BORDEAUX—(AP)—A newly completed transport monoplane carrying 29 passengers may be converted into a hospital ship with accommodations for 20 wounded or sick.

Wife (hearing singing outside during severe cold spell)—What jolly carols. We must give them something.

Husband—It's not really necessary, dear. They're local plumbers just going around singing for pure joy.—London Opinion.

ON WITH THE DANCE
A True Story of the Younger Set

THE Friday evening dancing party was the week's high spot for the young folks of a certain small country club. A four-piece orchestra always supplied the rhythm until older members conceived the idea that mechanical music would serve the youngsters just as well—and cost less.

Accordingly, a music machine was installed. The plan worked once, but the next Friday the little band triumphantly returned to the job.

"What's wrong with your new music box?" a father asked. "Wouldn't you rather dance to Whiteman and Vallee records than to a tin-pan band?"

Junior shook his head:

"Mechanical music is fine at home but it hasn't the right kick for a dance."

What is true of dancing must be equally true of the theatre. Are YOU getting YOUR money's worth in the theatre?

WESTERLY

MRS. DENNISON BREAKS LEG IN FALL ON ICY SIDEWALK

Mrs. Clifford Dennison of Quiambaug, formerly Miss Mabel Strong of Westerly fell about 8:30 a. m. Saturday on the icy sidewalk in front of Gordon's Market on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, and broke both bones in her right leg. Patrolman George L. Seidel assisted her to the auto of Town Clerk Albert G. Martin of Stonington and she was taken to the Anderson hospital where the fractures were reduced by Dr. J. Gordon Anderson before she was taken home.

Mrs. Dennison had just alighted from a Stonington-Groton motor bus and was about to take up her duties at the photographic studio of Frederick W. Stiles. Mr. Stiles is a patient at the Westerly hospital where he is receiving medical care, treatment and attention before undergoing an operation.

Game Birds Left to Starve

"Be sure to feed the game birds, especially during the time the ground is covered with snow" advises Patrolman Adin R. Sheldon, well-known Pawcatuck sportsman and game lover. He states that near his home on the top of Hinckley Hill he has observed a number of flocks of quail which appeared to be suffering from the want of food. In some seasons hunters were allowed to shoot the birds, consequently they were active in seeing that the birds were properly fed and grain for the purpose could be obtained by calling at local depots. It has been a custom of many farms to tie suet to boughs, also to distribute buckwheat for the birds to feed upon when snow and ice prevents them from obtaining food. Not only on Hinckley Hill but in Lower Pawcatuck Officer Sheldon has seen the underfed game birds.

WOMAN'S RIB BROKEN WHEN AUTOS COLLIDE

Patrolman Charles Button of Westerly, was called to the intersection of Franklin street and East avenue about 2:30 p. m. Saturday to investigate an automobile collision between a new Dodge owned and driven by Edwin Barber, Jr., and a Ford car driven by William Beede. The Barber auto with a number of passengers besides the driver was to proceed down Franklin street toward the Boston Post road and Wakefield, and the Beede auto came up East avenue. The Barber car overturned and badly damaged. Of the occupants, Mrs. John Kennedy, sustained a broken rib and was taken to the private hospital by H. Russell Burdick who happened to be at the gas filling station at the time of the crash. No others were injured and the Ford auto was not badly damaged.

MEMORIAL WINDOW SET TO HONOR VESTRYMAN

A large congregation Sunday morning at Christ Episcopal church attended the dedication of the $3,500 stained glass memorial window to Thomas McKenzie, vestryman, junior warden and church treasurer for a number of years, who died July 25th last. Among Masonic members present were the officers of Narragansett Commandery, No. 27, K. T., of Westerly, in which he was commandery prelate for twenty-four years. Members of Westerly chapter, Order of DeMolay for Boys, with Howard D. McFarland, "Dad" and Director Samuel Girven, also attended in a body and occupied reserved pews. The choir and rector took up a position at the rear of the church on the right, where the window or double window completes the stained glass series in the nave. "Our example and influence do not die with us," said Rev. G. Edgar Tobin, the rector, in his sermon at the services of dedication.

OBITUARY

Fred Boyington

Following a stroke of apoplexy Friday, Fred Boyington died Saturday afternoon at Fair View Park, having failed to regain consciousness. He was employed at his work at the Lorraine Manufacturing plant on Mechanic street up to a week ago. He was a resident of Westerly for the past 38 years, having come here from Lawrence, Mass., to enter the employ of the Lorraine company. He was one of the first and oldest employes in point of service. He was born in Dickinson Center, N. Y., March 8, 1861, the son of Alfred and Lodemar Boyington. He was married in Lawrence, March 5, 1887. Mr. Boyington belonged to the Loyal Order of Moose, being a charter member of Westerly Lodge No. 1212. He is survived by his wife and two sons, Ernest E. and Fred E. Jr., of Westerly and five daughters, Mrs. John Lynch of Stonington, Mrs. Nathaniel Terranova, Mrs. Edward Brown, Mrs. Thomas Buckley and Mrs. Kenneth Barlow, the last four living in Westerly. He leaves 14 grandchildren.

Injured in Auto Accident

Sunday morning Mrs. Hannah Matthews, 121 Hempstead street, Roxbury, Mass., sustained a cut more than three inches long on her left leg, an injured nose, a cut on the mouth and bruises on her right leg and knee in an automobile accident which happened at 11:15 o'clock near the residence of Richard Opie. The machine in which Mrs. Matthews was riding was driven by Harry Hower of East Weymouth, Mass., and collided with a car owned by Thomas J. Ryan of Pawcatuck. Mrs. Mathews was removed to the Opie home and was attended by Dr. M. H. Scanlon. Officer Robert Kessel was called to investigate the accident. The state highway fence prevented the Ford car driven by Hower from driving off the highway into a brook. The rails of the fence were badly smashed. An agreement was arrived at for damages sustained by the parties involved.

Non-Support Charged

William T. Barker of 27 Morgan street was arrested on a warrant on West Broad street, Pawcatuck, Saturday afternoon by Patrolman George L. Seidel on complaint of Henry P. Hammacher, prosecuting attorney of the town of Stonington, charging him with non-support of his wife, formerly Mildred Fallon and minor child. He was released in $500 bonds provided by his father, Frederick Barker of 27 Morgan street, who furnished surety for his son's appearance before Judge William A. Wilcox in the Stonington town court Monday morning.

TROLLEY WAITING ROOM IS DARK FOREVER

The trolley waiting room on East Main street was built over 24 years ago by the Trolley company so people could wait there for the street cars. Walter Brooks of Mystic was the first one to run it, keeping a line of tobacco and candy and a big line of fruit. Many years Smiling Brooks had the waiting room. He gave it up and Everett Thompson stepped into his place carrying a bakery line of pumpkin pies etc. For ten years Happy Everett Thompson was behind the counter and during the war he claims he saw the waiting room so crowded with people waiting for the trolley cars to come, running along every hour, that over 200 were there crowding the place to the doors. The piano was playing and Charles Ellis doing the straw dance for them to pass the time. Many good laughs were heard. Then Thompson's health was not good and he wanted some one to buy the business; so a young fellow who was in the navy during the war, laying mines in the North Sea to get the German subs, Lester Smith, popular with all who knew him and as good as Andy or Amos on the radio, bought out Everett Thompson. He built up a good business and he had the largest magazine line in the village. Had 100 different kinds, also Sunday papers.

Many times different clubs held their meetings in the back room and each night a gang of 30 to 40 would be in the waiting room, where fish stories would be told. The biggest yarn ever heard was broke out by Mate B. Brocky of the boat Baby. He claims when they were coming home a few weeks ago they saw a sword fish that weighed 1000 pounds. His brother, Capt. R. Brocky let go the iron and sank it in the fish. But the monster swam away. To see a sword fish in the winter is a sign of snow, cold, and windy weather. So Smith, manager of the waiting room had the yellow bird cage and threw it at the fisherman who told the story. But it went by him and it was a true one. A radio was fixed up by Owner Smith and a few of his pals. A broadcasting station was in use and a large crowd would be in the waiting room to hear what the new broadcast station had to say; singing over it, and giving out the fish and lumber prices. Also he had Noank's song-bird, George White, sing over the new station so that the crowd was standing out to the road. It sure made a big hit. While waiting for a trolley car, the people were getting a free show. They often laughed so much the tears were rolling on the floor. The name of the broadcasting station was B. V. D. and when the Trolley company hold a meeting to put on the buses, the street cars were taken off and the tracks taken up. The buses have been in use over two years. The waiting room is still there, but there is no one waiting for a trolley car. It was some lonesome for a while but getting used to buses. For a short while people would come into the waiting room to ask what time the next trolley car went to New London. "Madam, no more will they run! you will have to take a bus on the corner of Elm and Prospect Hill street.

But the gang still hung out at the waiting room for a few hours each evening and enjoyed getting a cigar and blowing the smoke rings around the room. During the many years the little wooden waiting room on East Main street has held over 100,000 people, that is coming in and going right out, also waiting for the old G. and S. trolley car to come. So it was sad news to everyone in the village a few weeks ago, when Owner Smith said he was going to move his stuff down to the Community Gas Station, meaning no more waiting room; also he has been asked by a kid 4 feet high to a giant 6 feet 6 inches "what are you going to do with the waiting room? Tear it down for the new road or will the Trolley company move it away or rent it again?" That is the news floating around and when the old wooden platform was torn up and a new cement one put down. While the working men were getting the boards up every kid in town was there, for money was sometimes lost through the planks and Noank kids knew it. Many black eyes were seen that soap could not wash off, fighting over a 25 cents or a half dollar. In all, over $75 was found. When the working men got ready to put down the cement, one little fellow got $12 in coins and talk about a battle royal! It was more fun to see them than taking castor oil!

So now the old wooden waiting room is empty, the first time in 26 years and it will seem strange to go by and find a sign on the door "For Rent," or to be torn down. And at night to see the waiting room not lighted up, like Broadway. It is the first time in those many years that that corner will be dark, until the people hear what is going to be done with the station that has done so much service for the people. The school children will miss it, as they could run out during school hours for candy. Owner Smith has seen nine years in that old wooden waiting room that is empty today. Like many a pocketbook!

CHICAGO POLICE CHAIR DOOMS SEVEN GUNMEN

CHICAGO—(AP)—John Stege, police commissioner, shifted his cigar as he remarked to Willie Quan, who had been questioned about a new murder:

"That's a funny chair. Six guys who sat in it are now under the sod. There's Tom McIlligott and William Crawford, taken for a ride. So were John Scalise and Albert Anselmi. You know what happened to Mike Reilly. And Cy Cawley——"

Quan hurried out.

Two days later the police "bumped off" Quan and two others, resisting arrest.

MYSTIC

TOWN BOARD OF RELIEF LIKELY TO NEED RELIEF

Many residents of the village have received notices of the organizing of a new realty and construction company, under the laws of Connecticut. There are ten officers, one of them being an attorney from Mystic. Residents of Groton, especially, are not much interested in the idea of joining the above company, or any company for that matter, just at this time, when they have received their tax lists, and have had their property value doubled, trebled, in some instances. Today (Monday), is the first meeting of the board of relief, to be held in the town hall at Poquonoc, and it is expected that they may need relief before the day is over, if all of the taxpayers speak their mind, as they intend to!

Teams have been paired up for the sixth open City Bridge tournament, which starts this (Monday) evening New London. The tournament is under the auspices of the John Winthrop club, originator of these contests. Mystic teams in the contest consist of S. B. MacKenzie and partner, Harry C. Allyn and Fred Moll, George Barden and Clinton LaFerrier, Roscoe Burrows and partner, Samuel Chesebro and Edgar Collington, A. O. Lewis and Charles Kisburg, Norman Barstow, Oscar Foote and Charles Clark and Warren Chapman.

Six tables were in play at the whist given by the woman's society of St. Mark's Episcopal church, in the parish house. Prizes were won by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ritzie, Mrs. H. E. Williams and Fred Godfrey. Refreshments were served by John Eaton, John Goodman, Miss Madeline Weimer, Miss Josephine Stevenson and Mrs. Ernest P. S. Spencer.

The February meeting of Plus Ultra Bible class of the Baptist church of Old Mystic, is to be held with Mrs. Emily B. Holmes, Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Burdick were in Westerly Saturday afternoon and evening.

There was a fine attendance at the showing of "Aunt Jerusha Dow's Album," given in the vestry of the Union Baptist church, Friday evening. The album was a beautiful book, lettered in gold. The first page was plain, then came the "pictures", having a band of gold around them. Mrs. Seymour Stoddard was Aunt Jerusha Dow, who was afraid that something might happen to her relatives and neighbors, or that they might move away, so she had them all have their pictures "took" and then placed in her album. Aunt Jerusha was dressed in black silk with a large lace collar. Her hair was powdered and all in all, she made a grand dame. The album was in two "books," the first containing the pictures of the family and the second containing pictures of the neighbors and friends. The audience sang "Auld Lang Syne." This was followed by a piano solo by Miss Doris Wheeler. Then the album was opened, and with Aunt Jerusha telling the audience all about the characters the following were shown: Her grandmother, Miss Harriet Fish; Her mother, Mrs. C. Craig; Her father, David Bennett; Aunt Felicia, Mrs. Elsie Thorpe; Her husband, Uncle John, Guy Francis; Darkie Joe, who worked around the place, Paul Shepler; Her children, Jerusha Drake, Barbara Chapman; Sally, Frances Thorpe; Jane, Priscilla Lamb; the twins, Emily Stoddard and Mary Shepler; Ann, Ruth Dodd; Johnny Bill, Clemmy Bennett; Rosie May, Catherine Lamb; Parson Briggs, who married Aunt Jerusha and Uncle John, Seymour Stoddard; Peggy Lee, her greatest friend, Mrs. Rachel Allyn; Nancy Gray, Mrs. Nathan Packer; Aunt Jerusha's son and his bride, Jack Wheeler and Emily Allyn; Cousin Mary Jane, Miss Nellie Beebe; Timothy Cline, William McDonald; Baby Ned, Sonny Stoddard. Miss Ruth Klein played a violin solo at this time, accompanied at the piano by Miss Margaret VanPelt. The second book, of Friends and Neighbors, consisted of the following: Ann Dorcas Spears, Mrs. Russell Potter; Her husband, David Spears, Albert Neff; Aunt Polly Brown, Miss Jessie Fish; Uncle Nathan Brown, Russell Potter; Mrs. Obadiah Bray, who borrowed everything she could, Mrs. Sadie VanPelt; Mrs. Bacon, the talker of the neighborhood, Mrs. Geo. Richmond; George Bacon and bride, with whom he had eloped, Harold Hughes and Winifred Wheeler; Our Village School teacher, Mary Clynn, Mrs. Harriet Neff; Rob Nye, the next school teacher, Harold Thorpe; Lady with a missionary spirit, everywhere except in her own home, Mrs. Leota Wilcox. Following this, hot dogs, rolls and pop-corn, cakes, cookies, pies and bread, were on sale. The proceeds from this entertainment are to be used towards a piano for the beginners' department.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

HOW MUCH IT COSTS THE BOYS TO BE A SCOUT

A man was asking the other day how much it costs a boy to be a scout. This man said he had been reading the scout articles and he was thoroughly interested because he had one of those boys talked about. But he said: "I don't know if we could afford it. How much does it cost the boy?" Of course, we'll have to put up the money for his course."

This man was an interested father. He took the trouble to investigate. He just couldn't wait until the end of these articles to find out whether this Boy Scout Movement was within reach of his pocket book.

He made a most natural error in thinking that perhaps the scout movement was run for profit. But it isn't. It is an investment of the citizens of a community almost the same as the public school. It is supported by the voluntary subscriptions of public spirited citizens who believe in investing in boys.

Well, it costs the boy 50 cents a year.

That is the annual registration fee. The only required sum is this registration fee of 50 cents.

How about the uniform? The uniform is not required. A boy can be a scout without any uniform. He can't wear it at first anyhow. And it is something for him to look forward to and work for if he ever is to wear it.

And then there is something else. The boy must be 12 years of age before he can be a scout. And he is taught in the period preceding his right to ear a uniform that he should himself earn the money to buy it. Some troops vote an assessment of a nickel a week for a common use in the troop. But that is optional with the troop.

The father, or mother, might put up the 50 cents for a scout handbook. There is nothing else to be put up. The boy pays his own way.

Road Budget Set

HARTFORD, Conn.—(AP)—The budget of the Connecticut highway department calls for expenditure of $12,500,000 in 1930 for road building and maintenance.

It ought to be some consolation to a widow to know that history repeats itself.

POETRY

Thy Kingdom Come

Thy Kingdom Come! Most rev'rently
We daily plead this prayer,
Heart-searching words—"Thy Kingdom Come"—
What is the meaning there?

How do we live? What do we do
To bring God's kingdom in?
It cannot come 'till men shall find
A new way free from sin.

To make love rule within the heart
To give right place o'er wrong,
To seek another's good—to serve—
That happiness—that song

May fill the world 'till none shall know
Privation's bitter sting,
And all mankind the wide earth o'er
Shall know The Christ, The King.

Thy Kingdom Come! O God to Thee
This prayer in truth we pray:
Pour forth on us Thy spirit, Lord,
Until we really say

Thy Kingdom Come—Thy will be done
On earth as in high heaven,
When hearts have called Thy will to rule
Thy Kingdom will be given.

Ballade Of The Dreamland Rose

Where the waves of burning cloud are rolled
On the farther shore of the sunset sea,
In a land of wonder that none behold,
There blooms a rose on the Dreamland Tree
That stands in the Garden of Mystery
Where the River of Slumber softly flows;
And whenever a dream has come to be,
A petal falls from the Dreamland Rose.

In the heart of the tree, on a branch of gold,
A silvern bird sings endlessly
A mystic song that is ages old.
A mournful song in a minor key,
Full of the glamor of faery;
And whenever a dreamer's ears unclose
To the sound of that distant melody
A petal falls from the Dreamland Rose.

Dreams and visions in hosts untold
Throng around on the moonlit lea:
Dreams of age that are calm and cold,
Dreams of youth that are fair and free—
Dark with a lone heart's agony,
Bright with a hope that no one knows—
And whenever a dream and a dream agree,
A petal falls from the Dreamland Rose.

ENVOI

Princess, you gaze in a reverie
Where the drowsy firelight redly glows;
Slowly you raise your eyes to me * * *
A petal falls from the Dreamland Rose.

—Brian Hooker.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

"Do you and your wife agree on anything?"

"Oh, yes. We both agree that I don't make enough money."—Pathfinder.

Success Expert—What's your name?

Greek Client—Gus Poppapopupopulos.

Success Expert—Get a job selling motorcycles.—Masonic Craftsman.

Interviewer—Are you one of those girls who watch the clock?

Applicant (with dignity)—No, sir; I've got a wrist watch.—Buffalo Evening News.

Teacher—What is the interest on a thousand dollars a year at two per cent?—Ikey, pay attention!

Ikey—For two per cent I'm not interested.—Masonic Craftsman.

Golfer—If you laugh at me again, I'll knock your block off.

Caddy—Haw, haw, you wouldn't even know what club to use.—New York Central Lines Magazine.

Husband (gnawing at wife's hard biscuit)—Too bad I'm not an ostrich.

Wife—Yes, you're right; then I'd have a chance to get a decent plume for my hat once in a while.—Detroit News.

Jean's sweetheart, a very careful Scot, took her out one afternoon for a long walk in the country.

They came home by train, and the girl's mother noticed that her daughter was in a bad temper. It appeared that Jean had badly wanted a little lunch but did not get it.

When next the young man appeared Jean sarcastically proffered the quarter he had spent on her train fare.

"Och, that's all right," said the youth, pocketing the coin, "ye needna ha'e hurried. Saturday wad ha'e been time enough."—Exchange.

Smith—Do you think marriage on Friday would bring bad luck?

Brother—Why should Friday be an exception.—Boston Transcript.

Father—No, sir, I won't have my daughter tied for life to a stupid fool.

Suitor—Then don't you think you'd better let me take her off your hands?—Exchange

Veteran—There we were about to go over the top. Suddenly, the Captain gave us the command to fix bayonets.

Sweet Thing—Gracious! That was no time to do chores.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Mrs. Hifly—You're looking very happy this morning; have you had good news?

Mrs. Climber—Just wonderful! My husband has had a nervous breakdown and we're going to Florida.—Brooklyn Eagle.

"You don't look well."

"No, I have just been unconscious for eight hours."

"Heavens! What was wrong?"

"Nothing—I was just asleep."—Pele Mele, Paris.

An Irishman at a party was expecting something strong to "wet his whistle." On being offered nothing but a glass of ginger ale he refused it, saying as he started to leave, "A soft dring turneth away McGrath."—Exchange.

A clergyman was preaching a long sermon from the text: "Thou art weighed in the balance and found wanting."

After his congregation listened for about an hour, some began to get weary and go out. Others followed. Another person started, whereupon the parson stopped his sermon and remarked, "That's right, gentlemen; as fast as you are weighed, pass out."—Montreal Star.

France is striving today to stop the aimless wanderings of the gypsy tribes of Syria by offering them land to till and houses in which to live. Although the instinct to rove on the part of these nomads has dominated them for centuries, French colonial officials are confident that they can be made sedentary and point to the changes that have been brought about in the habits of some of the tribes.

The United States commerce department reports a system for openin and colsing garage doors through the medium of radio waves has been invented in Switzerland by the Neufchatel electrical plants. Operation of the new contraption is explained thus: "A few yards in front of the garage the driver presses a button fixed near his seat in the car which causes waves to be sent out. These waves are picked up by an aerial fixed on top of the garage and serve to start a motor which automatically opens or closes the doors."

Texans contemplate spending $100,000,000 to make the mighty Brazos river work for them. It is a big task they have in mind for the river and its tributaries. They would irrigate thousands of acres of land, turn the wheels of many industries, develop electric power, supply drinking water and even use it for recreation. The Brazos river conservation and reclamation district created to direct the project will seek the financial aid of state and federal governments.

Our Theme Song—

"Try Norwich First"

Directors and producers of movie plays frequently go to great lengths—often employing America's foremost composers—to secure a tuneful, lilting theme song.

As a retail merchandising institution for half a century or more in the Queen City of the Yantic and Shetucket valleys—the natural gateway to tidewater navigation via the Thames river to the sea—we take pardonable pride in the development of Norwich as the most important manufacturing, distributing and trading center of Eastern Connecticut.

We are heartily in accord, therefore, with the efforts of the Chamber of Commerce to popularize the campaign—"TRY NORWICH FIRST"—worthy of all emulation without mental reservation.

Much can be said and written on the community theme song—"TRY NORWICH FIRST"—from these standpoints:

1—as a desirable residential city—TRY NORWICH FIRST.
2—for mild, even temperatures and year-round climatic conditions—TRY NORWICH FIRST.
3—as a healthful place to live and for natural scenic attractions—TRY NORWICH FIRST.
4—when considering schools and churches—the place to educate your children—TRY NORWICH FIRST.
5—in the line of recreational facilities and enjoyment of natural parks—TRY NORWICH FIRST.
6—for transportation advantages by rail and water—TRY NORWICH FIRST.
7—as a choice in New England for distribution of world-wide products—TRY NORWICH FIRST.
8—in visiting the fascinating spots of America's historic summerland—TRY NORWICH FIRST.

BUSINESS SITUATION IRREGULAR, WITH TREND TOWARD IMPROVEMENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP)—Beginning of the second month of the year discloses widespread irregularities in the business situation, but the general trend is towards improvements. A further upturn in industrial activity last week, particularly in the steel and automotive industries, was offset by a sharp decline in agricultural values, notably wheat and cotton.

Operations in the steel industry have increased from the low level of fifty per cent of capacity during the holiday season to more than 75 per cent of capacity at the end of January, but the gain has failed to check the declining price tendency, the composite price for finished steel sagging to the lowest levels since November, 1927. The United States Steel corporation, the country's largest producer, showed unexpectedly favorable earnings of more than $21 a share last year, in its quarterly report published last week.

Freight car traffic, regarded by many as barometric of general business conditions, continues disappointing. Weekly car loadings in January have been the lowest of that month for the past five years.

Building activity also is running below the levels of the corresponding period last year, despite the announcement of enlarged construction programs made at President Hoover's conferences with business men two months ago. Better weather and the expected easing of money rates is expected, however, to give the needed stimulus to the building industry.

The sharp break in commodity prices has again raised the question of a possible decrease in farm purchasing power this year. Cotton broke about $6 a bale to the lowest levels recorded since the large 1926-27 crop, all futures dropping below 17 cents a pound with the March option close to the 16 cent level. Wheat dropped about 10 cents a bushel below the low prices of January 1929, but made partial recovery.

The weekly petroleum statistics showed a further drop of 46,050 barrels in the daily average of crude production, but this was partially offset by an increase of nearly 30,500 barrels in the daily average of imports. World crude production for 1929 is estimated at 1,443,400,000 barrels, an increase of 156,000,000 barrels over 1928, with the United States producing about two-thirds of the total.

Copper buying shows some improvement, mainly for small lots. Large consumers continue to pursue a "hand to mouth" buying policy with producers showing no inclination to shade the 18 cent a pound level at which the price of the red metal has been virtually pegged for several months. A further curtailment in production brings the rate of operations to about 50 per cent of the peak of activity in 1929.

Automobile production shows further expansion, two of the largest producers announcing a sharp increase in February production schedules. Smaller manufacturers continue to pursue a cautious policy, waiting more definite indications of the spring demand for cars.

Bank clearings in the leading cities again last week dropped sharply below the corresponding period a year ago. New York showed the largest decrease, due largely to the sharp reduction in speculative activities in the securities markets.

CAPITAL BELLES RETURN TO GOWNS OF OLD ERA

Miss Margaret Sumner, leaning on a chair which belonged to her great-great-grandmother, wears a gown of her great-grandmother. On the wall is a picture of her great-grandfather, whom she strongly resembles. Miss Sumner (inset) is a capital sub-deb.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—Wearing the same party gowns which their great-grandmothers wore a century ago is the coveted privilege of Washington society girls today.

Old attic chests have been ransacked for their rustling taffetas and brocades. They need little altering to conform to the latest styles of long skirts, tight waists and curves.

The revival of old-fashioned gowns has given new impetus to the craze for antique furniture and mementoes. Lucky the home which can display not only gowns but furnishings of a century ago.

Miss Margaret Sumner, daughter of Capt. Allen Sumner and popular sub-deb, wears a party dress which belonged to her great-grandmother, Mrs. Timothy Allen Sumner, a Boston belle of 85 years ago. The Sumner home here contains furniture which belonged to the girl's great-great-grandmother, Mrs. John Newman Sumner, also of Boston.

When the greyish-orchid taffeta, which once graced many a Boston ball, was lifted from an old chest a quarter bearing the date of 1845 rolled out of its folds. Miss Sumner now carries it as a lucky piece.

A portrait of her great-grandfather, Timothy Sumner, who was a Boston alderman, hangs on the wall of the family home. Miss Sumner, bears a marked resemblance to it as she stands beneath it arrayed in the dress of her great-grandmother. The other party gowns of this Boston belle of almost a century ago are in the Smithsonian institution.

NEW SPOTS ARE HARD TO FIND FOR VETERAN WOMAN TRAVELER

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—Mrs. John Bugher Kuhns, one of the most widely traveled women in world, absently tapped a pencil on her desk as she gazed out the window and wondered where she would go next—Russia, Vienna or just Florida.

In front of her was a letter from the captain of an Upper Nile boat asking her to be godmother to his new baby. Mrs. Kuhns smiled as she recalled her journey on his boat. She plans to see her godchild next time she goes to Egypt.

Of independent means, Mrs. Kuhns has been traveling 30 years. She seldom stays in one place more than a month at a time. It's up and away for this grey haired woman.

Her conversation sounds like a page from Arabian Nights. She has made seven visits to Japan, seven to China and four to India. She speaks of running over to Paris, Vienna, Capetown or Tokyo as most women would refer to a 100-mile journey. Alaska is about the only place she has not been.

Mrs. Kuhns likes Spain, Australia and Egypt the best of any countries she has visited. She has journeyed by caravan from Teheran, Persia, to the Persian gulf and from Capetown to Cairo. She was the first white woman to travel over a new road through Africa.

Her husband acquired vast timber holdings in the Alleghenies following the Johnstown flood. The two started out to see the world and after Mr. Kuhns's death his wife continued the travels.

She maintains two homes in this country, one at Greensburg, Pa., and a country place at Berkeley Springs, W. Va., but is seldom in either.

Mrs. Kuhns was first president of Kappa Kappa Gamma when she was 21 and gave the sorority its present form of government. She also was the first woman law student in western Pennsylvania.

HIGH SHOES GO WITH LONGER SKIRTS

PARIS, Feb. 2—(AP)—Coming skirt lengths cast their shadows before in the form of high shoes for street wear put out in the new collection of one of the leading designers.

The last word in footwear, available only to the exclusive few so far, is a patent leather version of grandma's gaiter boots.

It reaches three inches above the ankle bone and forms a glove-like covering, all neat and shining and decidedly different.

The fastening of the new high shoes is located on the inside of the foot, instead of atop the instep. A strap and button on the outer side define the top and provide a neat finish.

High shoes according to the man who designs them are part of the changed requirements since skirts lengthened.

Evening styles have already made it difficult to sell dance shoes with straps he asserts. Unbroken lines, neatness and ability to make the foot look small are required of present-day evening shoes.

Parisians appear to be interested in the suggestions of high shoes but so far they are purely theoretical, regarded more as a possibility of the future than a present-day style.

SOUTHLAND STYLES STRESS BRIGHT GREEN

PARIS, Feb. 2—(AP)—Emerald green wool jersey promises to shove black jersey out of first place for advance spring wear.

Bright green wool dresses are new for morning wear under black, tough wool coats.

For southern resorts and country wear in temperate climates, leading dress houses show many ensembles of white and green.

White and dark green tweed mixtures are favored for golf suits. Some of the suits have dark green leather top coats.

WOMAN MODELS IN CLAY CHARACTERS OF A NOVEL

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Feb. 2—(AP) A woman has re-created in clay the characters of Harold Bell Wright's novel, "The Shepherd of the Hills."

Trudging into yawning depths of Ozark mountain caves to get suitable modeling clay, Miss Marie Haberman made miniature statues of several of the better known characters of the hill country.

She had modeled "Whittling Bill," jackknife in hand and wearing his traditional slouch hat; "Uncle Ike," "Aunt Molly," "Preachin' Bill" and others who lived both in life and fiction.

PALM BEACH SMILES AT PARIS GLOVE UKASE

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2—(AP)—Sometimes Palm Beach minds what Paris says about attire, and then again there's the matter of gloves.

Paris says gloves must be worn for evening. Palm Beach continues merrily on its gloveless way in the gloaming.

SLEEVES KEEP SOCIETY BUSY IN PALM BEACH

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2—(AP)—Palm Beach is making some experiments in sleeves.

Fashion has decreed that many styles of sleeves may be worn with equal correctness.

Mrs. Frank C. Kolb of Philadelphia was seen recently wearing an attractive frock of printed silk with short ruffled sleeves. Pauline Bode of Chicago, a popular member of the younger set, seems to prefer sleeveless frocks. At the Breakers' casino the other day she wore a sleeveless resort frock of blue rajah silk. With this she wore a narrow brimmed hat of white felt and white kid slippers.

Mrs. Vincent Scullin of Northport, L. I., and New York, likes wide flaring sleeves. This sleeve is the distinguishing feature of a deep rose colored rajah dress in which she has been seen. The sleeves begin to flare at the elbow, where triangular pieces of felt form a decorative motif.

ELEGANCE FEATURES GOWNS OF DOWAGERS

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2—(AP)—Dowager members of Palm Beach society are striking a note of elegance in their evening apparel.

Mrs. Phil Sawyer, of Oshkosh, Wis., sponsors an evening gown of coral chiffon which falls in long ripples from the waistline to trailing lengths. The low backed bodice is embroidered in coral.

With this she wears a gold and brocade short coat ornamented at the shoulder with a bow of coral and lined in coral velvet.

PARIS SCHOOLS STUDY ROOF GARDEN CLASSES

PARIS, Feb. 2—(AP)—Roof garden classes in French schools are coming.

The movement started in the Paris municipal council and favorable comment, mixed with some humor, promises execution of the idea.

Municipal Councillor Alexandre, the sponsor, took his cue from the success of open-air schools and the present awakening to the need for organized health propaganda.

BRIGHT BERETS WIN PALM BEACH FAVOR

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 2—(AP)—Palm Beach hasn't demonstrated any affection for brimless off-the-face hats, but berets are extremely popular.

It cannot be denied that they lend a bright air of jauntiness to the wearer. Marion Gervais of New York often wears one in deep rose shade, with a jeweled basket pinned in front. With this beret she wears a sports frock of melon pink, with pointed hip yoke and short sleeves.

Few Women C. P. A.'s Here

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 2—(AP)—Only two women in Oklahoma are certified public accountants.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

If over-draperies are lined they will hang better, wear longer and be more effective.

Small cakes or buns will not stick to the baking-pan if it is floured instead of greased.

Almost any cookie dough may be made into drop cookies by adding more liquid.

Shad, bluefish, mackerel, salmon and large trout are the best fish for broiling.

If milk is warmed before adding eggs to it when making custards it will not whey.

The strong flavor of fowl may be absorbed if celery is dried and put into the dressing.

To deaden the noise and save the hardwood floors or linoleum, glue thin strips of felt to the bottom of the dining-chair legs.

Grilled oranges make an unusual garnish for lamb chops. Slice whole and cook as you do grilled tomatoes.

Palms should not be watered too often. Let the earth get dry, then soak it well. To keep palms in good condition sponge the leaves carefully each week.

To keep sausages from breaking or shrinking in the frying pan, boil about eight minutes before frying. Rolling sausages in flour before frying will also prevent them from breaking.

If a little water is poured over the white of an egg left when cooking and it is allowed to stand in the refrigerator for several hours it will whip as well as the white of a fresh egg.

If you would get the best results from your gas stove, wash the burners in a gallon of water to which two tablespoons of washing-soda and soap flakes have been added. Rinse and dry thoroughly.

FOR THE KITCHEN

A gay little chopping-bowl, enameled in color upon the outside, has a clever chopping-knife of stainless steel. It has four blades to facilitate the business of chopping in small quantities.

KITCHEN RUG

If your kitchen rug is worn on the right side but no holes in it, you can renovate it. Turn it over and thoroughly clean the under side. Put on a coating of foundation white and draw a design. Then enamel in harmonizing colors. When thoroughly dry, coat it with clear varnish, then wax it.

BATTER

When making such mixtures as muffins, dumplings, etc., the batter will readily slip from the spoon if spoon is dipped into cold water before each spoonful.

START ROASTS IN REALLY HOT OVEN

When you roast chicken, leg of lamb, roast beef and other pieces of meat remember always to start the oven sufficiently in advance so that it will be quite hot when the meat is put in. In this way the albumen on the outside of the meat coagulates and keeps the juices of the meat from escaping. The roast should be allowed to cook this way for 5 to 10 minutes—then the heat should be diminished for the rest of the time. The larger the roast the slower and longer the cooking should be.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

A fattening drink may be made of one quart of milk to which is added several ounces of cream and several ounces of milk sugar.

A treatment for frost bite is to rub gently with snow or with cloths wrung out of ice cold water, and keep the patient away from any direct source of heat.

Soften hard water for the face by boiling a pound of bran in a gallon of water for half an hour. Strain. Add enough of this bran water to make the water milky in appearance.

When the child's first teeth are not properly cared for they decay and become infected, affecting her general health, and if any of the first teeth are lost before the proper time the jaws do not develop properly, and the second teeth are apt to be irregular.

COLD BATH

The best time for a cold bath is the first thing in the morning. It may be taken every day, either as a plunge or shower, or a sponge bath, and should last but a few minutes. A cold bath should never be taken when a person is tired or overheated. It should be followed by a brisk rubdown with a Turkish towel.

PLASTER HOLES

To avoid cracking plaster or making large holes by nails, heat the nails first in very hot water and drive in while wet.

TO PROTECT PAPER

To protect paper when cleaning paint use a piece of heavy cardboard about twelve inches square, moving it along as you wash the painted surface.

SAVE THE ASHES

Do not remove wood ashes that accumulate in your fireplace. Pile them up and burn wood on top of them. Ashes retain heat, which is sent out into the room.

TELEPHONE

If you like to know whether your telephone has rung during your absence from home, place a piece of paper with carbon paper between the bell and the clapper and if the bell has rung you will see the marks on the paper.

CURTAINS

Before putting up the new curtains in the sleeping rooms sew a snap fastener at each bottom corner and the mate snaps at the edge as near the top of the curtain as you can conveniently reach. This will enable you to readily fasten up the curtains out of reach of the open window and avoid damage from dust, rain or the window screens.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Contrasting yokes at shoulder or hip are a new feature in spring collections.

Colorful facings add character to the new wide hem—and even dance frocks.

Lots of white will be worn all summer, and white in combination with green and yellow will be seen.

Millinery fabrics are nothing if not novel, and exotic straws have the greatest interest for smart women.

Sleeves are having all sorts of things happen to them. Many of the new flat crepe frocks for daytime have the old-fashioned bishop cut.

Very short evening wraps of black or white transparent velvet are now smarter than those of three-quarter length. Many have huge collars and borders of white fox or ermine.

A black flat crepe frock, with yoke and sleeves cut in one, has a little vestee of crossed folds of batiste in off-white.

A circular skirted jersey suit of brown, flecked in orange and brick red, has a jersey tuck-in brick red blouse that has a turned-down collar and tie of satin.

LENGTHEN SKIRTS

If party dresses are not long enough to suit this year's styles, a six-inch hem of silk net, tulle or chiffon may prove highly satisfactory and decorative. It should match.

NEGLIGEE OF VELVET

A really dignified and gracious negligee is made of transparent black velvet and is trimmed with lace of a deep rose beige. The negligee ties on the side and is trimmed lavishly with the lace, while the velvet is cut from beneath so that the effect is very soft and feminine.

WRINKLED GLOVES

The suit and coat now ask for from three button to six button gloves. Beige, soft grey and black are smart shades. White is good for dress. Evening asks for pink ones, usually suede. All are worn wrinkled down to wrists.

COLORS FOR NEW SPORT BLOUSES

The tucked-in blouse with a slight blouse effect deeper at the back of the waistline is shown mostly in crepe de chine, satin and in voile, pale hues like pink, apricot cream or ivory being favored. The dark blouse with the lighter sports suit is the vogue, such as brown with a beige ensemble, or navy with a suit mixture in blue and white.

Tunic blouses with flaring hemlines are worn over very narrow skirts. Patou shows these in distinct color contrasts, silver and black or red and black.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Camphor will remove most fruit, jam or preserve stains from white goods. Rub it on the spots before washing.

To remove scorched spots from cloth, wet the spots with water and cover with borax or cornstarch, rubbing it in well. Let it dry before removing it.

Yellowed handkerchiefs can be whitened by soaking them over night in a solution of pipeclay and warm water. Then wash and boil.

If clothing has spots of machine grease, add a little ammonia and soap to cold water and apply it to the fabric. Ammonia in which salt has been dissolved will also remove grease spots.

For washing and rinsing delicate colored materials, Epsom salts is excellent. Dissolve one teaspoonful in each gallon of water. The most delicate shades will neither fade nor run.

MOP

In order to get good service out of cleaning implements, they must be well cared for. They should always be clean and ready for use.

The mop, for instance, should be hung up instead of resting on the floor, where it catches the dust and the weight on the strings wears it out more quickly.

Mops should be washed in hot suds and rinsed in clear hot water. In case of oil mops, a little ammonia should be added to the suds. Mops should be dried quickly and, of course, when dry the oil mops should be sprinkled with a little good oil and allowed to stand until the oil spreads well through the strings.

PORTIERES

If the portieres look faded and shabby now that they are hung, why not dye them a deeper shade and renew their freshness? Wash the portieres first to remove all soiled spots and then carefully follow the directions of any reliable dye.

BUCKLES

Cut-steel buckles may be cleaned with the same steel wool pads which housekeepers use to polish their kitchen aluminum. Rub a dry pad over the special soap that comes with it and apply it briskly to any cut-steel ornament. Rain spots, even rust, will quickly disappear under this treatment.

RIBBONS

Often a soft brush will be the best implement to use in washing. This is the case with ribbons. A marble slab will make a good base for the work. The ribbon will cling to the wet marble in washing and rinsing.

A plate of glass may be substituted for the marble and the side of the porcelain bathtub will answer the purpose nicely.

After the last rinsing the ribbon should be left stretched on the slab until dry. This avoids the creases that usually result when rubbing and wringing the ribbon in the hands.

CONCERNING WOMEN

More women are employed than men in 10 departments of the Federal Government in Washington, D. C.

Five women in the United States are engaged in selling air transportation.

The most popular occupation for women in the Philippine Islands is pharmacy.

A staff of girls as bellhops is now employed in a large, modern hotel in New York.

Three hundred and eighty-two applications for patents were filed by women of Great Britain last year.

Women in Paris, France, have again taken to the bicycle as a means of health and pleasure.

Mrs. John Garner, wife of the house representative from Texas, has been his only secretary for the past 27 years.

Baroness Barbara von Kalckreuth, the beautiful 24-year-old niece of Count von Kalckreuth, one of Germany's outstanding painters, is now in the United States to paint portraits of prominent Americans.

PREVENTS LEAKAGE

Stoppers may be held securely in bottles when traveling if a piece of adhesive tape is placed over them and around the neck of the bottle.

RECIPES

Tongue and Potato Salad: Two cups cooked potato cubes, 2 teaspoons finely minced onion, 2 tablespoons minced parsley, 4 slices cooked tongue, chopped, 1 tablespoon chopped cooked beets, 1 tablespoon chopped mixed pickles and sufficient boiled dressing to moisten. Chill and serve on a bed of crisp lettuce garnished with strips of red and green peppers.

Rich Bread Pudding: Mix one large tablespoon of butter with half a cup of sugar, three beaten egg yolks, one lemon rind grated, two cups of bread crumbs and two cups of milk. Place in a greased pudding dish and cake. When done spread the top with a layer of jelly or jam, then cover with three egg whites beaten with three tablespoons of sugar. Brown in the oven, then serve with whipped cream.

WASHINGTON GIRLS GROOM STEEDS FOR CAPITAL SOCIETY HORSE SHOW

Marion Jardine
Mrs. Beverley Coleman
Rahel Davis

Among the popular young horsewomen in the national capital.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—Horseback riding is a popular sport the year around with Washington girls.

It is more popular than ever at this time of year, what with preparations for the society horse show at the Riding and Hunt club March 1.

Prominent among the horse lovers are Marion Jardine, daughter of Dr. William M. Jardine, former secretary of agriculture; Mrs. Beverley Coleman and Miss Rahel Davis.

CROWDS SWARM WHEN AWAITING THE PRESIDENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—A party awaiting the coming of the president is like a hive of bees when it begins to swarm.

Everything hinges on this important event. Satin and gold slippers are on tip-toe. Black and uniformed sleeves are pressed against each other. The scarlet-coated marine band leader cranes his neck over the crowd. Everybody is on the lookout.

Sometimes when the crowd is great and the president is to ascend a stairway, instead of descending, the orchestra leader has to stand on a chair or send a scout out ahead to know exactly when he must strike up: "Hail to the Chief." For the band always plays "Hail to the Chief" when the president appears.

Shriller, higher grows the babel as the time nears. This is the high spot of the evening. Chiffons are beginning to wilt, curls to come out, but nobody cares.

A glitter of gold braid in the doorway and the presidential aides in all their glory appear. The band swings into the proper rhythm.

Then the president—looking a bit tired, perhaps, but smiling—enters. The line begins to form. It barely seems to move.

"Seems to me I've been standing in this one spot for hours," says a little old lady in black and silver.

At last—the introduction. An sincere straight glance from the chief executive, a firm handclasp, perhaps a murmured "thank you" in answer to some congratulation or platitude.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

The Lecture Method.

It has been the fundamental mistake of the disciplinarians of the past that they tried to achieve their results by lectures backed with the stick of punishment.

They did not know what we know today—that the lecture itself accomplishes practically nothing, and that the fear of punishment is only occasionally useful.

The lecture method of inculcating manners and morals is, however, still commonly used by parents and teachers whose training and experience have taught them its futility.

It is so much easier to lecture than really to help and teach and guide. The first requires merely to know what should be done, the others necessitate a feeling sympathy, a natural tact and a sense of proportion which shows itself most happily as a sense of humor.

The only thing that can be imparted to children through talk is information. Character never can be built that way. The serviceable habits and the social virtues we desire for our children must be learned through the inspiration of our good example and through the lessons of their own experience.

The attitudes and behavior which are those as a part of personality are those which bring satisfaction to the individual. The excentric little savage that is in every child must find that it pays to be good.

When he is little his reward is a sweet, a toy, a privilege or a kiss. As he grows older he responds to rewards that are less concrete.

The approval of those he loves, and increasingly his own self esteem, give him the satisfaction that makes him continuously develop towards worthy ideals.

WOMAN URGES CLUBS TO DO LESS TALKING

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pruning talk among women and inspiring action is the job of Mrs. Mab Copland Lineman, as chairman of the resolutions committee of the California Federation of Women's clubs.

Mrs. Lineman, an active attorney in Los Angeles, has addressed more than 400 of the federated women's clubs, and installed departments of business and protective law in a majority of them.

"Be more sparing in the adoption of resolutions, and more active in following them up," is the constant burden of her advice to clubwomen.

WOMEN WORKERS CLING TO GOVERNMENT HOTELS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP)—Women government workers cling to the old government hotels despite the fact that these buildings, erected during the war, soon will be torn down and cannot be considered as permanent homes.

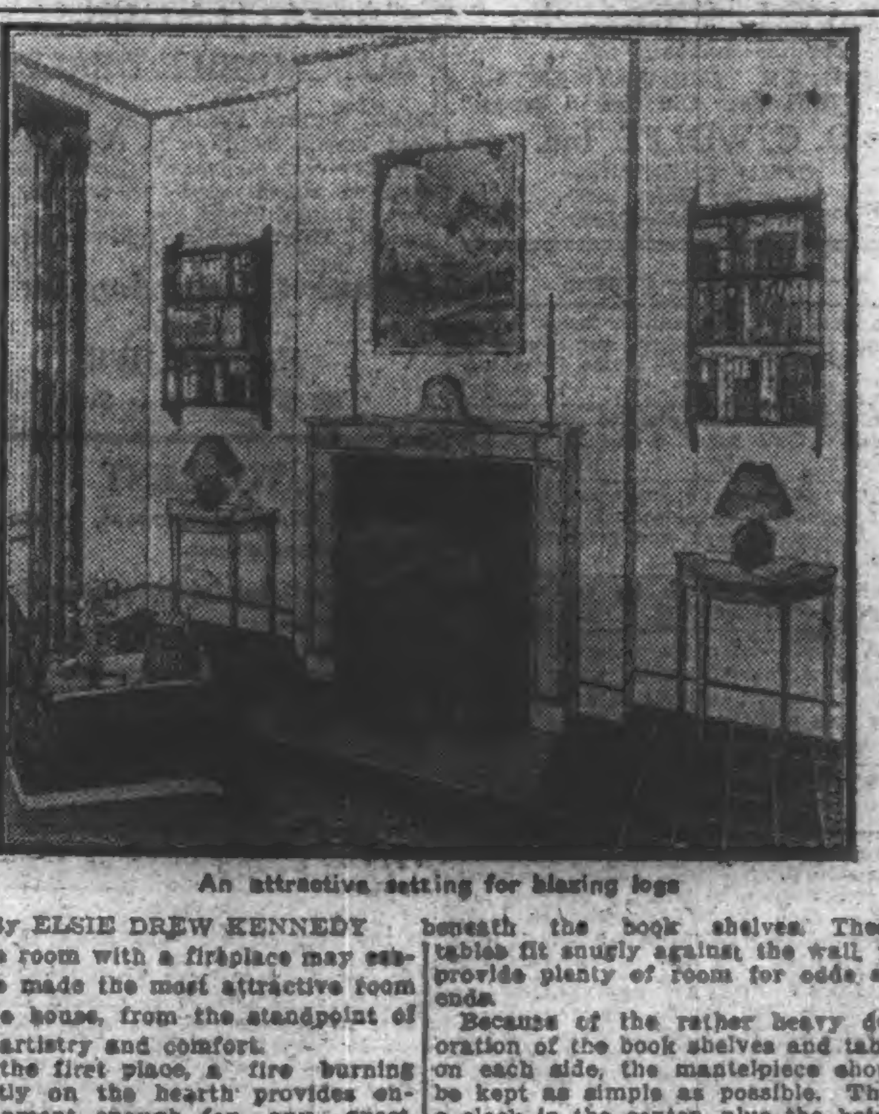
The area now occupied by the olive drab stucco buildings ultimately will be part of the capitol grounds, but as long as the hotels remain standing women workers will cling to them as their one bit of home life.

LISBON CROWD ASSAILS GIRLS IN SHORT SKIRTS

LISBON (AP)—Portugese women are jubilant over the eclipse of the knee length skirt.

The unpopularity of short skirts in Portugal can be gauged by the fact that when a few young society girls, in defiance of their elders and the public, appeared on the streets in short skirts some months ago, they were greeted with such hostility that they had to take cover in a shop. An uproarious crowd pursued them and police had to intervene.

MAKING THE MOST OF YOUR FIREPLACE



An attractive setting for blazing logs

By ELSIE DREW KENNEDY

The room with a fireplace may easily be made the most attractive room in the house, from the standpoint of both artistry and comfort.

In the first place, a fire burning brightly on the hearth provides entertainment enough for any guest. Callers are perfectly content to sit before a fire, gazing dreamily into its growing embers. In the second place, a fireplace is naturally the focal point of any room. And, by building your scheme of decoration around the mantel, any room may be made smart and comfortable.

In the sketch shown here, the fireplace is made the central point of interest for one entire width of the room. Twin book-shelves, painted in a color that harmonizes or contrasts effectively with the prevailing color scheme, are hung on both sides of the mantelpiece.

These shelves, besides adding an interesting color-tone, provide mural decorations. And the books lining their three shelves add the kaleidoscope tones of their gay bindings in a medley of color.

If perfect balance is desired, identical tables and lamps may be placed beneath the book shelves. These tables fit snugly against the wall, yet provide plenty of room for odds and ends.

Because of the rather heavy decoration of the book shelves and tables on each side, the mantelpiece should be kept as simple as possible. Thus, a clock in the center, plus the height given by a pair of tall candles and candle-sticks, is all that the mantel requires.

A restful picture, preferably in an oblong frame, should be hung above the mantel. This, you will notice, also gives height to the mantelpiece. It is important, therefore, that the picture should extend above the book shelves on either side—otherwise the mantelpiece will look short and lacking in dignity.

Last, but not least, block linoleum should be used on the floor. This provides an interesting but unobtrusive design, in keeping with the tenets of good taste and practicality.

And having evolved your scheme of decoration thus far, it will naturally follow that all else in the room centers toward the fireplace. An easy chair, with an elbow table beside, naturally must be drawn toward the hearthstone.

Helping The Homemaker

For Your Dinner

Scrambled Ham and Corn

(Serving 6)

2 slices bacon, diced, 1 cup canned corn, 2 tablespoons chopped onions, 3 eggs, well beaten, 3 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup diced cooked ham. Heat bacon in a frying pan, add corn and corn and cook until a little brown. Stir frequently. Beat eggs and water, add ham, slowly pour into hot corn mixture. Cook slowly and stir constantly until mixture becomes thick and creamy. Pour on a serving platter and garnish with parsley.

Relish Filling for 8 Sandwiches

(Using Leftovers)

2-3 cup chopped cooked meat, 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion, 1 tablespoon chopped sweet pickle, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon celery salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 4 tablespoons salad dressing.

Mix ingredients and spread on buttered white bread.

Nut Drop Cakes

1-3 cup fat, 1 cup sugar, 2-3 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 teaspoon almond extract, ¼ teaspoon salt, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup nuts.

Cream fat and sugar. Add other ingredients and beat 2 minutes. Half fill greased muffin pans. Bake 20 minutes in a moderately slow oven. Cool and frost.

FROSTING

4 tablespoons hot cream, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar.

Mix ingredients and beat 2 minutes. Let stand 3 minutes and beat again until thick and creamy. Carefully frost tops and sides of cakes.

Leftover baked or boiled ham, chopped and added to potatoes and seasonings, makes a very tasty hash when baked or browned on top the stove.

When dates are added to cake or cooky mixture, they are better if covered with warm water and cooked slowly 5 minutes. They soften and blend better with other ingredients.

HALF-SLEEVES BRING WORRY OVER ELBOWS

PARIS, Feb. 2—(AP)—Beauty culture is extended to include beautifying of the elbows since forward looking Parisians decided to prepare for a spring and summer of elbow sleeves.

A little elbow oil, some elbow cream and plenty of elbow massage are recommended by couturiers and beauty specialists for women with bony or roughened elbows.

The half-sleeve, ending just above the middle joint of the arm, is the most difficult of all sleeves, it is generally admitted. Only the perfectly rounded, soft white arm can stand the elbow sleeve without a little assistance to nature.

Sitting for 15 minutes morning and evening with the elbows in little bowls of olive oil is part of the elbow culture recommended by one specialist.

After the oil comes massage. Then vanishing cream and liquid powder are applied.

Revival of half sleeves is forecast as a result of midseason styles sent to the Riviera and southern resorts.

Nearly all silk summer dresses of informal type shown so far are sleeveless or have sleeves chopped off just above the elbow.

WOMAN'S HOLD ON ARABS AIDS IN DISORDER INQUIRY

LONDON, Feb. 2—(AP)—An Englishwoman who has lived 40 years among the Arabs is giving valuable information to the commission inquiring into the recent disorders in Palestine.

She is Miss E. F. Newton, and to her house far upon Mount Carmel overlooking the plains of Armageddon have come powerful sheiks and humble tribesmen to receive advice and sympathy and—if the circumstances have required—the promise that their cause will be taken up in high places.

The former Turkish government of Palestine as well as the present British administration have had reason to be grateful to Miss Newton's remarkable understanding of the Arab mind

LEAL NOTICE

NOTICE

By virtue of a warrant dated the 4th day of April, 1927, signed by C. E. Chapman, a Justice of the Peace for New London County, State of Connecticut, also by virtue of a warrant dated the 2nd day of April, 1928, also a warrant dated the 9th day of April, 1929, both warrants signed by Lewis J. LaBounty, Jr., a Justice of the Peace for New London County, State of Connecticut, and all directed to me for the collection of Town Taxes against John H. Fielding of Montville and LeRoy Fielding of Cherry Valley, Massachusetts, and standing on the lists of the Town of Montville, in said County, and State for Levy 1926 for the sum of $23.04 also on list for Levy 1927 for the sum of $12.70, also on the list for Levy 1928 for the sum of $14.96. Total $50.70.

I have this day levied this warrant upon 2 certain tracts of land situated at Mohegan, in said Town of Montville, bounded and described as follows:

First Tract:

Beginning at the northwest corner of said premises, by land now or formerly of Mary F. Storey; S 63½ degrees E 12 rods to land formerly of Julia Calahan; S 5 1-4 degrees 48 rods to the new road leading to Mohegan R. R. Station, thence in the same course across said road 18½ rods by Henry G. Baker to a clump of chestnut trees; thence S 8 degrees, E 11 rods by said Baker and land of Hannah Dolbeare to a stake and heap of stones; thence west by land of Moses Fielding 35½ rods to said Storey land at a stake and stones by a wall; thence north by said Storey land 11 rods to other Storey land, thence E thence north by said Storey land to place of beginning, containing 8 acres and 65 rods more or less.

The second tract lies in Mohegan and is designated on the Mohegan map as No.26 and is bounded as follows: Viz. North by land set to Delania Miller, East by the Atwell farm, so-called, South by land set to Emma T. Baker, and West by land set to Mary Storey and containing about 2 acres.

I will sell the same or so much thereof at Public Auction to the highest bidder on the above described premises, in said Montville on the 31st day of March, 1930, at 2 p. m. as will pay and satisfy the amount of said taxes and interest with legal charges of said sale.

STORE SLICKS UP GIRLS TO PROMOTE ITS SALES

DUBLIN, Feb. 2—(AP)— Free lipsticks and face powder are being supplied to shop girls in a store here to encourage them to look their best behind the counters.

"We also supply free dresses and the girls are urged to use the cosmetics," a member of the firm explained. "The idea is not to make our saleswomen look like chorus girls but merely to help them look smart and fresh. Each girl receives a fixed ration of powder and lipstick.

"During these wintry days a blue nose does not encourage a customer and a dab of powder or rouge may make all the difference between a mere inquiry and a sale."

OHIO CO-EDS TEND HOUSE TO MASTER HOME TRICKS

ATHENS, O., Feb. 2—(AP)—Sinks and psychology, pigskin and poets, are all one to the co-eds who study home economics at Ohio university.

The university has bought a $9,000 house near the campus with a furnace that has to be tended, a sink that has to be cleaned and a budget that has to be kept. The co-eds must live in the house for a semester and keep it going.

In this environment, with every practical essential of home-making except the man to boss, the co-eds will be in a position to earn marriage certificates as well as diplomas, university authorities said.

CLUB WOMEN MAY VISIT IN PANAMA NEXT JANUARY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(AP) — One hundred club women, composing the council of the General Federation of Women's clubs, may go to Panama in January, 1931, in furtherance of their Latin American program.

Women's clubs of Panama have extended an invitation to the council to hold its next annual meeting there.

Trips by individual women will be made this year. Mrs. Howard Green of New Jersey, chairman of the division of art for the federation, will be in Panama during February at the invitation of the Panama chamber of commerce. She will take art exhibits with her and address a number of the schools.

WOMAN ON BARREN PAMPAS FARMS IN PRIMITIVE STYLE

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 2—(AP) —Far out on a south Florida prairie a pioneer woman has been winning her battle with nature for 28 years.

Miles from the nearest town or neighbor, Mrs. John Dees has wrested a living for herself and two sons from the desolate Everglades pampas.

A little field of golden rice, grown without plow or fertilizer, and harvested with her hands, provides their chief food. The boys catch fish and alligators. When the rice is ripened she beats it with a flail, much as Ruth did in Biblical days.

Y SENIORS BEAT SUB BASE, 36 TO 33, IN SPECTACULAR OVERTIME CONTEST

After Aubrey Brown had "Merriwelled" to tie the score at 31-all with a foul shot after the final whistle, he and Tommy Lynch scored enough points in the five minute overtime for the Y Seniors to administer the first defeat of the season on the Sub Base five from New London, City league leaders and one of the best teams in its class along the Atlantic seaboard. The score was 36 to 33 and the Y gym had one of the best crowds of the season for the thriller Saturday night.

Capt. Roland Harris, however, although scoring but one point was the local team's best player. While he was in the game Reeves, Sub Base right forward, leading scorer of the New London City league was held to two baskets. Harris was put out on personal fouls in the last quarter and the Base sharpshooter scored twice more from the floor after that. During the game Reeves did get three pretty baskets from the floor, however, from mid-floor or beyond.

The Seniors led by margins of four points or less up to the last two minutes when the Base went ahead and when the regulation periods ended the score was Sub Base 31, Seniors 30. But Brown had been fouled just before the whistle and, while the crowd looked on breathless, he stepped up to the foul line for his free try and made it. The Base scored once in the overtime, a field goal while Brown had a basket and Lynch a basket and a foul.

The Seniors showed much improvement over their recent showing. The passwork of the Demarest-men was very good and that, combined with an effective defense, won for them over a team that had met and will meet such college teams as Wesleyan, Springfield, college, etc., in addition to the Newport Naval Training quintet and other service units.

This may also be regarded as a victory for Norwich basketball over the game as it is played in New London. The Base could lay their defeat to their poor work on the foul line. They had 16 chances and made but five while the Y made eight out of 14.

In the preliminary the Gammas of this city lost to the Montville Aces, 43 to 25.

REDS HAVE FOUR-GAME LEAD IN C-A LOOP

BOSTON, Feb. 2.—(AP)—The Providence Reds today had a four-game lead on their Canadian-American Hockey league rivals but the rest of the field tightened up considerably during the past week. Philadelphia continued in second place for another week, but the Arrows were but a half game ahead of the New Haven Eagles and only a full game in front of the Boston Tigers, last year's champions, who staged a brilliant spurt during the week.

The Springfield Indians continued trailing the league but they have been playing exceptional hockey of late and a couple more victories will place them in the running for league honors.

The official standing, including games of Feb. 1, follows:

	G.	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Providence	24	15	7	2	32
Philadelphia	23	11	10	2	24
New Haven	25	9	11	5	23

Springfield	22	9	12	1	19

PHI DELTA NU LOSES HARD-FOUGHT GAME

The Phi Delta Nu lost a hard fought decision to the Choir Boys of St. Mary's church, by a score of 16 to 13 Saturday night. The game was played in the new Model school in Willimantic, and was declared by all the spectators as being the cleanest and best game that has been played there this year. Both teams put up a strong defense, although St. Mary's made their few shots good. There was no individual star, every man on both teams playing a good brand of ball. During the first quarter the Deltas worked the five man defense to a perfection, with Willimantic scoring only a foul shot. The score at half was 6-5 with Willimantic holding their one point lead. The Delta defense cracked just long enough in the third period to give the choir boys an 11 to 9 lead. The last period ended after the Deltas had scored 4 points to Willimantic's 5.

PLAINFIELD TANK MEN LOSE TO SO. MANCHESTER

The Plainfield swimming team was defeated by South Manchester in South Manchester Saturday afternoon by the score of 37 to 27 in one of the best swimming meets that was ever held in the Rec pool. The Plainfield team composed of young swimmers average 15 1-2 years have difficulty in engaging meets with teams their age and have to swim against senior varsity.

40 yard free style won by Wesley Warnock, (M), second, Edward Markley, (M), Burby (P).

40 yard breast stroke won by Sheridan, (M), second, Mildner, (M), third, Metova (P).

100 yard free style won by Burby, (P), second, Connelly, (P), third, Bissell, (M).

40 yard backstroke won by Warnock, (M), second, Taylor, (M), third, Smith, (P).

60 yard free style, won by Hicking, (M), second, Burby, (P), third, Carlson, (M).

Diving won by Markley, (M), second, Smith, (P), third, Mildner, (M).

Relay won by Plainfield. Winners, Wood, Connelly, Korab and Burby.

The forty yard free style won by Warnock of South Manchester was a spectacular dead heat and in the 60 yard free style it was a dead heat between Hicking and Burby. It was three or four minutes before the decision on this event was awarded to Hicking. A return meet will be staged between these two teams in Plainfield, Friday, Feb. 28.

SHAMROCKS BEAT LEBANON TOWNERS IN FAST GAME

The Colchester Shamrocks' basketball team defeated the fast Lebanon Town team in an exciting game in Lebanon Saturday evening by a score of 23-12. The Shamrocks held the lead throughout both halves and made an unusually good showing in spite of the fact that one of their star players, Sol Cohen was unable to be present. F. Bartizek starred for Lebanon with 6 points and Fedus and Gyome featured for the Shamrocks with ten and 8 points respectively. The summary:

BODY OF JOE CANTILLON LEAVES FOR JANESVILLE

HICKMAN, Ky., Feb. 2—(AP)—The body of Pongo Joe Cantillon, veteran baseball man, left here and was started for Janesville, Wis., tonight where the final services and burial will take place tomorrow. Cantillon died Friday at his home here.

After a short prayer service at his home, the body was taken to Fulton, Ky., and placed on an Illinois Central train. His wife started north on the same train.

SHYMAS CLASH WITH COTTRELLS TUESDAY NIGHT

Tuesday night at the Parish hall, Taftville, the Shyma basketball team will endeavor to continue their winning streak at the expense of the fast Cottrells of Westerly. Both teams are among the leaders in their respective districts and a good game should result. The lineups of the teams will appear in tomorrow's paper.

Athletics Win Again

The Laurel Hill Athletics defeated the Polish A. C., of New London 5 to 1 in a hard-fought hockey game Sunday afternoon on the Laurel Hill pond.

Score: Joe McMullan, c, 2; B. Fowler, r. w., 1; J. Wiese, l. w., 1; J. Conaty, l. w., 0; H. Ennis, Capt., r. d., 0; E. Wiese, l. d., 1; R. Lizzio, g, 0.

"SHIEK LEONARD" TO STAGE COMEBACK

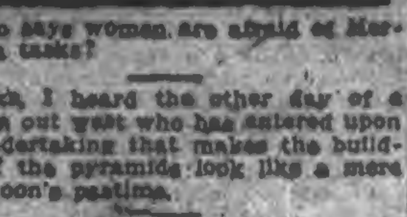
Johnny "Sheik" Leonard, local welterweight, who several years ago ascended to the top rung in that class in the state is going to hit the comeback trail in two weeks. Johnny has discarded the white apron of the lunch counter for the padded mitts of the ring and instead of slinging coffee he will pass out the old leather with a kick in it.

The blonde-haired boy has been matched for an eight round bout with Joe Russo of Westerly at the next show of the Shyma Boxing club at Taftville on February 14th. Those who know the Sheik know that right at the present moment he is in pretty nice physical condition and a week or two of conditioning for endurance will make him as good as ever. Since his retirement from the ring three years ago Johnny has fought but one fight, that being in Buffalo last summer when he won from Jack Kelley by a good margin.

Leonard has always paid strict attention to his physical condition and today after his long lay-off he hasn't an ounce of fat on him and could step on the scales at the required weight. Road work and some work with the heavy bag to get his wind should make the local boy fit as a fiddle for his bout.

And he is bubbling over with confidence. He says he knows he has lost nothing by his absence from the ring and will take Russo long before the eighth round. Sheik said in speaking about the coming bout, "You know it falls on St. Valentine's day. Well, I'm going to send that Russo boy a nice little valentine but he won't know he's got it until long after the referee gets through counting."

The management of the Shyma club has signed Al Koziol for another eight rounder but have been unable to secure an opponent for him at present. Negotiations are under way to get Young Machatto of Fall River here but nothing is definitely decided. Machatto holds a decision over Koziol. If the local youngster fights the way he fought at Danielson the other night, Machatto would have a hard time repeating his verdict.



Who says women are afraid of Herculean tasks?

Folks, I heard the other day of a woman out west who has entered upon an undertaking that makes the building of the pyramids look like a mere afternoon's pastime.

This woman of the west says she is going to try to curb talking at meetings of women's clubs. Now I ask you, is that a job or isn't it? Believe me, that woman has her work cut out for her.

She might just as well try to dry up the Pacific ocean with a piece of blotting paper as to stop women from talking at club meetings. What does she suppose women have clubs for anyway?

The only woman I know who was prevented from talking was one who had lockjaw and she made so many motions with her hands everybody thought she had St. Vitus dance.

And how do you suppose she's going to do it? Why, by making speeches to the women's clubs. Can you beat that? Well, it seems like she was fighting fire with fire but I don't know if that's the right way.

I don't know anything that makes a woman any more hot and bothered than to sit and listen to another woman expressing her ideas without being able to put in a word or two.

Ever since Eve tossed that little red apple to the simple and unsuspecting Adam woman has talked and it's going to be some job to get her to quit after these million or two years. Ask any man if it's possible to get a woman to stop talking.

I know a man who vowed he'd have the last word in an argument with his wife and they stayed up until daylight and then both fell asleep and now he don't remember who spoke the last word. The woman claims it because she told him to stop snoring.

Well, as I said before this woman sure has bit off a sizable mouthful if she's going to get the women to stop talking and do more work. The only way I can see is for her to buy an enormous supply of caramels and feed them to club members at meetings. There's nothing that prevents fluent speech like a good husky caramel.

Attacking woman's inalienable right to free speech is like walking through a powder magazine smoking cigarettes—you never know what minute something's going to happen. Say, I'll bet some woman was in back of that clause in the constitution about free speech.

And free speech is likely to become so free that it's merely loose talk.

Now I suppose some women will say I'm going back on the sex but who has a better right to talk than a woman. What?

MANY HIGH SPOTS IN INDOOR TRACK THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP)—The indoor track and field season, a bit tame so far, hits a few high spots this week with the Millrose A. A. games as the big attraction.

The Newark A. C. meet on Wednesday night will be enlivened by the first appearance of the season of Ray Barbuti, Olympic 400 meter champion. Reinstated in the good graces of the A. A. U. last week, Barbuti will start in the sprints at Newark.

The Millrose games in Madison Square Garden Saturday night have attracted a host of the leading track and field performers in the nation. Close to 15,000 fans probably will see the games, generally marked by exciting competition in a dozen events.

In the sprints, Jack Elder of Notre Dame, Cy Leland of Texas Christian, and Howard Kriss, former Ohio State sprinter, now competing for the Cleveland A. A., will be opposed by such eastern dash men as Jimmy Daley of Holy Cross and Chet Bowman of the Newark A. C. as well as by the Canadians, Johnny Fitzpatrick and Leigh Miller.

The Millrose "600" will bring together a field of four composed of Phil Edwards, New York university Negro; Bernie McCafferty of Holy Cross; Eddie Roll of the Newark A. C., and Pete Bowen of Pittsburgh, national and international quarter mile champion.

Y SENIORS PLAY TWO LEAGUE GAMES THIS WEEK

The Y Seniors, with renewed confidence, will attempt to get back into the running for the state Y title again this week when they meet two tough opponents, Norwalk at Norwalk Wednesday and Greenwich, the league leaders, here Saturday. This may be the local team's last opportunity to make a bid for the title and they are determined not to let it pass unheeded.

At present the Seniors are in fourth place but by winning this week's pair of tough ones can climb into second position and assume a threatening posture as the last month of the campaign opens.

Gauvin Lost Decision

DANIELSON, Feb. 2—Through an error in Saturday's edition Honey Boy Gauvin was given credit for a decision over Al Rodman in a boxing bout here Friday evening, when the decision actually was in favor of Rodman.

SHUTE WINS TEXAS OPEN WITH CARD OF 277; MILLER IN 12TH POSITION

BRACKENRIDGE PARK, San Antonio, Texas, Feb. 2.—(AP)—While a gallery of 5,000 spectators stampeded in his course, Densmore Shute, slim young Columbus, O., professional, continued his calm, unruffled golf today to win the ninth annual Texas open tournament with a total score of 277 strokes. On his final round he took a par 71.

Late in the day, it appeared that Shute might have the $1,500 first prize taken from his grasp after he had led the field through three grueling rounds, but he tightened up and came through with a safe margin. His total for the 72 holes was seven strokes under perfect golf for this heavily wooded and trapped course.

Three stars who threatened to pass Shute throughout today's 36 holes finished in a tie for second place, each with 280 strokes. They were Al Espinosa, Chicago; Neal McIntyre, Indianapolis, and Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del. They divided $1,700 in prize money between them.

Shute's victory was his second important triumph of the winter golf tour. He picked up $3,500 in the Los Angeles open, which, with $1,500 here placed him well up in the list of money winners for the year.

It took four remarkable rounds, 68, 69, 69, 71, to put him ahead of the crack field here. For the first 54 holes he went over par on only three holes. His drives invariably were long and straight, his pitching dead to the pin and his putting accurate. One of his 69's was scored over a soggy course yesterday, with a drizzling rain in his face.

Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., came in for a $300 cut of the prize list with 284 strokes. Jack Forrester, Hackensack, N. J., and Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., divided $350. Each had 287 strokes. Frank Walsh, Chicago, Al Watrous, Detroit, and Harry Cooper, unattached, split $325 for their 288's. There were a raft of lesser prizes, including 13 of $50 each.

Ed Dudley put the pressure on Shute in the final round. Playing in the same threesome with the Columbus professional, Dudley was only a stroke behind when they started the final go-round. Shute faltered on the first nine, going one over par, the first time he had turned a nine over perfect figures since the tournament started, and Dudley squared it with a 36.

Shute got the stroke back on No. 10, but took a disastrous 6 on the 13th and Dudley went into the lead with five holes to go. Shute buckled down to business. He clipped off those last five 3-4-3-4-3, two under par, while Dudley went two over. That was sufficient.

Although Dudley faltered at the last, he made a heroic spurt in the morning round to climb into second place at the three-quarter pole. He had a 66, tying the course record, and his 31 on the par 36 front nine was said to have established a record.

Espinosa and McIntyre fought it out with each other to finish in a tie with Dudley for second place. Each had a 210 total when they started the last round, and each turned in a 70, one under par.

McIntyre just missed exclusive claim on second money when his putt on the last green rimmed the cup.

Bill Mehlhorn, winner of the event for two straight years, could do no better than a four-way tie with Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, and Jack Burke, Houston, each with 289 strokes. They divided $325. Guldahl, who graduated from high school only last month, was playing as a professional for the first time. But for a 76 on his last round he might have finished in the big money.

Lewis Levinson, San Antonio southpaw, won the amateur medal with a total of 295. Johnny Dawson, Chicago, finished with 298. Each had a 69 on his final round.

From here the touring professionals will go to Houston for a 72-hole meet starting Wednesday with prizes totaling $2,500.

The leaders:

Densmore Shute, Columbus, 69-71—140—277.

Al Espinosa, Chicago, 71-70—141—280.

Neal McIntyre, Indianapolis, 70-70—140—280.

Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., 66-73—139—280.

Tony Manero, Elmsford, N. Y., 73-71—144—284.

Jack Forrester, Hackensack, N. J., 72-70—142—287.

Mike Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y., 76-69—145—287.

Frank Walsh, Chicago, 72-72—144—288.

Al Watrous, Detroit, 67-73—140—288.

Harry Cooper, unattached, 74-69—143—288.

Bill Mehlhorn, unattached, 70-72—142—289.

Bobby Cruickshank, Purchase, N. Y., 71-71—142—289.

Ralph Guldahl, Dallas, Tex., 69-76—145—289.

Jack Burke, Houston, Tex., 73-71—144—289.

Paul Runyon, Little Rock, Ark., 74-71—145—290.

Ray Mangrum, Los Angeles, 77-6—145—290.

Harold Long, Denver, 70-72—142—292.

John Golden, Paterson, N. J., 70-76—146—292.

Hermon Barron, Port Chester, N. Y., 67-76—143—292.

Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., 69-75—144—292.

P. O. Hart, Wheeling, W. Va., 72-75—147—292.

Tom Creavy, New York, 71-75—146—292.

Tom Lally, San Antonio, 72-75—147—293.

Billie Burke, Greenwich, Conn., 75-75—150—293.

Tom Rakletts, Youngstown, O., 76-73—149—294.

Julius Ackerbloom, Little Rock, 75-73—148—294.

Massie B. Miller, Norwich, Conn., 72-75—147—295.

Wiffey Cox, New York, 71-73—144—295.

Lewis Levinson, San Antonio, 75-69—144—295.

Miller in 12th Position

Massie B. Miller, Norwich professional, with a 72 and a 75 in the final 36 holes, finished in 12th scoring position but with many tying for places ahead of him he was in 27th place in the money. As there were 15 money places after scores of 289 Miller came in for a small amount of prize money.

IOWA IS RESTORED TO GOOD STANDING IN BIG TEN

CHICAGO, Feb. 2—(AP)—The western conference tonight again was at its traditional strength of ten institutions, with the University of Iowa, ousted last May, restored to athletic good health.

The conference faculty committee on athletics last night voted to reinstate Iowa, but clearly indicated in its resolutions that "good health," did not mean "perfect health." The decision to restore Iowa to its former place in the organization was reached at a special secret meeting after four hours and twenty-five minutes of discussion.

It was flatly stated in the committee's resolution reinstating the Hawkeye school, that it had reason to suspect that outside forces still were at work to improperly aid Iowa athletes, but the members expressed confidence that Iowa athletic authorities could and would handle the situation.

While happy at reinstatement, Iowa supporters were bitterly disappointed by a supplemental resolution which advised the school not to ask that any of the 27 athletes disqualified last December, be declared eligible for competition.

Saturday's Sports in Brief

TRAVERS WINS TITLE IN ADVERTISING TOURNEY

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 2.—(AP)—J. A. Travers of Boston downed B. L. Carroll of Philadelphia, 5 and 4, today to win the 1930 championship of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests. He succeeds Merritt Lord of New York, who did not defend his title.

The Boston man had much less difficulty winning his match with Carroll than he did in traveling the last turn of the road to the final. In the semi-final, he was hard put to eke out a two and one victory over Richard Tufts of Pinehurst.

WELCH TO COACH WASHINGTON FRESHMEN

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 2—(AP)—Ralph "Pest" Welch, Purdue's 1929 All-American fullback, was recommended today as head freshman football coach at the University of Washington by Jimmy Phelan, the university's newly chosen head mentor, also from Purdue.

Welch will be officially named tomorrow when the student board of controls meets to approve Phelan's recommendation which was made in a message to Earl F. Campbell, graduate manager. Welch's contract will be for one year.

BROWN WILL PLAY PRINCETON IN 1931

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 2—(AP)—Brown and Princeton will meet in football in 1931, a one-year contract to extend the series to the third year having been signed, according to a simultaneous announcement by the two athletic organizations tonight.

The game will be played in Princeton on Oct. 10, and will mark the third meeting between these teams in the modern era, the teams having met this past fall and an existing contract calling for a game in Princeton this fall. Brown and Princeton have met in six varsity football games.

PLAINFIELD SWIMS AGAINST PROVIDENCE TEAM TONIGHT

The Plainfield Swimming team will open its home season tonight against the strong Providence Y. M. C. A. team at 8 o'clock. The Providence team is recognized as New England champions winning the Y meet last year. The events will be 20 yard free style, 40 yard free style, and 100 yard style, 40 yard backstroke, 40 yard breast stroke, 150 yard relay. There will also be an underwater swim for distance and an exhibition of Red Cross life saving.

SEVERAL TITLE BOUTS IN LIGHT CLASSES THIS WEEK

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP)—Champions come to the rescue of the boxing fans this week to give a little bit of flavor to an otherwise lustreless boxing schedule.

Benny Bass, who holds the junior lightweight championship so far as most states are concerned, takes on two opponents. After battling Davey Abad of Panama at St. Louis tomorrow night, the Philadelphian will entrain for Boston to take on Sammy Fuller of Boston there Friday night. The fight at St. Louis is at the title weight, 130 pounds, but the title can change hands only on a knockout since the bout is a no-decision affair.

Al Brown, Panama Negro, generally recognized as the bantamweight champion of the world, defends his title against Johnny Erickson of New York at the Olympia A. C. here on Saturday night. The bout is for 10 rounds. At Cleveland tomorrow night Sammy Mandell, lightweight champion, meets Joey Goodman of Cleveland in a 10-round no-titular bout.

A middleweight tangle between Clyde Chastian of Dallas and Harry Ebbets of New York heads Jack Dempsey's Friday night card at the Chicago Coliseum.

DALEY SETS UNOFFICIAL RECORD AT ACADEMY INDOOR TRACK MEET

A track squad of about 12 members from Holy Cross college, Worcester, clearly demonstrated why they are ranked with the best in the country Saturday night at the state armory before a fair-sized crowd in the second Academy indoor meet when the boys who bear the purple, including the two champions, Jimmy Daley and Bernie McCafferty, sped over the boards in several special events and left the hall with an unofficial world's mark to their credit. Daley, who holds the world's intercollegiate mark at 60 yards, Saturday night clipped a fifth of a second off the world's record time for 40 yards when he did it in 4 1-5.

There was very little chance of making the time official as the course had not been measured under A. A. U. supervision nor had the A. A. U. men timed it. There were three watches, held by Manager Costello of the Crusader tracksters, Everett Gee and James Casey, the latter a student at Holy Cross and two of these watches clicked off the remarkable time.

N. F. A. Takes Dual Meet

The Academy was an easy victor over Stonington high in the high school events, scoring 47 points against 10 1-2 for the visitors, who, however, lost their chances for a victory by not entering a full team. Stonington made a good showing in the events in which they were represented, especially in the pole vault and the sprints.

A crowd of about 500 or 600 saw the meet and without a doubt was well pleased with the performances of the college athletes. After Announcer Jim Sheridan had introduced McCafferty to the assemblage, the Holy Cross runner proceeded to take the 660 yard special run from Perry, a teammate and Capt. Berkman of the Academy. McCafferty was bothered with the turns but managed to do the event in 1 min. 27 2-5 seconds. Berkman was the pacesetter in this event for two laps but McCafferty spurted ahead and held a 20 or 30 yard margin for the rest of the way.

Daley's quick getaway in the sprints was the marvel of the crowd. He had Delaney, also of Holy Cross and Johnnie Lyons of the Academy as opponents in the 30 yard event and Delaney and Rootes, the latter of N. F. A. in the 40 and he beat them in that order. Daley's time at 30 yards was 3 2-5 seconds.

Madden Shows Real Class

Another Holy Cross star who gave a pleasing performance was Bill Madden, in the special mile run which he won easily with his smooth stride, over Johnny Sullivan of the Duwells and Georgie Lambert, of N. F. A. Madden's time was 4 min. 21 seconds. The Holy Cross relay team put on a nice demonstration in an event that approximated a mile and a quarter in distance.

The best race of the evening was seen in the 440 yard school boy event in which only three Academy runners entered and which saw Sera beat out Agnew in a last second sprint. Agnew took this event in easy style in the meet against Suffield prep and it was quite a surprise for Sera to gain first place by a sprint in the last 20 yards. Another surprise was seen when Johnnie Lyons, Academy junior, beat out Collins, the Stonington star sprinter, in the 30 yard event. The three runners, Lyons, Collins and Berkman finished in that order with only a margin of a knife-edge between them. The mile schoolboy race was still another pretty run when Yakabowski just shaded Mahoney in a driving finish.

Sam Berkman, high scorer in the first meet, was forced to share the honors with two other N. F. A. men Saturday. He, together with Yakobowski and Mahoney, each totaled eight points.

High Jump a Feature

The running high jump closed the evening when Rootes of the Academy and Gavitt of Stonington tied at five feet, one inch. On three occasions Gavitt was down to his third try but managed to pull through until the bar was raised to 5 feet, 2 inches. Both failed on their three chances here and when it was lowered one inch, they likewise failed and then decided to split the points.

The meet was run off in very efficient manner and Norwich has had another sport established that should enjoy much success as time goes by.

ACADEMY RELAY TEAM ENTERS BOSTON A. A. GAMES

The Academy mile relay team has been entered in the Boston Athletic association games in the Boston Garden Saturday, Feb. 15, according to announcement by Coach Johnny Murphy, and there is also a possibility of the crack high school quartet also going to the Millrose games in Madison Square Garden this coming Saturday. Coach Murphy will not know until today whether his entry for the Millrose games has been accepted.

In order to compete in these two big meets the Wildcat runners had to join the A. A. U. and this little business was attended to Saturday night at the armory by James V. Pedace, the local commissioner.

NO BOXING AT GARDEN DURING COMING WEEK

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP)—Efforts to match Johnny Risko, Cleveland heavyweight, with George Hoffman of New York, have failed and Madison Square Garden has abandoned plans for its weekly Friday night show this week.

The Garden originally had matched Risko against Victorio Campolo, big Argentine heavyweight but the New York state athletic commission stepped in and barred the bout on the grounds that Risko was too small to fight the South American. Efforts then were made to get Risko to box Hoffman but the Cleveland baker boy, angry at the commission's ruling, declined to meet Hoffman or anyone else in New York. All attempts to get him to change his mind failed and the show was called off entirely.

The regular Monday night show at the St. Nicholas arena also was called off for two weeks when Billy McMahon suffered an injured hand in training. McMahon was to have fought Joe Glick. The show was postponed until Feb. 17. The arena announced at the same time that it had matched Knute Hansen, the "Melancholy Dane," with Ted Sandwina, Holland-American heavyweight, for the feature bout of its next show, Feb. 10.

CHURCH LEAGUE TILTS AT Y THIS EVENING

Tonight at 8:15 at the Norwich Y the first round of the Church league will end when Baltic plays Jewett City and the Trinity Methodist plays the Phi Delta Nu of the United church. The second game will start about 9 o'clock. Inasmuch as the Trinity Methodist and the Baltic Methodist are favored to win because of previous records, the first half of the league will probably end tonight with the Gammas in the lead, although defeated, and the next three teams tied for second place. The church league race is still very much undecided for a misstep on the part of the leaders now will send three teams scrambling for first place. The standing at the present time:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Gammas	5	1	.833
B. O. J.	4	2	.666
Trinity	3	2	.600
Baltic	3	2	.600
Central	3	3	.500

TILDEN ELIMINATES KINGSLEY IN CANNES SEMI-FINALS

CANNES, France, Feb. 3—(AP)—Big Bill Tilden displayed his best form of the season in eliminating Charles Kingsley of Great Britain, 6-0, 6-1, 6-1, in the semi-finals of the Cannes tennis tournament today.

Henri Cochet, famous French star who watched the match from the sidelines, commented that "Tilden is not so old and decrepit as he pictured."

COACH SHOT BY STUDENT HAS CHANCE OF RECOVERY

STANTON, Ky., Feb. 2—(AP)—Ernest Byrd, athletic coach at Stanton high school, shot Friday night by a student whom he had refused to admit to a basketball game, has an even chance for recovery, doctors declared today. The bullet struck Byrd above the left eye and ranged upward toward his brain.

Belgrade Harr, 16, held in jail here refuses to talk about the shooting.

Byrd's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. W. L. Byrd, and his brother and sister arrived here today from Middletown, Ohio.

Eastern Girls Set Record

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 2—(AP)—The U. S. Field Hockey association team of girl stars from the east set a remarkable record in not being scored upon on their tour of California, Oregon and Washington.

The All-American girls team last night defeated a picked squad of University of Washington co-eds, 17 to 0, here in its last hockey game on the Pacific coast. The eastern stars are to head for home from Seattle.

Stover Wins Dog Derby

TAHOE CITY, Calif., Feb. 2.—(AP)—Roy Stover of Ashton, Idaho, driving for the Sacramento chamber of commerce, won the annual Tahoe Sierra Dog derby, the final lap of which was run today, with a total elapsed time of seven hours, 53 minutes and four seconds. Kenneth Groom, 17-year-old Rigby, Idaho, boy, placed second with an elapsed time of 8:05:27 and Earl Kimball, driver for the Reno chamber of commerce, was third with 8:21:33.

HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

The Williams Memorial basketball team of New London trounced the Robert Fitch high girls' team of Groton Saturday at New London, 58 to 8. The high scorer was Myers of W. M. I., with 33 points.

The Bristol high team, state basketball schoolboy champions for three years, seem to be coming to the end of the road. Meriden beat them about two weeks ago and now comes the crack Torrington five to turn the trick by 30 to 28, Saturday. It was played Saturday night at Torrington armory before 1,800 fans.

Chapman Tech had to travel to beat Stonington high Friday night in a conference game at Stonington, 26 to 19.

EAGLES TURN BACK INDIANS IN ROUGH HOCKEY GAME

NEW HAVEN, Feb. 2—(AP)—New Haven's Eagles defeated Springfield's Indians in a loosely played, but exceedingly rough Canadian-American Hockey league match here tonight, 3 to 1. The locals scored in the first period when Hughes caged a shot, and again in the second period on goals by Chouinard and Shay. Maracle produced the lone Indian score in the second period.

McGowan, of Springfield, and Shay, of New Haven, after being put off the ice in the third period for illegal body checking provided the fans with a few minutes of pugilistic entertainment while both were incarcerated in the penalty box. As a result of their efforts they were rewarded with match penalties. As McGowan left the surface, several fans piled onto him. He was rescued by players and police.

JOHNSON GETS JAW BROKEN IN RANGER-BOSTON GAME

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP)—Ivan "Ching" Johnson, defense star of the New York Rangers, received a broken jaw in the first period of the Rangers-Boston hockey game here tonight. Johnson, trying to bolster up a defense weakened by penalties, engaged in a single handed struggle with several Boston players. He left the ice soon afterward and an examination disclosed a fracture of the jaw.

Johnson was out of action most of last season because of a broken leg. The game resulted in a 3 to 3 tie.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—(AP)—Municipal and state bond issues for offering this week aggregate $34,742,649, a decrease of about $3,000,000 from last week.

Bids will be asked Tuesday by the state of Massachusetts on $4,750,000 Metropolitan Water and Sewer obligations.

Charles B. Wiggin, New York resident partner of West & Co., Philadelphia bankers, has resigned to become a vice-president and director of the Interstate Equities Corp., an investment trust. Mr. Wiggin was formerly a vice president of the Merchants National bank of Boston.

Investments of the Eastern States Power Corp., Public Utility Holding Co., had a market value as of Dec. 31st, 1929, of $21,940,696, against a cost of $20,779,990, it is shown in the corporation's annual report. Net income available for dividends was $1,829,991, compared with $1,914,552 in 1928. Eastern States Power Corp., owns 1,000,000 shares of the St. Regis Paper Co., about one-quarter of the total outstanding stock. In addition, it is one of the largest holders of common stock of the Niagara Hudson Power Corp.

The Green Mountain Power corporation, which owns utility properties in Vermont, is soon to offer an additional issue of first mortgage 5 per cent bonds. The total amount is expected to be slightly more than $1,000,000.

The National City Bank of New York says in an announcement that operations in the iron and steel industries have been stepped up since the end of December from approximately 40 per cent of capacity to 75 per cent, with some companies at the end of January ranging as high as 100 per cent.

GREENEVILLE

LARGE AUDIENCE SEES ITALIAN PRODUCTION

At Pulaski hall Sunday afternoon a very successful production entitled, "The Two Orphans" was put on by a company of Italian artists for the benefit of the Italian society, Sons of Italy. Although an English show, it was given in Italian and was under the direction of Commendatore C. Giglin, Italian company, with the following stars: Sandrumo Giglin and Stella Brum, sopranos; Renzo Vodrum, varitone; Silvio Gridelli, tenor. The hall was prettily decorated. The show was well received by the large audience which taxed the seating capacity of the hall.

CANDLEMAS DAY WAS OBSERVED SUNDAY

At St. Mary's Memorial church Candlemas day, Sunday, was observed by the blessing of candles which were distributed to the parishioners for use during the year. Today, (Monday), the feast day of St. Blais, there will be the blessing of the throats which will take place following the 7:30 o'clock mass and at 7:30 o'clock in the evening. On Thursday, confessions will be heard at 4 and 7 p. m. Friday, being the first Friday of the month, masses will be at the usual hours of 5 and 7 o'clock. Sunday, the second Sunday of the month, will be communion Sunday for the Children of Mary society and all the women of the parish.

NEW RED LIGHT SIGNALS CONTINUE TO MAKE WHOOPEE

The new red light signals at the Eighth street crossing of the New Haven railroad, which are operated by electricity, are still causing a lot of trouble to automobile drivers. Several times since the signals were installed to replace the flagman they have worked just opposite to the way they should. Thursday evening, which was a stormy night, after a train had passed in the neighborhood of 9:45 o'clock the red flashes and bell continued to ring and several autoists stopped on the hill, waiting for the locomotive to pass. Finally, getting impatient, one driver investigated, and finding the track clear, signalled the rest of the drivers who passed the lights although they were lighted.

The railroad people were notified of the erratic condition of the lights, and a man was sent to make repairs, who worked until 5:30 a. m. Friday. The grave danger of the lights acting this way may be the cause of a serious accident.

Friday, the railroad company had a man on duty watching the lights. It seems quite strange that with this type of signal being used at many other crossings it would remain for the one on Eighth street to give so much trouble in a short period of time.

ICEMEN HELP TO RELIEVE UNEMPLOYMENT SITUATION

The local icemen have started to harvest their annual crop of ice. The Bates Co. started a crew of men cutting on their North street pond while Kramer Brothers started Saturday. It was reported that they were cutting between 8 and 9-inch ice. The news of cutting was well received by a large number of local people who have been unemployed for some time. The high temperature Sunday, did not help the ice any, however.

John O. Shea and Miss Delia Shea of Jewett City, spent the week end with their cousin, Mrs. Michael Shea, of South Main street.

TEAMS IN FIVE DIVISIONS TO PUSH BOY SCOUT FINANCIAL CAMPAIGN

Plans for the Boy Scout campaign are nearing completion, according to Norwich scout headquarters. Preliminary plans for the campaign opened with a calling together of representatives from 60 different community groups to form a citizens committee of which Attorney Arthur M. Brown is chairman. This committee went on record to convey back to the 60 different groups they represented the need of the Boy Scout movement in this community. This committee further suggested and approved the appointment of six pre-campaign committees as follows: A committee on prospects and lists, headed by Edwin Hill, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., assisted by a half dozen others and by the Norwich Commercial school, the publicity committee composed of James Pedace, R. W. Whaples, Dr. K. K. Markoff, L. E. Millea and John L. Sellman, the programs and dinners committee composed of Earl W. Taggart, Jean Keiffer and Wilbur S. Williams, the finance and audit committee composed of William G. Park, William Wyman and Walter Casey, and the initial gifts committee headed by James L. Case, known as Division A in the campaign.

According to Scout Executive Sellman these committees have been very active on pre-campaign work. Following the selection of H. D. Larrabee as campaign manager, five divisions were formed. After several meetings of division heads and captains in which there was some juggling of teams and workers to match subscribers, the personnel of the five divisions became as follows:

Division A: Leader, James L. Case, R. W. Perkins, H. M. Lerou, Charles Coit, E. O. Rodier, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, S. B. Palmer, W. F. Lester, Rev. J. J. Reilly, Abner Schwartz, Charles A. Saxton.

Division B: Leader Frank R. Murdy, Team B-1 Captain Emery H. Davis, J. B. Caron, Carle Gallup, Henry S. Lyon and Dr. R. R. Agnew; Team B-2 Captain Charles E. Taylor, Willard Haugh, Carl E. Berkoff, one to be added; Team B-3 Captain Charles W. Cassidy, James F. Sheridan, alternate, John P. Lyston, Dr. Charles W. Solomon.

Division C, Leader F. Russell Smith, Team C-1 Captain W. H. Stebbins, Dr. H. C. Dixon, G. J. Austin, R. H. Palmer, Jr., one to be added; Team C-2 Captain Edward G. McKay, Herbert B. Cary, Joseph A. French, John H. Bell, Frank T. Diggins; Team C-3 Captain Ed Jewett, John Richardson, Roger L. Worthington, Fred C. Geer, Roy Smith, C. E. Carpenter.

Division D, Leader Harold E. Robins, Team D-1, Captain Arthur L. Peale, Charles D. Foster, Gilbert S. Raymond, John H. Perkins, Theodore R. Sage, Walter G. Casey; Team D-2, Captain Earl G. Taggart, C. I. Smith, James Brassill, Arnold Smith, one to be added; Team D-3, Captain Fred J. Maples, team in process of forming; Team D-4, team in process of forming.

Division E, Leader Charles B. Gilbert, Team E-1, Meredith Lee, Goffe Briggs, Ebenezer J. Learned, Reynolds Palmer, John Morley; Team E-2, Herbert Steiner, Fred G. Thumm, Rudolph Henschel, Edward Y. Messinger, Josiah Greenstein; Team E-3, Patrick J. McMann, Imbert Fellows, E. Farnham, Walter G. Clark, John Cunningham, Dr. Thomas O'Neil, Carl Johnson; Team E-4, Captain William M. Wyman, Robert Burke, Cecil Wetherbee, Will Collins, Walter Weidman, Howard Ludlow, one to be added; Team E-5, Robert Cooper, Earl Wood, J. A. Desmond, team to be completed; Team E-6, C. E. Gilbert, Walter Hitchon, Louis Maples, Bruce F. Rogers, Walter E. Gilbert, Herman Sharpe, R. C. Pullen, Edward Moran. Several reports are still due, and it is expected that several additions will be made to the above list.

According to H. D. Larrabee and Earl Taggartt, the campaign will open with a dinner February 7, at the Arcanum club at 6:00 p. m. The men will be seated by divisions. Each division head will have envelopes for every worker containing from eight to twelve names of those who subscribe to worthwhile projects in Norwich. Following the supper and distribution of envelopes and cards, Raymond Wyland, head of the department of education of the Boy Scouts of America, a virile national speaker will give the opening address of the campaign.

Suppers will be held for the workers on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week at which local speakers will give addresses. Interesting features of the suppers will be Scout waiters who will wait on tables during the four evenings and the Boy Scout drum and bugle corps which it is hoped will be able to play for at least one of the suppers.

The campaign will consist of a person-to-person solicitation, a mail campaign, and a newspaper campaign for subscriptions, and will officially close February 14. It is hoped by those in charge that by that date the goal of $8,000 will have been exceeded and a small additional sum realized to form the nucleus of a fund to purchase a camp for the Boy Scouts of this council.

PAST EXALTED RULERS' NIGHT TO BE OBSERVED

Thursday evening Norwich lodge of Elks will hold its annual meeting for the past exalted rulers of the lodge and the old-timers of the members. Set aside a few years ago and made a regular meeting on the year's programme this night has grown to be one of the most popular events in the lodge year.

The meeting is turned over at the opening of the lodge to the old-time officers who endeavor to outdo their younger followers in the offices of the lodge. The members turn out in large numbers as a testimonial and in recognition of the work done by these officers in those early days when, doubtless, few among the members ever looked into the future and visioned the growth and success of Norwich lodge.

Norwich Lodge of Elks is recognized by the Grand Lodge of the Order as one of the foremost in New England, with a membership of over 800, owning without any incumbrance one of the finest and most beautiful Elks' homes to be found in the country, and frequently complimented by visiting Elks as being one of the friendliest lodges visited by the traveling fraternity.

The lodge offices on Thursday evening will be filled by the old officers as follows: Exalted ruler, Nelson J Ayling; Est ldg. Knight, Jas. E. McCormick; Est. loyal night, Felix P. Callahan; Est. Lect. knight, Thomas R. Craney; secretary, L. E. Millea; treasurer, James Purdon; tiler, John H. Carney; inner guard, James J. Casey; chaplain, James Harrington; esquire, Henry F. Bamber.

The committee of past exalted rulers having charge of the arrangements for the evening will provide a lunch for the members and visitors and have arranged for a fine program of vaudeville acts direct from New York city.

Eight members who have filled the station of exalted ruler have passed away: Fred L. Osgood, the first in line of these officers; D. J. Champlin, Alfred Hunt, A. S. Spalding, Allen C. Matthews, William W. Beckwith, Stephen J. Kehoe and Arthur F. Campbell. The following are still active in the affairs of the lodge, R. D. Fitzmaurice, Wm. A. Gallagher, John H. Cleary, Edward S. Hinckley, James P. Hayes, Nelson J. Ayling, Frank G. Aubrey, Thomas H. Craney, John H. Carney, L. E. Millea, John J. Connelly, James J. Casey, James Purdon, John L. Counihan, James E. McCormick, James J. Harrington, John E. Fitzgerald, Charles W. Cassidy, Felix P. Callahan, James M. Osten and Henry F. Bamber.

CONSECRATION SERVICE BY UNIVERSALIST Y. P. C. U.

The Young People's Christian union of the Church of the Good Shepherd (Universalist), held its annual consecration service at the church Sunday evening at 6.30. The service ushered in young people's week and was in charge of Miss Hattie Fowler. The church school room was lighted by candles and at the close of the impressive service each member of the union pledged loyalty and service for the coming year by lighting a candle.

On Monday evening the young people have a hike after which they will have an oyster supper at the home of Mrs. William Mitchell, 16 Fowler avenue. Tuesday evening a program will be given at the Sheltering Arms. Thursday evening a party will be held at 1 Crescent street. At 6.30 o'clock on Saturday evening the annual banquet will be held in the church social rooms. The guest speaker will be Miss Signe Seaberg, who is director of religious education at the Central Baptist church.

On Sunday morning, February 9, the church service will be conducted by the young people and Mrs. A. N. Foster will be the speaker, taking for her subject, "Beliefs Worth While."

The officers of the Y. P. C. U. are: President, Betty Pike; vice president, Alice Parsons; secretary, Conia Maynard; treasurer, Ann Stockdale; assistant treasurer, George Bell.

A CONSUMMATE ARTIST ST. MATTHEW, SAYS PRIEST

"Master with his words," Rev. John J. Reilly called Saint Matthew, preaching at the 9 o'clock mass to the customary crowded church Sunday, at St. Patrick's. Father Reilly had just read the gospel for the fourth Sunday after Epiphany, Matt. 8. 23-27, the description of Christ's stilling the winds and the waves. In brief compass St. Matthew tells much. After His labors of preaching and teaching, the human nature of Christ asserted itself and He slept. But His rest was not for long; it was typical of His earthly career. Seeker after souls, He never sleeps.

The time was tense—the fishermen knew the peril of the sudden storm. In their terror they appealed to Christ. His words taught the lesson for all time, "Why are ye fearful, O, ye of little faith?" The storm in the hearts of the apostles was put to rest. Rev. Father Reilly's reminder to his listeners was the fact that the Silent Watchman of the tabernacle, the eternal Lover of Souls, never sleeps, is always alert and sensitive to the perils of those souls He died to have. Following the consecration, Christ is always on the altar, never sleeps in the sacred heart, is where all can turn to Him in every storm and stress of life. In visits to the church in the early morning, or after the toil of the day, the Saviour is waiting to aid and to console. He lays His head on the sorrowful human heart in holy communion; He gives peace and comfort to the mind, strength and encouragement to the sinful, who turn to Him and seek His aid as did the fishermen.

Sunday was the feast of the purification, commemorating the Blessed Virgin going up to the temple to be purified, and offering her Son, according to the law, as laid down in Leviticus. The blessing of the candles on this feast commemorates the words of the Prophet Simeon about Christ, a light to the revelation of the Gentiles. The Altar society members had adorned the three marble altars with carnations in white and pale pink, and the vestments and altar hangings were white and gold. Rev. Father Reilly assisted Rev. Myles P. Gavin in giving holy communion to an unusually large number of penitents.

The junior choir sang hymns in honor of the mother of the Saviour, including "Shield Us, Mary, Mother Dear," while after the consecration Mary Connell had the solo, "Mother, at Thy Feet we're Kneeling," the organist, Henry J. LaFontaine accompanying her in a manner to bring out the qualities of her sweet young voice.

BASEMENT FLAMES WERE PHONE EXCHANGE THREAT

A backdraft, which sent flames shooting from the door of the heater in the basement of the telephone exchange on Union street, was responsible for a telephone call to the fire department at 5:58 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Pea coal is used in the furnace, which is equipped with a blower to provide a forced feed. The backdraft blew open the furnace door and the flames were shooting up to the ceiling when the firemen arrived. Six gallons of chemical were used on the blaze, which scorched the ceiling. Chief Henry R. Taft, Engine No. 1 and Squad A responded to the call. The damage was reported at little or nothing.

Taftville Ayrshires Score High

The thirteen Ayrshires owned by George G. Grant, Taftville, secured the second highest production average in Connecticut during November with an average of 663 pounds of 4.07 per cent milk, 26.96 pounds of butterfat.

Individual honors in the herd for production were won by John's Magnificent Blossom, a three-year-old, which cow produced 1,112 pounds of milk, 54.98 pounds of butterfat; and Good Hope's Happy Dora, a four-year-old, that produced 1,317 pounds of milk, 54.00 pounds of butterfat.

TAFTVILLE

Most all of the Sisters of Charity at Sacred Heart convent attended the solemn requiem high mass for Sister Mary Renee held at Immaculate Conception church in Baltic Saturday morning. Rev. Frederick R. DesSureault, Rev. Donat Jette and Rev. Ludovic Paradis of St. Joseph's church also attended the funeral, Father Jette being sub-deacon at the requiem, and Father DesSureault, master of ceremonies.

At a recent meeting of the American Legion auxiliary in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building, plans were laid for a whist and bridge party in the near future, and a committee was appointed to take charge of the affair. Miss Aurette Fournier, the president, presided.

Joseph McHugh, of Woonsocket, R. I., has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Christopher Caron of North Fourth avenue.

Rev. Henri F. Chagnon, assistant pastor of All Hallows church, Moosup and formerly assistant pastor of Sacred Heart church, of this village, has been a recent guest of friends in town.

With a large attendance, the regular monthly business meeting of the members of Branch 59, Polish Workers Mutual Sick Aid association was held at their rooms on lower Norwich avenue with the president, Stephen Stoklosa in the chair. Mr. Stoklosa is also chairman of the building committee and made a report on the progress of the erection of the new hall and clubhouse which the branch is constructing on McKay street.

The monthly business meeting of the St. Jean Baptiste society was held Sunday afternoon in the Parish hall building at the corner of Merchants avenue and School street. Reports for the past year were read and showed the organization to be in a most prosperous condition.

Sunday, the feast of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin Mary, commemorating the presentation of Christ in the temple, and commonly called Candlemas day, the candles which are to be used for religious purposes throughout the coming year, were blessed at Sacred Heart church.

Charles Adams, Jr., of Danielson, was at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Adams and family of North Third avenue, over the week end.

Eli Mentes, of Franklin, spent Sunday with friends in the village.

Richard Proulx, of Westerly, R. I., was a week end guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Proulx and family of Hunters avenue.

Miss Catherine Fontaine, a student at the Willimantic state normal school was at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Fontaine of upper Merchants avenue, over the week end.

STATE USED 69 MILES OF DETOUR ROAD IN YEAR

In highway work by the Connecticut state highway department, 69 miles of detour road were used last year, as compared with 57 miles in the preceding year, but they cost the state $127,694.06 less than in 1928.

The actual cost of detour and one-way traffic maintenance for the year was $42,992.33, more than half of which was utilized for the latter.

Although costly repairs and grading must be made in order to condition detours for traffic, the operation of one way traffic is much more expensive since it requires the constant services of two or more men 24 hours a day during the course of construction. Over long stretches of construction, it is usually necessary also to install a temporary telephone system so that the men stationed at each end of the job may easily communicate with each other.

Seldom is a detour road found which does not require a considerable amount of repair work in filling holes, eliminating ruts and grading. Moreover, since detours are usually dirt roads, they are quickly torn up again by traffic and must be repaired over and over again. All detours must be posted with direction and warning signs and it is often necessary to equip them with temporary lighting.

In order to harden the surface of the detours and to allay dust, almost continuous oiling is necessary. Last year, 18,360 gallons of oil were used for this purpose on detours.

When traffic is shunted over a detour during trunkline road or bridge work, the department in addition to maintaining the detour while it is in use must also restore it, after use to a condition as good as before traffic was detoured over it.

NORWICH TOWN

DIST. SUPT. REV. M. E. GENTER ON "PROHIBITION TO DATE"

The subject of the address Sunday evening in the Methodist Episcopal church was, "Prohibition Up to Date," the speaker being Rev. Myron E. Genter, superintendent of the Norwich district of the M. E. church and state president of the Anti-Saloon League of America. The service was in celebration of the tenth anniversary of prohibition, and the special guests were the members of the Norwich Woman's Christian Temperance union. The speaker declared that the dictum of the wise men in Proverbs 20:1 need not be changed in our day, "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise." Many generations of human experience have proved it, but more lately the laboratory has scientifically agreed that such indictment stands.

He made the distinction of Pres. Roosevelt, that liquor selling ought not to be classed as a business, but as traffic. He referred to the more than two hundred thousand saloons in the country before the 18th amendment, the common scenes in cities and towns on Saturday night when the scum was thrown, how 100,000 drunkards a year were buried, and each generation furnished the boys and girls for the drunkard factories. Poverty, crime, deviltry, debauchery and destruction followed in its wake, and places of sale often were associated with gambling and prostitution.

Gradually, through generations, a conviction was growing that this beverage liquor traffic was the enemy of humanity. It was discovered to be a greater scourge than war, pestilence and famine combined. Science had made it clear, that it poisons the body, germ plasm, mind, conduct, and social order generally. He pictured how beverage alcohol, once king, now stands before the bar as an outlaw with a price upon its head.

The speaker referred to some questions being asked by sincere people in regard to the 18th amendment being put over, he said, "No other amendment in the constitution was ever discussed so widely and continuously through so long a stretch of years, or opposed by such organized, well financed forces throughout every state, and no other amendment was ever adopted so overwhelmingly." Instead of being a cause of crime the amendment had inherited a social condition of lawlessness, made before it came into being, which had handicapped its enforcement. He referred to the slander upon young people and declared that while there might be some promiscuous drinking, the habit was not being formed by young people as formerly.

He declared that congress was never drier, 31 different temperance organizations in this country were battling for the amendment, that millions were for it and that the United States had never taken a backward step when human welfare was involved and would not now. He dealt with some problems of enforcement, the education program, especially of the Anti-Saloon League of America, and the high obligation of all citizens to support President Hoover in all this most important piece of legislation in this country in the last 100 years.

The pastor of the church Rev. George Warren Potter took charge of the opening service offering prayer and reading the scripture responses. He extended a welcome to the W. C. T. U. and commended them upon their work in the cause of prohibition. The Junior Choir sang, Virginia Ward taking the solo part. Boy Scouts in uniform acted as ushers and received the offering.

Throat Sore?

Heed this Warning:

Any inflammation of the throat can spread very fast. Don't go to bed with "just a sore throat." It may be tonsilitis by morning! It takes five minutes or less to gargle with Bayer Aspirin. This simple precaution may save you days of suffering. It not only relieves all soreness, but reduces the infection. Two tablets crushed in four tablespoons of water; physicians say there is no more effective gargle. See proven directions for colds, headaches, neuralgic pains, etc. Get genuine Bayer Aspirin; effective, harmless.

CHARLES EVANS HUGHES, SR., TO BE CHIEF JUSTICE OF U. S.

Will Succeed William Howard Taft, Who Resigned Because of Poor Health—Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., Will Resign as Solicitor General of the Department of Justice Because of His Father's Appointment—Both the Resignation of Mr. Taft and the Appointment of Mr. Hughes Came as a Complete Surprise.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP)—William Howard Taft resigned today as chief justice of the United States and President Hoover promptly appointed Charles Evans Hughes to succeed him.

Despite his failing health, the sudden voluntary ending of the public career of Mr. Taft with its span of forty years came as a public surprise, but little more so than did the selection of the former secretary of state as his successor.

The resignation of the only man to be both president and chief justice was presented to the president just before noon by a son, Robert A. Taft. He had brought it to Washington from Asheville, where Mr. Taft had been resting for three weeks after a recurrence of an old organic ailment.

Accepting the resignation with reluctance, Mr. Hoover determined to name a successor as speedily as possible so that there might be the minimum of delay in handling the business of the court.

He located Mr. Hughes in New York by long distance telephone, offered him the post and there was a prompt acceptance.

The nomination immediately was prepared and transmitted to the senate soon after 4 p. m. Prompt confirmation is looked for with the expectation that Mr. Hughes will take his place as chief justice within the very near future.

From the moment of the announcement of the resignation of Mr. Taft until the nomination of Mr. Hughes was sent to the senate, the belief had been fairly general in both official and supreme court circles that Associate Justice Harlan Fiske Stone would be elevated to the highest judicial post in the country.

By speedily filling the post, the chief executive cut short speculation as to Mr. Taft's probable successor. Hughes and Stone already were being mentioned prominently, as well as former President Coolidge and Senator Borah of Idaho. Appointment of Mr. Hughes as chief justice will create another vacancy in the federal service. His son, Charles Evans Hughes, Jr., will resign as solicitor general of the United States, since this official argues the more important cases for the government before the supreme court.

In New York, Mr. Hughes said he would accept the nomination to be chief justice. It was not known here whether he would resign as a justice of the permanent court of international arbitration. However, it was assumed that his duties as chief justice would be so exacting that he would be unable to find the time to sit with the international court at The Hague.

Weighed alike by serious illness and his 72 years of age, William Howard Taft was returning to Washington tonight from Asheville, his physicians having decided that it would be safer to get him back to Washington.

Mr. Taft is "very weak and is not improving," said Dr. Francis Hagner, of this city, at Asheville today, "and as he is not improving we feel that it would be safer to get him back to Washington."

The physician explained that the former president had decided to resign as chief justice "because we felt it would be safer for him to do so." Friends of Mr Taft said that worries of the court were on the mind of the aged jurist and it was thought best to relieve him of those as quickly as might be.

Although apparently very ill, Mr. Taft was able to walk from his automobile to the Pullman car on which he is coming home. He was assisted, however, by his physician and a nurse. He took hold of the railing and pulled himself up the steps, but it was plain that it was a great effort for him to do so.

The resignation of Mr. Taft was prepared at Asheville by the chief justice himself during the past few days and is a comparatively brief, legalistic document. He quoted the law governing the retirement of federal judges and pointed out that his combined service as circuit judge and chief justice brought him within the act.

There was some question among certain senators as to whether such was the case, but at the white house it was stated that Mr. Taft automatically went to the judicial retired list with the acceptance of his resignation by the president.

THREE JUSTICES ARE ELIGIBLE FOR RETIREMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—The resignation of Chief Justice Taft and the appointment of Charles Evans Hughes to succeed him is the beginning of a re-organization of the supreme court.

Already three of the remaining eight members are eligible for retirement, and two more will be eligible in two years. While vacancies can be forced only by impeachment proceedings by congress, based on disqualification, it is reasonably certain that during his present administration President Hoover will have the appointment of a majority of the members. Should President Hoover be re-elected, probably only one of the present members of the court, Justice Stone, will be on the bench at the close of his second administration.

Justice Holmes, Van Devanter and Brandeis are now eligible for retirement, all of them having reached the prescribed age of 70 and having served ten years on the bench. Justice Holmes has remained on the bench because of his deep interest in his judicial duties, and because he feels that his work is beneficial to his health. He feels that, should he retire, the release from the exactions of his office might hasten death.

Justice Brandeis remains on the bench because of his keen interest in the work. He is exceptionally strong for his age, and would under ordinary conditions be expected to remain there several years longer.

Justice Van Devanter became eligible for retirement last spring, and is likely to be the first of the three eligible members to retire. Justice Holmes' health remains remarkable for one of his advanced age, but under the most favorable circumstances it is regarded as doubtful whether he can remain more than a year or two.

Justices McReynolds and Sutherland both will be eligible for retirement in two years. Justice McReynolds may be expected to resign soon after becoming eligible, and may not remain that long.

Justice Sutherland is in poor health. On several occasions he has been forced to absent himself from the bench because of illness. While he is now in better physical condition than for a year or more, it is a serious question in the minds of his friends whether he will be able to remain on the bench until he is eligible for retirement.

Justice Sanford will be eligible for retirement in five years, and Justice Butler in six. It will be 16 years, however, before Justice Stone will reach the retirement age of 70.

Judge Hughes' selection as chief justice will leave the court divided as at present on all questions of national importance. This is particularly true in such matters as rate regulation of railroads and public utilities, although as counsel he recently urged upon the court a construction of the methods which the interstate commerce commission should follow in railroad valuation for rate-making purposes which the court did not follow.

WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT IS A VERY SICK MAN

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 3—(AP)—William Howard Taft, a "pretty sick man," left Asheville late today for Washington.

With his wife, his personal physician, Dr. Francis Hagner of Washington an a nurse, the former president boarded a train which is scheduled to have him in Washington early tomorrow.

Although he was able to walk the few steps from his automobile to the railway car, it was evident he was forced to exert himself.

A crowd watched him silently as he was assisted from his automobile and with the aid of his physician, who braced him from behind, pushed slowly up to the car platform.

He appeared to be in the grip of utter weariness.

The announcement that he would leave Asheville came as a surprise this morning. In a statement issued here this afternoon, Dr. Hagner said Mr. Taft is "very weak and not improving and as he is not improving we feel that it would be safer to get him back to Washington."

MILESTONES IN CAREER OF CHARLES EVANS HUGHES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—Here are some of the milestones in the life of Charles Evans Hughes:

Born at Glens Falls, New York, April 11, 1862.

Graduated from Brown university in 1881.

Admitted to New York bar, 1884.

Married Miss Antoinette Carter in 1888.

Declined nomination for mayor of New York, 1905.

Became governor of New York state, 1907; entered second term, 1909; resigned 1910.

Became associate justice of the supreme court on October 10, 1910.

Nominated for president by the republican national convention in Chicago, June 10, 1916, and resigned from supreme court the same day.

On November 7, 1916, he received 254 electoral votes for the presidency against 277 for Woodrow Wilson.

Served as secretary of state in the cabinets of Presidents Harding and Coolidge, from March 1921, to March 1925, acting as chief delegate for the United States at the Washington arms conference.

Appointed by President Coolidge as a member of the permanent court of internationaly justice at The Hague in September, 1926.

Acted as chairman of the United States delegation to the sixth Pan-American conference in Havana, 1928.

CHICAGO DALLYING ABOUT FINANCIAL PREDICAMENT

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.— (AP)— Chicago and Cook county were marking time in the financial bog today with an eye cocked on the Silas Strawn citizens rescue committee.

The county board and its finance committee, which had sessions scheduled for today, postponed them until tomorrow when the Strawn committee is expected to announce a definite policy in the distribution of money from its pool to various governmental agencies.

The finance committee of the city council, it was stated, was preparing to ask the Strawn committee for $6,000,000 to meet the February 15 payroll and for $4,000,000 per month thereafter until the long delayed taxes are collected.

MRS. MARGARET WALKER DENIED TEMPORARY ALIMONY

JERSEY CITY, Feb. 3—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret Walker of Rumson, wife of Mickey Walker, middleweight boxing champion, today was denied temporary alimony by Vice Chancellor Fielder. Mrs. Walker, through her counsel, had asked a "reasonable allowance" of alimony and counsel fees pending trial of her suit for divorce.

She charges cruelty, intoxication and association with other women.

William J. Hanley, counsel for the boxer, told the court today that Walker had given his wife real estate and securities valued at $234,000.

The vice chancellor allowed Mrs. Walker $800 counsel fees.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 3—(AP)—Torrential rains, snowfall, and floods ravaged Portugal, intensifying the calamities which the country has suffered from storms during the last month.

YOKOHAMA, Feb. 3—(AP)—Considerable anxiety was felt here for the safety of the Norwegian tanker Litiopa, which left San Pedro, California on December 30 for this port. No word has been heard from the vessel, which is more than a week overdue.

VIENNA, Feb. 3—(AP)—The visit of Chancelor Schober to Italy next week has aroused great interest in Austria and is regarded by both Italian and Austrian public opinion as an important act in strengthening friendly relations between the two coutries.

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Feb. 3—(AP)—A dispatch from Sarajevo, where the Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand was assassinated in 1914 just before the outbreak of the World war, said a marble memorial slab was unveiled there yesterday in honor of Gavrio Prinzip, the archduke's assassin.

COOLIDGE TO COVER EIGHT EVENTS IN TABLOID HISTORY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Former President Coolidge's tabloid history for the Mt. Rushmore, S. D., memorial is to be as limited in historical references as it will be sparing in words.

Eight events considered the most epochal in the evolution of the colonies are listed for inscription. These were selected by the design committee of memorial commission.

The names of Washington and Lincoln may not appear in the engraved history; the names of Jefferson and Roosevelt likely will, while Mr. Coolidge's name is certain to be etched in the granite wall of the Black Hill's peak.

The memorial will consist of colossal figures of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt, and the Coolidge history, hewn upon the 1,000-foot side of the mountain.

The eight events which Mr. Coolidge will touch upon, include:

July 4, Declaration of Independence.
1787, Framing of the constitution.
1803, Louisiana purchase.
1845, Admission of Texas as a state.
1848, Oregon boundary settlement.
1849, Admission of California.
1865 Civil War ends.
1907, Completion of the Panama canal.

NAVAL CONFERENCE TO RESUME SESSIONS TODAY

LONDON, Feb. 3.—(AP)—The London naval conference tonight had prepared itself for tomorrow's attack on the cross-word puzzle of naval disarmament—the allotment of tons and guns to each of the five nations participating.

Not only one tonnage puzzle is to be solved out at least two, the British delegation late today having circulated to American, French, Italian and Japanese delegations a counter-proposal to the French plan.

A British spokesman announced that the British plan was intended to widen the scope of discussions in a spirit of conciliation and agreement.

It can be stated that no agreement on percentage of transfer of tonnage involved in both British and French plans has been reached or is even in sight, and in some quarters it is thought none will be reached until private conferences now progressing on other phases of the disarmament situation have gone much farther.

OLDEST LEATHER SHOP IN WATERBURY BANKRUPT

WATERBURY, Feb. 3—(AP)—Fisher's luggage shop, one of the oldest leather goods stores in the city having been in business more than 25 years, has filed a petition in bankruptcy listing liabilities of about $88,000 and assets of approximately $57,500. The stock on hand according to Attorney Henry Weissman is valued at $10,000.

DIVORCE GRANTED MRS. ELIZABETH C. GILLETTE

RENO, Nev. Feb. 3—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Caldwell Gillette, was today granted a divorce in district court from King Gaines Gillette, son of the inventor of the safety razor of that name. Custody of the adopted daughter was given to Gillette by agreement. The grounds were mental cruelty.

PORTABLE SCHOOL BUILDING BURNED

BRIDGEPORT, Feb. 3—(AP)—Fire, believed to have been of incendiary origin completely destroyed one of the portable wooden school buildings at Shelton school, on Wheeler avenue this evening, with an uninsured, estimated loss to the city of $7,000.

OBITUARY

Alan E. Lefcourt

BALTIMORE, Feb. 3—(AP)—Alan E. Lefcourt, 17, son of A. E. Lefcourt, multi-millionaire real estate man of New York city died in a Baltimore hospital today of anaemia. He had been undergoing treatment about four weeks. His condition became worse Sunday and his father arrived this morning. When the youth was 13 his father gave him a $10,000,000 office building in lower New York.

Lindbergh Lands In Defective Plane

Sail Plane Lost An Aileron During An Experimental Flight, Causing Anxiety.

LEBEC, Calif., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh treated a few flying friends, news-reel cameramen and newspapermen to a real thrill today. He disappeared in the heart of the Tehachapi mountains in a disabled sail plane causing grave concern for his safety. For an hour or more in this isolated area it was unknown whether the famous flier had cracked up or whether he had mastered a crippled motorless ship.

Then he came up smiling. Just another experimental flight and no harm done, he revealed.

Lindbergh came here Sunday with Hawley Bowlus of San Diego, champion American glider pilot to "play and experiment" with a sail plane, motorless flying ship. They established a camp ten miles beyond the Ridge route, main highway through the mountains.

It was revealed later that they expected to break the world's record for gliders, eight hours in the air, now held by Germany. For that reason this mountainous area with its diminishing hills levelling out into the Mojave valley to the north, was selected for the experiment.

Bolus holds the American record of six hours in the air.

Bolus this morning immediately after the assembly of the sail plane, which was brought here on a motor truck, made two trial flights, hopping in each flight from hill to hill.

Then "Lindy" took off. As he sailed into the air the right aileron, one of the ship controls, fell off. This control, attached to the wing tip, was regarded as essential to the safe piloting of the craft. As warning shots on the ground sought to appraise him of the mishap, the colonel circled around, gracefully maneuvering the sail plane on the air current.

Then he soared over a distant hill and descended out of view.

Fearing disaster, the little group started from the camp to seek the missing flier. They had not gone far, however, when they came to a point where it was seen that the sail plane had landed safely. Lindbergh was found surveying the ship. It was undamaged other than the loss of the aileron.

At no time was the sail plane out of control, Lindbergh revealed, and he was merely descending to a landing when he disappeared from the view of the men at the camp.

Today's flights were merely test take-offs to determine the condition of flying in this area.

Further tests will be made Wednesday and as soon as Lindbergh and Bowlus are satisfied with conditions here, the flight seeking to break the world's record will be made.

BODY OF YOUTH FOUND HANGING, IDENTIFIED

CLINTON, Feb. 3. — (AP)—Branford police today identified the body of a young man found hanging yesterday from a tree limb in Westbrook as that of a man who, on January, 21 applied for a night's lodging at the Branford police headquarters. The youth, police said, gave his name at the time as Fred Peterson, of Lorraine, Ohio.

Peterson told Branford police that he had just been discharged from the U. S. army and that he was headed for New London where he hoped to get employment. The youth, who was without funds, was given a night's lodging and left the next morning.

Peterson, Branford police believe, was stationed at Fort Slocum, N. Y., at the time of his discharge.

Coroner Lowndes A. Smith and state police were today investigating the possibility tha the youth may have been slain. An autopsy on the body was performed today, but the coroner made no statement as to the results. It is believed that the youth had been dead about two weeks.

The body, its hands tied in front of it, was partially resting against the trunk of the tree when found by a farmer. Three rocks were piled about the feet, one of which rested on the ground. All the tags on the youth's clothing had been cut out or torn off.

Two hundred American tourists traveling toward Granda have been forced to return here, and mails are being dispatched by sea. Ten days will be required to repair the damage.

Approve Walters As [redacted] S. Marshal

F[redacted] Report to Be Made the Senate Committee n Judiciary.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—After a 15-minute hearing given by the sub-committee of the senate judiciary committee, Jacob A. Walters of New Haven was unanimously recommended as U. S. marshal for the state of Connecticut.

The sub-committee, through its chairman, Senator Borah, will send the favorable report to the senate committee on judiciary Monday, which will be the next meeting of the full committee. It is expected favorable action will be then taken on the appointment, or if it formally goes over a week, as is often customary, it will be sent to the senate a week later with the recommendation that Walters' appointment be confirmed. No appointee is expected in the senate.

Chairman Borah, Senators Robinson and Steiwer, formed the sub-committee.

Borah asked all questions, which covered the length of service and details of the nature of Walters' duties as marshal.

When he learned Connecticut was composed of only one district, he remarked: "That is pretty heavy territory to cover."

Learning that Walters was appointed in 1921 by Harding and reappointed by Coolidge, Borah said, "How old are you?" and when Walters replied "74," Borah exclaimed, "I should never think it."

The matter of charges filed by letter against Walters in the so-called Swirsky case fell flat, for Walters stated in reply to question:

"That case was laid on me, but in fact it was a state not a federal case, so did not come into my court."

Regarding his views on enforcement of the prohibition law, Walters said in answer to questions by Borah that: "I am in favor of enforcement of all laws, whether or not they represent my views, and I shall enforce all laws on the statute book that come to me from the court." Borah asked, "Are you in favor of the 18th amendment?" and Walters replied: "As a member of the legislature, polled against it. If it can be made to work I am in favor of it, but so many eminent authorities disagree that perhaps somebody made a mistake. But I think it is enforceable." Senator Borah then closed the hearing by asking, "Do you believe it is the duty of every officer entrusted with such responsibility to enforce the prohibition law?"

Walters replied, "That is my view."

The committee then shook hands with Walters, excused him from further testimony and after ten minutes executive session returned a unanimous report recommending his confirmation as marshal for Connecticut.

It was evident they have full confidence Walters will make a conscientious marshal and that they have confidence in his good faith and his ability.

TWO LIEUTENANTS DISMISSED FROM NAVY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—President Hoover disclosed today that he had signed official orders dismissing Lieuts. Harold W. Northcutt and Charles Musil from the navy.

Northcutt was found guilty by the navy department on three charges—desertion, violating regulations and conduct prejudicial to morale of the service. Musil was accused of embezzling $54,661.21 while acting as disbursing officer of division 40 of the destroyer squadron of the scouting fleet, at Charleston, S. C.

While stationed at the Norfolk navy yard, Northcutt disappeared with some money he had collected for extension courses he taught.

By court martial last month, Musil was given 3 years imprisonment. Northcutt's home is in New London, Missouri. Musil is a native of Chicago.

SENATOR COUZENS SANCTIONS ELOPEMENT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—(AP)—With a bridegroom whom her father never has seen, Margaret Couzens, 19-year-old daughter of the Michigan senator, will return from her honeymoon on Friday to a genial family welcome.

For her father, caught as it were in a web of his own weaving, has given his sanction to her elopement and marriage to William Jeffries Chewning, Jr., 26-year-old bank clerk.

"She took me at my own word," Senator Couzens said with a smile today, "when, many times in the past, I expressed my dictaste for the details of big weddings."

PRESIDENT HOOVER GOING TO FLORIDA THIS WEEK

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—President Hoover plans to leave Washington late this week for a trip to Long Key, Fla., where for a week or more he will indulge his favorite pastime of fishing.

Most of the time away will be spent on "The Saunterer," a houseboat belonging to Jeremiah Milbank of New York. The craft will be chartered. Mr. Hoover spent a number of days on it before his inauguration last March when he went deep see fishing off the Florida coast.

DENY BRITISH SUBJECT WAS SHOT BY BORDER PATROLMEN

Federal Authorities at Detroit State That No Reports of Any Shootings Have Been Made—Arthur Laframboise, An Alleged Alien Smuggler, Claims That He Was Shot While On the Canadian Side of the Boundary.

DETROIT, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Colonel S. C. Robinson, member of parliament for Essex West, announced today he would ask the Canadian government to investigate the shooting of Arthur LaFramboise, of La Salle, Ont., British subject, and alleged alien smuggler, on the Detroit river at 1 a. m., today.

Federal authorities at Detroit denied that LaFramboise had been shot by customs border patrol inspectors as he charged in a statement made at the Hotel Dieu, Windsor, Ont. No reports of any shootings have been made to federal agencies here, they said. Immigration authorities said that LaFramboise has been sought as an alien smuggler on several occasions and may have been wounded in warfare between rival alien smuggling rings.

LaFramboise, who suffered two scalp wounds after having, by his own story, assisted a rum runner in freeing his ice-bound sled from the Detroit river, near Fighting island, said he was shot while on the Canadian side by two men who wore uniform caps and appeared to be customs officers. He disclaimed any connection with rum running interests and records of the border patrol and Canadian authorities have thus far failed to discredit this assertion. He has admitted that he is sought as an alien smuggler.

LaFramboise said today that he had driven his automobile out on the ice to help a friend free a load of liquor and had started back when the ice gave way and he abandoned his car, which went into the water. He then continued afoot toward the Canadian shore. The two supposed customs officers hailed him soon after, he said, but as he was on the Canadian side of the boundary he did not stop. The men then started shooting and two of their bullets struck him, he said.

OKLAHOMA OFFICIALS IN RUM BRIBERY CASE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Oscar Gordon, investigator for the Oklahoma attorney general's department, resigned today at the request of J. Berry King, attorney general, King said here tonight.

"The attorney general asked Gordon to tell the whole truth about the matter and asked that, as a subpoenaed government witness, he aid and assist the government in every way possible," Murphy said.

Homer Knappenberg, former mayor of Earlsboro, testified today at the government's trial of 30 persons charged with conspiring to violate the federal liquor laws, that he had paid Gordon, on three occasions, a total of $2,300 when Gordon threatened to expose him before state and federal grand juries for accepting protection money from bootleggers.

Testimony in the Pottawatomie county liquor conspiracy trial here today also implicated the present sheriff of the county and the chief of police of Shawnee. No charges had been filed against Gordon or the other two officers tonight.

SENATE CONSIDERING DUTIES ON COAL TAR DYES

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3—(AP)—Reaching the important section of the tariff bill which continues in effect the post-war policy of basing duties on coal tar dyes and medicinal products on American valuation, the senate today heard monopoly charges against both the American and European chemical industries in arguments for and against repeal of the section. A vote probably will be reached tomorrow.

Arguing for repeal, Senator Lafollette, republican independent, Wisconsin, said the American dye and chemical companies were engaged in "combinations to fix prices and to control the American market." He declared use of the American instead of foreign valuation provided an embargo against foreign dyes, and that domestic producers not only supplied 94 per cent of the American market and made huge profits, but exported dyes at prices below those charged in this country.

Senator Hatfield, republican, West Virginia, urged continuance of the present valuation formula in the interest of national defense and protection from what he termed the European "monopoly" built up by the German I. G. He read government reports asserting the European combination was organized to fix prices and said if there were any price fixing in this country, he would side with the Americans rather than the Europeans.

$1,000,000 SUIT AGAINST FORMER SISTER-IN-LAW

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 3—(AP)—Charging alienation of her husband's affections, Mrs. Mary Ball today filed suit in circuit court here for $1,000,000 damages against her former sister-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Ball Dupont, and the latter's husband, Alfred I. Dupont.

Although the bill of complaint made the charges specifically gainst Mrs. Dupont, Gordon McCauley, attorney for Mrs. Ball, explained that under the law it was necessary to name Mr. Dupont jointly with his wife in the litigation. Twelve counts were contained in the suit.

Mrs. Ball was divorced about two years ago from her husband, Thomas Ball, a Los Angeles attorney.

The suit charged that Mrs. Dupont "maliciously poisoned and prejudiced the mind of Mrs. Ball's husband against her by telling him false stories about Mrs. Ball," and that she "wrongfully wickedly and maliciously enticed, influenced and induced" Ball to abandon his wife.

It was also set forth tat Mrs. Dupont had "degraded" Mrs. Ball among the latter's associates and acquaintances and had charged Mrs. Ball of being "poor white trash," extravagant, wasteful and suspicious of her husband.

EASTHAMPTON BANK TREASURER RELEASED

EASTHAMPTON, Feb. 3.— (AP) — Earle S. Stevens, resigned treasurer of the Easthampton Bank and Trust company, charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, was released this afternoon. Justice of the Peace George H. Hart stated he could not find probable cause for binding Stevens over.

Justice Hart said he was acting on advice of Bertram S. Spencer, assistant state's attorney from Middlesex county.

Stevens and Clarke W. Burnham, former executive vice president, resigned shortly before the bank issued a statement that a shortage had been created in the institution's funds due to misconduct and mismanagement by bank officers.

Stevens had been charged with obtaining $6,000, and Burnham with obtaining $7,000 under false pretenses.

Burnham was held for superior court on his own request Thursday.

AIR MAIL PILOT KILLED IN LANDING AT HARTFORD

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—(AP)—Two air mail planes of the Colonial Air Transport company crashed in the east today, one at Hartford, Conn., the other near Silver Creek, N. Y.

Carey E. Pridham, 29, of Lexington, Mass., carrying mail from Newark to Boston, was killed when he misjudged his altitude in landing at Brainard field, Hartford, and hit an observation platform.

Ernest B. Basham, who carries mail between Cleveland and Buffalo, was injured as his disabled plane nose-dived into a grove near Silver Creek, before daylight. He stood by his mail cargo until it was light enough for him to find his way out of the woods, delivered it at the nearest post office, and then collapsed and was taken to a hospital unconscious.

RESCUED FROM CAKE OF ICE NEAR NIAGARA FALLS

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Feb. 3.—(AP)—Floating on a cake of ice to within 500 yards of the brink of Niagara Falls, Harry Bartley, 24, was rescued today after a valiant battle in the swirling river. The rescue was effected by a tug crew from the local power company's plant.

Bartley set out late yesterday to cross the upper river in a row boat. His oars were twisted from his hands in a mass of ice and his boat drifted downstream all night despite his frantic efforts to stop it.

Nearing the falls he leaped in despair from the boat and perched on an ice cake which seemed to be traveling in shore, but it was swept into the current.

Bartley said he had given up hope when the tug crew finally reached him.

WILLIMANTIC

Office 824 Main Street Telephone 1131-2

TO SPEND $40,000 IN IMPROVEMENTS IN WILLIMANTIC

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Feb. 3.—Expenditures of $40,000 will be made by the Southern New England Telephone Co. this year in enlargements and improvements of the plants serving the Willimantic area. Announcement to this effect was made today by Manager John C. Frazier, who said that an addition to the central office equipment on High street, providing increased facilities for local subscribers, was included in the expansion program. Last year's net gain of 204 telephones, bringing the total in the exchange to 4,410, is expected to be repeated this year and about $2,000 will be spent in providing the office equipment to meet this increase.

The cost of subscribers' station equipment, including telephones in homes, offices, booths, etc., will amount to about $17,000 during the year. About $2,000 will be spent on underground and aerial cable. Poles, wire, and miscellaneous work will cost $15,000, while underground conduit will total $4,000. All of these amounts are exclusive of the cost of operating or maintaining the plant as it now is or after enlargements have been made.

Tells Overweight Men How To Lose Fat

Gained In Health and Vitality At Same Time

Nine times in ten obesity means inactivity—it means that your blood is starving for the six vital salts your internal organs need to keep you youthful, active, ambitious and keen in mind.

When you take one half teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning you get these six vital salts which modern foods and cooking do not supply.

Taken every morning, Kruschen Salts supply the liver, kidneys and bowels with an invigorating conditioner and after you have tried this simple plan for two weeks the rejuvenating effect will delight you.

The urge for activity will be so marked that even at the end of a hard day's work you'll feel ready for any social activity or recreation—you can play as hard as you work.

You'll have that "Kruschen feeling."

And after two weeks the fat you don't want and don't need starts to go—you'll know it—feel it—see it—the scales will tell the story.

One jar of Kruschen Salts that will last 4 weeks costs but 85c at Lee & Osgood or any drugstore in the world—an inexpensive way to take off fat. It's the little daily dose that does it.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

American Felt Company, Glenville.

Back in 1830 an old stone cotton mill was located on the Byram river because of water power. In 1831 it was destroyed by fire; rebuilt in 1839 and used until 1841 as a lead mill.

Among the innovations of the 40's came a waterproof hat, which proved too heavy and was abandoned. During the Civil war further developments brought the manufacture of blankets.

Mill additions were made in 1875 and 1881, at which time one of the first electric generators in the country, (an Edison product patented in 1879) used for illuminating purposes was installed.

During 1890 and 1893 further additions were made. At that time the mill was making felt and clothing. Some of the best Irish friezes and Cheviots were made.

In 1898 the mill joined forces with American Felt company, who specialized in manufacturing piano and polishing felts. Then came the demand for felt for the automobile industry. The American Felt company, now the largest manufacturers in the world, have outstripped the felt industry of Austria and Germany, making felts for every possible requirement, embracing in their ingredients the finest Texas and Australian wools.

During the World war the mill had contracts with the army and navy and was turning over practically 100 per cent of its product to the gas defense division of the chemical warfare service. It was placed in Class II by the war industry board on the preference list, which classification placed it next to the shipping board.

In January 1929, the plant of S. Stroock & Co., Inc., in Newburgh, N. Y., one of their largest competitors was purchased by the American Felt company. They maintain five other mills with branch offices in seven states. Their product is used all over the country as well as by over 30 manufacturing concerns in Connecticut.

The present officers are: Robert F. Herrick, president; John T. Lawless, vice president; Gerald A. Bramwell, treasurer.

HANOVER

The Y. P. S. C. E. had eight representatives at the banquet held by the union as a part of the celebration of Endeavor week at the Baptist church, Preston City, Wednesday evening. They found a rare treat in store for them, not only as to the chicken pie supper, but in being able to meet and listen to the speaker, Rev. Vernon Phillips, president of the state union.

Miss Jessie Still was rewarded by a physical token of faithfulness in attendance at the Congregational church school when the superintendent, William G. Park, presented her a pin representing the third year of perfect attendance.

Charles Wilson has recovered sufficiently from his recent illness to dispense with the services of the night nurse who has been attending him during the past couple of weeks. Other sick ones in the village all appear to be on the road to recovery.

The ice house at Airlie Mills pond is filled to the peak with clear, nine to twelve-inch ice for next summer's use.

SUNSET SOAP DYES

"There is one item of my home treatment which never varies—the preliminary cleansing of the skin with pure soap and water at least twice a day. For this purpose I always recommend Palmolive Soap."

Antoine
5 RUE CAMBON, PARIS

"The vegetable oils of Palmolive Soap leave the skin soft, refreshed, responsive" says the celebrated ANTOINE of Paris, who symbolizes the height of beauty culture for lovely women of two continents

Olive oil, as combined with palm oil in Palmolive Soap, produces a lather which brings out natural loveliness. It protects the skin... is safe, soothing, delicate.

SOME clients seem to think," says Antoine of Paris, "that my treatment will give them a beautiful complexion with no more effort on their part than an occasional visit to my salon. 'You compliment me too much, madame,' I say. 'It is necessary for you to do your share between visits to my salon.'"

Antoine continues by stressing the need for soap and water cleanliness... and he prescribes, for this purpose, "just one soap—Palmolive."

"Its delicate yet penetrating lather," he says, "is the most effective means of clearing away every trace of dust and rouge and powder from the tiny pores of the skin."

Beauty specialist to Paris society

Paris society, New York society, the better-known figures in the theatrical world, form Antoine's exclusive clientele. He is one of the most far-famed of all Parisian beauty specialists with a reputation which extends to both England and America.

Antoine has, of course, experimented with various home beauty methods to determine which would be best. And he is convinced that nothing is so satisfactory as Palmolive.

Pure soap—olive and palm oils

Palmolive is pure. Its color is the natural color of olive and palm oils. It contains no other fats whatever. The natural odor of these oils makes unnecessary the addition of heavy perfumes.

And more than 18,900 beauty experts recognize its special advantages. They find that it cleanses as other soaps can not—that it removes impurities without skin irritation.

You should follow the advice of Antoine of Paris, who numbers among his patrons the world's smartest women.

Massage a lather of Palmolive Soap gently into the pores for two minutes. Then rinse it away with warm water, till you can actually feel the pores being freed of impurities, dirt, make-up. Then rinse with cold water... almost to icy temperature. There! Isn't that refreshing?

"I always recommend Palmolive Soap," says Antoine. And his clients find it ideal for the bath, as well. You will, too.

DANIELSON

TELLS WEIRD STORY OF FAKE ASSAULT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Feb. 3—State officers of the Danielson barracks who investigated that matter today checked off their lists, and it may be assumed sighed as they did it, another one of the innumerable cases that come to their attention for checking. Mayue they smiled, but they are not saying anything about it.

However, a tale came to them last evening that when Alfred Laflamme, a North Grosvenordale young man, answered a ring at his door last evening, he answered the summons, to be met at the door by a masked man who lunged at him with a dagger with a blade at least 10 inches in length. Laflamme's story was that he shrunk back and covered his heart with one hand to ward off the murderous blow aimed at it. As proof of the weird experience Laflamme exhibited the wound, which was first given attention by Dr. J. A. LaPalme. Laflamme afterwards went to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam.

It developed today that the stabber was a phantom of Laflamme's mind. He still has his wound and the state officers have his statement. There just wasn't any stabber, excepting Laflamme himself, who slashed his hand with a razor. There appears to be an affair of the heart as the background for the entire matter.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Jennie Corey

This afternoon at one o'clock at L. E. Kennedy's funeral home on Furnace street services were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Danielson Baptist church for Mrs. Jennie Corey, who died at her home in the Valley district of the town early last Saturday night. Burial was in the Union cemetery at Moosup. Friends acted as bearers.

The fact that an accident that occurred within the limits of the town of Killingly early last evening, and involving motor vehicles, remained unreported this afternoon brings the reminder that failure to report such affairs is in violation of the motor vehicle code. If the checkup of this accident uncovers the identity of the operators of the car or cars involved, those operators will be liable to prosecution in the town court.

Poultrymen of this and surrounding towns are making elaborate plans for the coming season. This rapidly expanding business, fast becoming one of the important ones in agricultural areas in this section of the county, will be entering what may be termed a new year in short order. Thousands upon thousands of chicks are hatched in nearby territory, and other thousands purchased elsewhere, many in Ohio, for shipment here and hereabouts. A great many of the chicks come through the mails by parcel post. The motor vehicle and good roads have opened markets to poultrymen here not within their reach a few years back, and therein lies one of the elements of the success that many are making in the poultry line.

The going out of existence of another fair association—the Oxford, Mass., one that has functioned for so many years and that each fall season attracted so many from this territory—again directs attention to the constantly dwindling number of annual exhibitions of this kind. Only two remain in all of eastern Connecticut, that is fairs where races are held, the Brooklyn fair, sponsored by the Windham County Agricultural society, which has been in existence well over 100 years, and rated the oldest in the United States, and the Woodstock fair, which has attracted and allured for over 60 years.

There are varied opinions as to why these old-time country fairs are passing out of the picture of modern life. An outstanding one is that they have strayed from their original purpose of exhibiting what is being done in agriculture, dairying and in the live stock end of the farm business. It is charged that many fairs have become little more than a carnival event—a collection of sideshows and other frothy and frivolous entertainment. That viewpoint may have its element of truth, but it so happens that many here, while admitting this may have had an effect, believe that changed conditions of transportation and the ease and lure of going to more distant places and to seeing something new and something different may have much to do with it.

Against this latter viewpoint is the experience of the Brooklyn fair, which has had its record crowds since good roads and motor vehicles made getting to Brooklyn an easy matter. That fair, the oldest of them all, has no notion of going out of business. It has in the past few years attracted more people than ever before and attracted them from longer distances in many instances. Good roads and the motor car have helped it. Yet it may be mentioned in passing, and in due respect to one large bloc of opinion, it remains fundamentally an agricultural show. It never has assessed its chances of being successful on the ground that it should have flocks of hula-hula girls around to entertain the people of the countryside, nor other kindred attractions, though it admits and welcomes those who have wholesome entertainment to offer.

There appears to be a growing public opinion that the town of Killingly might upon the vacating of the present postoffice quarters in the town hall block use that part of the building for a courtroom. The present one is regarded as inadequate in many respects. The government's lease on the postoffice quarters expires during the summer of this year. The lease may be renewed for a short time, but there is a strong probability that Danielson is to have a postoffice building. Hence, the discussion about using the present postoffice for courtroom quarters.

PUTNAM

MRS. F. M. PRINCE INSTITUTES DIVORCE PROCEEDINGS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Feb. 3.—In the superior court in this city today it was revealed that Mrs. Dorothy E. Prince, until recently of this city and now of Milford, Mass., wife of Frederick M. Prince, local business man, has instituted divorce proceedings against her husband. In her writ of divorce filed with the clerk of courts today, Mrs. Prince alleges adultery on the part of her husband. She is seeking a decree of divorce, custody of a minor child, Florence L. Prince, and alimony. Mrs. Prince in her allegation does not stipulate the amount of alimony she seeks.

The writ filed commands Prince to appear before the superior court on the first Tuesday of February to answer the charges, but the case is not expected to be claimed for trial until the next term of civil court, which will be held in this city in May.

Mrs. Prince, whose maiden name was Dorothy E. Lilley, in her writ says that she was married to Prince on Sept. 28, 1917, at Milford, Mass. On divers days between June 1, 1928, and Jan. 23, 1930, when divorce proceedings were instituted, she charges the defendant with adultery at Putnam and at various other places with a person or persons unknown to her. Also on several occasions between the dates mentioned, Mrs. Prince charges her husband with being guilty of intolerable cruelty toward her.

Notification received from the markets that orders now on file must be filled at once in order to avoid cancellation, today forced the receiver of the bankrupt National Rhea Co., rayon manufacturers, to start negotiations with the courts for an order permitting the resumption of manufacturing operations this week. Superintendent Leonard H. Mellor in a statement this morning in which he disclosed plans of the concern for the immediate future said, that machines will be in operation this week, presumably on Thursday. A skeleton force of 40 operators will be employed at first, the list to be increased as the demand for the products grows larger. Under the management of Lewis A. Waterman of Providence, receiver of the corporation, the plant will operate for the remainder of the month of February.

When asked what developments are expected at that time, Superintendent Mellor intimated that the present state of affairs, in all probability, will be satisfactorily adjusted by March 1.

It was understood today that the receiver of the mill is in possession of orders for large quantities of the Rhea company's products. A portion of the order must be filled shortly to avoid loss of the business. Last Friday, officials of the mill stated that they saw no possibility of the mill resuming operations under the management of the receiver. Friday evening Superintendent Mellor departed for Philadelphia and upon his return to the city yesterday rumors of the intentions of starting the wheels of the closed plant became current, followed by an official confirmation made this morning.

The renewal of business at the plant, while promising to be only temporary, will greatly relieve the unemployment situation, which is becoming a serious problem in the city.

Cards received this week by friends in this city, told of the engagement of Miss Winifred Hudson Mellor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard H. Mellor of Grove street, to Elliott Dudley Dean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Dean of Mechanics street. Miss Mellor is a graduate of Putnam high school and since graduation has been employed as a secretary in the offices of the National Rhea Co. Mr. Dean attended Putnam high school and Dean academy, and is associated with the Lowell Needle Co., of which his father is an executive.

Arthur Lyme, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lyme of Attawaugan, is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital, suffering from abrasions of the skull and lacerations of the face and body sustained when struck by an automobile owned and operated by Stanley Novak of Danielson. The accident occurred about 9:30 o'clock Sunday evening on the Danielson-Putnam highway in the village of Attawaugan. From details given by the driver of the car, the boy became confused while crossing the highway. Watching one vehicle, his attention was drawn to another coming in the opposite direction. In an attempt to retrace his steps, Lyme walked into the path of the Novak car, making it utterly impossible for the driver to avoid striking the boy. The Lyme boy was reported by the hospital authorities today to have passed a comfortable night, Sunday, and was somewhat improved today.

FUNERAL

Mrs. F. A. Maryott

The funeral of Mrs. Fred A. Maryott, who died suddenly Friday evening, was held this afternoon at her home on Seward street at 2 o'clock. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends present at the service. Rev. Frederick W. Lockewood, a Baptist clergyman of Watertown, Mass., officiated. Burial was in the Grove street cemetery. The bearers were Arthur E. Smith, Ernest B. Kent, Samuel Rich, William P. Warren, Floyd Potter, George Chandler, Clement Small and John Dexter.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Edith B. Bowen

Mrs. Edith Bosworth Bowen, a well known resident of Eastford, died today at her home there following a brief illness. Mrs. Bowen was 51 years of age. She was born in Eastford on Aug. 5, 1878, the daughter of Henry A. and Margaret (Buell) Bosworth. Mrs. Bowen's death today is the first to occur in a family of 12. Besides her husband, George Bowen of Eastford, she is survived by two children.

Mrs. Walter Rich of Woodstock avenue has as her guest this week Miss Florence Park of New York.

Feb. 3, on the church calendar, was observed as the feast of St. Blase. Special services in honor of the occasion were held at St. Mary's church this morning and in the evening.

Mrs. George W. Baker of Fremont street returned to her home today after a six weeks' visit at the home of her sister in Central Village.

JEWETT CITY

PROMINENT K. OF C. MEMBER WEDS ON BRIDE'S BIRTHDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Feb. 3.—The marriage of John H. Tracy of Aspinook street and Miss Alice Bouillon was solemnized by Rev. J. J. McCabe at St. Mary's church Monday morning. The bride wore an orchid satin period gown, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and sweet peas. The bridesmaid, Miss Louise Zahrzewski, wore turquoise satin and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. Both bride and bridesmaid wore caps of tulle. The best man was Isadore Caron. A turkey breakfast was served at Mrs. William Sharkey's home, following the church ceremony. As it was the bride's birthday, a wedding cake brought from New York by the groom's sisters, was adorned with twenty candles. Mr and Mrs. Tracy left for New York to spend their honeymoon, the bride traveling in a brown velvet gown. On their return they will live in a newly furnished apartment on Tracy avenue. The bride received many beautiful gifts. Her gift from the groom was a pearl rosary. The bridesmaid received a topaz rosary and the best man, a cigarette case. The bridegroom is a member of the local K. of C. council and last week was given a bachelor supper in the K. of C. rooms. The young men presented him a gift of money, for he is very popular. His sisters, Mrs. William McGuire and Mrs. George Deonie, of New York, attended the wedding. His home has been with his grandmother, Mrs. Edward Smith, for nineteen years. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bouillon of New Bedford, and for several years has lived in Jewett City, where she has many friends.

FORMER BOROUGH FOLK MEET IN THE GOLDEN STATE

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Clarke, of Jamestown, R. I., formerly of Jewett City, are spending the winter in California. Writing from San Francisco, Mrs. Clarke says:

"You can imagine our surprise yesterday after church (Jan. 26) to find that Nettie, Charlie and Ben Armstrong had been sitting just behind us." Adding, "We went to Mary Greggs' in the afternoon, and she has a very fascinating home."

Charles and Nettie Armstrong have but recently journeyed to California from Jewett City, having sold their farm to Henry E. Holden. Mary Gregg is remembered as Miss Jennings, a Jewett City girl of a few years ago, the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. G. H. Jennings.

The mercury stood at 50 degrees at noon time Monday with the ninth snowfall of the winter practically gone where the others went. The ice on the Dorrville fields at noon was covered with an ice of water and melted snow.

The old lyceum books of more than fifty years ago, furnish many pages of record, touching the momentous debates in which the one time town fathers took part, that are of much local interest. Along in the late 70s, one January night, the question for debate was, "Resolved, that the mother of an infant has more refining and beneficial influence on the child than does the male parent." The late H. L. Reade, for the affirmative, warmed to his subject, waxed eloquent, laying down his arguments and rebuttals, with convincing force, as a few can now recall, Mr. Reade was amply capable of doing. It is said today that probably never before nor since, has woman been showered with such unstinting and unqualified encomiums. Mr. Reade was in his element. Beginning with the Bible, he brought his listeners down through the long list of histories, with a bit of side information from Cicero and Demosthenes. Finally closing with a flight of oratory, that according to reports, was marvellous. The audience of close to a hundred, as Mr. Reade concluded his argument, sat on the old vestry settees, fairly spellbound, wondering what the negative opponent could possibly find to offer in mere man's behalf.

The late Welcome A. Browning stepped out before the judges. A man of brain and genius, and a leading debater withal, whose skill and eloquence have never been excelled locally. "Gentlemen, said he, "I had a father." Saying not another word he resumed his seat. The question was decided in the negative.

Attendants at the Baptist church Sunday morning, not finding Dea. John E. Phillips in the lobby, and receiving his cheery greeting as is the custom, were anxiously inquiring Monday relative to his absence. It was learned that a trifling illness for the day only, was such that he remained at home. Born in 1850, Deacon Phillips is starting out with a stout heart and unfailing purpose on his fifth score. He has confidentially imparted to his host of friends that the first four score are the hardest.

PLAINFIELD

The Christian Endeavor meeting was held Sunday evening in the vestry of the First Congregational church, the leader being Harold Hopkins and the pianist, Ernest Plassman.

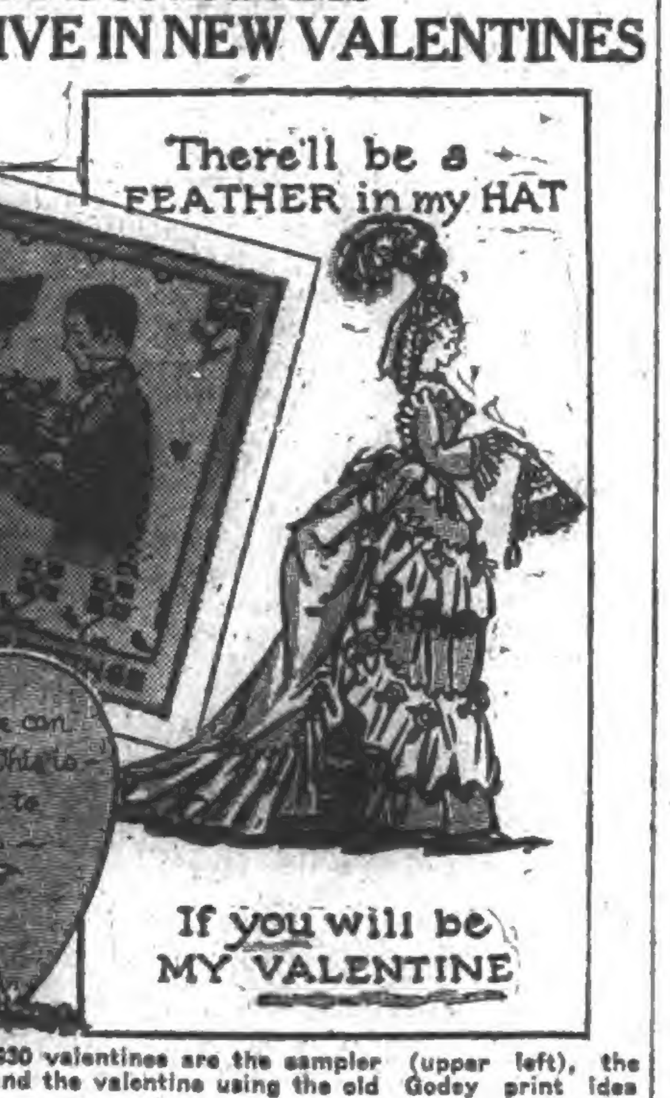
Mrs. Fred Ledger and Mrs. John Kingsley were in Norwich Monday.

Moving large trees was once thought close to impossible, but now large trees are successfully transplanted by aid of derricks, trucks and proper technique.

TOKENS OF BYGONE ERAS LIVE IN NEW VALENTINES



There'll be a FEATHER in my HAT
If you will be MY VALENTINE
Almost anyone can see that what this is to you, you are to me

Among the leaders in 1930 valentines are the sampler (upper left), the animal ttype (lower left), and the valentine using the old Godey print idea (rightt.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 3—(AP)—The craze for antiques and a sudden vogue for animals have given St. Valentine his inspiration this year.

As evidences of "antiqmania" are seen cros-stitched sampler, the lace paper love missives of great-grandmother's day and especially the Godey prints of the crinoline era.

The new fashionplate valentines in bold lines and garish coloring, are reminiscent of the now out-moded comic type, but there is no animosity in them.

The vogue for animals has brought out practically every species known to zoology. Lambs, deer, elephants, horses, giraffes and whatnot carry greetings in verse.

Blackheads and Pimples Lasted a Year. Healed by Cuticura.

"My trouble started with blackheads on my face. Later large, red pimples formed. They festered and scaled over, and itched and burned so that I had to scratch them. Scratching caused eruptions and disfigurement. The trouble lasted about a year.

"I tried all kinds of remedies but did not meet with success. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so I purchased more, and after using two cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." (Signed) Miss Philomena F. POETRY

A Psalm Of Food

What the Heart of the Stout Man Said to the Dietician

Tell me not in voice that riots;
"Life is but an empty plate!"
For the soul is dead that diets,
And health should be left to Fate.

Food is Life! Food is scented!
And we should make that a rule;
"If you eat, you'll be contended,"
Was not spoken by a fool.

Not starvation, and not sorrow,
Is our destined end or way!
But to eat, that each tomorrow
Finds us fatter than today.

Days are long, and meals are taking,
And our hearts, though stout and pink,
Still, like empty plates, are making
Funeral marches to the sink.

In the kitchen's field of battle,
In the dining room of Life,
Be not like dumb, driven cattle!
Be an eater in the strife!

Trust me M. D. howe'er pleasant!
Let the dread Fast bury its dread!
Eat—eat in the living Present!
Heart within, and God o'erhead!

Lives of great chefs all remind us
We can make our meals sublime,
And, departing leave behind us
Menus in the book of time.

Menus, that perhaps, another,
Starving on life's solemn main,
A forlorn and shipwrecked brother,
Seeing, shall fill up again.

Let us, then, be up and chewing
With a heart for any dish;
Still a-baking, still a-brewing,
Let's eat anything we wish.

—John Frank Williams, in Houston-Post Dispatch.

The Millionaire

The millionaire is limited
In what he can enjoy.
The happiness his millions give
Is not without alloy.
He's foolish if he tries to eat
More than three meals a day,
And if he does, he's very like
To get dys-pep-si-a.

One suit of clothes—one at a time—
Is all that he can wear.
How much would egg-domed John D. give
To have a head of hair?
However rich a man may be,
He cannot buy good health,
And he will have a lot of griefs,
In spite of all his wealth.

The millionaire has many joys,
But he has troubles, too.
To him there come unpleasant days,
Just as to me and you.
When he is old he may be deaf,
His eyesight may be dim;
His riches can't prolong his life—
And yet we envy him!

After a particularly glaring error, the partner turned upon the novice in real anger.

"Why didn't you follow my lead?" he asked.

"If I followed anybody's lead, sir," exclaimed the novice hotly, "it certainly wouldn't be yours."

His partner snorted and subsided. In the next hand, however, he threw down his cards in desperation.

"Look here,' he cried. "Didn't you see me call for a spade or club? Have you no black suit?"

"Yes, I have," retorted the novice with warmth, "but I'm keeping it for your funeral.—Exchange.
